MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address,

CHRONIC LARYNGITIS.

The premonitory symptoms of this, most it is grin with those of an ordinary cold, hoarseness always attended with vocal disease separate. It is regarded as a cold, but is usually an extension and direct, this disease passing down the posterior nares and pharynx until it reaches the more sensitive mucus membrane of the larynx, and sometimes continuing down until it extends to the lungs. When it is caused by Catarrh the symptoms are more or less aggravated, and the "sticking in the throat," which causes a continual rasping cough to clear the throat and windpipe. The voice is unnatural at first, being rough, and in the latter stages it becomes weak and indistinct, and a constant sense of tightness and often difficulty in swallowing.

The above is the simplest form of the disease, and can be readily removed in a few weeks. Although in all cases it must be treated by the direct application of medicinal solutions (not a atomization), for if we would properly treat a disease of this nature we must reach all the surrounding parts so as to drive the disease beyond the point of attack, and herein lies the great danger of using caustics to the delicate organism, as the effects of many fluids, for if we burn or dry up the inflamed mucous surface of the larynx and only reach those parts we are alarmed at the rapid progress it makes into the bronchical tubes and lungs, but by the system of medicated inhalations the mucous surface of the larynx, bronchial tubes and air cells of the lungs are all reached, hence the impossibility of driving the disease to more remote points, which is the only manner there are ever cases of Chronic Laryngitis but what are readily curable.

The causes which produce this disease are various. It arises in clergymen, and is very prevalent in school teachers and many others, from too violent use of the voice, dust, the poisonous exhalations from decayed vegetable matter, and living in damp houses. It is more often a sequel to ordinary sore throat, and inflamation spreading down into the larynx by reason of the continuity of the mucous membrane.

But whatever may be its cause, it is always a serious disease. When it becomes chronic it threatens a complete destruction of the voice, and rarely gets well until the lungs become involved, and then every fresh cold or change in the weather continues to feed the disease and increases the severity, complications, and hold upon the sufferer.

This disease is often a sequel of consumption which is a sufficient reason why the poisoned mucus which is being constantly expectorated from the lungs. When this is the case the disease is of a most distressing character. There is more or less ulceration in the vicinity of the vocal chords These ulcers frequently penetrate through the mucus and cellular membrane and often attack the ligaments and cartilages themselves. When this is the case we can only hope to effect a complete cure by these means in the ulcerous state, "that is the consumption of the lungs. And in order to do this there is only one system of practice capable of approaching face to face with this foul destroyer. I refer to Medicated Inhalations, and this system is usually successful after all other means have been tried without avail. If on account of distance, constitutional debility or expense of travel, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and, when fully answered and returned to the Institute, remedies can be sent per express (duty free), together with full directions for use. TRIP OF THE STEAMER "RUBY" TO LAKES CHAMPLAIN AND GEORGE, WITH A BELLEVILLE PARTY.

It being necessary to detain the Ruby at Whitehall for some repairs, we proceeded by rail to Fort "Ti." on Monday morning, the 19th. From the latter place we were conveyed in open cars to Baldwin, on Lake George, a run of about five miles through a wild and barren tract of country, which abounds, however, with romantic glens and waterfalls. This short stretch of railroad is to avoid the rapids which mark the descent of the waters of Lake George into those of Lake Champlain. On reaching Baldwin we found the palatial steamer Horicon, Captain Russell, awaiting the arrival of the train. This boat makes daily trips to the head of Lake George and return, and is well adapted for pleasure traveling, being spacious and comfortable throughout, and affo ding excellent facilities for observing the scenery along the shores. Having on board the Horicon, we commenced to thread the narrow waters of this gem of American lakes, the very name of which has a charm for those who have visited it before.

Lake George is 36 miles long, and from 1 to 3 miles in width. The Indian name is "Horicon" (the Silvery Waters), which, like many other Indian names, has an appropriateness, which our unromantic English often lacks. The French discovered the lake in 1609, and named it Saint Sacrement. The loyal Britons, however, afterwards rechristened it Lake George, in honor of George I. their sovereign, and this name still prevails.

The whole extent of the lake furnishes a ceaseless succession of pictures, which have for years engaged the pencils of many a landscape artiste. Its waters are almost surrounded by steep and rugged mountains, some of which tower like sentinels above the bosom of the peaceful lake; while numerous islands dot the surface of the latter, separating its clear waters into bays, coves, and rocky channels. A sail up or down the lake presents an ever-varying panorama of beautiful and distinct views. In some places the mountains rise abruptly from the bank, in others quiet valleys, hollows and slopes intervene, and grand proportions of the heights beyond, and glimpses of shadowy vistas which rival Arcadian magnificence. At several points along the lake, the hand of art has been busy, and to Nature's wild and romantic beauty has been added the decorative taste of the ornamental tree Lake George, indeed, and the effect produced by their painted gables, and gay streamers half hidden among the green bushes, is very pretty. Pleasure skiffs dart in and out among the islands, and are again lost to view among the nooks and recesses of the rocky shore. The summer sun throws a flood of light upon the entire scene, and the general air of repose which pervades this enchanted region seems to invite the weary traveller to rest and contentment,

"Where days delicious glide,
And ripling tide
And sylvan scenes their charms divide."

After a three hours' sail the Horicon arrived at Fort William Henry, at the head of the lake, where our party disembarked. This is the principal point which most resort on Lake George, not only on account of its unequalled beauty of scenery and situation, but because of the excellent hotel, which can accommodate two thousand guests, and supply their wants on a most liberal scale. The Fort William Henry Hotel has long been known and patronized by visitors to Lake George, and its popularity seems to increase year by year. It is a large and commodious structure, and commands an extensive view of the lake. Its site is on the ruins of the old fort which was built here by the English about 1755, shortly after a victory which they had obtained over the French. Here, in the year 1757, occurred the memorable massacre of British prisoners, their wives and children, which has stained with disgrace the annals of modern warfare. Nine thousand French, under Montcalm, had invested the fort, which, after a siege of nine days, surrendered; Col. Munro, the commander, having stipulated that the garrison should march out with the honors of war, and one of the four cannons of the fort, with their baggage and baggage-waggons, and an escort of 500 men to Fort Edward, farther south. But the terms of surrender were disregarded, and the unprotected peaceless troops were surrounded and attacked by the Indians of Montcalm's army, and a most horrible slaughter ensued. A few survivors fleeing for their lives escaped to Fort Edward. One historian says, "the revolting scenes of this day have stained the memory of Montcalm with the black stain of fame." The French did not attempt to hold the fort. In 1758 General Abercrombie, with 7,000 regulars, and 6,000 provincials, embarked on 900 batteaux and 135 boats, and passed down the lake with all the glittering pageantry of war, to assail Fort Ticonderogo. They failed of their purpose, and four days after returned, shattered and routed, with the loss of 2,000 killed and wounded, to Fort William Henry.

In 1759 Gen. Amherst with 12,000 men, advanced to Lake George, and while waiting to complete his arrangements, commenced to build Fort George (the ruins of which can still be seen) about one-half mile east from Fort William Henry. When Gen. Amherst advanced against Fort Ticonderoga the French withdrew to Crown Point, and afterwards to Isle Aux Noix. Quebec fell soon after, and the conquest of Canada being completed the following year—1760—the vast military works of Fort William Henry, Forts George, Ticonderogo, and Crown Point were of no further use.

Upon the very spot which witnessed so many of the horrors of war and which ran with the blood of martyred innocents, the Great Hotel at Fort William Henry now stands, antidiluvian of the harsh regime of a garrisoned fort, there is now the gaiety and freedom of American watering-place life.

We found the hotel comfortably filled with guests, many of whom were permanent boarders. There was the usual demand for amusement, and a children's ball in consequence, took place on the evening of our visit. In the latter part of the evening, while the larger portion of the guests were enjoying themselves on the front piazza of the hotel, several of the party availed themselves of the opportunity of our party took the opportunity of indulging in a quiet row by moonlight, on the placid waters of the lake. Leaving behind us the brilliant lights of the hotel, we pushed off from the shore, and paddled a few miles down the lake. The scenery was doubly entrancing in the pale light of the moon, which hung like a silver globe in the cloudless sky. The mountains seemed to lift their hea's still higher in the uncertain light, and their shadows falling upon the surface of the lake wreathed themselves into fantastic shapes, through which we sailed with a kind of mingled awe and admiration. The aborigines used to worship at the shrine of this lake, calling it the "holy lake," and we could imagine their untutored minds bowing with instinctive reverence as they watched the water in its various moods. Sometimes, when a light breeze would spring up, as the lake is here very deep, the surface would become agitated in an instant and its calm appearance give place to long and rolling swells. Then, when the breeze had died away, the polished like surface would re appear and not a ripple be seen to disturb the quiet calm of the sacred waters. To a non-superstitious observer, the charm of the natural surroundings are scarcely less inspiring. The mountains which environ the lake on all sides seem to shut out the busy world, and the vesper-like stillness which pervades the entire region is not lost upon the traveler, even though there insensibly steals a feeling of quiet contentment.

Returning to the hotel, we enjoyed a night's refreshing sleep, and at 9 o'clock on the following morning—20th—the party left Fort William Henry on their return journey. As the trip homewards was made over the same route by which we had reached Lake Champlain, and as the different points along the route have already been described at length, it is unnecessary to dwell in detail, on the incidents which occured during the return voyage. Our own steamer, the Ruby, met us at Fort "Ti," having received the addition of a new wheel, and receiving us on board, immediately started for Belleville. After numerous delays, Montreal was reached on Thursday afternoon, and a few hours spent in the city. Leaving the metropolis of Canada again, we came up through the canals with all possible speed, calling Rockport (between Gananoque and Brockville) about 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. Here the steamer Hastings met the Ruby by arrangement, and a complete transfer having been made from the latter steamer to the former, the entire party reached Belleville in safety, at an early hour on Sunday morning.

It would be impossible to enumerate the many pleasing episodes which relieved the monotony of the trip during the time the members of the party were not engaged in actual sightseeing. On board the Ruby the utmost harmony and good feeling prevailed during the entire trip, and as an offset to the ordinary discomforts prevailing, there was a more than usual regard for the comfort of all shown by each individual member of the party.

There was an abundance of good music on board which tended to enliven each day's programme. In addition to the superior vocal talents of several members of the party, an excellent orchestra composed of a number of musical instruments was improvised, which rendered choice selections from various authors with admirable taste, contributing in no small degree to the enjoyment of all on board.

Our reception at the different places in U. S. Territory where we had occasion to stop was friendly in the extreme, and the colors on our flag-mast were uniformly accorded the respect which is their due. We passed out of the territory of our American cousins amidst the proofs of good feeling on meeting, which such expressions of the Hastings, and a hearty vote of thanks unanimously conveyed to the committee who had charge of all the arrangements. To the labours of this committee, the members of the party justly consider themselves indebted for a fortnight's pleasure-trip of rare enjoyment, embracing as it has done some of the finest scenery to be found throughout the length and breadth of the American Continent.

The Intercolonial Railway.

(From the Chignecto, N. B. Post.)

At no time in its history has the Intercolonial Railway been in a better position, with respect to the amount of traffic and receipts, the condition of its rolling stock and working, and the efficiency of its management, than at present. It is common experience that a company can make a railway pay better than a Government, and yet the rule ought to be the converse, by reason of the credit and purchasing facilities are entirely to the advantage of the Government. The trouble, however, arises from the fact that the party chiefs are sure to demand this or that place for party servitors to clamor for place and pay for themselves, and hence men are employed who are useless to the railway, and the business develops into mere sop-throwing. The present management has, we think, it will be generally conceded,—1st. Reduced salaries to a minimum. 2nd. Confined the appointments and promotions strictly to those already within the railway service, thus placing the I. C. R. on a solid business like basis. To adopt such a policy and carry it to successful issue required courage and pertinacity in a rare degree to brave at once the wrath of those who pay has been reduced, and of those whose hopes of promotion have been dashed over, of those hundreds of applicants for whom there was nothing, and those hundreds more who were suddenly deprived of their livelihood. All this was accomplished, and more. As long as the management of the railway was at the bidding of this or that politician, those employees who could muster a vote or two felt themselves independent of their bosses, and often defied them, and the public were the sufferers. This evil resulting from a lax discipline. This has all been changed. The employee who misbehaves, has to go, no matter who are his friends; the inflexible adoption of this rule has led to a more wholesome, moral effect, through all gradations of the service. But this is not all. Whether owing to the buoyant prosperity of the country under the N. P., or to the capital investment of the road, or both combined, it is a fact that the Intercolonial Railway is rapidly becoming self-sustaining, as the following figures for the 20th June in each year will show :—

	Deficiences.
1878	200,000
1879	150,000
1880	100,000

We do not apprehend that these results will be gratifying to a certain class of politicians and newspapers, who view the successes and triumphs of the Conservative party as personal wrongs and grievances, but the honest and fair-minded public will be disposed to do justice to Sir Charles Tupper and his Superintendent, Mr. Pottinger, and rejoice that the I. C. R. is making so handsome an exhibit.

Somebody's Child

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flush of hope on his young face and an indescribable yearning to live and take an honored place in the world beside the companions of his youth. And somebody's mother is thinking of the time when that dear face will be hidden, where no ray of hope can brighten it, when her heart and her home will be left desolate—because there was no cure for consumption. Reader, if the child be your neighbor's take this comforting word to the mother's heart before it is too late. Tell her that consumption is curable, that men are living to-day, aged, robust men, whom the physicians pronounced incurable at the age of twenty-five because one lung had been almost destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most efficient alterative for separating the scrofulous matter from the blood and lungs, and imparting strength to the system. It has cured hundreds of consumptives.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, AUGUST 2.

Toronto University.

The Christian Guardian—organ of the Methodist Church of Canada and strictly neutral in politics—does not approve of the recent operations of the Minister of Education in regard to the Provincial University. The Guardian thus sharply comments on the course which Mr. Crooks has seen fit to pursue, in opposition to the will of a vast majority of the people of the country:—"Day after day the Toronto Globe is out in defence of the policy of Mr. Crooks in importing a vice president for Toronto University. There is certainly a very strong feeling throughout the country that this pandering to the supposed superiority of everything that comes from England has been carried a little too far. It was bad enough to assume that after all the years our colleges have been in operation, we had no Canadian scholar fit to teach classics in our Provincial University; but to bring out a young Englishman, who has his spurs yet to win, and of whose aptitude for such a position very little could be known, and to make him Vice President over the heads of older professors, is something that is so utterly unjustifiable, that we wonder it was ever even thought of.

We admit that no prejudice should prevent us endeavoring to secure the best available men for such positions. Nobody is claiming that a Canadian, though admittedly inferior and less efficient, should have the preference. Not at all. What we claim is that men can be found among us who will on the whole serve the interests of the University and the country better than imported men, even though they have not so high a reputation as specialists. It is a great mistake to suppose that the student, who in his college course may have shown the art of treasuring in memory all the facts of some branch of study, so as to come out a gold medalist at the examination, always possesses the teaching and governing power necessary to make a true teacher of men. There is no use in raising the cry that it is "Know-nothingism" against high culture. No evidence that the culture is superior has been produced; that has been taken for granted. The truth is, our Provincial University very much needs some improvement in the unity and efficiency of its literary and moral government. Something more like thorough and helpful teaching in several departments; and these objects are not very likely to be promoted by putting a young Englishman in the Vice-Presidency. The defence has been very weak. The defence for giving this young man a much larger salary than old and efficient professors is, that the rest ought to hail it as the ground of hope that their salaries also may be increased! Defence of making this young man Vice-President, there can be none. It is simply toadying to English pretentions. The claim that all this is raising the standard of education is by no means so clear. The standard of education may be as effectively raised by a fair and searching examination on what is taught in the lectures and text-books, as by a studiedly difficult examination, consisting largely of recondite questions which the examiner thinks the student is not likely to be able to answer. Nor should it be forgotten that something more than a graduate's record and standing while at College is necessary to qualify a man for the work of a University professor. His success in such work depends more upon his natural endowments and intellectual growth in his work, than upon the stock of knowledge with which he may begin the work."

The position taken by our contemporary is beyond doubt the correct one. Other things being equal, a Canadian or at all events one who by his residence in this country has become accustomed to the habits of our people, should have the preference. As the Guardian truly says, mere scholastic attainments are not all that is required. If Canada does not possess a scholar learned enough to fill the position in a manner to suit the Governmental idea of the fitness of things, let them import a man whose standing as a teacher as well as a scholar is known, and not place in so important a position a young man who has had no experience as a Professor, and of whose fitness nothing is known beyond the fact that he graduated with honor in England.

The Game Law.

The abstract of the amended Act of 1880 for the protection of game and fur-bearing animals in Ontario, formerly published in the INTELLIGENCER, having been printed before the introduction of the latest amendments, is incorrect in several particulars. The following list is taken from the Statutes of Ontario, 1880, as published by the authority of the Legislature, and may be relied upon as correct. It will be found particularly interesting at the present time:—

Grand Trunk Railway Employee's Pic-Nic.

The annual pic-nic of the employees of the Grand Trunk Railway, Belleville, was held on Saturday, the 31st July, at Port Hope. The hour advertised for the departure of the excursion train was 7:30, but long before seven o'clock crowds of young men and maidens, old men and matrons, and children in pinafore, might be seen wending their way towards the station, laden with baskets of all kinds and dimensions. It was a pleasant morning, a cloudless sky, air fresh and bracing, with cool wind and strong enough to briskly stir the branches of the trees—just such weather as to make a pic-nic in the woods enjoyable. It was a long train consisting of twenty cars, besides two vans, and most of these were comfortably filled with as happy and jolly a party as ever left Belleville station. One of the new engines, the largest in the service of the Company, gaily decorated with flags and evergreens, and handled by a careful driver, steamed out of Belleville yard about 8 o'clock to the stirring music of the Oddfellows' Band, which occupied an open car in about the centre of the train, and amidst the cheers of the large crowd who came to witness the departure of the train. At Sidney Crossing, at Trenton, at Smithfield, and Brighton, and Colborne, and Grafton, additional parties were taken on until every part of the train was filled, many not finding seats. The trip was quickly made, Port Hope being reached in about two hours and a half after leaving Belleville. The ground selected for the pic-nic was a beautiful grove on the east side of the town, and only a few rods from the railway track. Here a large platform had been erected for dancing purposes, seats arranged for the band, swings erected, and ground prepared for the games and races, and as soon as the party had got fairly settled the Committee were actively at work arranging for the carrying out of the programme, which embraced no less than twenty-one games, and to give the reader an idea of their character, we here re-produce it:

1. Quoits—18 yards, two prizes.
2. Eating Buns—two prizes.
3. Placing eggs in box—hand tied behind back, two prizes.
4. Catching greased pig—prize the pig
5. Potato race—25 yards, three prizes.
6. Barrel hurdle race—three prizes.
7. Three legged race—three prizes.
8. Fat man's race—100 pounds and upwards, 100 yards, two prizes.
9. Childrens' race, (girls) under 8 years—100 yards, three prizes.
10. Childrens' race, (boys) under 8 years—100 yards, three prizes.
11. Childrens' race, (girls) under 12 years—100 yards, three prizes.
12. Childrens' race, (boys) under 12 years—100 yards, three prizes.
13. Childrens' race, (girls) under 15 years—100 yards, three prizes.
14. Childrens' race, (boys) under 15 years—100 yards, three prizes.
15. Boys' race—under 18 years—200 yards, three prizes.
16. Mens' race—440 yards, three prizes.
17. Smoking Race—200 yards, two prizes.
18. Running hop, step and jump—three prizes.
19. Three stands, (without weights)—two prizes.
20. Running high jump—two prizes.
21. Single standing jump—Two prizes.

While this programme was being carried out in one part of the grounds, a lengthy programme of dances was being gone through with in another part, and the company were evidently trying to crowd as much enjoyment as possible into the short time at their disposal. Some strolled down by the Lake shore, others wandered through the town, seeing the sights, doing a little shopping, visiting friends, &c., and thus the day passed pleasantly away. Six o'clock was the hour announced for the departure from Port Hope, but as the programme was not got through with until after that hour, it was seven before a start was made and nearly eight before the train got fairly away from the ground. However, it was a pleasant evening, and everything having passed off agreeably, it was evidently the aim of everyone to make it continue pleasant to the end of the journey, and there was consequently no grumbling. The train reached Belleville station about half-past ten, without a mishap or anything to mar the enjoyment or festivities of the day. The Committee worked hard and did everything they could to carry out the programme, and make the day a really enjoyable one, as it was to the whole party.

THE CANDAHAR DISASTER

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

A Despatch from the Viceroy.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Viceroy of India telegraphs that Ayoob Khan did not follow up the British retreat. General Burrows' force arrived at Candahar. When the messenger left, Ayoob Khan was encamped where the action was fought. This seems to confirm the news that Ayoob Khan had suffered heavily. This news was brought by a native to Quettah. The Viceroy's telegram says:—"Our whole army is 'not' in the citadel at Candahar," but the word "not" is probably a telegraphic error for "now."

NO PURSUIT OF THE BRITISH.

SIMLA, Aug. 1.—Reports from Quettah indicate that Ayoob Khan did not follow up his victory by pursuing the British. It is stated that Gen. Burrows succeeded in bringing a large body of his troops into Candahar.

MORE NEWS OF THE FIGHT.

BOMBAY, Aug. 1.—The battle between Gen. Burrows' force and the Afghans is said to have been well contested. The British cavalry and artrillery were badly cut up at the commencement of the fight but the infantry inflicted such heavy loss on Ayoob Khan that he has not ventured to advance upon Candahar.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—A Calcutta correspondent says:—Everything seems to point to General Burrows having been out-generalled, and the battle of Pushki Nakhud will probably be hereafter cited as one more instance of a story as old as British history itself, of a gallant army being ruined by the infatuation and incompetence of its leader, and the treachery of its allies, as there can be little doubt that Wali's cavalry went over to the enemy.

A Bombay despatch reports that the Khelatti-Ghilzai garrison is in a very precarious state. The tribes are gather d in the vicinity, and much anxiety is felt for the garrison, unless Gen. Phayre relieves it, which would delay his march to Candahar.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

At one this a. m. he was quietly sleeping. Tanner, when he begun to fast weighed 157 pounds, and last night his weight was 127½ pounds. His pulse was regular but rapid.

Local Notices.

Notices under this head 5cts. a line each insertion. After six insertions 3 cts. a line.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St. and get your old suit done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

Police.—Two drunken men were arrested on Saturday night. One was liberated and one was held until this morning.

Vital Statistics.—The vital statistics of the city for the month of July as registered were as follows:—Births 17; Marriages 16; Deaths 17.

Railway Freight.—A good deal of iron ore—both of the magnetic and hematite varieties—also considerable quantities of poplar and basswood bolts, are arriving per Grand Junction Railway for shipment.

A Fine Picture.—A very fine picture in oil, representing a thunder storm on a mountain lake, is in view in the window of Templeton's drug store. The artist who painted it is Mr. M. Lawson, of Hamilton, who proposes settling here for a time, provided he can get up a class of pupils.

Surveying.—The Winnipeg Times of July 27th, says:—"Mr. C. O'Keefe, D. L. S., of Hamilton, and J. H. Ogilvie, D. L. S., of Belleville, with a survey party of fourteen persons, inclusive of themselves, arrived from Ontario on Saturday. They will proceed on Thursday to Cut Arm Creek on the 102nd meridian—a considerable distance beyond Fort Ellice—to subdivide eight townships for the Dominion Government."

Lecture.—Rev. John Roe, agent of the Irish Society for promoting the scriptural education and religious instruction of the Irish speaking population through the medium of their own language, will give a lecture in aid of this Society this, Monday evening, in the City Hall. Chair to be taken at 8 o'clock. Subject "Mission scenes in Ireland, illustrated by beautiful views of Irish scenery." Admission free. The Rev. gentleman is an able speaker, the subject an exceedingly interesting one, and there should be a good attendance.

Canadian Crop Reports.—The Grand Trunk has received crop reports from 149 places along the line. They show that fall wheat has been partly winter killed in some sections between here and Port Hope, but from Toronto to Sarnia it is very good, promising a yield of 25 up to 40 bushels per acre. Spring wheat in many places is badly injured by rust and, to all appearance, will fall considerably below an average. Peas and corn generally are looking well, and give promise of a large yield. Barley and oats are progressing very satisfactorily, and full average crops may be expected. Hay in a few places is light, but, as a rule, will be considerably above an average. Clover seed is partly winter killed. The flax crop is excellent, and fruit promises a fair crop, especially as regards apples. Hops are also looking well, both in the Townships and Ontario, and taking the report as a whole, farmers have abundant reason to be thankful.

Foundations of Success and Laws of Trade.—This is the title of a large and handsomely bound volume of 522 pages, just published by Messrs. Schuyler Smith & Co., of London, Ont. As the title implies, it treats of business and its successful prosecution, embracing every detail, from the smallest to the greatest, each being practically considered in its proper order, thus forming a progressive guide and hand-book of reference. It is especially valuable to young men, clerks, merchants mechanics, and farmers—in fact it will be found of much use in every household, as the information which it contains is so varied and so frequently required that as a book of reference its services will be often called into requisition. Mr. B. Fowler, the agent for the sale of the work, is now in town and will within the next few days make a canvass of the city, and we bespeak for him a favorable reception.

Hamilton Police.—Chief McKinnon, of this city, is understood to be an applicant for the position of Chief of Police at Hamilton, now vacant by the recent death of the late Chief McMenemy.

The Boom.—The timber drive having been separated, the harbor boom has been removed. This is right and proper, as the boom is a great collector of rubbish, which gathers beside it and obstructs the river.

Whirlwind.—A whirlwind of brief duration made things lively for a short time between 12 and 1 o'clock to day. Loaves were blown from the trees, fruit was hurled to the ground, and flowers were in many cases badly demoralised.

Voters' Lists.—Judge Lazier held Court to-day at the Shire Hall for the purpose of hearing and determining appeals as to errors and omissions in the City Voters' lists for 1880. Several cases were heard, and the Court was adjourned until the 20th inst., at the same hour and place.

A Good Job.—For some days past a gang of men have been engaged in solidifying the grade which leads to the Grand Junction railway wharf. A solid bed of stone and gravel has been made for the ties, the road has been leveled, and altogether a great improvement has been made.

Iron Mining.—The Tamworth Echo says:—"Mr. Coe, of Madoc, was in town last Saturday and examined the Wager iron mine and was much pleased with its appearance. He is negotiating with the Railway men with a view to operating the mine."

For a Cruise.—The yacht Katie Gray left on Saturday evening for a cruise among the Thousand Islands, and will be gone for ten days or thereabouts. The crew consists of W. H. Campbell (owner), James Edgar; A. E. Fry, A. I. Bird and a boy. The Gracie was to sail to-day on a similar expedition.

Another Monster.—Some people from Erinsville are reported as having seen a monster of uncouth form—whether fish, reptile or what they could not say—in Beaver Lake on July 27th. Some 12 or 15 feet of it was visible and its body was shaped like that of a horse. This is an improvement on the Duchene Lake serpent, and shows that the liquor sold in the backwoods must be stronger than that which Moses Holt serves out at Aylmer, as partakers of the latter can see nothing better than snakes—big snakes, it is true, but only the old fashioned snakes, somewhat enlarged.

Littell's Living Age.—The numbers of The Living Age for the weeks ending July 24th and 31st respectively, contain the following articles: The Slavonic Menace to Europe, Quarterly; A Few Weeks upon the Continent, Contemporary; Atheism and Repentance, a Familiar Colloquy, by W. H. Mallock, Nineteenth Century; Fishing and Fishing Literature, Blackwood; Victor Hugo Temple Bar; Sterne, Cornhill; Scientific Results of the Howgate Expedition, 1877-78, Sir John Lubbock on the Habits of Ants, and Sign Language among the American Indians, Nature; Heresy in Science, Pall Mall Gazette; The Nature of an Oath, Spectator; with instalments of Mrs. Oliphant's Story "He that will not when he may," and the usual amount of poetry. A new volume began with July 1st. For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four large pages each (or more than 3,300 pages a year), the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10.50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies with The Living Age for a year, including the extra numbers of the latter, both postpaid. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

A Double Runaway.—A runaway serious in its effects occurred on Saturday afternoon. A team of horses belonging to Mr. Spencer Westover, of Sidney, and harnessed to a democrat waggon, had been left tied in the yard of a hotel on the west side of Front Street. Flies were troublesome the animals became so annoyed that they broke their halter and ran away. After a flying visit to the small island south of Walker & Co's foundry, the runaways took their way to Front Street, up which they raced at furious speed. Crossing the upper bridge in advance of them was another team of horses, also attached to a democrat waggon, and owned and driven by Mr. James Lake, of Thurlow seated beside whom was his sister-in-law Mrs. Preston. By the free use of his whip, Mr. Lake prevented the runaways from mounting his waggon, and when the west side of the bridge was reached he turned south. The Westover horses followed their leaders, however, and jumping into Mr. Lake's waggon upset and broke it, throwing out both occupants, Mrs. Preston receiving severe but not dangerous injuries, and Mr. Lake getting some slighter hurts. Both then went on together up North Front Street, turning northward along Harriet Street. Westover's horses continued their progress towards the targets, shedding waggon wheels, box, &c., as they went, and were finally captured at Zwick's School House, about four miles from town, little the worse for their escapade. Lake's horses were caught near Christ Church, one of them badly cut in the legs.

German Immigration.—Emigration from Germany to the United States has been something enormous this year. According to the report of the American Consul at Bremen, 31,971 emigrants have passed through that port during the past three months on their way to the United States. This number is unprecedented, and is greater by 5,721 than the total number leaving the country during the year 1879.

THE LIQUOR LAW.

Peter John, of Mill Point, was fined $20 and costs for selling liquor without a license. A similar charge against Wm. Carter was laid over.

Monday, Aug. 2nd.

DRUNK.

Thomas Todd was discharged — first offence.

ASSAULT.

Harry Geary was charged with assaulting a little boy named William Boileau. Laid over until to-morrow for further evidence.

A Denial.—The Ottawa Citizen of the 31st inst. denies the statements made in some papers to the effect that the members of the Cabinet all resigned before Sir John Macdonald left for England, in order to leave him free in the work of re organization.

The Government Railways.—The Mail says—"Nothing could be more gratifying than that the railways under Government control are showing a steady increase in their receipts and a steady improvement in management. The course of trade has been so full that the Government railways have not failed to secure their share of the gain. The Pembina Branch receipts are, we believe, in advance greatly of what was calculated. The Prince Edward Island Railway again shows a very remarkable saving as compared with previous years, a saving of $35,000 compared with the very lowest year under the management of the previous Government. The Intercolonial Railway shows a like remarkable decrease in the hitherto customary deficit.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

London, August 2.—Arrived out the Rhein and France.

A Vienna despatch says, there are reports from Constantinople of a nature to diminish the prestige of the English, among which is the distribution in Turkish military circles of a printed account of the Afghan disasters, charging the British troops with cowardice and their leaders with utter incapability.

Queenstown, Aug. 3.—Arrived the City of Berlin.

London, Aug 2.—The Sportsman says we have now received the second deposit of £50 on behalf of both Trickett and Hanlan, so the conditions of the coming race have been duly complied with.

The £190,000 worth of gold purchased in open market on Saturday for export to America is Japanese coin. The transaction is only profitable from the circumstance that the shipment will, as on or two previous occasions, be unused.

Physicians who passed the night at Gladstone's house report him rather better, but his febrile state continues. There have been numerous callers at the house this a. m. Policemen were stationed at the end of Downing St. from an early hour and no vehicles are allowed to pass the house.

Calcutta, August 2.—One of the leaders of the Ruma rebellion has been shot. Several others have been sentenced to various terms of imprisonment. The rebellion, however, shows no signs of collapsing, as the British troops cannot stand the unhealthy climate.

WEATHER REPORTS.

Toronto, Aug. 2.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: for the lower lakes, winds shifting to north-west or north and increasing in force, probably moderate gales on the upper lakes, showery weather to-day, followed by clearing and cooler weather to night

Washington, Aug 2.—Indications: lower lakes, partly cloudy, occasional rain, stationary or lower temperature; to-morrow warm and fair.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'Oh, Philip, agree to this,' cried Lydia beseechingly. 'It may be no fiction. She may know what she says, and by her means Fanny may be restored to us. Promise, Philip—promise her that Charles shall not appear as a witness!'

'I cannot do this Lydia,' groaned Philip, with a look and tone of deepest agony. 'We have no power in the matter; Charles is precognosced, and they will force him to appear.'

'I shall not appear!' exclaimed Charles, speaking for the first time, though he had been with the others an absorbed listener to the conversation. 'On the faith of this woman's promise to give you information about your long lost daughter, for whose unknown fate you have mourned so bitterly, I shall avoid giving my evidence, even though I should go abroad till the trial is over. I am, as you say, precognosced, but am not summoned, and will not, therefore, violate the law by so doing.'

'You believe and trust me, then!' said Arabella, in a softer tone than she had yet used. 'Youth has faith—the experience of the world robs us of it. Lost and degraded as you see me to be, still you credit and trust me.'

'I do not think you are deceiving us,' returned Charles. 'I believe you can give the information of which you speak. In this belief I am determined to avoid giving evidence. If I do this, do you engage to give your information, whatever may be the result of the trial? In other words, it is not to depend on Macko ull being acquitted.'

'If you are absent he will be acquitted.'

'I do not think so. There is ample and complete evidence besides what I have to offer.'

'I will risk that,' answered Arabella, in a tone of assurance. 'But for form's sake I will give the promise you want, that whatever the result may be, I shall give the information provided you keep out of the witness-box. Are you satisfied?'

'I am. You may count on my absence. When shall we see you after the verdict is given?'

'Within an hour after I shall be here.'

'We shall confidently expect you,' said Charles.

'And oh, Arabella, I shall bless you if you give us back our lost darling!' wailed Lydia. 'Would, oh, would that the day of trial was come! I shall count every hour that intervenes, both by night and by day.

One flashing flaming glance Arabella cast on her and Philip, and turned to go. Just then they came before her, with a supplicating upturned face.

'Be generous, be pitiful,' she pleaded. 'Charles has faith in you, and it has pleased you. Return it. Have faith in him that he will not appear at the trial and gladden their hearts by telling them now what you know of their long lost child. Spare Mrs. Ravenswarth the anguish of waiting.'

'Did I not tell you that it was the young who have faith, and that the experience of the world destroyed it? I am not young—the world has crushed it out of me long ago—faith and pity too, and I cannot do what you ask. I will fulfil the bargain when it is due—but not a moment sooner.'

She swept her dark eyes round the group with a bold defiant glance, letting her look fall last and linger longest on Mary, whose face she scanned with something like puzzled curiosity. She paused for some moments thus regarding her, then, without uttering another word, she vanished from the room.

* * * * * * *

On the 11th of May the trial took place. Charles had succeeded in getting his name deleted from the list of witnesses. He represented to his late employer, the agent for the bank, the immense importance to Mr. and Mrs. Ravenswarth of his not appearing in the witness-box, and, after careful consideration, and calculation, it was seen that they had sufficient evidence without him to convict Mackoull of the robbery and so gain a verdict for the bank. The youth was therefore released from his part in the trial, to the unbounded joy of Philip and Lydia, who could thereby expect to receive tidings of their lost child from Arabella Joyce.

It would be vain to attempt to describe the agitation and surprise, the hopes and fears of the consuming impatince of Ravenswarth and Lydia during the days which elapsed between Arabella's visit and the trial, the conclusion of which was to bring them news of the darling whom they had been so mysteriously and unaccountably bereft nearly twenty years before. All the anguish which time had deadened was revived, and the wound in their hearts was opened afresh. The consoling thought to which they had long clung was that Fanny was dead. It was a belief born of their wish, for, if dead then Fanny was with God and was well; whereas if she still lived they shuddered to contemplate her possible history and position. They hoped that the Good Shepherd had gathered the lamb to Himself, and had gradually settled into the belief that this hope was blessed reality. But we have seen how suddenly and unexpectedly they were driven from its shelter and every fibre of their parental hearts made to quiver with renewed sensitiveness. It was all the worse that they knew not the nature of the tidings they were to receive. They might be heavy and bitter, though Lydia's sanguine heart turned only to hopeful thoughts. Philip was more sober and reflective and strove to prepare her for sorrow rather than joy. He reminded her that if Fanny lived she would now be a girl of twenty; and, since Arabella Joyce knew about her, there was a fearful possibility that she might be lost and abandoned like herself. A sharp cry of pain and dismay broke from Lydia at this dreadful possibility was presented to her; still the mother's heart yearned for her child, and she did as she said she would, she counted every hour till the moment should come when the promised information should be given.

Perjudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicans, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had pooked at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

Woman's Wisdom

"She knows that is of more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—Ed.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

False Impression.

It is generally supposed by physicians and the people generally that Dyspepsia cannot invariably be cured, but we are pleased to say that Green's August Flower has never, to our knowledge, failed to cure Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint in all its forms, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, etc. Out of the 50,000 dozen bottles sold last year, not a single failure was reported, but thousands of complimentary letters received from Druggists of wonderful cures. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sample bottles 10cts; regular size 75cts

CONSUMPTION

CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics combined, and is more perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE:

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. O. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach, which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.
December 19th, 1878. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. One friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now steadily. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879, Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already done so. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effects from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

ST. PAUL, MIN., JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.,
DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine. I can now safely say that it is unequalled by that I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that I was very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.
D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.,
SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me. I have been sitting over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.
I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

CHRONIC LARYNGITIS.

The premonitory symptoms of this disease begin with those of an ordinary cold, only that it is always attended with more or less hoarseness. It is scarcely ever an original disease separate and distinct in itself, but is usually an extension of Catarrh, this disease passing down the posterior nasal pharynx until it reaches the more sensitive mucus membrane of the larynx, and finally continuing down until it extends to the lungs, when it is called Bronchitis. The symptoms are more of a tickling in the throat, and the patients complain of a sensation as of something sticking in the throat, which causes a continual rasping cough to clear the throat and windpipe. The voice is unnatural at first, being rough, while in the later stages is low, weak and indistinct, and a constant sense of tightness and often difficulty in swallowing.

The above is the simplest form of the disease, and can be readily removed in a few weeks. Although in all cases it must be treated by the direct application of medicated inhalations (not atomization), for if we would properly treat a disease of this nature we must reach all the surrounding parts so as not to drive the disease beyond the point of attack, and herein lies the great danger of using caustics to the delicate organism, as by the action of many physicians, for if we burn or dry up the inflamed mucus surface of the larynx and only reach those parts we are almost sure to drive the disease further down into the bronchical tubes and lungs, but by the system of medicated inhalations the mucus surface of the larynx, bronchial tubes and air cells of the lungs are all reached, hence the impossibility of driving the disease to more remote parts, and by proper treatment there are few cases of Chronic Laryngitis but what are readily curable.

The above are the symptoms of this disease are various. It arises in clergymen, and is very prevalent in school teachers and many others, from too much use of the voice, dust, the poisonous exudations from decayed vegetable matter, and living in damp houses. It is more often a sequel to ordinary sore throat, and inflamation extending down into the larynx by reason of the continuity of the mucous membrane.

But whatever may be its cause, it is always a serious disease. When it becomes chronic it threatens a complete destruction of the voice, and rarely ends until the lungs become involved, and then every fresh cold or change in the weather contributes to feed the disease and increases its severity, complications, and hold upon the sufferer.

The disease is often a sequel of consumption which is aggravated by the poisoned mucus which is being constantly expectorated from the lungs. When the latter is the case it is one of the most distressing character. There is more or less ulceration in the vicinity of the vocal chords These ulcers frequently penetrate through the mucus and cellular membranes, and often attack the ligaments and cartilages themselves. When this is the case we rarely succeed in effect a complete cure by those means which will remove the cause, "viz.," the consumption of the lungs. And in these cases there is only one system of practice capable of approximating face to face with this foul destroyer. I refer to Medicated Inhalations. This system is the only successful after all other means have been tried without avail. On account of distance, constitutional debility or expense of travel, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and, when fully answered and returned to the Institute, remedies can be sent per express (duty free), together with full directions for use. OVER THE SEA.

XIX.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

After crossing into England from Scotland, we passed south-eastward to London, through the very best of English country, stopping by the way at large towns and places of interest, among which were Carlisle, Lancaster, Manchester, Newcastle, Stafford and Rugby. We shall not attempt a description of these places, as it would prolong our correspondence, and be of less interest to your readers than incidents to which we shall now pass connected with our flight seeing in the metropolis. The landscape scenes throughout the whole distance are beautiful, and ever changing. Numerous villages dot the country. Multitudes of great black smoke stacks, some slender steeples and heavy church towers, side by side rise toward heaven. As in Ireland and Scotland, all railroad crossings go either over or under the track, thus securing safety for passing trains. More thrift is manifested amongst the tenant farmers of England than either of the other two countries; their farms, as a general rule, are much larger, and their houses and outbuildings better and more capacious. On Saturday evening July 17th, we arrived in the great metropolis of England and the most of the world. Who could describe such a city (the largest in the world) in a brief newspaper correspondence? A perfect labyrinth of streets and squares, warehouses and stores, churches and palaces,—where over four millions of people of all classes, grades and conditions find a home,—a city that covers over 80,050 acres of ground—where of late years an annual increase of 400,000 is made to the population, and the people annually consume 20,000,000 bushels of wheat: eat up 300,000 bullocks, over 2,000,000 sheep, 50,000 calves, 70,000 pigs, and fish, game, vegetables, &c. in proportion; a city where it takes 30,000 tailors to make the clothes, 35,000 shoemakers to make the boots, and 45,000 milliners and dressmakers to attend to their habits,—where an army of servants are employed, and the smoke of the coal fires darkens the country for more than thirty miles around. A full description of what may be seen, even in a brief journey around it, would require a whole volume or book.

In our walks through palaces, parks, and museums, among the massive fortifications of old London Tower, through the rooms where nobles, princes, kings and queens have been incarcerated, around Tower Hill, where the scaffold and the executioner's block tell their dark, sad tales of treachery and blood, through Westminster Abbey, a venerable old church and the great sepulchral home of England's honored dead, we have treasured up many an incident worthy of story, but as they would occupy too much space we must defer their recital until our return.

When a stranger sets out unattended to explore the interminable streets and gain his first impressions of London, he is seized by a feeling of utter bewilderment, and without a map of the city to guide his course he would be as helpless as a ship captain at sea without chart or compass. Indeed, Londoners themselves cannot dispense with maps when business or pleasure calls them to visit some unfamiliar portion of this great wilderness of brick, stone and mortar.

With reference to the wonderful growth of the English metropolis, it may be noticed that though its area and population increased largely and steadily during the past two centuries, still it has only been in comparatively recent times that the increase has become so marvellously rapid. While in the past fifty years its enormous limits have expanded until they have absorbed the outlying villages on every side. It now, according to the Registrar General, reaches north and south from Hornsted to Norwood, and east and west from Woolwich to Hammersmith—an area of 122 square miles. We may now travel ten miles in various directions and meet continuous houses all the way, unbroken by any mark: and lines of separation. All countries on the face of the earth are represented in its population. There are usually over 100,000 non resident foreigners in London. It is said to contain more Roman Catholics than Rome does and more Jews than Palestine. Some idea of the rate at which it is increasing may be formed from the fact that 28 miles of new streets and 20,000 new houses are erected in it every year. The valley of London is formed by some gently rising hills, about 50 miles from the mouth of the Thames, its northern parts belonging to the counties of Middlesex and Essex, and its southern parts to those of Surry and Kent. Its streets have absorbed Westminister, the borough of Southwark, and thirty-six townships, parishes and precincts formerly distinct from it.

It has been said that the greatest wonder about London is London itself. To realize what London is you must picture to yourself the most squalid misery and the most gorgeous wealth living cheek and by side. It is the representative of British industry and commerce, but for beauty it cannot compare with Edinburgh or even Dublin. As a mart of merchandise it is unrivalled, although Liverpool is coming into close competition with it. While London has the largest imports Liverpool has the largest exports. Manchester is said to be the capital of productive labor, Liverpool of shipping labor, and London the capital of distributive labor.

London's precise form of government is rather complicated and difficult to understand. The city is presided over by the Lord Mayor and Corporation; then there is the Metropolitan Board of Works, to which delegates are elected from the different parishes, and the localities outside of the city are managed by vestries; but where their respective jurisdictions begin and end, and what their relative functions are, is difficult to clearly discern.

No dividing lines are perceptible between the city of Westminster, the ten postal districts, the numerous parishes, the districts of the London Fire Brigade, etc., and hence the metropolis becomes year after year more of a labyrinthine puzzle to those unacquainted with it.

There is no difficulty, however, in getting around through all parts of the city after a person has made himself familiar with some of the principal thoroughfares. For this purpose a stranger should first make a tour of the city, and, where there are no ladies of the party, the tops of omnibuses are the best locomotive "coigns of vantage" available. The open space in front of the Exchange, or Charing Cross, are the best starting points, as omnibuses can be had from them for every district in London. At THE THAMES is the great divisional line between north and south London we made its acquaintance as soon as possible, and now avail ourselves of the fast little steamers plying upon it for visiting distant places of interest. The Thames, to a Canadian accustomed to seeing large clear rivers like the St. Lawrence, Niagara and Moira, is a comparatively puny river—a black, surly tide, charged with the refuse of over four millions of people. Hundreds of little steamers run, as street cars, upon its waters, dropping their funnels at every bridge, of which there are seventeen between the south of London and Richmond. Some of these bridges are master-pieces of skill of engineering skill and cost, with their approaches, as high as £2,000,000 sterling.

TRAMP.

LONDON, July 20th, 1880.

Ensilage—Advice of Francis Morris.

This gentleman was the first in this country, we believe, to undertake the preservation of corn fodder in silos, and some account of the experiments on his farm in Howard country, Md., has appeared in our previous volumes. We observe the following letter from him on the subject in the Maryland Farmer for July:

I made use of Italian corn as winter food for stock as long ago as the winter of 1876, and I have used it in each succeeding winter with great success. The earlier it is sown the better; its growth is more rapid and luxuriant in May and June than in July and August—a bushel of corn to the acre in drills 12 to 15 inches apart. The crop should be worked twice, and, when in tassel, should be cut by a mowing machine, carried from the field in waggons to the feed-cutter, cut up in pieces of about three-quarters of an inch, and put into the silo prepared for it. The building of the silos is thoroughly explained in T. B. Brown's work on ensilage. Any one who will make a trench 10 feet wide and 6 feet deep, and cover it with earth 18 inches deep, after the cut-up maize is put into the trench, and then keep the earth carefully pressed upon the maize, so as to exclude the air, will accomplish what is required. The trench should have a shed over it, or a shed thatched with straw. Water should be kept from the cut-up maize, as it would doubtless injure its quality, if not destroy it.

Maize or Indian corn requires from forty five to sixty days to ripen it into tassels, and therefore can be only sown up to the 16th of July. If the land is in good condition, it will yield twenty tons to the acre; it requires a ton a month for each cow, and all animals will improve and do well upon it. By the use of superphosphates the crop can be doubled, but this is a matter subject to the will of the farmer. Ten acres of maize will feed thirty cows during the season that they cannot feed out of doors, and will produce a quantity of manure to give a wheat or corn crop. The advantages of this crop are so great that it must change the agriculture of every corn-growing country. Cattle and sheep will be raised in a more efficient manner heretofore not thought of. Wheat to-day, by all our best farmers, is followed by clover, the clover is cut and made into hay, and this is fed to stock. Maize will take the place of clover hay, for the clover will be grazed off the land, and the animals will return it to the land, better prepared to act as a manure than if the clover was cut, and made into hay, carried to the barn, and then fed to the Stock. The advantage of grazing clover off the land is very great, as it at once returns to it all that the clover takes from the sod.

We recommend every farmer who reads these suggestions to sow an acre of land with corn or maize—if you have no drill, sow in hills—and when in tassel mow it any old mowing machine you may have to cut it down, and then if you have no feed-cutter, buy or borrow one and cut up the fodder, as ordered—bury it in the ground, and when winter comes feed your stock upon it, and when you try it once you will never be without it again. I have used it for four seasons, every time with complete success, and I know that it multiplied the value of our land three or four times over.—Country Gentleman.

The American Dairyman does not seem to be carried away by any rose tinted prospects of great grain from the ensilage system. In a recent editorial on the subject it said:

While it is our desire to see the dairymen of the country fully abreast with all the improvements of the day, and, especially, if there is money in it, yet, if they will take the advice of one who has never tried it, they will make a big mistake if they undertake to go into the business of digging caves under the whole of their farms. There are plenty of enthusiastic rich men—amateur dairymen, who will never mind their money if things go wrong, and who will make pits or silos after the most approved patterns, and having blown off their extra steam and got over the first flush of victory will begin to count the cost and thereby see fear a heavy discount on the present calculations. All we know is that Green corn is a heavy and expensive article to handle, hard to cut with a feed box as it is so soft the knives must be very sharp, the juice gums them up rapidly. It has about 80 per cent. of water in it, and is therefore about as nutritious as poor milk. A cow in summer time already eat about as much kawbels to make any impression on the milk pail.

If the fodder is allowed to grow large, as Mr. Harris Lewis says, after the cows get through with it; if it is not cut up you will pack out of the stable just about as much stalk as you took in.

To the regular trade we say let the advance guard, the skirmishers, the gilt edge farmers develop the whole situation before you go into action.

The leaders of the two great parties in Great Britain present a strong contrast as they are seen from the galleries. Lord Beaconsfield, when in the Commons, was accustomed, particularly in the early hour after dinner, to lounge on the bench in conversational powers of Lord Barrington. A remarkable contortion of the lower portion of his grim visage relaxed as the sprightly Vice-Chamberlain poured his gossip in his ear, and astonished Senators said to one another "Dizzy is laughing." Later in the House of Lords, at a time when his relations with the Marquis of Salisbury were growing closer, he ostentatiously chatted with the saturnine peer. For the rest he sat wrapped in his own thoughts, with arms folded, legs crossed, head bent, but, withal, the still large bright eyes watchfully surveying the House. As he is now seen he has abandoned his attitude of watchfulness. It is enough that he should sometimes come and show himself to his party, but he evidently feels that his work is done. He sits silent and motionless on the front bench, with face more than ever devoid of human expression. Mr. Gladstone, on the ministerial bench, must needs talk to some one or he would burst. He holds animated conversations with any one near him, from a colleague in the cabinet to a lord of the treasury. During the O'Donnell episode he sat in his place scribbling on a piece of paper held on a blotting pad and working out the problems of his budget. From four o'clock to nine he never left his seat, while other members less anxious or less responsible spent a pleasant hour in dining. At nine o'clock he went out for ten minutes, snatching a hasty meal in the dining room. From the time he returned till 2 o'clock next morning he did not leave the treasury bench, except for divisions, speaking frequently, and writing almost continuously. When he went out the division he carried his paper and red blotting pad with him, and as the throng filed along the lobby to record their votes, they passed the premier sitting in one of the recesses busily writing. When the crush was over, Mr. Gladstone fell in at the rear, walked up to the wicket without delay, and recorded his vote with the proud conscientiousness that he had saved ten precious minutes that might otherwise have been wasted!—Boston Transcript.

Political Notes.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES.

Saturday's issue of the Globe contained advertisements offering employment to some sixty men, whilst those men who advertised for situations numbered 14. This does not show so sad a lack of work for those who wish to earn a livelihood, in and about Toronto, as the Grit organ would have its readers believe.

THE TEA DUTIES.

The Bobcaygeon luminary is at it again. He says in his last issue: "The fact is notorious that the National Policy charged the farmer with a tax of about 15 cents a pound on tea in order that a few manufacturers and bloated capitalists might make greater profits. The tax was less than 15 cents, it is true, but the tax and its consequences caused a rise to that amount on tea. We wish the farmers' wives to remember that National Policy and Protection means a tax of 15 cents a pound on tea." Who are the "manufacturers" are that profit by the alleged increase of 15 cts. per pound in the price of tea—the same authority made the increase about 50cts. per pound a few weeks ago—our contemporary does not state. It really might do so, as we were not aware that tea was "manufactured" in Canada, though doubtless the backwoods Solon knows all about it. As to the alleged "tax of 15 cents per pound on tea," it certainly is too much to have reasserted a statement which, if made in ignorance, would be a stupendous blunder, but which, as the Bobcaygeon writer has been enlightened, is a deliberate falsification. The tea purchased by farmers' wives—hence they must laugh at the Bobcaygeon dreamer's assertion—pays but a trifle, if any, more duty than under the Mackenzie-Cartwright tariff, which was 5c per pound for black and 6c per pound for green and Japan. Then the tea used by farmers is usually of the lower grades, such as duty would be paid on at the rate of 25c per pound, at which valuation the duty would be half a cent per pound less than the duty under Grit rule, but averaging it at 30c per pound the price would be the same, the duty being under the present tariff 2c per pound for black and 3c per pound for green and japan, with ten per cent additional on the value of the tea. Therefore it is the "manufacturers and bloated capitalists" who, by a higher duty, which on their fine teas, costing from 80c to $1 per pound, is from 5c to 7c more per pound than formerly—not 15 cents even in their case, are right made to contribute more to the revenue than the farmers and the working classes in the centres of population.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTES.

The reform which the Ontario Government propose to introduce into Mechanics' Institutes is a useful one, and a fitting addendum to the National Policy. Virtually they propose to make each Institute a school of art and design, by requiring the formation of classes for instruction in mechanical and architectural drawing, mechanical philosophy, chemistry and other branches of practical science. The Institutes will be paid in proportion to the work accomplished, and scholarships are to be given successful students, enabling them to attend the school of art and design, and school of practical science in Toronto, and the Agricultural College in Guelph. By such means a vast amount of practical knowledge will be imparted to members of the Institutes, which will thus be fitted to be the nursery of mechanical skill in the country. The value of such knowledge, if Canada becomes a great manufacturing country—as we believe she will under the policy of protection inaugurated by the present Government—will be incalculable, as it will enable our mechanics to hold their own and compete successfully with those of other countries.

BLEEDING KANSAS.

Mr. Blake's advocacy of Kansas as a field for emigration, in preference to our North-west Territories, does not appear to have been particularly happy. A correspondent writes as follows from Kansas, under date of July 16th, to the St. John Telegraph—a truly good Grit paper:—"From my own experience and from information received from parties who have been in this State for fourteen years, I think I can truthfully say to intending emigrants, if you have the means of subsistence where you are now, in a Province like New Brunswick, remain, by all means; your lot may appear hard and your prospects gloomy, but you are living in a country far better than this. The soil is good on the bottoms of the creeks and rivers and good crops could be raised were it not for the weeds, which grow with an amazing rapidity and of every variety. It is actually more than the crop is worth, in a great many places, to keep it free from this pest. The main dependence of the farmers heretofore has been the wheat crop; this has been almost a failure for the past two years, so that now in some of the more western parts of the State, people are at the point of starvation, and are leaving as tramps, if they cannot get away any other way. The corn crop is generally good, and is what the farmers have been looking to, to help them through; but the hot winds, which have prevailed for some time past, accompanied by clouds of dust, have almost demoralized that. Potatoes they cannot raise "worth a cent." Turnips and cabbage have a peculiar pungent bitter taste that render them extremely unpalatable. There are hardly any other kinds of garden vegetables raised, because it would cost more than they were worth to keep the weeds from choking them. The oats raised here are no better than what would be called "tailings or screenings" in P. E. Island or New Brunswick; they are not fit to grind meal from, and make but very poor feed for horses. Watermelons, cucumbers, pumpkins and squashes, also sunflowers, flourish; however, rye is the only cereal that will grow with any degree of certainty for producing a crop. Fruit is almost unknown, that is, fruit grown in this State, excepting a limited quantity of peaches, and those of inferior quality. The climate, in some sections, is simply detestable. I have known, for months at a time, hot winds with clouds of dust to such an extent as to darken the air. In one place I saw a field of wheat of two hundred acres, or more, blown out of the ground entirely. In many other places I have seen acres of wheat covered and completely destroyed by the drifting sand and earth, that had been carried upon them by the winds. Almost any one can imagine how disagreeable an atmosphere is this in which to live. The most sanguine and ardent admirer of Kansas is discouraged by the last mentioned infliction."

THAT EXODUS.

The By-Stander does not take any stock in the assertions of the Grit press that the N. P. is depopulating the country. Its remarks on this point:—"To say that the N. P. has driven all the people out of the country, is preposterous; the N. P., a mere adjustment of new taxes in themselves unavoidable, cannot have produced a very great effect one way or other, and perfectly trustworthy judges are of opinion that on the whole the effect has been good."

Western Crop Prospects.

A Chicago despatch states that in Wisconsin the wheat crop is reported generally below last year's in quality and quantity. 15,000,000 bushels being the estimate of the total crop. Reports from Iowa are more favorable. The berry is superior to last year, and the yield is 20 per cent. higher and the acreage is about the same. The harvest weather has been good and no damage is reported in the stocks. From Minnesota reports of a great crop come in from all sections, especially from Northern Minnesota. The total acreage of the State in wheat is put at 3,000,000 acres. For two weeks past the weather has been most favorable for ripening, and the grain is maturing in magnificent state, the berry being large, plump and hard. The total yield of the State is put at 44,000,000 bushels. The indications are it will be principally No. 2, with a large percentage of No. 1 hard. Reports from Dakota are almost similar to those from Minnesota. The Sioux Falls Despatch says the crop is in fine condition, ripening slowly and stands well. The heads are long and well filled, the berry being plump and large. Southern Dakota never harvested such a crop. The average yield per acre is set down at not less than twenty bushels, or fully one hundred per cent. greater than that of last year. The average is larger by fifty per cent. than any previous crop.

THE MAIL.—This leading paper made its first appearance in its new shape yesterday. It is now an octavo in form, with seven columns on each page, or fifty-six columns in all, and as the Mail thus presents one column on each page more than the Globe, and its columns are considerably longer, it thus contains about one-sixteenth more reading matter than the Globe, the dimensions of the sheets being: Mail 36x48 inches and the Globe 31x46 inches. The Mail is thus the largest daily paper in British America, and in our opinion the best, as it excels its principal rival in enterprise and ability as well as in size. A marked change has taken place in the make-up of the paper, the first page being devoted entirely to telegraphic news; second and third pages to general news—principally of a local character; fourth page to editorial matter; fifth similar to second and third; sixth to sporting intelligence—which is always so full and accurate as to be a prominent feature of the paper; seventh to commercial intelligence; and eighth to city news, whilst advertisements appear on every page except the fourth. The paper, which has been given a new dress of type, presents a very handsome appearance, and is in fact a credit to Canadian journalism. It is now printed by the stereotype process on two of Scott's rotary presses, one of which is capable of printing thirty thousand copies per hour and the other fifteen thousand per hour. With a new building specially erected for its accommodation, with the best facilities which money can procure, and with an exceedingly able, liberal and enterprising management, we have no doubt that the Mail will continue to prosper greatly, to increase its very large circulation, and to be a great power in the country in giving to the people right ideas on political subjects.

—Mr Archibald Forbes, the famous war correspondent of the London Daily News, will enter upon a lecture tour in the United States and Canada in November. Those desiring his services can communicate with Mr. R. D'Oyly Carte, 1194 Broadway, N. Y.

Promotion Examination to Fourth Book.

This examination was held in the Central School building in June, but in consequence of the large number of applicants and other examinations, it has been impossible for the Inspector to get through the work of reading so many papers sooner.

Ninety-two pupils from the third classes in the city schools wrote, and of them sixty-two obtained the required number of marks.

They were examined in arithmetic, spelling and dictation, geography, grammar and Canadian history.

Of the ninety-two candidates, Mr. Armistead sent 8; Mr. Dafoe, 6; Miss Northcott, 24; Miss Urquhart, 14; Miss Jack, 20, and Mr. Gardner, 20.

Stirling Correspondence.

A party consisting of Messrs. A. Chard, Dr. Tucker, J. Boldrick, A. Anderson, Jas. Milne, Walter Martin, and their families, left early this (Monday) morning for a week's "camping out" on the shores of Belmont Lake, taking with them large quantities of provender and camp equipments and a number of boats. Th expectation of this pleasure has been the means of keeping their little ones on the tip-toe of excitement for some weeks. It is to be hoped they will not be interviewed by the "rurals" as a party of "tinkers," and treated accordingly.

Mr. and Mrs. Skinner go to L'Amable to-day for a ten days rusticating, which I believe, completes their holidays, having had a week's holidaying in Seymour, and only just returned.

Two of our respected young men, Mr. J Wicher and Meiklejohn, the former clerk with Mr. R. Fidlar, and the latter with Milne & Clute, are about removing to Colborne, there to begin life upon their own account as merchants. They have the best wishes of their friends in their enterprise, and it is hoped they will be repaid with abundant success.

Sunday morning one of our doctors was called upon to attend Mrs. Eber Conley, living a short distance from here, it being said she had taken poison. By the time the doctor had reached the place the neighbors had used such means as they know of as an antidote. Upon investigation, however, the conclusion was arrived at that it was a false alarm. The wife being, it is said, somewhat jealous of her husband, had pretended to take poison before some members of the family, hoping by this means to "turn the cause of her troubles from the evil of his ways." It is said by some that the poor woman has no grounds for her suspicion. It is thought, however, she will not make such another scare, as she will remember for some time the means taken for an expulsion of the drug.

Farmers seem to have a light heart over the promising harvest, more so than for many years.

Marmora Correspondence.

From our own Correspondent.

There has been and is still a great deal of cloudy weather accompanied with frequent showers, making it unpleasant for farmers, who are now hastily gathering in the rye and barley. It is thought barley in consequence will be nearly all dark in color. Wheat has almost entirely escaped injury from the rust.

There is still a great demand for sheep. Mr. Jacob Loucks, of Stirling, has been around buying up a good many of these useful animals.

On the 29th ult, as Mr. M. Lough was returning home from the village by some means he fell out of his waggon under the horses' feet where he was severely trampled upon. He now lies in a critical condition, and it seems doubtful as to whether he will recover.

The latest sensation which has both a humorous and a serious side, is concerning a furious pugilistic combat which took place regarding some juvenile animals of the bovine species, between a fierce lady of Amazonian proclivities and a stalwart youth of massive frame, who might, in physique and size be considered to slightly resemble "Fin McCoul." The battle—strange to say—ended in the defeat of the latter, who has taken steps to bring his opponent before the tribunal of justice, if a second Achilles can be found to arrest her.

The first quarterly meeting for the present conference year of the C. M. Church was largely attended. An appropriate and eloquent sermon was preached by the Rev. S. McCauley on the occasion.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—A Berlin correspondent reports that everything concerning the Greek question seems to have come to a stand still. The situation is unchanged, and there is no danger at present that any disturbance will suddenly break out. It is considered doubtful here whether the Porte will now be able to quiet the Albanians after having stirred up their national religious passion to such a degree.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The Herald's Washington special says that the recent outrages upon American vessels, in Cuban waters, by officers commanding vessels in the Spanish navy, it is said may call from our Government a demand for the highest reparation a friendly nation could exact, namely a salute to the flag at some prominent port in Cuba, where the offences were committed.

It is proposed to make new engravings of all the National Bank notes, as a large amount of counterfeits of every note except one dollar are in existence.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St. and get your old suit done over so look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

THE CELLS.—No prisoners and only one tramp last night.

FOR ROCHESTER.—But a small party joined the excursion here, for Rochester, per steamer Hastings this morning.

CRICKET.—A match between the Picton and Belleville Cricket Clubs will be played here on Friday. Wickets to be pitched at 11 a. m.

A DENIAL.—Chief McKinnon desires us to state that the statement which we copied from the Globe's Hamilton correspondence, that he is an applicant for the position of Chief of Police for that city, is not true.

DESTROYED BY LIGHTNING.—On the morning of the 2nd inst. the barn of Mr. John Young at Pleasant Bay, Township of Hillier, was struck by lightning, and with its contents was destroyed. No insurance.

YACHTING NOTES.—The Gracie left yesterday for a cruise amongst the Islands. The Surprise made a short visit here yesterday afternoon. The Bloodhound has proved to be a wonderfully fast sailer. She is to return at once to Kingston.

NEW WHEAT.—Mr. Corby has received and ground some fall wheat of this season's growth, which was an excellent sample, floured nicely and turned out fine flour. Mr. E. C. Ketcheson, of Rednerville, exhibited a very fine sample of fall wheat this morning, the grain being unusually large and plump.

MISSION SCHOOLS IN IRELAND.—The Rev. Mr. Roe's lecture on the above subject, which was delivered in the City Hall last night, secured but a small attendance. The discourse was highly interesting and instructive, and the views of scenes in Ireland were numerous and excellent.

POISONING.—A small black and tan terrier, owned by Mr. James Warham, who lives on John Street south, and a large pig belonging to another person residing in the same vicinity, have both died within the last few days from poison, how administered is not yet known. This poisoning of animals is either the result of carelessness or of deliberate villainy, and the police ought to make an effort to unravel the mystery.

ARRIVED IN WINNIPEG.—The Winnipeg Times of the 26th inst. says:—Messrs. Chas. Ashley, Jas. S. Hamilton and Jas. Hambly, of Belleville, Ontario, who represent a company composed of farmers in the County of Hastings, arrived on Saturday night. They intend to make an extended tour of the country and select a block of land, and next spring it is expected that the land will be taken possession of and put under crop.

RAILWAY WORKS.—The tenders for the extension of the Grand Junction Railway wharf being far in excess of the estimates, it has been decided to accept none of them, and to make an alteration in the nature and location of the work, whereby deeper water will be secured, and to ask for tenders on the altered plans. The engine sheds and shops will probably be located in the vicinity of the Grand Trunk crossing, and tenders will shortly be asked for this work.

REV. WM. BRIGGS.—The "Canadian Methodist Magazine" for August, contains an excellent sketch of Rev Wm. Brigge, formerly of this city, together with a portrait. This description of the rev. gentleman is given: "As a man, he is modest without bashfulness; as a Christian, religious without cant; as a preacher, fervent and eloquent without cant; as a platform speaker, ready, pointed and pertinent; and as connexional business man, capable and successful without being fussy and pretentious."

THE GALE.—Yesterday's hurricane did some damage to shade and fruit trees, and overturned a portion of the fence surrounding the cricket ground.

POLICE COURT.—The Police Magistrate has changed the time for holding court from 11 o'clock a. m., as formerly to 10 a. m. This is a good change, as the time now fixed is more convenient than the hour at which court was formerly held.

DOG KILLED.—A young dog belonging to Captain Power, was killed on the Street Railway track in front of the Queen's Hotel yesterday afternoon. The two wheels of a car ran over the animal's head, smashing it and killing the puppy on the spot.

MASONIC FUNERAL.—The remains of the late Mr. McGee, a member of the Masonic fraternity, took place yesterday afternoon under Masonic auspices, and was largely attended by the brethren and others. Deceased was formerly employed as engineer in Brown's foundry and died on Sunday after a week's illness.

KETCHESON WARD.—Mr. J. W. Johnson desires us to say that he finds that his business engagements for the next two months will be such as would prevent his giving the time to municipal matters, which would be necessary were he elected a member of the Council. He therefore, for the present, declines to be a candidate.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.—The nomination for the vacancies in the City Council for Coleman and Ketcheson Wards will take place at noon on Thursday, at the appointed places. There are several candidates in both of the wards, and it is probable a contest will take place in each. In such case the polling will take place on the 16th inst.

THE VOTERS' LISTS.—It may be as well to remind all concerned that any person has the right to go before the judge and ask for the correction of any error in his name, as printed in the list, or in the description of his property, which can be done without notice being given to the City Clerk. The next sitting of the Court will be held on the 20th inst., at 11 a. m., at the Shire Hall.

FOUNDATIONS OF SUCCESS AND LAWS OF TRADE.—This is the title of a large and handsomely bound volume of 522 pages, just published by Messrs. Schuyler Smith & Co., of London, Ont. As the title implies, it treats of business and its successful prosecution, embracing every detail, from the smallest to the greatest, each being practically considered in its proper order, thus forming a progressive guide and hand-book of reference. It is especially valuable to young men, clerks, merchants, mechanics, and farmers—in fact it will be found of much use in every household, as the information which it contains is so varied and so frequently required that as a book of reference its services will be often called into requisition. Mr. B. Fowler, the agent for the sale of the work, is now in town and will within the next few days make a canvass of the city, and we bespeak for him a favorable reception.

Police Court.

(Before T. HOLDEN, Esq., P. M.)

TUESDAY Aug. 3.

ASSAULT.

The adjourned case of Boileau vs. Geary was co cluded. Defendant being fined $2 and costs.

Customs Returns.

The returns of imports and exports and of duty collected at the port of Belleville for the month of July, 1880, compare as under with the returns for the same month of 1879:

IMPORTS.

	Value.	Duty.
1879.....	$20,348	$4,712.93
1880.....	10,652	3,036.33
Decrease..	$ 9,696	$1,679.60

EXPORTS.

1879.....	$53,815
1880.....	91,508
Increase.....	$37,693

The decreases in the value of imports and the amount of duty collected are solely due to the fact that last year a large quantity of coal was brought to Belleville from the United States for the Grand Trunk Railway, and this year there has been no coal imported except by local dealers. Every other item on the list exhibits a healthy increase, whilst the enhanced value of exports is a still more pleasing feature of our city's trade.

Revenue Returns.

The following are the Customs and Inland Revenue returns for the past month at the ports mentioned:—

BRITISH TRADE.—The reports of the British Board of Trade for the half year ending with June last, show a considerable increase both in imports and exports. The former amounted to $1,653,000,000, as against $863,000,000 during the corresponding period last year, and $948,000,000 during the first half of 1878. Exports are valued at $538,000,000, as compared with $441,000,000 in 1879 and $473,000,000 in 1878. For the month of June the increase in imports over June last year is $46,000,000, and the increase in exports $20,000,000. A large increase in exports appears under the head of cotton, cotton piece goods, linen piece goods, iron and steel, wool, worsted stuffs and carpets, though the augmentation is not so striking when compared with 1878. The heaviest and most enlarging market for cotton piece goods is British India.

Marine.

The Schooner Tranchemontagne has arrived from Oswego with coal for Downey and Preston. She was driven on to the banks of the channel yesterday afternoon, but got off without assistance.

There seems to be a fair prospect that the "boom" in freights which has for some time prevailed on the upper lakes is at length about to reach the Bay trade. So many vessels have withdrawn from the Lake Ontario and Bay of Quinte trade because of the starvation rates which have prevailed, that it is found difficult to get freight forward, and so rates have gone up with a bound, although not yet so high as they ought to be, at least for the smaller craft. Lumber from Port Hope and Toronto to Oswego is $1 per m. while from Belleville the rate has risen from 60cts two weeks ago to 80cts now. On iron ore to Charlotte, the rate has risen to 40cts against 32½cts a fortnight ago, and vessels are scarce. It is to be hoped that the owners of vessels will now have a chance to make up for the past losses of the season.

RUMORED RISING AT CABUL.

A despatch from Simla states that rumors of a serious rising at Cabul have reached that place. The telegraph wires were cut beyond Tutabund this morning, and it is supposed the act was committed by the discontented sirdars and their followers. There is reason to doubt the fidelity of Abdurrahman Khan to the assurances he gave the representatives of the British Government at the durbar at which he was recognized as Ameer. Evidence of a perverse, if not a treacherous, disposition on his part offers itself in his refusal to attend the durbar of consultation held yesterday on the camp ground of the British army near Cabul. Abdurrahman excused himself by saying that in the present condition of the country he thought it not wise to provoke further aggression from Ayoob Khan, especially until reinforcements arrived from India, and that the news of a durbar between the British and himself would incite the tribes to rise in the neighborhood of his capital. But the threatening attittude toward the British of Abdurrahman Khan's followers, which he does nothing to rebuke, taken together with his own do-nothing policy, carries with it the force of a demonstration that he will seek favor with his fanatical countrymen by betraying the Englishmen into their hands and then make some kind of compromise with Ayoob Khan if necessary. The situation constantly grows daily worse, and it seems plain that the British must either withdraw from the country if they can, and acknowledge a final defeat, or send armies large enough to make their hold good against a general rising of the whole of Afghanistan.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Gladstone passed a fair night. There is no increase in the malady with which he is afflicted, nor in fever.

In the House of Commons last night the Marquis of Hartington announced the recall of Sir Bartle Frere from the Governorship of the Cape of Good Hope. Both Hartington and the Earl of Kimberely in making the announcement concluded by saying the Government took this step with regret because while Frere's views differed from the Ministers on important questions they fully recognize his high personal qualities and distinguished services.

At noon to-day the condition of Gladstone was unchanged.

In consequence of the Premier's illness the Lord Mayor's dinner to Ministers, on Saturday, had to be abandoned.

The Pall Mall Gazette says it is understood that Gladstone's doctors this a. m. were somewhat disappointed at the condition of their patient. They had hoped for a marked diminution in the temperature of his body, but have become contented that it is no higher than it was on Monday. This a. m. Gladstone was able to dictate a letter to the Foreign Secretary.

The Standard says the apprehension that Gladstone is in a precarious state does not correctly give his situation. He is in a serious condition and the case is of such an irregular kind that it necessitates the greatest caution.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Tanner experienced no nausea since midnight. His stomach is in an improved condition, but his temper is irritable. He says he will give up going out until the end of his fast. During the morning he drank less than half a pint of water. He is now on his 37th day.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: for the lower lakes, moderate to fresh winds, mostly north-easterly to north-westerly, fine cool weather.

WASHINGTON, Aug 3.—Indications: lower lakes, partly cloudy, possibly occasional rain, stationary or higher temperature.

Haunted Me.

Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for Doctoring, which done no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year at less than one dollar for less than one doctor's visit [will cost.—A Workingman.

Somebody's Child

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flush of hope on his young face and an indescribable yearning to live and take an honored place in the world beside the companions of his youth. And somebody's mother is thinking of the time when that dear face will be hidden, where no ray of hope can brighten it, when her heart and her home will be left desolate—because there was no cure for consumption. Reader, if the child be your neighbor's take this comforting word to the mother's heart before it is too late. Tell her that consumption is curable, that men are living to-day, aged, robust men, whom the physicians pronounced incurable at the age of twenty-five because one lung had been almost destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most efficient alterative for separating the scrofulous matter from the blood and lungs, and imparting strength to the system. It has cured hundreds of consumptives.

A Husband's Discovery.

Animated Night Scene in the House of a Montreal Citizen.

MONTREAL, Aug. 2.—A few days ago a young French Canadian gentleman, well known and highly esteemed as a man of honor, a resident of St. Hubert-street, had occasion to go into the country for a time on a pleasure excursion, leaving his wife and children at home. He returned hastily the same evening, and upon trying the door found it locked. He rapped, and waited for a time, expecting his wife to go down and admit him. He noticed at the same time a light in his bed-room. At length it flashed upon him that burglars might be in the house, and without more ado he burst in the door and rushed to his room. He could see no one, but the light was turned on and the bed had been recently vacated. He tried one door after the other, and then came to the wardrobe. Pulling open the door, he discovered to his utter bewilderment, a man and woman in a semi-nude state. The woman was his wife; the man a doctor well-known in French Canadian circles. But a still greater horror awaited him, for upon dragging the man into the light he discovered that he had in custody his wife's uncle. The wife screamed, and the Doctor implored mercy, "Pour le bon Dieu!" The enraged and outraged husband seized a rifle and demanded which of them he should kill first, as both should die. They fell upon their knees and implored mercy for their conduct; the woman adding that, if only for their children's sake, her husband should not place his own freedom in peril. This appeal stayed the hand of the husband, and bundling the pair into the streets as they stood, he locked the door, and informed the nearest police that there were to be found at a certain street, in a gateway, a man and woman who wanted some clothes to cover their nakedness. The husband is a military man, and has seen service in Italy and France.

Grand Black Chapter of Canada.

The annual meeting of the above Chapter has just been concluded in the Orange Hall, Kingston. Delegates were present from Toronto, Ottawa, Pembroke, Renfrew Lanark, Pontiac and Kingston. Sir Knight A. F. Graham occupied the chair. After the transaction of routine business, the following officers were elected for the current year: R W G M, A F Graham: Dep G M, James Marshall; Junior Dep G M, William Shaw; G. Chaplain, J C, Wilson; G Registar, George Forde, Ottawa; G Treasurer, Thomas Dagg; G Lecturer, H O Wood; G. Censor, Edward McMullin, G Standard Bearer, W J Brown; G. Pursuivant, H Kerr; Dep G Registrar, S. Thorne; Dep G Lecturers—Thomas Stewart, John Clausen, F Morrison and A Hodgins—Dep G Censors—H Hobbs, R Delaney, jr, R Donaldson and J Brown—Dep G Standard Bearers—J W Arget, A McConaghey, W Coffey and W Hogarth—Dep G Pursuivant, John Alexander; Grand Committee—A Parker, G H Pidgeon, J L Shaw, E B Reid, W Smith, J F Johnson, M Cowley, and J Graham. At the close of the proceedings the delegates were entertained by the Kingston Brethren, at Sir Knight Thornton's hotel, who catered for them in his usual good style.

DIVISION IN THE RANKS.—Not many of the Opposition papers agree with the Globe, in its objections to the building of the Pacific Railway by a company of English capitalists. The Montreal Herald expresses the following opinion on the question: "We shall be delighted if any English, French, or other capitalists can be found who will build the railway, and take in land the pay required to supplement the revenue derivable from it. Moreover, while there is reason in everything, we shall not be disposed to drive a hard bargain as to the number of acres per mile which are to be given. If the present Ministry finds the times propitious for such an engagement, it will have reason to congratulate itself and the country on its good fortune; for, as a matter of policy, there is no difference in opinion on the one great question of making the land pay for the railway. This was the basis of Mr. Mackenzie's bill of 1874, which authorized an offer of a maximum sum in cash, and invited tenders in which the rest of the price was to be fixed in acres."

CONTINUED.

The Court-room was densely crowded in every part, public interest in the trial being intense and universal. It was a civil trial, but if the verdict was given for the bank it would assuredly result in Mackdonald's being tried on a criminal and capital charge, and that, too, with little or no chance of escape. The action which he had the hardihood to raise against the bank for the restoration of his bills and for damages, had been met by the bank with a counteraction, in which Mackoull was charged with the robbery of the bank, and the theft not only of the notes with which he paid the bills, but with thousands more. If the bank succeeded in proving this, Mackoull would be at once apprehended, and the same evidence which convicted him on the first trial would be available on the second.

Mackoull was well aware of this, but he had every hope of success, and made his appearance in the Court with a jaunty air of cool assurance and insolent confidence. He deemed that he had got out of the way the only two witnesses whose testimony could bring his guilt home to him. These were Scoltcock, the London locksmith, and Charles Ravensworth. He had been advised by his confederates in London that effectual measures were being taken to have the locksmith out of the way, and the youth's name was not among those of the witnesses. Vast, therefore as was the body of evidence which he knew to be forthcoming, he did not fear it, for without Scoltcock or Charles to clench it, it would break down.

The trial was conducted by the most eminent advocates then at the Scottish bar. For the bank there appeared Francis Jeffrey and Henry Cockburn, and for Mackoull, J. P. Grant and Archibald Alison, the future historian of Europe.

In one of the dark recesses of the densely-packed Court sat Philip Ravensworth and Charles, and in a corner secure from observation Arabella Joyce had placed herself to see how it went with the man to whom she was so infamously devoted.

The proceedings began, and now it was that the singularly interesting story of the bank robbery was detailed in all its minute features.

The fact of the robbery and the amount of cash abstracted, were first proved by the porter, the tellers, and other officials of the bank. Then the evidence was brought forward which connected Mackoull and his two dead associates with the commission of the deed. Evidence was also given of the landlady swore that Mackoull was one of the three lodgers who had stayed with their aunt for weeks before, and kept such strange hours. The coach hirer declared that he was one of the three men who had heavy bundles who came to him early on the morning of the robbery, and engaged a chaise to take them to Edinburgh. The postboy identified him as one of the three passengers he had driven to that city. Another coach-hirer in Edinburgh deponed to having provided Mackoull and two others with a carriage to take them to London. The inn-keepers and waiters at the various stages identified him through the whole journey, and at this point Vickery, the Bow Street detective, came upon the scene.

Quietly, graphically and with no superabundance of words, he described the events which had taken place when the bank manager came to Bow Street, and the case was put into his hands. He narrated the finding of the box of skeleton keys in Scoltcock's premises and the subsequent apprehension of Scoltcock and his wife and Huffey White and his wife at Howard Street. There after he related how—some strong influence having come to operate—negotiations were opened up for a compromise, and proceedings against the prisoners were stopped, when £12,000 of the stolen cash was restored—this large portion of the booty having been given up by Mrs. Mackoull, and the remainder kept back, contrary to the bargain which had been make. The result was, however, that Scoltcock and the two women were liberated, and Huffey White returned to the hulks from whence he had formerly made his escape.

The whole of the evidence was strongly presumptive against Mackoull, and few that heard it could doubt his guilt, or that the bank was well justified in bringing the charge against him. Still it was not absolutely direct, and wanted something stronger to cause the verdict to go against him. Mackoull heard it all with an undiminished show of insolent assurance, and an exhibition of bravado which was not altogether feigned, and he positively smiled and chuckled when he heard Henry Cockburn say in a loud voice—

'Call John Scoltcock.'

'Ay,' he muttered to himself 'you may call till your lungs crack, and John Scoltcock won't come.'

He was roused from his fancied security by a bustle at the entrance, and the people there began to move aside as if to allow some one to advance.

'Ah,' said Mackoull to himself, 'that's the Macer coming to say Scoltcock is not to be found. These honorables will be in a pretty pickle when they——hell and fury!'

As Mackoull uttered this last fierce ejaculation he leapt to his feet and glared in consternation and dismay at the appalling sight that met his gaze.

There was Scoltcock the locksmith!

Mackoull, in the wildness of his agitation, made a desperate effort to leave the Court, but Jeffrey had his eye on him, and loudly called out to have him detained. There was nothing for it, therefore, but for Jim to remain, and, deathly pale, he sank against the wall in a kind of faint.

The appearance of Scoltcock was a dreadful blow. He was so sure that his absence had been secured that he was under no apprehension whatever of danger from this quarter. Yet there was the fat, short necked, heavy-headed locksmith waddling his way into the witness-box to give fatal evidence against him.

When the first sensation of faintness passed off he ground his teeth with furious rage, and under his breath vented dreadful anathemas against his London pals for their treachery.

In this, however, he did these confederates injustice. By their intimations they had succeeded in frightening Scoltcock so much that, in order to avoid being taken to Scotland, he fled from his house, and lived in disguise in another part of the metropolis. His flight being discovered, a warrant for his apprehension was put into the hands of one of the most active Bow Street runners named Lack, and this officer instituted a thorough search for him. The search was in vain, however, and the last day came when it would be possible to have him down to Scotland in time for the trial. Lack had lost hope, and was in despair passing along the Haymarket, when to his joy he espied Scoltcock on the other side of the street. Though the locksmith was in disguise, the officer recognized him, and instantly crossed. Scoltcock saw him, and started off at full speed. At the same moment a bull-dog looking fellow rushed from an entry and attempted to prevent Lack from following, but the latter drew forth a pistol, at sight of which the ruffian retreated, and the officer sped on after the fugitive. A long exciting chase took place, and it was not till he reached Charing Cross, that Scoltcock was captured. Here, however, he was seized, handcuffed and carried to Bow Street. Not a moment was to be lost. A chaise and four was procured, and Lack and another officer were deputed to conduct Scoltcock to Edinburgh. They halted at the different stages only so long as it took to change horses, and by dint of swift travelling reached Edinburgh just in time for the locksmith to give his evidence.

Now that he was fairly in the Court, and unable to help himself, Scoltcock made up his mind to reveal all he knew. He was not in a position to do otherwise. As a locksmith he was most clever and ingenious, but in all else he was dull and helpless. It was vain, therefore, for him to try to give false answers to the questions put to him, and he had sense enough to perceive that the only policy worth thing for him was to tell the whole truth, so far as he knew it.

Prejudice Kills.

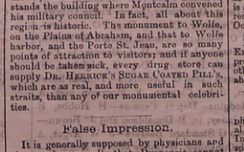

Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to as good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters.—The Parents.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house he lived in at Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is a strange, thing that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the chilling day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe Harbor, and the Forts St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. Harris's Sugar Coated Pills, which are actual, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

False Impression.

It is generally supposed by physicians and the people generally that Dyspepsia cannot invariably be cured, but we are pleased to say that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER has many times relieved and cured since Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint in all its forms, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, etc. Out of the 50,000 dozen bottles sold last year, not a single failure was reported, but thousands of complimentary letters received from druggists of wonderful cures. Three doses will relieve any case Try it. Sample bottles 10cts.; regular size 75cts.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and even agreeable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine daily is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my practice the preparation prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D.. Baltimore.
Oct. 12, 1879.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, as a pleasant and agreeable form. Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter I became confined to my bed. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of SCOTT'S EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I procured a dozen bottle and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 113 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since taking SCOTT'S EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has a stroke about three months and he is trying the better. Have sent him one and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 21, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally wasting away. I commenced the use of your EMULSION and using it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it; and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, a can now safely say that it is unrivalled. Before I used Fever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little child is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that I was told by the best Doctor and Physician I believe that had I not given it to her she would have been dead ere this; now she eats regularly and sleeps well, which was the only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR,—I have been using your medicine for over a year, and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over 15 years, and was troubled with fits. Hesaes having difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken a quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was induced to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.
I remain respectfully,

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

CHRONIC LARYNGITIS.

The premonitory symptoms of this disease begin with those of an ordinary cold, only that it is always attended with more or less hoarseness. It is scarcely ever an original disease separate and distinct in itself but is usually an extension of Catarrh, this disease passing down the posterior naries and pharynx until it reaches the more sensitive mucus membrane of the larynx, and finally continuing down until it extends to the lungs. When it is caused by Catarrh the symptoms are more of a tickling in the throat, and the patients complain of a sensation as of something "sticking in the throat," which causes a continual rasping cough to clear the throat and windpipe. The voice is unnatural at first, being rough, while in the latter stages it becomes weak and hesitating, and a constant sense of tightness and often difficulty in swallowing.

The above is the simplest form of the disease, and can be readily removed in a few weeks. Although in all cases it must be treated by the direct application of medicated inhalations (not atomization). For if one wants to properly treat a disease of this nature we must reach all the surrounding parts so as not to drive the disease beyond the point of attack, and herein lies the great danger of using caustics to the delicate organism, as is the custom of many physicians, for if we burn or dry up the inflamed mucus surface of the larynx and only reach those parts we are almost sure to drive the disease farther down into the bronchical tubes and lungs, but by the system of medicated inhalations the mucus surfaces of the larynx bronchial tubes and air cells of the lungs are all reached, hence the impossibility of driving the disease to more remote points. Being treated in this manner there are few cases of Chronic Laryngitis but what are readily curable.

The causes which produce this disease are various. It arises in clergymen, and is very prevalent in school teachers and singers, also from too violent use of the voice, dust, the poisonous exudations from decayed vegetable matter, and living in damp houses. It is more often a sequel to ordinary sore throat, and inflamation extending down into the larynx by reason of the continuity of the mucous membrane.

But whatever may be its cause, it is always a serious disease. When it becomes chronic it threatens a complete destruction of the voice, and rarely ends until the lungs become involved, and either a very fatal cold or change in the weather continues to feed the disease and increases its severity, complications, and hold upon the sufferer.

This disease is often a sequel of consumption which is aggravated by the poisoned mucus which is being constantly expectorated from the lungs. When this is the case the disease is of a most distressing character. There is more or less ulceration in the vicinity of the vocal chords These ulcers frequently penetrate through the mucus and cellular membranes, and often attack the ligaments and cartilages themselves. When this is the case we can only hope to effect a complete cure by those means which will remove the cause, viz: the consumption of the lungs. And in order to do this there is only one system of practice capable of approximating face to face with this foul destroyer. I refer to Medicated Inhalation, and this system is usually successful after all other means have been tried without avail. If on account of distance, constitutional debility or expense of travel, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and, when fully answered and returned to the Institute, remedies can be sent per express (duty free), together with full directions for use. A Trip to the North-West.

I.

WINNIPEG, July 28, 1880.

Having completed the business of the "Hastings Land Purchasing Association," preparatory to leaving for Manitoba and the great North-west, we took our departure from Belleville on the morning of the 21st inst., and were fortunate enough to make a connection with Prittie and his party at Toronto, who were bound for Winnipeg. We had a very pleasant passage under the guidance of Mr. Prittie, who has by his long experience acquired a thorough knowledge of the wants of emigrants. He informed me that he had conducted more people to Manitoba this year than in any one year previously. This certainly speaks very encouragingly for the rush of emigration to the prairie province. Belleville and vicinity was well represented in his party of the 21st inst.; there were a number of young men from our city who were ticketed for Winnipeg, and from these they will go as far west as Fort Ellice, to survey several townships of land that had been blocked out last fall, and which they will complete the work upon so as to make them ready for actual settlement or purchase, a work which cannot be too rapidly prosecuted, for if I am rightly informed there is scarcely enough land in the market to supply the demand of seekers, either settlers or purchasers. These young gentlemen who are at work under the supervision of Mr. Bolger, of the firm of Evans & Bolger, Provincial Land Surveyors, of Belleville, are Harry Bogart, Esq., who for some time held the captainship of the Prince Edward Ferry, John J. Haslett, W. G. Robertson, W. Drewery, H. W. Bell, A. Ponton and J. D. Kennedy of Campbellford. There were were also the delegates of the H. L. P. Association, and Mrs. James A. Johnston, who was on her way to Meadow Lea, Manitoba, there to join her husband, who preceded her in the westward march, selling out his home in Prince Edward and buying an improved farm in one of the finest districts of Manitoba. It is just such people as they that are wanted in this Province, and it is to that class principally that are settling here. As we pass on our way we notice that the crops in Western Ontario do not look quite so well as they do in and around Hastings, still they scarcely afford the farmer room for grumbling. The hay crop does not look so bad at all, but the grain generally is somewhat backward. It is not so strong and full a down east. We paid particular attention to the crops in western Ontario until darkness set in, and this is the picture of the country as we found it. We left Toronto at one o'clock p. m. Wednesday and arrived in Chicago at 9:30 o'clock a. m. the following day, making that part of our trip in 20½ hours.

Having arrived in Chicago, with twelve hours on our hands, we embraced the opportunity, so sweet to us, of "taking in" the sights which are to be seen in the "Queen City" of the West, and thanks to our genial friend Moran, traveller for R. C. Jamieson & Co., of Montreal, who happened to be a guest at the Palmer House, and having free y offered us all the assistance that he could render, we were taken by him and introduced in the above named hotel and were shown all through this, the grandest hotel in the Western States. In the afternoon we engaged a landau, and were driven around the city to the principal points of interest. The western metropolis is a fine and lively city; there is a great amount of manufacturing done here and a vast amount of business carried on generally. The three principal streets of Chicago are Clark, Dearborn and State Streets. There are some fine buildings in Chicago; chiefest among the many are the Palmer House, corner of State and Munroe Streets, the Grand Pacific, corner of Clark and Washington Streets, and the Chicago Opera House building. The three-fireproof, in fact all that have been erected since the fire have been made proof against the flames. We started from the Palmer House and drove down Munroe Street to Michigan Avenue. A very beautiful street it is indeed, broad and straight, level and clean. After driving along a short distance we enter Michigan Park, a narrow open greensward about a half a mile in length, with very few shade trees and not any too many walks; there is an elegant residence all around the park standing out in the open blazing sun, and appear to be used very little by any one except negroes, and one would suppose, from the hideous shapes into which they throw themselves, that they would be just as much at home lying on the road of their backs with a stone for a head rest, and the sun pouring down a melting heat of 100 degrees in the shade, they loll around this park the sole occupants. Continuing our drive through the Avenue we enter the most beautiful part of it, just here there are some very fine private residences, massive in appearance but not gaudy. They are all built close to the street walk with high retreating stairs of heavy marble slab, ornamented with heavy silvered railings. There are all the fixtures attached that go to make a dwelling look expensive, without any attention to comfort whatever.

There is one dwelling on this avenue that is most beautiful in its appearance, the property of Widow Peck, built on a corner lot, and presenting an imposing appearance, with three faces of pure white marble very elaborately ornamented. What the cost of this house may have been I will not attempt to say. Mr. Peck lost $200,000 at the time of the money panic in the United States and, died shortly after, leaving a wife and two sons, who are now members of the bar. These young men bought and presented this desirable home to their widowed mother. Passing along we enter a beautiful boulevard drive leading through to South Park. It is over five and a half miles in length. T. H.

Regenerating the Potato.

The well known writer, Mayne Reid, we are told, has been experimenting with Mexican seed-potatoes in Herefordshire, England, thereby doubling his crop and entirely escaping the blight, which has been so fatal to the English and Irish potato crop of late years. He says, in a letter to the London Live Stock Journal, that for the last three years he has been cultivating seed which came direct from Mexico, with the result, that while ten other sorts, planted in the same field, tended with like care—in short, ceteris paribus—have all been more or less diseased, his Mexican "papas" show not a spot of blight. Nor is this all in their favor, for while the best of other kinds have yielded less than five tons to the acre, they have produced over ten, in common drills done by the plough. Hundreds of specimens were above one pound in weight, some even a pound and a half. After being stored in ordinary field pits through the winter, the Mexican potatoes come out perfectly sound, and seem to improve in quality as the spring advances. As an article for the table he thinks they have no superior; and he proposes that the British Government take in hand the importation of Mexican and Peruvian seed as a cure for the potato blight.

A TRIP TO THE NORTH.

For the Intelligencer.

MR. EDITOR,—Having promised you an account of my trip to the north, I proceed to do so. I left Belleville on the 21st of June and arrived at Bancroft on Friday the 25th, at 9 a. m. having stopped over at D. Kavanagh's for the night. Mrs. and Mrs. K. are most hospitable people, at least I find them so.

Nothing of interest took place till Sunday, 27th, when about church time it began to not only rain but to pour in torrents of water. Those who were at the church had to stay there. Those who were not there remained at home, and those on the road got a thorough wetting. So much for variety!

On Monday the 30th I drove over to McDavitt's mill, two miles above Doyle's corners, and had a chat with the Reeve, who in my opinion leads a most miserable life for the want of a lady to fill the place of wife and and house-keeper. He has a very fine house, which thoroughly shows the want of woman's handy work; may he soon supply the much needed want.

Returning to "Doyle's Corners," we stopped at the house of the Clerk of the municipality, Mr. Green, where we got a good dinner without the smell of whiskey. There is one tavern in the place where liquor is sold, which is quite as much as is for the good of the place or the morals of the people. After a rest of about two hours we returned to Bancroft. We found parties working on the road, or as the saying is, "doing road work," which in too many instances means putting in the time with as little work as possible. What a pity men do not understand that in working out their statute labor they are working for themselves and not for the Queen.

On Thursday, 1st July, we went up to the town line between Faraday and Herschel, to see the road and make arrangements for spending the $100 granted by the County Council for the especial benefit of that locality. We got along very well until we came to Andrew Neal's, where we left our team and started on foot some two miles to Mr. Aplin's, taking notes of the work required to be done. The road had been cut out, but no further work had been done. We then returned to Mr. Neal's. Mrs. Neal kindly gave me a good drink of cool spring water, which was very refreshing after the ride and walk.

I made an appointment to meet the people on Monday at 10 a. m. at Moon's bridge, to arrange for the work, took another road and got back to Bancroft at 7:30 p. m., somewhat tired and hungry, having breakfasted at 5:30 a. m.

There is as fine land in that quarter as can be found anywhere, hardwood and heavy timber, and the settlers appear to be doing well for the time they have been located, and the want of roads.

Monday morning at 10 o'clock found us at Moon's Bridge, and soon after quite a number of the settlers arrived, when we arranged for the work, which was to cover the road from Neal's to O'Brien's, a distance of some 4½ miles. This work has been done and extra work over the $100 is being done. The work done for the $100 comprises 55 rods of cedar way, 151 rods of grading, which will run from 1 to 3 feet in height, besides cutting round a very rocky (young mountain) 1 mile and grubbing out stumps, making a fair road. The work was done under the superintendence of Mr. O'Brien, who felt much interest in the road, because he is the last settler on the line between Hastings and Peterborough, Township of Chandos. Large numbers of the people will use this road from that township to get to mill and market. The road has been approved of by my agent, and he writes me the names are passed for payment. Another grant next year will give the people a good waggon road to travel on and keep it up by statute labor.

Wednesday, 7th, we went upon the Montcagle road and dined with G. A. Bartlett, Esq., where we got a good dinner, thanks to Mrs. B. for her kindness. After dinner and a good rest, we started along with Mr. Bartlett and went over the road that was to be repaired as far as practicable with the other grant of $100, from the County, made a start at the work, and marking the sections from the School House to the Hastings road, making 8 in all. Mr. B. and myself walked all the way out so as to be better able to judge what work was required. After setting the price of each job in our own minds, Mr. B. left us and went to warn the people to meet me at the Hastings road on Friday morning at 10 o'clock, at which time we had a fair gathering and spirited bidding, all the jobs being let out and the work was commenced at once. As yet I have no returns from these jobs. The distance is computed at 800 rods, the old crossways to be repaired, several new ones to be built, all low places to be brushed and covered with cedar, stones to be taken out where possible, stumps and trees to be cut out 3 ft. wide each side the waggon track, &c., all for $100 or about 12½ cents per rod. This will make a good fair waggon road.

There are splendid farms in the settlement, and no doubt through the woods, although somewhat stony, it will be taken up and settled on as the better lands become scarce.

I also went over the Monck road with Councillor Bentley, from Bancroft to Mr. Mullett's, the Farm; found the road in a shocking state. Our Ontario Government won't give a grant of $300 to repair and shorten the road by seven-eighths of a mile. Reason, no doubt, "don't send a Grit to Parliament." All right! The people must grin and bear it. After a good dinner at Mr. Mullett's we returned to Bancroft by another road.

Bancroft has preaching every Sunday by Presbyterian and Methodist, in the small church. On Sunday last, at 11 a. m., a regular down pour of rain, yet the members and friends to the number of 40, took dinner at Mr. Doey's. The spread was sumptuous and was well partaken of, judging from the way some parties shovelled in their 25 cents worth of food, but there was an abundance. The rain prevented amusements, except indoor, which were not much. A subscription was opened to build an Orange Hall and over $60 subscribed on the spot, leaving some balance.

"THE COMET."

In all my travels I did not see any thing of the great comet, nor did I even see a single spark from its enormous tail. What has got it? Has Mr. P bagged it up for after use?

I left Bancroft at 5:30 a. m. on the 14th and reached Bridgewater via Madoc at 9 p. m., a distance of 48 miles, took a bowl of bread and milk, and a good night's rest and returned to Belleville on the 21st at noon by stage.

Give the Boys Tools.

Almost all boys are naturally mechanics. The constructive and imitative faculties are developed, in part, at a very early age. All boys are not capable of being developed into good, practical, working mechanics, but most of them show their bent that way. There are few cases in which the boy has no competent idea of the production of a fabricated result from inorganic material, but such cases are rare. Given the proper encouragement and the means, and many boys whose mechanical aptness is allowed to run to waste, or is diverted from its natural course, would become good workmen, useful, producing members of the industrial community. The mechanical boy ought to have a shop of his own. But if he be attic, or an unused room, or a place in the barn or the woodshed. Give him a place and tools. Let him have a good pocket knife, gimlets, chisels, gouges, planes, cutting nippers, saws, a foot rule and material to work. Let the boy have a chance. If he is a mechanic, it will come out, and he will do himself credit. If he fails he is to follow some calling that does not demand mechanical skill.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 4.

Only Fair.

In order to get up a cry against the N. P., the Grit papers a short time since published a statement of the number of Canadians entering the United States, and styled the movement an "exodus" from Canada—a general flight from the high tariff, &c. This was done regardless of the fact that if our people were really emigrating because of the increase in the tariff, they were flying from the frying pan into the fire—in other words, from a country in which the tariff is about 25 per cent., to one where the imposts average 60 per cent. Neither did they state a further truth, namely that, of the people whose entrance into the United States was carefully chronicled, not a few were residents of the Eastern States who had simply travelled over the Grand Trunk as the shortest route, on their way westward, entering Canada at Montreal or Prescott and leaving it again at Sarnia; that others were bound to Manitoba and the North-west, and were driven of necessity to travel over the United States Railways; and that not a few others were going on visits of business or of pleasure amongst our neighbors. All these details were omitted, and all were set down as emigrants, although beyond doubt those who went to take up their residence in the adjoining country were few in number and certainly did not do so on account of the tariff in Canada, but because of the higher than in this. The higher wages in the United States, it may be fairly stated, are due to the high rate of protection thrown around home industries in the Republic.

As no returns have been made, so far at least, of the number of persons entering Canada from the United States, would it not be proper that such statement should be given to the public. This is the season when large numbers of excursionists from the neighboring country visit Canada, and it would be just as fair to include them in such a return as for the Grits to enumerate and denominate "emigrants" the classes of people above named. A good big statement of this nature—such, we are sure, as the facts, if ascertained, would afford, would give excellent ground from the free-trade point of view and afford the Globe and its confreres a fine text for discourse upon their favorite theory, in expatiating upon the exodus from the highly protected United States to the lightly protected Dominion. By all means let us have the statistics and the comments. The necessary somersault would be nothing—the Opposition prints are well used to that sort of thing nowadays, from the Toronto organ downwards.

Barley Prospects.

The barley crop is an object of first-class importance to the great majority of the people in this part of the country, therefore all that is written concerning it by competent authority is carefully read. The Napanee Beaver, in its last issue, has the following in regard to the condition of the crop and the market prospects:

"Although it is rather early to speculate with any degree of certainty in regard to the prospects of the barley market, both dealers and growers are anxiously gleaning all the information in regard to the state of the crop in the different barley growing sections. In regard to the crop in the Bay of Quinte district, it is certain that it is above the average in both yield and weight. In this section a larger acreage than usual has been sown, and reliable information shows that the yield is above the average in weight. In the front townships, where the grain has ripened early, some of the crop has been housed in fair condition, but further back the rain of Monday night has discolored all that remained out, which is a large percentage of the crop. Roughly estimated, the crop will probably be ten per cent more than last year. About one-third of the yield will be No. 1 and one No. 2, and the balance, though up to the average in weight, will be colored. What is said of the barley crop in this county, may be said of the whole Bay district. In regard to the price it is difficult to form any reliable estimate. Reports from the great barley districts of the Northwest, from which the heavy maltsters of Chicago and St. Louis draw their supplies, would indicate that the crop in that section is fully up to the average, both in quantity and quality. From information gleaned from the most reliable sources, it would appear that the supply will be fully equal to the demand, and that, therefore, large figures are not to be expected. From conversation with dealers, we are led to believe that prices will be fair until the demand is supplied, or the lateness of the season makes transportation both dangerous and expensive, after which a drop may be looked for. Although, as stated above, it is rather early to express an opinion, it may be safe to advise growers to have their crops ready to sell early, and if a fair price is offered, not to hold, as no material increase may be expected late in the season, and a serious fall in price may take place, through the supply being greatly in excess of the demand."

Our contemporary's statement is in the main tolerably correct, though we cannot, in the light of recent experience, agree with its assertion that the crop is above the average in weight. In the vicinity of this city the bulk of the barley will be light in weight and nearly all colored. We shall be glad to learn positively that other parts of the Bay district are more fortunate in this regard, but the prospect of receiving such intelligence is not very flattering. The yield, however, is good, and the crop will give a fair average return.

Madoc Slate Quarry.

MR. EDITOR,—I was pleased to see your account of the Madoc Slate Quarry, and hope it may turn out well and fully meet the expectations of the owners or workers, as the case may be.

I trust that the parties will not flatter themselves that they have secured all the slate in the country. Fully 10 years ago I discovered a fine bed of slate at Bridgewater, and took Mr. Francis Tucker to see it. He pronounced it good, and he had experience in slate quarries in England. We thought then of working it, but the heavy transport prevented it.

A few days ago I went up to the quarry, and had a few pieces split out and although on top of the quarry it was as easy to write on as common slate. It is of a grey color on top. I picked up a piece which had been taken out when Mr. Tucker was there ten years ago, of a bluish color, which had been exposed to the weather, and could write on it with another piece as easily as on a common slate from one of our stores.

That on top is hard but does not scratch when writing on it, and, no doubt, as soon as a shaft is sunk it will be found fully equal to the finest slate imported from the States, and what is better, there is an abundance of it. The line of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway runs across a portion of the bed. There are other beds of slate rock which no doubt will come into use by and by. I will mention one on the Hastings Road, about one mile south of Livingstone's, which shows a fine face as you pass the curve in the road.

I trust the day is not far distant when we will supply the wants of our own country, not only with slate, but marble, of which there is abundance, and not have to send our money to the States for slate or tombstones, and in saving the money at home on these two articles so much needed, we will add two links more to the chain of our national prosperity.

Yours, &c., &c.,

Monthly Report of the Woman's Christian Association.

Owing to the scarcity of matter to be reported, there was no report made in June. We therefore combine the two past months, and give their work, and expenditure together.

The Jail and Magdalen Committees, of course, have had no respite from their labors, which have been in some cases rewarded by success, though in all, surrounded by many difficulties and disagreeables. There have been seven (7) families relieved (all of whom have had illness in their houses) at the expenditure of $14.50, and clothing from the Home.

The Supply Committee have expended $50 during the two months. The furnishing Committee $7.48; tinsmith, $5.15; printing, $2 25, making with the matron's salary and rent a total of $100.38, for the months of June and July.

At the Home all has been going on pleasantly. We have had two transient inmates, but at the present time we number as we did in our last report, namely, ten two men, six women and two children. There has been an unavoidable delay about the new Home, owing to the impossibility of Mr. Langmuir's presence in town; so soon as he can come here, we hope to make arrangement to begin work at once. Meantime we have been trying in many ways, to raise money for the Building Fund, and would beg to keep so good an object before the minds of all our kind friends and well wishers.

The following gifts have been received, and we acknowledge them with thanks:—Mrs. Robert Read, bag of potatoes; Mrs. Lloyd, clothing; Mrs. Holden, clothing; Mrs. J. J. B. Flint, strawberries; John Aris, vegetables every market day; A friend, bouquet each week; Crothers, cake; Mrs. Hanwell, texts; Miss Nulty, one quart milk each day; a Friend, hats for the boys at the Home and 75 cents; Miss Alport, clothing; Mrs. Hanwell, fruit; Miss L. Yeomans, boots and clothing; Mrs. C. Wilkie, clothing; Mrs. N. Amelisburgh Correspondence

The barley harvest is very nearly finished. Some have commenced to thresh and the yield is very good, but the sample is not so bright as last year.

The Quarterly meeting of the Rednerville circuit was held at Rednerville on Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Scales being unable to preach, Wm. Anderson, Esq. filled his place and delivered a very interesting sermon. The Ameliasburg circuit hold their Quarterly meeting at the Union Church on Sabbath next.

Some of the factories through the township have contracted their cheese for the season. Sprague contracted for 10½cts, and Bay Side 10½ for August and 11 for Sept. and Oct.

People are getting very anxious about the ferry starting again. It is reported she will start some time this month.

The "Thistle Law" has done some good already. Some have commenced to cut them. It must be for seed, as they have been in blow some time.

MONTAGUE, Tex., Aug 4.—Deputy Sheriff Taylor attempted to arrest Martin Minnott, a noted desperado. Minnott fired, missing Taylor, who fired and killed Minnott.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Aug. 4.—There is much excitement over the shooting affray, which grew out of the seduction of a stepdaughter of S. R. Black, an old and respectable citizen, by a married man, Wm. Koehne. Black broke a cane over Koehne's head, and fired five shots; 2 balls hit Koehne, but he escaped. The officers pursued him.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Commissioner Ledue submitted yesterday to a gathering of New York tea merchants, samples of tea grown under the auspices of the department of Agriculture. The general verdict was that the fragrance of some of these samples, though not the strength, was equal to that of the best Indian teas.

Washington specials:

The Tribune says that Virginia politicians report the failure of a mass meeting called last week with the view of compromising Democratic difficulties. It caused a general abandonment of the idea that a reunion of the two factions is possible.

The Herald says the sentence of Stephen Mirzan, an American citizen, convicted of the murder of Alex. Dolan, in Egypt, has been commuted by the President to imprisonment for life. The ground of commutation was the extraordinary recital of hereditary insanity in the Mirzan family, contained in a letter from the Archbishop of Smyrna.

A policy has been decided upon by the administration in relation to the recent outrages by Spanish gunboats upon American vessels, which will compel Spain to acknowledge whether an insurrection does exist in Cuba, and if there is none, as claimed by Spain, to declare by what right war vessels of her navy exercise the right of search, conceded only in time of war. Important steps have been taken by the administration to prevent a recurrence of such complaints.

The Powhattan is now patrolling the southern Cuban coast and will be relieved on the 7th inst. by the Vandalia. This vessel after a month's service will be followed by the Alliance and the Kearsarge. If by that time cool weather has set in all the vessels of the North Atlantic squadron will cruise in Cuban waters.

A Terrible Fire.

The Upper end of the Town of Annapolis in Flames.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 3.—All the upper end of the town of Annapolis is in flames, extending from S. B. Wilson's to R. S. Hardwick's and back to Victoria Street. It is believed the fire is the work of an incendiary. The Wardens have telegraphed to Kentville for the train to bring an engine from Bridgetown.

[Annapolis, formerly called Port Royal, is a seaport town of Nova Scotia, at the mouth of the River Annapo is, a fine inlet on the Bay of Fundy, 129 miles west of Halifax. It is the most ancient settlement in this part of North America, having been founded in 1604 by DeMonts, a Frenchman. Subsequently in the time of Queen Anne, it was occupied by the British, whence the name of Annapolis or city of Anne. It was the seat of government until 1748. Annapolis boasts of one of the prettiest sites in Nova Scotia.]

Further particulars from the fire at Annapolis show that thirteen houses and stores, besides barns and out buildings were de troyed. The loss is estimated at $100,000; partly covered by insurance.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—An adjourned meeting of the Board will be held to-night, at which teachers will be appointed and other business of importance transacted.

ODD FELLOWS GREETING.—At the meeting of the City Council of Toronto a resolution was passed to the effect that on the occasion of the annual meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of I. O. O. F. in Toronto, on the 17th of September next, the Council do formally receive the Lodge and present them with an address of welcome.

YACHTING NOTES.—A race between the yachts Una and Emma, of Kingston, has been arranged for $50 a side. The yacht Mystery of Kingston (5 tons) has been sold to parties in Toronto. If properly handled she will easily beat the mosquito fleet of the western part of the lake. The Katie Gray touched at Kingston on Tuesday morning on her way down the river.

THE THOUSAND ISLANDS.—All and sundry are reminded of the excursion to the Thousand Islands, under the auspices of the Bridge Street Methodist Sunday School on Saturday next. The excursionists will have about twenty-six hours at the camp ground, where accommodation is excellent and cheap. See the advertisement.

BRENTANO'S MONTHLY.—The July number of this magazine is late in being received, but its contents are of such a nature that they lose but little in interest by keeping. Every department of sport is carefully attended to and fully chronicled, and besides there are a number of articles of a seasonable character that will amply repay persual. Published by A. Brentano, 39 Union Square, New York, at $4 per annum. Single numbers 35 cents each.

MODEL SCHOOLS.—Mr. Alex. Marling, Secretary of the Education Department, has issued the following circular:—"The first term of the County Model Schools will begin on Monday, August 30th, and end on Saturday, October 23rd. The closing examination will begin on Thursday, the 21st October, or Friday, the 22nd, at the option of the several County Boards of Examiners. (2) The second term of the Model Schools will begin on Monday, October 25th, and end on Saturday, December 18th. The closing examination will begin on Thursday, December 16, or Friday, the 17th, at the option of the several County Boards of Examiners."

A MONSTER HOTEL.—Mr. Mark Irish, of the Rossin House, Toronto, has asked the City Council to grant him a lease of several lots on the Island for 21 years, and to exempt his proposed buildings and improvements from taxation, and he guarantees to put up a monster hotel, which with grounds, &c., will cost $250,000. The hotel will have a frontage of 600 feet, and will accommodate 800 to 1,000 guests. A pavilion to accommodate 2,000 persons will be erected which will be at the disposal of Toronto citizens for picnic purposes free of charge. A ferry boat similar to those used between New York and Brooklyn, having room for 2,000 persons, will be put on the route between Toronto and the Island. In short, Mr. Irish proposes to have an hotel and surroundings, and of such magnitude, as to make Toronto a formidable rival to the famous watering places on the Atlantic coast.

The Hamilton Times has in its issue of the 2nd inst. the following complimentary remarks concerning this institution:

"We have no intention of puffing this favorably known educational institution. It is already too highly appreciated by the public which cheerfully supports it, to require at our hands any elaborate introduction much less profuse praise. We merely desire to point out that it is performing the work set by the Legislature for it to do. That work was to attract to its class-rooms those children in Ontario who being deaf or dumb, were a burden upon their parents as well as upon themselves by reason of incapacity to earn their own living. To lift them out of their state of helplessness and also to shed light into minds which otherwise would have remained plunged in darkness, was the object of the promoters of this excellent institution, and glad are we to be able to say that their hopes are being realized. The indefatigable superintendent is making every effort to discover and secure the attendance at the school of every person in Ontario who is a deaf mute. No pains are spared to teach the pupils visible speech, and how to read. This is, however, preliminary to a more important acquisition, viz., the ability to support themselves. Those who take interest in this beneficent work will be glad to hear that success is crowning the efforts of the staff of the institution. From Wentworth (including ten from Hamilton) seventeen afflicted boys and girls were sent last year to the school. Some of them are still there, but others have 'graduated,' as it is called. In learning a trade, the boys have the choice of becoming cabinet or shoemakers and are taught drawing; the girls are not only instructed in the best system of housekeeping, but are taught dressmaking and sewing and ornamental and fancy work with a view of becoming useful members of society. Shoemaking is a 'trade' so the superintendent says in his report, 'peculiarly adapted to deaf mutes.' Once learned, they can either work for others or for themselves, as a small capital only is required by a journeyman. Thirty-three boys who would otherwise have been unable to support themselves have learned that trade and have saved the institution some expense by making the boots and shoes required by the inmates. Some of the lads became first-class, but all of them were good workmen, and most of them are earning their own livelihood. Recently one of the boys obtained work in a Hamilton shoe factory, where he has done so well that the proprietors who, to their credit, be it said, were willing to encourage him, have just taken a second lad into their shops. Other boys from Hamilton, having learned how to be useful, are now earning their own living in other ways, which is a source of pride to themselves and relief to their families. The boys have a shoe shop in the institution but only work and hold its own. The efforts now being made to get all the untaught deaf-mutes in the province into the school have increased the total expenditure, at which few will be disposed to grumble. It was largely for the purpose of showing in this practical way the good that is being done that we alluded to the institution and its work. We are sure that everybody will join in expressing the hope that the success of the past is an earnest for the future. The institution is in good hands. The superintendent is very conscientious and thorough in the discharge of his duty, he having learned visible speech for the purpose of being master of the situation.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 4.

THE LIQUOR LAW.

William D. Fuller, Chairman of the License Commissioners for West Hastings, appeared to answer a charge of having issued one more tavern license for the City of Belleville than the law authorized, which number is alleged to be 24. Similar charges were brought against Samuel D. Farley, a License Commissioner, and Michael J. Grainger, License Inspector, and it was decided that the cases should be tried separately. The prosecutor in each case is William Sarsfield. Mr. W. J. Diamond appeared for the prosecution; Mr. Burdett for Fuller; and Messrs Dougall and Clute for the other parties.

M. J. Grainger, License Inspector, was the first witness called. He stated that he was appointed in March last. Witness was asked who reported upon the applications for licences for the city but Mr. Dougall objected, a witness might make an admission which would criminate himself. The Magistrate said the license would show for itself, as to whether it had been issued or not. The objection was overruled, and witness answered that he made the reports. Witness was asked how many licenses he had issued for the city for 1880 but this was objected to and the objection was sustained, the Magistrate stating that the proper way was to make witness produce his books. Witness said in reply to another question that he issued the tavern licenses for the city for 1880; kept a record of the licenses issued. The record was then produced, showing that twenty-five tavern licenses for the whole year, and one for six months had been issued for the city for 1880; the record was a correct one, and showed that application for a tavern license was made by S. C. Edwards on June 19th and the license was granted and issued on July 3rd; the six months license was issued on May 10th; got instructions from the License Commissioners in writing; the acting Commissioners were Messrs. W. D. Fuller, S. D. Farley and G. S. Vandewaters; is Secretary to the Commissioners; the question as to the number of licenses allowed by him to be issued for Belleville was discussed at the Board on several occasions; there was no minute made of any decision on the subject; one member of the Board came to the conclusion that the limit had been reached as to the number of tavern licences to be issued for the city, and the other two held to the contrary, believing they could issue 29 tavern licenses. The question was asked, was Wm. Sarsfield the only applicant for a tavern license who did not get it? but the question was overruled on the ground that the trial was not to determine the particular persons who did or did not get license; advised Mr. Fuller as to the number of licenses which he thought could be issued; there had been a license granted to N. Symmons for the Commercial House, previous to the grant to Edwards, but he had not taken it out; the issue to Edwards was after the other twenty-eight applications had been put in.

Cross examined.—Advised the Board that twenty-nine licenses would be issued; was advised by the Attorney General to that effect; (this latter answer was objected to and ruled out); Messrs. Farley and Fuller held that the larger number of licenses could be issued.

Re-examined.—The license issued to Edwards was the last granted; not including the six months' license; Edwards' was the twenty-fifth.

SAMUEL D. FARLEY, who was the next witness, deposed that he is one of the License Commissioners this year and also last year; Mr. Fuller was not last year a Commissioner; John Brenton and Dr. Dupuy were the other Commissioners in 1879; had this year received a letter from a member of the Government as to the number of tavern licences that would be issued for this city; had given the letter to Mr. Clute, his counsel, yesterday; had written a private letter to the Provincial Secretary asking him, by having charge of the license department; the letter given to Mr. Clute was the answer to his; did not think Mr. Fuller was shown this letter or made aware of its contents.

A good deal of discussion took place as to this letter, Mr. Dougall insisted strongly objecting to its production, but as Mr. Diamond undertook to show that Fuller had knowledge of the letter, the Magistrate held it must be produced, otherwise he would allow secondary evidence as to its contents. Mr. Dougall took the further objection that the letter might criminate the witness, and Mr. Burdett made a similar objection, communication, but both objections were overruled and the letter was finally produced.

Witness continued.—I wrote to the Provincial Secretary asking what in his opinion the limit of the Tavern licences should be for the city of Belleville, having a population of 11,1[illegible]; his reply was, twenty-four; Dougall objects. The letter is read. Some of the members of the Legislature following the result: the first 1,000 four licences; the 10,000, twenty licences. [Letter produced.] Mr. Burdett objects to the reading of the letter in evidence, not being directed to the Board or written by the Provincial Secretary.

Witness continued.—I showed the letter to Mr. Fuller immediately after its receipt, also to many others; can't say if I showed it to Mr. Vandewaters. I think 24 licenses had been issued at that time, including one to McCammon, which lapsed; we had a Board meeting after the receiving of the letter, and after I had showed the letter to Mr. Fuller; I had the letter then, and the letter was discussed; I held that 29 licences could be issued, inasmuch as I had received a letter from Mr. Mowat; both letters were discussed; did not change my opinion at all; we had power to issue 29 licenses; Mr. Fuller was at that meeting, also Mr. Grainger, when this matter was discussed.

There was no resolution passed at that meeting nor any passed this year; there was a resolution passed about four years ago limiting the number; at our first meeting when the chairman was appointed I moved a resolution defining the limits to 24, which was not seconded; my reasons for so doing were that I held it was our duty to move a resolution defining the limits every year; I alluded to the McAnnany resolution; the subject of 25 limits was discussed in 1879; there were 27 licences issued last year; I was assisted by the Board and had given the Board the number 27; I have no recollection of telling Mr. Sarsfield that Mr. Fuller would write to the Provincial Secretary; Mr. Gilbert Vandewaters would not vote for granting a license to Mr. Clark Edwards; he was not a party to the issuing of the license to Clark Edwards.

Cross examined by Mr. Burdett.—I was of opinion that 29 licenses could be issued; Mr. Fuller was of the same opinion; there were 27 in 1879, and in 1876, 26. The letter of Mr. Mowat was produced. [Mr. Diamond objects, but was overruled.] Witness continued, saying Mr. Hardy had previously given an opinion different to that in his letter referred to.

Re-examined.—Showed Sarsfield Mr. Hardy's letter, and said that some of the Board held that no more than 24 licenses could be granted; told him he was sorry that he could not grant any more.

Court here adjourned till 2:30 o'clock.

Somebody's Child

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flush of hope on his young face and an indescribable yearning to live and take an honored place in the world beside the companions of his youth. And somebody's mother is thinking of the time when that dear face will be hidden, where no ray of hope can brighten it, when her heart and her home will be left desolate—because there was no cure for consumption. Reader, if the child be your neighbor's take this comforting word to the mother's heart before it is too late. Tell her that consumption is curable, that men are living to-day, sound, robust men, whom the physicians pronounced incurable at the age of twenty-five because one lung had been almost destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most efficient alterative for separating the scrofulous matter from the blood and lungs, and imparting strength to the system. It has cured hundreds of consumptives.

AFGHAN AFFAIRS.

LONDON, Aug. 3.

In the Commons this evening Lord Hartington announced that the British agent at Quettah telegraphs, under date of the 2nd inst., that it is said Ayoob Khan has marched to Mir Kabeir, and detailed a force for an attack on Chaman Chokl.

In the House of Lords Earl Granville announced that the Viceroy of India had telegraphed that a powerful force, comprising all arms of the service, under the command of General Roberts, has been ordered to march to Candahar.

In the Commons Lord Hartington stated that some Afghan cavalry are supposed to be moving in the direction of Kakoan, for the purpose of intercepting the supplies to Candahar. General Stewart returned to Cabul from the camp at Kalobajai. Mr. Griffin, the British representative, has had several interviews with the Ameer, with whom are the principal Ghilzai chiefs and representatives from Maidan, Logar, Khoiafan, and other districts.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The Times has the following from Candahar:—Aug. 2nd, by Indo-European Telegraph Co. via Teheran.—On the morning of July 27th General Burrows engaged Ayoob Khan's force of 12,000 men and twenty guns fifty miles beyond Candahar. After four hours severe fighting General Burrows was repulsed and forced to retreat to Candahar. The British loss was twenty officers, 400 Europeans, and 800 natives killed and missing, most of the losses occurring in his retreat. Three horse artillery guns were abandoned. Preparations are making for a siege in Candahar.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The Scotsman's London correspondent believes that the Government is considering the advisability of appointing Sir Garnet Wolseley Commander-in Chief in India.

Reuter's Simla despatch puts the strength of General Roberts' force for the relief of Candahar at 10,000 men.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Gladstone passed a good night. The lung congestion has ceased; he is now free from fever.

CANDAHAR.—Gen. Roberts' force for Candahar starts on Sunday. It includes 3 British infantry regiments and one of cavalry.

BOMBAY, Aug. 4.—Reinforcements are now being forwarded. A new brigade formed in Bengal, which consists of a regiment of British infantry and two regiments of natives, has been sent from Bombay to southern Afghanistan.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—Negotiations between the Russian Government and Chinese ambassador have been opened. The Russian press express the hope that they may be successful.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Of 35 officers of Burrows' force, 27 were killed, or are missing, 8 were wounded and escaped, and 12 arrived at Candahar unhurt. This leaves 12 unaccounted for, and it may, therefore, be presumed that though nominally attached to Burrows' brigade, they did not accompany him.

A Bombay correspondent telegraphs the retirement of the British forces from Cabu will follow Roberts departure for Candahar, as it is not considered expedient to prolong the occupation in the face of heavy expenditure and the possibility of fresh complications.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—At noon to-day Tanner entered on the 38th day of his fast. His condition is about the same as yesterday.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, moderate winds, fine warmer weather possibly light showers in some localities.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

And, unfortunately for Mackoull, his knowledge extended a long way. Under the blandly persuasive questioning of Henry Cockburn, the Glasgow business was 'blown,' as such a disclosure as he made is termed among 'professionals.' Scoltcock blurted out everything, from the famous meeting in the public house convened by Mackoull—consisting of that worthy, Scoltcock himself, and Huffey White and Harry French—when Jim proposed the plan he had concocted to rob the Glasgow bank, relating minutely all the proceedings of the process, the making of the keys, the sending of them, their being sent back for alteration, the receiving them again after the robbery was committed, and finally the return of the three burglars to London with the booty, at which point the evidence of the other witnesses came into supplement and illustrated the highly luminous testimony of the locksmith.

Mackoull stood listening to the damning evidence with a ghastly grin. His jaunty air was gone now—his offensive bravado and insolent assurance, and bitterly did he repent having tempted his fate by instituting proceedings for the recovery of the bills.

When Scoltcock left the witness box he required to pass close to where Mackoull stood.

'Couldn't help it Jim,' returned the locksmith. 'When they got me here I was bound to tell all.'

'You are hanged me then,' were the next words that reached the prisoner's ears, and he had but time to turn a frightened look on the speaker when the sneer pulled him away by the arm to make room for the next witness.

The evidence was now nearly finished, and as Mackoull had no witnesses on his side, the advocates began their speeches to the jury. Then the judge summed up, and the jury retired to consider their verdict.

Most people in the Court thought that an unnecessary proceeding. That the case had been made out against Mackoull there was no doubt whatever, and it did not seem as many time for consideration was required. The audacious and desperate character of the man was now fully revealed, and as he stood there leaning against the wall, pale as ashes, striving in vain to maintain an air of fixed indifference, many eyes were turned upon him in fearful repulsion.

He and they had not long to wait. In twenty minutes the jury returned, and the expected verdict was given for the bank. Mackoull was among the first to rush out, and in the lobby he was arrested by a police officer. He well knew what that meant. Another trial was before him, and this time on a criminal indictment, and as the same witnesses would be forthcoming, his condemnation was certain.

Mrs. Reynolds flew through the throng, and with a shriek threw herself into his arms, wildly embraced him. Three other officers arrived, and a carriage having been procured, they departed with him to prison.

Philip and Charles had made their exit from the Court by another door, and hurried away to carry the news to India Street. The day had been passed there by Lydia, Mary, and Mr. Woodford in a state of feverish excitement and impatience, and seldom has a day appeared so long to aching human hearts.

At length those they looked for returned and brought the intelligence that Mackoull had lost. The question now anxiously asked was whether Arabella Joyce would keep her word, and come to give the information, for had Charles, Philip and Lydia were nervously dubious, but Charles and Mary confidently hoped for her appearance.

They were right. In half an hour the door-bell rang with a sound which sent a thrill to every heart, and the next minute Arabella came into the room.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

ARABELLA JOYCE MAKES A REVELATION WHICH AMAZES EVERYBODY, INCLUDING HERSELF—JOY AND RAPTURE AMONG THE FRIENDS IN INDIA STREET—FAREWELL TO EDINBURGH.

Arabella Joyce was pale, but tried proudly and scornfully to suppress the suffering of her heart, caused by the result of the trial. The eyes that were now bent upon her were the eyes of those whose pity or compassion she could not brook, and she therefore would not show she needed it. There was an old hatred, a bitterness against them which burned still, having been fed at first by the fiercest and most enduring passions in a woman's nature—passions which time itself can scarcely extinguish.

They partially divined the galling feelings in her bosom, and could find no words in which to address her, though they were feverishly impatient for the opening of her lips and the delivery of her tidings.

'You see I have not failed you, though the bargain has by no means fruitless,' she said, in a harsh, jarring tone. 'But you have kept your part of it, and I will scorn to break mine.'

'Oh, Arabella, we are so glad to see you,' faltered Lydia.

'Are you,' sneered the woman, with a bitter smile, and a glance of hatred. 'You are glad to see me, Lydia Crawford, not for the sake of old friendship, but because you expect me to give you tidings of your lost child.'

'In pity—in mercy tell me what you know of her!' gasped Lydia, clasping her hands and speaking in breathless eagerness.

'All in good time,' rejoined Arabella, cruelly and heartlessly. 'Something else requires to be spoken of first.'

'What else!' asked Lydia and her husband in a breath.

'The past with its wrongs,' was the stern and fierce reply. And as she uttered the words her dark, eyes blazed with a light so baleful that Lydia shuddered and was struck dumb.

'Not wrongs, Arabella,' said Philip with gentle sadness. 'An unfortunate mistake on your part I can understand there was, but I solemnly assure you I never dreamed of doing you injury.'

'No, I was too humble and obscure—too much beneath you to obtain your notice. If you did deign to show me attentions, it was preposterous in me to imagine they meant anything serious. I was nothing more than Lydia Crawford's poor companion, and it was monstrous to dare to set myself up as her rival.'

'Tis vain to reason with you,' said Philip 'Your mistaken idea seems rooted and inveterate.'

'As fooled and inveterate as my hatred has been bitter and quenchless,' she fiercely rejoined. 'Say as you will, I was slighted and the angry passions of a slighted woman were roused in my bosom. The heart you have stolen and despised had its love turned to undying hostility. Such hostility is fathomless and illimitable and you have found it so.'

'Oh heaven!' gasped Lydia. 'You—you were connected with the disappearance of our child.'

'Is this so?' demanded Philip, with more of sternness than he had yet shown.

'On the day that you and Lydia Crawford were married, I was in the church looking on, and I swore to have revenge on you both. You had made me suffer, and I was resolved to make you suffer too. I watched and waited my opportunity for two years. Then I found it.'

'Yes, wretched woman, you found it, by depriving us of our child, our pretty little innocent. In God's name tell us the truth at once—tell us what became of her, and what and where she is now, and keep us no longer on the rack.'

'Have I not told you that my hatred is undying!' replied Arabella, 'and is it the province of undying hatred to take its object from the rack!'

'You have come but to mock us, then, and not to fulfil your promise.'

'Yes, Philip Ravensworth,' she burst out with fiendish malignity, 'I have come to fulfil my promise. I am ready to do it—eager to do it, because, instead of bringing you joy, it will gratify my hatred the more to see you suffer. I promised to tell you what became of your child; but nothing more.'

TO BE CONTINUED.

Perjudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had pooh'ed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe in the harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills, which cure as well, and more useful than Pallistation of the Heart, Indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, etc. Out of the 50,000 doses bottles sold last year, not a single failure is reported, but thousands of complimentary letters received from Druggists of wonderful cures. Three doses will relieve any case Try it. Sample bottles 10cts.; regular size 75cts

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine fact, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scorr's EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

December 19th, 1878.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it a spitting of blood, and under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood very freely. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent expectorations appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 113 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue the use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and bought four more. It cures and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. Nothing would stay on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours, R. W. HAMILTON, M. D.

GENERAL DEBILITY

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James L. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every part of the United States where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

JAMES L. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to speak definitely of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt but that I am on the road to a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that I had a bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it a fair trial I would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh and is as quite partial and the action of the heart is also terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. W. WARMOLDER.

Northport, Wis., May 3, 1879.

JAMES L. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR,—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with full confidence. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a perfect cure of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of disorders, but my difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine, without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was induced to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

CHRONIC LARYNGITIS.

The premonitory symptoms of this disease begin with those of an ordinary cold, only that it is always attended with more or less hoarseness. It is scarcely ever an original disease separate and distinct in itself, but is usually an extension of Catarrh, this disease passing down the posterior naries and pharynx until it reaches the more sensitive mucus membrane of the larynx, and finally confining itself there until it extends to the lungs. When it is caused by Catarrh the symptoms are more of a tickling in the throat, and the patient frequently complains of something "sticking in the throat," which causes a continual rasping cough to clear the throat and windpipe. The voice is unnatural at first, being rough, while in the last stages it becomes weak and indistinct, and a constant sense of tightness and often difficulty in breathing.

The above is the simplest form of the disease, and can be readily removed in a few weeks, Although in all cases it must be treated by the direct application of medicated inhalations (not *steam*ization), for if we would properly treat a disease of this nature we must reach all the surrounding parts so as not to drive the disease beyond the point of attack, and herein lies the great danger of using caustics to the delicate organs, as is the custom of many physicians, for if we burn or dry up the inflamed mucus surface of the larynx and only reach these parts we are almost sure to drive the disease further down into the bronchical tubes and lungs, but by the system of medicated inhalations the mucus surface of the larynx, bronchial tubes and air cells of the lungs are all reached, hence the impossibility of driving the disease to more remote points. Being treated in this manner there are few cases of Chronic Laryngitis but what are readily curable.

The causes which produce this disease are various. It arises in clergymen, and is very prevalent in school teachers and many others, from too violent use of the voice, dust, the poisonous exudations from decayed vegetable matter, and living in damp houses. It is more often a sequel to ordinary sore throat, and inflamation extending down into the larynx by reason of the continuity of the mucous membrane.

But whatever may be its cause, it is always a serious disease. When it becomes chronic it threatens a complete destruction of the voice, and rarely ends until the lungs become involved, and then every fresh cold or change in the weather continues to feed the disease and increases its severity, complications, and hold upon the sufferer.

This disease is often a sequel of consumption which is aggravated by the poisoned mucus which is being constantly expectorated from the lungs. When this is the case the disease is of a most distressing character. There is more or less ulceration in the vicinity of the vocal chords in these patients, and the expectoration is of a mucus and cellular membranes, and often attack the ligaments and cartilages themselves. When this is the case all that can only hope to effect a complete cure by those means which will remove the cause, "viz.," the consumption of the lungs. And in order to do this there is only one system of practice capable of approximating face to face with this foul destroyer. I refer to Medicated Inhalations, and this system is usually successful after all other means have been tried without avail. If on account of distance, constitutional debility or exposure of travel, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and, when fully answered and returned to the Institute, remedies can be sent per express (duty free,) together with full directions for use. LONDON LETTER.

(Regular Correspondence.)

LONDON, July 17th, 1880.

Frequent showers of rain fallen throughout the past week, while the intervals of fine days have been for the most part unattended by that warmth and sunshine upon which the farmer relies for the maturation of the crops. Great anxiety is beginning to be expressed by farmers as to the effects of such weather during the critical blooming period. The supplies of home grown wheat have been small, and sales have been far more readily effected than of late, at a frequent advance of 1s. per qr. So little corn now remains in farmers' hands that holders have felt themselves justified in declining to sell their produce except at higher prices, which will be paid with less reluctance by millers so long as the July sun is obscured. It is quite evident that both in England and France stocks of native wheat are practically exhausted, and everything like an abundant supply cannot be looked for until after harvest. This being the case, the consumptive needs of both countries have had to be met out of foreign produce, for which a fair trade for the time of the year has been experienced at advancing prices. At the moment the situation is decidedly critical, for stocks of wheat have been worked down to such a dangerously small compass by the disinclination of buyers to operate for forward delivery, which has thrown the full weight of consumption on granary stocks, that it needs but a week's settled dry weather to bring about such a state of activity as will materially change the present course of value. The Continental demand has shown no signs of abatement as yet, the exports of the past month having amounted to nearly 36,000 qrs. At the same time the imports have been decidedly small, only 30,000 qrs. of foreign wheat having been reported up to Friday last. Australia and India have been the chief sources of supply, and as the wheat from these countries consists almost entirely of white descriptions, red wheat, whether American or Russian, has been held with extreme firmness. The Mark Lane Express has published a long list of reports on the prospects of the hay and corn harvests in different parts of Yorkshire. In nearly all a heavy crop of hay is reported, Barley and oats are also well spoken of. Wheat in many districts is said to be thin, in others to be a good crop. Almost every report mentions the need of more sunshine to perfect the corn, and there is no doubt as to the urgent necessity for warm, sunny weather. If this cold, wet period should be continued much longer, the future prospects of a fair harvest will be to a very serious extent blighted. The fact is that over a large portion of the country the prospects of farmers have been getting worse and worse as the season has advanced. At the present time the chance of an average yield of crops generally seems to be very small. In many parts of the country, no doubt, there will be a good crop of corn if we get suitable weather up to harvest, though not otherwise; but in other districts there are not enough "ends" for the crops to yield a decent return, however prolific in proportion to straw they may be.

THE IRON INDUSTRY.

(From the Industrial World.)

In the whole range of manufacturing industries there is none that have attained to so great an importance as that of the manufacture of iron in its multiform branches, none that exercise so great an influence on human economy, and to the degree to which it has been developed by any nation must be taken as the measure of that nation's success and standing in the industrial world. On this common foundation is built all the general manufacturing progress and prosperity of the leading nations, England, France and the United States, and we may go beyond and say that the people who do not produce their own iron from the raw material may never expect to reach a pre-eminent position in the great world of human activity. It is to the iron industries which she has possessed for making abundance of iron from the raw material, Great Britain, notwithstanding the plenteousness of capital and the influence of cheap labor, could never have achieved her manufacturing supremacy, for on the production of iron in abundance has mainly depended the wonderful expansion of her manufacturing industries which the world has witnessed within the course of the present century. And if we look at the general field of manufacturing industry we shall at once see how important the industries in iron are to the whole. The production of iron, from which, and which alone by millions of tons annually, has so cheapened the production of engines, boilers and machinery generally as to have had a wonderful effect in expanding the staple industries, and so of enlarging the general field of labor. Besides that, it has called into existence a multitude of minor branches of industry, and has been a powerful employment for the profit of capital. Indeed, it would be difficult to say what branch of industry in the British Isles has not owed its development mainly to the influence of abundant iron from the raw material. Other nations have come to understand the vast importance which the making of iron is in the scale of British industry, and hence, for some years past, we have seen that the United States, France, Germany and Belgium have been assiduously working to develop their native resources of iron ore, and to make themselves independent of foreign resources of iron. And there can be no doubt whatever that the marvellous progress which has been made in various branches of manufacture by the United States, say in the last twenty years, had been mainly due to the enormous strides which has been made in the manufacture of iron from native raw material. Despite the well-known ingenuity of the American people in mechanical devices, or their tireless activity and industry, they could have made only very small headway against the capital, experience and cheap labor of Great Britain had they not built their later enterprises on the foundation of iron making. And in whatever country it is desired to establish manufactures, or to advance those already existing, we may depend upon it that the best and surest foundation for them will be that upon which Great Britain has so successfully built, and upon which the industries of the United are so largely expanding. In the dawn of newly-awakened enterprise in Canada, it would be well to lay these important examples in view and follow in the course which only can lead to any considerable measure of manufacturing success. Although young in the race of manufacturing distinction, Canada possesses such ample natural resources and so many facilities for the manufacture of iron, that we have every confidence in believing properly-directed effort and reasonable encouragement by the State would result in the permanent establishment of the important industry of iron-making. The natural resources which Canada possesses are both extensive and valuable, and may fairly command the most serious attention and best consideration of the capitalist as well as the political economist. There cannot be the slightest ground for doubt either as the extent or value of these deposits, for there is not a province or territory within the bounds of the Dominion that does not possess its deposits of iron ore of greater or lesser extent, some of which are certainly among the most valuable wealth resources of any country. The general diffusion of these resources throughout all parts of the Dominion unmistakably points them out as an important element in the future industrial interests of the country. Now, the development of these vast and valuable natural resources is one which affects the farmer who wants home markets, as well as the manufacturer, who is in need of a larger field for his productions; and it affects the laboring man, who stands in need of greater and more certain sources of employment, as well as the capitalist, who may be seeking for new sources of employment for his capital. Indeed, the whole of the future interests of the Dominion, its general prosperity, its progress in population and other matters, is intimately bound up in the question of the development of the iron resources of the country and the manufactures which would naturally spring therefrom. It is, in fact, a question for the farmer, the mechanic, the capitalist and the statesman, and everyone who is concerned for the true welfare and industrial progress of the country.

IRELAND.

In one recent case of agrarian outrage in the County of Mayo, the victim an old man was first searched, then stripped, and finally combed over with an iron comb.

The porter trade, the largest business in Ireland, is suffering. The quantity exported to England is ten per cent. more than in 1879. More than half comes from Guiness.

The Government has given to the Limerick Army Clothing Factory and order for the immediate manufacture of forty thousand garments for the British Army, and a still larger order is expected.

Information has reached Loughres, Galway Co., July 9, that a large case of rifles was seized at Worlcus station, a few miles from Loughres. They were addressed to a local landlord, who is said had no knowledge of them. No arrests are reported.

A member of the Duchess of Marlborough's Irish Relief Committee says that there is in Ireland a class of persons who have traded on the sufferings of their fellow countrymen, and that by them any signs of returning prosperity are looked upon with dismay.

Mr. Fox reported at a meeting of the Mansion House Committee, July 3d, that he had found the people in the fever stricken districts of Mayo in a dreadful condition. He also stated that the opinion of the medical men was that though the fever was typhus, it had been induced by want of sufficient food.

An indignation meeting was held at Knockmagree, Co. Kerry, July 4, to protest against the evictions of several families on the property of a protestant clergyman residing near Killarney. Resolutions condemning the eyctions in strong terms were adopted, and a branch of the Land League was established. The Land League has provided food and clothing for the evicted families.

A Cork landlord lately met his tenants at an out of the way place called Coachford. They demanded time and abatement. "Divel an abatement," he said. "Now, I'll tell you what it is. I'll allow you a month, and any mother's son among you who doesn't pay up then shall have a bullet through the brain." He had been landlord shooting long enough; its our time now." Mr. W. is a determined fellow and a crack shot.

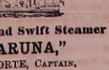

Since June 1,107 officers of the Irish constabulary and 2,626 men have been employed in the Western Galway in protecting process servers, and 16 officers and 2,626 men in carrying out actual evictions. During the last three months 87 processes of eviction have been served on tenants residing in the remotest and poorest district of the country. Many processes could only be served when a force of 150 constables was at hand.

Losses at Sea.

According to some tables published in an Austrian nautical periodical, the total number of sea-going vessels of all nations lost last year was greater than in 1878, owing presumably to the exceptionally unfavorable weather which prevailed in the early part of 1879. Including 97 sailing ships and 12 steamers reported "missing," of which no vestige has been found, 1,344 sailing ships and 125 steam vessels were lost in 1879, while in 1878 the total losses amounted to only 1,362 sailing ships and 130 steam vessels. Classified according to the nations to which they were sailing, it appears that 504 of the lost sailing ships and 79 of the steamers belonged to England; 218 sailing and 8 steam vessels to America; 124 sailing and 3 steam ships to France; 117 sailing ships and 5 steamers to Germany; 112 sailing vessels and 1 steamer to Norway; 64 sailing vessels and 1 steamer (?); sailing vessels and 2 steamers to Holland; 54 sailing ships to Sweden; 44 to Denmark; 40 to Greece; 28 sailing vessels and 1 steamer to Austria; 18 sailing vessels and 1 steamer to Portugal; 17 sailing and no less than 8 steam vessels to Spain; 12 sailing vessels to Russia; 5 to Nicaragua; 3 to Chili, and 1 each to Bolivia, Belgium, Liberia, Guatemala, New Grenada, and Costa Rica.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, AUGUST 5.

The Pacific Railway.

With characteristic assurance, the Toronto organ of the Opposition professes to know all about the arrangements which the Government propose to enter into with the Company of English capitalists whose offer to build the Pacific Railway on certain conditions has caused the visit of the Premier and other members of the Dominion Cabinet to proceed to London. The conditions in question have never been stated to the public in any other than a general way—that is, that they embrace a grant of land and of money to the capitalists who have taken the matter up; but as we have said, the Opposition organ writes as if it were fully informed as to details, and as a matter of course opposes the whole scheme, holding that the road should be built by the Government and pushed forward with the utmost possible despatch, across the fertile plains until the Rocky Mountains have been reached. The great objection which the Globe has to the construction of the road by a Company is that they will hold the lands at an extravagant price, and so greatly prevent the settlement of the country for years to come.

An objection for which there is less substantial ground could not have been conceived. Supposing, for the sake of argument, that the quantity of land to be granted to the builders of the railway is fifty millions of acres, as some of our Reform contemporaries have confidently stated—that would be less than one-third of the area of the fertile belt which extends from the borders of Manitoba to the Rocky Mountains, which Professor Macoun computes at from one hundred and fifty millions to one hundred and sixty millions of acres in all. How, in the face of competition with the Government lands, any body of capitalists could "lock up" the railway land reserve, it would need a clearer demonstration than the opponents of the scheme have as yet furnished to make apparent. But the Company would also have to compete with the lands of Dakota and Minnesota, so that such a programme as the Globe lays out for them is simply absurd. It would be still more so, provided the Company undertake to equip and operate the road. In such case their main object would be to so develope the traffic over the road as to make it a paying speculation, so the more rapidly they could secure the settlement of the country, the sooner would they secure a return for their heavy investments. The example of similarly endowed railway corporations in the United States would of necessity have to be followed; hence their lands would be extensively advertised, regardless of the large expense necessary in doing so, and means more thoroughly effectual than any Government confronted by an opposition so obstructive as that led by Mr. Blake, would soon induce an influx of population much greater than could be otherwise obtained.

The objectors to this grand project, which it is to be hoped will soon be realized, are happily few in number, as the people regard the action of the Government with favor and note with satisfaction the industry of the Premier and colleagues in endeavoring to carry it to a successful issue. It is better in all respects that a portion of the public domain which cannot possibly be made productive for years to come should be sold, even at a comparatively low valuation, than that the public debt should be heavily increased and large sums of money sent out of the country as interest. It is better that the revenue should be released from such a charge as the Pacific Railway entails, and that a chance should be given for the construction of other public works, for the lack of which the trade of the country is suffering serious disadvantage. These we believe are the principal conclusions which actuate the Government in the matter, and in these views the people of the country, almost irrespective of party, cordially coincide.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.—A fearful accident occurred at the Nut Works on Fredrick Street, Toronto, on the 9th inst. An employee named Samuel Nichols, while attending a machine, had his right arm caught in a pair of rollers. His arm was drawn into the shoulder and torn from its socket, and cast upon the floor, at the other side of the machinery. The injured man was not expected to live.

Political Notes.

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Writing of the Government project of transferring the building of the Pacific Railway to a Company of English capitalists, the Ottawa organ of the opposition says:—"It may appear to some people a very fine thing to get a company of capitalists to undertake the work; no doubt it is the best way that could be devised." Then why, in the name of common sense, should the Free Press oppose with nonsensical objections a scheme the "best that could be devised. The explanation lies doubtless in the fact that the project is likely to be carried out under a Conservative Government. When Mr. Mackenzie proposed a similar scheme the Free Press warmly supported it. Surely opposition for the sake of opposition was never more shamelessly exemplified.

THE BALANCE OF TRADE.

No more satisfactory evidence of the beneficial effects of the present tariff could be given than the following statement, which is made by the Halifax Herald from official returns:—"For the fiscal year ending June 1879, our imports were $81,964,427, and our exports $71,491,255, making our total volume of trade $153,400,000, with a balance against us of $10,473,000. For the fiscal year just ended, our imports, have been $72,364,249, and our exports $85,274,973, making the total volume of trade $157,639,000, with a balance in our favor of no less than $12,810,000. Thus, for the first time in our history, we have the balance of trade in our favor; but it has certainly been turned in a most satisfactory manner. Instead of buying $10,473,000 worth more than we sold, we have this year sold nearly $13,000,000 worth more than we bought, making a change of over $23,000,000 in our account with the outside world in one year."

—A baggageman on the G. T. R. named Johnson, of Richmond, Que., eloped with Conductor Wiswell's wife and carried off the latter's two children, leaving his own wife and two children behind.

—The huckleberry marsh in Ellice, Perth, is just now a centre of attraction, and bushels of fruit are being taken away from it daily. The Stratford and Huron railway during last week took fully 1,000 berry pickers thither and the supply is to all appearances as plentiful as ever, and likely to last a week or two yet.

—Louis Deframond, who is supposed to have murdered a young girl in San Francisco, in 1876, and fled to Canada, and who has been the terror of the district in which he lived, was arrested near Montreal on the 2nd inst., and will be extradited. He had been hiding in the woods for the past six weeks, but came to his shanty on Monday, and was arrested while asleep.

BARONESS BURDETT COUTTS' MARRIAGE.—The London World of the 3rd inst. says: "A marriage has been arranged between the Baroness Coutts and Mr. Ashmead Bartlett, who has acted as her secretary and almoner for some time past. The recent statement to the same effect which was contradicted, was made by the intended bridegroom. The gentleman is a brother of Mr. Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett, member of Parliament. By becoming Mr. Bartlett's wife the Baroness will lose a very large portion of her income, to the extent, it is said, of over £100,000 yearly. This is in accordance with the will of Harriet Mellon, Duchess of St. Albans, who bequeathed her vast property to Miss Angela, now Baroness Burdett Coutts, providing that if she married an alien or naturalized subject, her interest in Coutts' bank and other properties shall cease. Mr. Bartlett is an American who was naturalized a short time since. It is asserted that remonstrances against the marriage engagement from the best friends of the Baroness and from the highest quarters, failed to have any effect, and that the marriage will shortly take place. The Baroness is aged sixty-six, while Mr. Bartlett has not yet completed his twenty-ninth year."

THE COMPENSATION BILL.—The Compensation for Disturbance in Ireland Bill was defeated in the House of Lords yesterday by a majority of over 200. The Government foe the defeat very much, though it was expected the Lords would reject the measure.

Board of Education.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 4.

The Board met this evening pursuant to adjournment.

PRESENT—Messrs. W. A Shepard, Chairman; Burke, Hayne, McGinnis, Northcott, Van Allan, Richards, Wensley, Tennant, Wills, Newbery, I. Diamond, Tracy, Hudson, Macoun, Willson and Docter.

An application for the position vacated by Miss Templeton was read from Miss E. Clark.

From Miss Martin, for reappointment as teacher; from Miss Amelia Worth for a position as teacher.

Mr. Wensley in the absence of Mr. Johnson presented the report of the Finance Committee, recommending that in case teachers leave their schools unless on account of sickness, on legal holidays, or by permission, they shall be charged with the lost time, also that stationery and pens be purchased wholesale, in order to effect a saving, and recommending that salaries and accounts be paid amounting to $1,116.

Mr. Newbery presented the report of the Committee on School Management, as follows:—

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education.

2nd. Your Committee have recommended Miss Urquhart, Miss Brownlee, Miss Chambers, Miss Macinnes and Miss Walton to their positions assigned them, providing they obtain the necessary qualification, from the fact it was reported to your Committee that they were doing good and efficient work.

3rd. Your Committee would recommend that the suggestions made by Mr. Swayze, Writing Master to the Public Schools, be carried out.

1st. That the black boards be ruled with six permanent white lines two inches apart, that he may be enabled to illustrate the relative heights of letters without being obliged to rule the board every time he uses it.

2nd. Your Committee recommend the procuring of Spencerian charts of both small and capital letters from Messrs. Irvine, Blakeman, Taylor and Co., 140 Grand St., New York City.

3rd. Your Committee would suggest that this Board pass a resolution, said resolution to be forwarded by the Secretary-Treasurer to all of the teachers, that the hour set apart for writing in each division must not in future be interfered with.

Signed in behalf of the Committee,

R. NEWBERY,
Chairman.

Mr. Newbery also stated that it was intended to incorporate a recommendation in the report for the appointment of a Truant officer, as the attendance was not so regular as it should be.

The Inspector reported on the recent examinations.—Referred to Committee on School Management.

Mr. Wills introduced a By-law for the collection of taxes in that portion of Thurlow annexed to the city for School purposes.

Also a report from the Building Committee asking a further appropriation for outbuildings for Pinnacle Street School.

The Board went into committee on Reports —Mr. Wills in the chair.

Objection was taken to the clause of the report of the Finance Committee regarding deductions from trustees' salaries, as being within the province of the Committee on School Management. Mr. Newbery raised the point of order.

The Chairman ruled that as the clause affected the fiscal concerns of the Board, it was competent for the Finance Committee to make such a recommendation. Perhaps, however, it would more properly emanate from the Committee on Organization.

The clause was carried by 9 to 8, and the rest of the report was adopted without discussion.

Mr. Glass came in.

The report of the Committee on School Management was then taken up

Mr. McGinnis moved, seconded by Dr. Tracy, that Miss Northcott's salary be $350, instead of $325, giving as a ground for the increase that she had taught for some 5 or 6 years.

Messrs. Diamond and Wensley supported the motion.

The motion was carried after some discussion.

Dr. Tracy moved for an increase of $25 to Miss Clark, who, it was shown, had received a similar increase last year.

Mr. Hudson seconded the motion, which was put and carried by 11 to 6.

Mr. Macoun moved to increase Miss Jack's salary from $425 to $450, on the ground that her services as head teacher of Octavia Street School are more onerous than those of other female teachers.

Mr. VanAllan seconded the motion.

Mr. Tennant opposed the motion and all increase of salaries, holding that the female teachers are the best paid persons in town.

Mr. Wensley believed in paying by results, and Miss Jack was a most successful teacher, he supported the proposed increase of her salary.

The motion was carried by 11 to 6.

When the re-appointment of Miss Bollard came up, Mr. Wensley expressed surprise that the Committee should have recommended her reappointment, and had read reports from the Inspector for July 1879 and 1880, both of which are unfavorable to the work done by that lady. He spoke at length in opposition to the appointment, and asked if, in the face of these reports, would they vote to give $300 to a teacher for doing nothing?

In answer to Dr. Tracy the Inspector said the attendance in Miss Bollard's division is very irregular. Those who attended regularly did fairly.

Mr. Wensley said Mr. Gardner had taken a class of Miss Bollard's to help her along. The reports from the other divisions of the same school were favorable, despite equally irregular attendance.

Dr. Tracy contended that when thus relieved of part of her pupils, she was still left with 45.

Mr. Newbery stated that he frequently visited the school and thought Miss Bollard's mode and manner of imparting instruction were excellent, and order good, but the attendance was very irregular, as shown by the roll. Mr. Gardner, the head master, spoke of her as being a very painstaking and per.evering teacher.

After further lengthy discussion the clause was carried.

Messrs. Newbery and Diamond urged the appointment of a Truant Officer.

No action was taken, and Mr. Newbery gave notice of a motion on the subject.

The By-law for the collection of taxes in Thurlow was laid over till the next meeting.

Committee rose and reported.

Mr. Newbery moved to refer the report back for the referring of the clause in the Finance Committee's report in reference to teachers' salaries to the Committee on School management.

The motion was voted on as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Newbery, Diamond, Doster, Hudson, McGinnis, Tracy, Van Allan, Willson.—8.

NAYS—Messrs. Burke, Hayne, Macoun, Northcott, Richards, Tennant, Wills, Wensley.—8.

Mr. Glass was excused from voting, and the Chairman voted with the nays.

The report was then adopted.

On a motion to adopt the report of the Committee on School Organization,

Mr. Wills moved, seconded by Mr. Tennant, to have all increase of salaries struck out. He said he considered that we had been paying good round salaries. Mr. McKeown was given an increase of $50, but was not doing work to earn it. Miss Urquhart had a new division and an increase, but he should like to see how she succeeded in her new position before giving her an increase of salary.

The amendment was lost on the following vote:

NAYS—Messrs. Diamond, Docter, Hudson, Macoun, McGinnis, Newbery, Northcott, Tracy, Van Allan, Wilson.—10.

Mr. Hudson moved, seconded by Mr. Wensley, to have the name of Miss Bollard struck out. He felt that after hearing the report of the Inspector he must oppose her appointment.

The motion was lost on the following vote:

NAYS.—Messrs. Diamond, Docter, Hayne, Macoun, McGinnis, Newbery, Northcott, Richards, Tennant, Tracy, VanAllan, Wilson—11.

The report was adopted.

Mr. Macoun and Mr. Hayne wished a report as to the Coleman Ward School site.

Mr. Wills said it would be necessary, if the matter was gone on with, to have an additional amount of money voted. Why did not those who were pressing the matter move for an additional grant sufficient to buy the land?

A motion was passed authorizing the making of a note for the payment of necessary expenses.

Mr. Wills stated in reply to Mr. Diamond, that the Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Council stated that the $1,100 for Coleman Ward School site had been spent by a former Council and he would not levy for it again. It therefore formed part of the indebtedness of the City to the Board.

Mr. Diamond gave notice of motion for the appointment of a Truant officer.

Rev. Mr. Burke thought there should be an investigation as to the financial relations of the City Council and the Board.

Mr. Diamond spoke to the same effect.

Mr. Wills said the Finance Committee of the Board have taken the matter up, and it was found that the City owe the Board over $7,000. A mandamus could be taken out to compel the Council to raise the necessary funds for the conduct of their services.

After some further talk on this subject, the Board adjourned.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

The earnings of the Chicago and North Western Railway for July show an incaease of $390,000.

A fund amounting to $4,360 for the benefit of the officers and crew of the burned steamer Seawanhaka, has been distributed. Captain Smith's share was $2,500.

The Tribune's Washington special says it is understood to be the intention of the chief of the life saving service to expend upon the lakes the entire appropriation of $20,000 made last winter for the establishment of new life saving stations.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 5.—At Tyro in Davidson County, a few nights ago Uriah Phelp ejected some negroes from his store. Anticipating further difficulty he secured the services of O. W. Chick, a young man addicted to sleep-walking. The men watched in the store half the night and then fell asleep. Subsequently Chick got up and cut off Phelps' head with an axe. Chick was arrested. He claimed that he knew nothing of the deed till some time after it was committed, Chick's habit of sleep walking and the friendly relation of the two men turned public opinion in his favor.

THE WHIPPING POST WANTED.—The Montreal Witness of the 4th says: "To-day a man who has been talked about in connection with recent misconduct by which the happiness of a family was destroyed, called at the Central Station for the clothes he had left behind him when he was ejected from the house of his victim. The Chief of Police gave them to him, and also a lecture upon the enormity of his crime, adding that he might consider himself lucky that his guilty life was not taken by the husband whose honor he had outraged. The chief wonders that the whipping post has been abolished, and suggests that it be reassciated for the benefit of such rascals as this so-called doctor. The latter is said to be fifty years old, and left the office quaking like an aspen leaf."

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer,

SIR,—Is it not inconsistent with the efforts being made to establish additional manufactories in this city that the Council is a party to the purchase of lamp posts from a firm in Philadelphia? The plea that they can be bought cheaper there won't avail, for manufacturers here have offered to supply them at the same, or lower figures. I have been wondering whether Mr. Dickson is aware of this fact.

While we should endeavor to create new industries, we should sustain those we possess now.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St. and get your old suit done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

LATE.—The western mail was half an hour late to-day.

POLICE.—There were two arrests last night and one tramp lodged in the cells.

FISHING.—Sergt. Snider and a companion had fine sport fishing yesterday after noon. They caught thirty-two fine black bass.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.—Wednesday, 18th inst., will doubtless be the civic holiday, a petition to that effect having been largely signed.

THE WEATHER.—The frosts predicted by Vennor have not visited here, but the temperature of late has been very far below the usual average at this season, and the nights and mornings have been fall-like in their coolness.

CRICKET.—The Picton and Belleville clubs will engage in a match here to-morrow, wickets to be pitched at 11 a. m. A good game is probable, as the Picton men have been playing well this season, and Belleville will muster a strong eleven.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.—Amongst the candidates for certificates at the Civil Service examinations at Toronto are Messrs. Wm. Johnson, Inspector of Weights and Measures, and J. D. Breeze, of the Inland Revenue office, both of this city.

THE IRON INDUSTRY.—A highly interesting article, copied from the Industrial World, on this important subject will be found on the first page of this day's issue. Every person should read and attentively consider the undeniably correct statements therein made.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.—Mr. Bickford and other gentlemen prominently connected with the Grand Junction Railway examined the railway bridge at Peterborough on Tuesday afternoon. This bridge was built by the Cobourg Railway Company, and by it the Grand Junction will enter the town of Peterborough.

A SUGGESTION.—Would it not be a good idea to have the return match between the Prince Edward and 49th Battalion rifle teams brought off at Picton on the civic holiday, instead of on the 20th, as arranged? The reasons in support of such a change of date are obvious, and we leave the matter in the hands of those interested.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—Last evening Jessie Liddell, one of the women lately sent to gaol for three months, attempted to commit suicide by taking morphine. By some means not known she got possession of part of a vial of the poison which had been prescribed for another prisoner, and swallowed it. Her condition being noticed, the gaol physician was sent for, who applied the necessary restoratives with beneficial effect. This morning the woman was somewhat better, though still very weak. She will recover.

SCHOOL MATTERS.—At the meeting of the Board of Education last night, teachers were appointed for the High and Public Schools. Several changes were of necessity made, and some increases of salary were granted. A regulation was adopted decreeing that hereafter teachers may not dismiss their divisions for a day or a part of a day, unless on account of illness or on permission asked and obtained from the proper authority, and that if the rule be broken, the pay for the lost time will be deducted from the teacher's salary. It was ordered that the hour set apart for writing must not be interfered with. These are wholesome regulations, and should be strictly carried out.

YACHTING NOTES.—The Oswego Palladium says: "The Grand Army of the Republic will hold their reunion at Sodus Aug. 18, 19 and 20, and on one of these days there will be a yacht race. Parties are trying to arrange for a race between the Ida of Rochester and the Zilda. The latter is anxious to meet the Rochester boat." If sufficient inducements are offered some of the Belleville, Kingston and Trenton yachts might enter.

REQUIEM MASS.—Wednesday, the 4th inst., being the anniversary of the funeral of the late Bishop O'Brien, a solemn requiem mass was sung at St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston. Some thirty priests were present, amongst whom were Vicar-General Farrelly, of Belleville; Father Mackey, Tyendinaga; Father Brophy, Tyendinaga; Father Casey, Campbellford; Father Davis, Madoc. Vicar-General Farrelly, of Belleville, preached an impressive sermon from the text, St. Matthew, xxiv. 42—"Watch ye, therefore, because ye know not when your Lord shall come."

METROPOLITAN HALL.—Mr. I. B. Graham, proprietor of this place of amusement, is now that the project for the building of a new Opera House has fallen through for this year, about to convert his hall into a comfortable and convenient temple of the muses—one such as first class companies can be induced to patronize. The scenery and stage furnishings generally will be thoroughly overhauled and added to, the auditorium will be transformed into a comfortable amphitheatre with raised and cushioned seats, and a gallery will be built at the eastern end of the hall, unless seating accommodation for an audience of 700 can be provided on the main floor. To prevent any possibility of danger from fire, there will be added to the present appliances—which good judges pronounce sufficient—a large tank which will be placed above the stage with a full supply of hose. Additional means of entrance and exit will be provided, and Metropolitan Hall will then be a comfortable and safe place of amusement, the only objection being that it is up-stairs. The work of alteration will be commenced at once and will be completed about the 1st of September.

Campbellford Notes

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 2, '80.

A party of American gentlemen, 12 in number, were here on Thursday last on a fishing excursion, and stopped at the Windsor Hotel. They were accompanied by Charles Gilchrist, Esq., Inspector of Fisheries for East Northumberland, and amongst the party we noticed the names of Col. Chambliss, Major Williams, Col. Mundy, &c.

Their morning's peregrinations were on the eastern side of the Trent River, visiting Castiday's and Crow Bays. With the latter and the beautiful scenery around they expressed their admiration in the highest terms. Some fine fish were caught in these waters.

Returning to the Windsor they took dinner, and in the afternoon, in company with T. Blute, Dr. Bogart, H. Gibb, and several other gentlemen of our town, tried the waters below Healey's falls, bagging 200 lbs of beautiful bass, weighing from 1 to 4½ lbs. each. After their piscatorial rambles they again returned to the village, highly pleased with the day's sport and the kind reception from all parties since their arrival in Canada, and promising to make Campbellford their place of rendezvous another season. They left the next morning for Hastings, where they take boat for Cobourg.

Mr. Acker sent off by car from our station, last week, 55 hogs, averaging 260 lbs. each. Two of them, fed by R. Cockburn, Esq., brought down the balance at 1010 lbs.

Trenton Items.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The second large drive of logs came down to the corporation boom last week. There is another drive to follow.

The G.T.R. depot is being enlarged and the platform extended on account of the increase of business. It is also proposed to build a larger freight shed.

At the last meeting of the municipal council, Mr. R. Weddell resigned his position as chief of the Fire Brigade, having completed his five years term of office. The resignation was not accepted, pending a reorganization of the brigade. Mr. Weddell being an efficient officer, no doubt his services will be retained.

There is a great need here of dwelling houses, not a vacant one to be had. The town never was so full as it is this summer. Over a dozen men working at the mills have no place for their families.

Charles Francis, Esq., is improving from his serious illness, which has confined him to the house for the past fortnight.

The contractor for the new bridge is laying down the coffer dam this week.

Municipal Elections.

KETCHESON WARD.

The nomination of candidates for the seat in the City Council for this Ward, vacated by the appointment of Alderman Thomas Holden as Police Magistrate, took place at noon to-day, in the shop of Mr. Robertson, Campbell Street.

Mr. W. P. Niles was nominated by Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, seconded by S. D. Farley, Esq., and one hour having elapsed without any other nomination being made, Mr. Niles was declared duly elected as Alderman for the remainder of the current year.

COLEMAN WARD.

The nomination of candidates for the seat in the Council, vacated by the death of Lewis Coleman, took place at noon. The following candidates were nominated:—John G. Frost, Emanuel Hayne, Joseph Durand, A. N. Pringle, and Frederick Frost. The last named three retired, and Messrs. Frost and Hayne will go to the polls.

The Toronto Regatta

The first annual regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen took place at Toronto on the 4th inst., in the presence of a large number of spectators, who, however, owing to bad management, had a very poor view of the contests. The water, which was lumpy in the morning, gradually became smooth, and was on the whole favorable. Following is a summary of the different events:

Single Scull Intigged.—This event had four starters, and was won easily by Price, of Lesleiville, with R. McKay, of the Toronto Argonauts, second. Time 12:20 4-5.

Double Scull Shells.—Only two crews contested this event, namely those of the Bayside (Toronto) Club, and Brown and Larmon, of Union Springs, N. Y. The former pair won easily in 10:49 1-5.

Junior Four Oars—Five crews started in this event, namely three from Toronto, one from Hamilton and one from London. The Argonauts of Toronto won in 9:58½ with the Toronto Rowing Club crew second and Leanders, of Hamilton, third.

The Junior Single Sculls had five starters and was won by Joseph Stanton, Bayside (Toronto) R. C. in 10:34; J. Conway, of Lachine, second.

Senior Fours.—This was the great event of the regatta, and was contested by crews representing the Argonauts of Toronto, Peterboro, Ottawa, Black Rock, Forest City (London), Oshawa (Charlotte), and Hamilton Rowing Clubs. Peterboro led for upwards of a mile, when the Argonauts passed them, and the crews finished in the order given below. Time of winners, 9:11 1-5.

Senior Sculls—Eleven men contested this event, which was won by Joseph Laing, of Montreal, in 10 02-5, with Ball second, Wells, of Chatham third, and Danspaugh, of Toronto, fourth.

The pair-oared shells and double scull in rigged were postponed until to-day.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Gladstone passed an excellent night, and is making satisfactory, though slow progress.

The election for member of Parliament, to fill the vacancy caused by Lord Ramsay's accession to the peerage, takes place at Liverpool to-morrow.

Plimsoll is the Liberal and Lord Claude Hamilton the Conservative candidate. The Executive Committee of the Home Rule Confederation of Great Britain recommend the Irishmen of Liverpool to abstain from voting because Plimsoll declined to take the Home Rule pledge.

Arthur Arnold, Liberal, will in the House of Commons to-morrow, move the following resolution: That in the opinion of this House compulsory slaughter at ports of landing of fat stock from the United States affects the supply and increases the cost of food and having regard to freedom from disease of cattle producing States of America, the House desires that Her Majesty's Government should reconsider the restrictions with a view to their moderation or removal. This resolution closely follows that proposed by Forster in '78 for which resolution 24 members of the present Government voted in the minority. Official correspondence with the United States on the subject will be distributed in the House before the discussion on Arnold's resolution.

A Bucharest correspondent telegraphs that the statement that the relations between Russia and Roumania have become most critical, is untrue.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The most noticeable feature in Tanner's condition to-day is extreme irritability. He complains of weakness at intervals, but is buoyed up by the reflection that the task is nearly ended.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 5.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, moderate winds, continued fine weather, cool at night.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Indications: lower lakes, clear or partly cloudy, nearly stationary temperature.

The Old Story.

The morning sunlight looked in through the silken curtains, lighting the room as with an angel's smile, suddenly enveloping the face of its occupant with a strange brightness and transforming her pale brown hair into waves of glistening gold. Said the sunlight: "Maiden I missed you from the garden where I used to find you every morning, and I came here to seek you." Silence still soon, before with her roses almost as bright as your cheeks. Are you ill?" "O, no!" responded the maiden, warming her thin, bloodless hands in the sunbeam, "only a little weak; I shall soon be out in the garden to greet you—to-morrow perhaps! I was just planning how I should arrange my flowers this year, when you peeped in. Are my lilies up yet?" "Yes your lilies are up; I have just been warming them. I have told them," said the sunlight, as he noticed the wearily drooping eyelids; "I will come again to-morrow if you are not in the garden"—and silently withdrew, leaving the fair slumberer alone in the gloom. A few hours later the moonlight stole softly through the silken curtains, which were gently rustling in the night breeze. "How cold!" said the moonlight, as she touched the pallid brow, and then gently laid her hand on the pulseless heart. "Dead!" she shudderingly whispered, as she withdrew through the softly rustling curtains. It is the old, old story of consumption. How she flatters her victims at morning with hope's honied words, and at evening makes them the prey of the spoiler! Statistics show that one-third of mankind die of this disease, and of these, far the greater part are young persons between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five, in the dawn of manhood and womanhood. For many years, consumption was generally believed to be incurable. But medicine in her triumphant march against disease has already added consumption to her list of conquered. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures this dread disease if resorted to in time. For a full consideration of this disease and its rational method of treatment, read the article on Consumption in the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, the most reliable popular work upon Physiology, Hygiene, Diseases and their Remedies, yet published. Price $1.50. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. The formula from which it is prepared is highly recommended by all medical journals. Police Court.

(Before T. HOLDEN, Esq., P. M.)

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 4.

THE LIQUOR LAW.

Court resumed at 2:30 p.m.

S. C. Edwards deposed to having received license for the Commercial House.

Gilbert Vandewaters, License Commissioner, deposed to having consented to the issuing of 26 licenses; cause which led to conclusion that more could not be issued, from the Attorney General's letter.

Wm. Sarsfield deposed that he was an applicant for a tavern license, which was not granted; asked Fuller why it had not been granted, and he said the Commissioners could not grant all applicants licenses.

The City Clerk testified as to the taking in 1877 of a special census of the city, which showed a population of upwards of 11,000.

Mr. Brenton, who was a Commissioner, in 1879 deposed that he had signed only 24 licenses that year.

This closed the case for the prosecution, and by arrangement the evidence given in this case was considered as read in the other cases, except that such further evidence as taken should be read in all three cases, saving just exceptions.

Mr. Sarsfield was then called, and said that Farley showed him the letter from the Provincial Secretary, and stated that no more than twenty-four licences could be issued.

W. D. Fuller was sworn and said Farley had shown him the letter; neither of them were of opinion that they were limited to 24 licenses.

After Mr. Vandewaters had been examined as to the practice in issuing licenses, the taking of evidence was closed.

Counsel then proceeded to argue the case at great length.

Mr. Dimond held that under the law the Commissioners could grant but 24 tavern licenses for the city, as follows, on the basis of a population of 11,000:

10,000, one for each 500	20
Total	24

He contended that the Commissioners had been instructed to that effect by the Provincial Secretary, who is head of the license branch, and that having acted contrary to that advice and to the law, they and the local issuer should be mulcted in the penalty provided by the statute.

For the defence it was contended that the Commissioners had acted in good faith and without any guilty intent, such as was necessary to secure their conviction, even if they had issued too many licenses. They had, however, acted in the advice of the Attorney General, who instructed them that the law allowed the issue of 29 tavern licenses, or the maximum for a population of 11,000 as follows:

10,000, one for each 400	25
Total	29

This, it was contended, was also the view of the law taken by so eminent an authority as the late Chief Justice Harrison, and stated by him in a note in his Municipal Manual. Mr. Grainger, his counsel held, could not be punishable, as he simply carried out the instructions of his superiors, which he was bound to do under a penalty.

Judgment was reserved.

THURSDAY, Aug. 5.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

Richard Hudson was remanded until to-morrow.

FRUIT STEALING.

Henry Thompson, a boy of 8 or 10 years old, was charged with stealing fruit from Mrs. Huffman. The case was dismissed, the defendant being reprimanded.

AFGHAN AFFAIRS.

LONDON, Aug. 4.

In the House of Commons last night the Marquis of Hartington stated that some Afghan cavalry are supposed to be moving in the direction of Kakoan, for the purpose of intercepting supplies to Candahar. General Stewart has returned to Cabul from the camp at Killi-hajal. General Griffin, the British representative, has had several interviews with the Ameer, with whom are the principal Ghilzai chiefs and representatives from the Maidan, Lagar, Kohistan and other districts.

Marine.

The schr. Millie Cook has arrived from Dexter, N. Y., and is loading lumber at Sutherland's wharf.

Within the next few weeks Messrs. Rathbun will import 3,000 tons of coal.

Haunted Me.

Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for Doctoring, which done no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost.—A Workingman.

THE ONTARIO MINISTRY.—The Mail is confident that a change in Ministers and portfolios will be made in the Ontario Government before the next session of the Legislature. Mr. Crooks, it is intimated, will leave the Education Department, while Mr. Pardee may retire and Mr. Hardy be promoted.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'Woman,' roared Philip. 'Fiend rather! have you lost all human feeling?'

'Yes!' she screamed, 'you extracted it by the wrong you did me. It was you who made me what I am now, and knowing what I am, you can guess if there is any room in my soul for human feeling. I have it not, Philip Ravensworth, at least, not for you or Lydia Crawford.'

'This is terrible,, terrible' wailed Lydia.

'Fiend, you shall not triumph thus in your malignity!' shouted Philip. 'I will give you over to the police, and force you to tell all you know of our child.'

'Torture itself will not force me to tell what I wished to keep secret,' answered Arabella, coldly. 'Your threat, therefore, is useless. It is also unnecessary,because my only purpose in being here is to tell you all I know about your child.'

'Heaven bless you,' murmured Lydia 'Where is she ! is she alive,or—or—dead !'

'I don't know.'

'Take care,' exclaimed Philip ; 'you have admitted too much to have your denials credited.'

'Admitted too much !' retorted Arabella, scornfully; 'I have admitted nothing yet, but what I am about to tell will be more than an admission—it will be a statement of fact. I was the abductor of your child.'

'You stole her,' groaned Philip.

'I snatched her up in the park when the attention of her attendant was directed to something else. In the crowd I escaped detection, and hurried away with my prize.'

'And what did you do with her !' gasped Lydia. 'Did you keep her—did you bring her up ?'

'I did not—my first care was to get rid of her, and I succeeded.'

'You strayed her!' spoke Philip, through his compressed lips.

'No. I disposed of her in such a way as to give no clue to her identity.'

'But, oh !' cried Lydia, in trembling accents, "you will not refuse to tell us how, where, and to whom you disposed of her, Your heart is not so hard as to withhold a knowledge which may enable us to trace her out.'

'What mercy have I received to soften my heart !' said Arabella, fiercely and passionately. 'Am I not sunk into utter wretchedness and misery ! Has not this day deprived me of my only protector—of the only being in the world who cares for me, and am I not alone and friendless ! How, then, can a creature so abandoned have a heart soft enough to be touched by mercy !'

'You do refuse to tell us, then, to whom you gave the child !' remarked Philip, in tones hoarse with emotion.

'No, no, she will not—she will not,' cried Lydia, with pathetic eagerness. 'You say you have no friends, Arabella. Tell us how we may trace our child, and your future earthly wants will be supplied. We are rich, and——'

'Receive gifts from you !' shouted Arabella. 'No, not if I were perishing for want. If what I have to tell would enable you to find your daughter, my lips should never be unsealed, but because it cannot I am ready to reveal it. The man I gave her to lost her.'

'Lost her !'

'Yes, lost her—utterly and hopelessly lost her, and where she now is no one can tell. In some prison, or bridewell, or worse more likely if she is still alive.'

'Where is the man that got her from you !' demanded Philip.

'He is dead,' she answered with a fiendish smile.

'What was he—what did he do ?'

'He was a travelling mountebank,'

'A what !' shouted Ravensworth, amid the simultaneous exclamations of the whole group, through whom an electric shock seemed suddenly to have passed, galvanizing first, and then paralyzing them, as like stricken statues, they stood in every attitude of sudden fossilization.

Arabella noticed their intense excitement,and mistaking it for a shock of horror at the fate to which the child had been given up, she triumphed wildly and exultantly.

'Yes,' she screamed, 'it was a mountebank who got her, and he trained her to tumbling and rope dancing, and exhibiting her for public amusement. Her pretty little limbs were twisted and distorted till every bone cracked, and there was no mother to still her cries or save her from his cruel hands.'

Women never think !

If the crabbed old bachelor who stood in the sentinent could but witness the intens thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best and cheapest, by keeping their families in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseness and false.

The Greatest Remedy Known.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is certainly the greatest remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity. Thousands of once hopeless sufferers now loudly proclaim their praise for this wonderful Discovery, to which they owe their lives, Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative power. Try a sample bottle. We do not ask you to buy until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request that you call on your druggist, JAMES CLARKE & CO., and get a trial bottle free of charge, which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what as regular one dollar size bottle will do.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is no strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

False Impression.

It is generally supposed by physicians and the people generally that Dyspepsia cannot be cured, but we are pleased to say that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER has never, to our knowledge, failed to cure Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint in all its forms, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, etc. Out of the 50,000 dozen bottles sold last year, not a single failure was reported, but thousands of complimentary letters received from Druggists of wonderful cures. Three doses will relieve any case Try it. Sample bottles 10cts.; regular size 75cts.

CONSUMPTION

CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health,and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physcians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients im prove on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE : 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE :—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach ; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1878. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE :—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice ; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE :—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble ; under his care I got some relief from a two-story second, al health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks ; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered COD LIVER OIL and Lime ; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have finished all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL. We have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more. I also got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose ; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am not entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
DEAR SIR,—I have delayed writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it effected a perfect cure in the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her she would have been dead ere this ; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh she is not only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible : I am, sir, yours very respectfully.
D. WALKER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR :—I have been using your medicine for ever a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a man of me. I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but my difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine,and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name ; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

CHRONIC LARYNGITIS.

The premonitory symptoms of this disease begin with those of an ordinary cold, only that it is always attended with more or less hoarseness. It is scarcely ever an original disease separate and distinct, but it is usually an extension of Catarrh, this disease passing down the posterior nares and pharynx until it reaches the more sensitive mucous membranes of the larynx, and finally continuing down until it extends to the lungs. When it is caused by Catarrh the symptoms are more of a tickling in the throat, and the patients complain of a sensation as of something "sticking in the throat," which causes a continual raspings, though to clear the throat and windpipe. The voice is unnatural at first, being rough, while in the later stages it becomes weak and indistinct, with occasional fits of tightness and often difficulty in swallowing.

The above is the simplest form of the disease, and can be readily removed in a few weeks. Although in all cases it must be treated by the direct application of medicated inhalations (not medication), for if we would properly treat a disease of this nature we must reach all the surrounding parts so as not to drive the disease beyond the reach of medicine. This is the great danger of using caustics to the delicate organism, as is the custom of many physicians, for if we burn or dry up the inflamed mucous surface of the larynx and only reach those parts we are almost sure to drive the disease farther down into the bronchical tubes and lungs, but by the use of medicated inhalations the mucous surfaces of the larynx bronchial tubes and air cells of the lungs are all reached, hence the impossibility of driving the disease to more remote points. Being treated in this manner there are few cases of Chronic Laryngitis but what are readily curable.

The causes which produce this disease are various. It arises in clergymen, and is very prevalent in school teachers and many others, from too violent use of the voice, dust, the poisonous exudations from decayed vegetable matter, and living in damp houses. It is more often a sequel to ordinary sore throat, and inflamation extending down into the larynx by reason of the continuity of the mucous membrane.

But whatever may be its cause, it is always a serious disease when it becomes chronic, and threatens a complete destruction of the voice, and rarely ends until the lungs become involved, and then every fresh cold or change in the weather continues to feed the disease and increases its severity, complications, and hold upon the sufferer.

This disease is often a sequel of consumption which is aggravated by the poisoned mucus which is being constantly secretated from the lungs. When this is the case the disease is of a most distressing character. There is more or less ulceration in the vicinity of the vocal chords. These ulcers frequently penetrate through the mucus and cellular membranes, and often attack the ligaments and cartilages themselves. When this is the case we can only hope to effect a complete cure by those means which will remove the cause, viz.: the consumption of the lungs. And in order to do this there is only one system of practice capable of approximating face to face with the disease, and that is by the Medicated Inhalations, and this system is usually successful after all other means have been tried without avail. If on account of distance, constitutional debility or expense of travel, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they can write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and, when fully answered and returned to the Institute, remedies can be sent by express (duty free,) together with full directions for use. A Suggestive Letter to Cheese Makers.

To the Editor of the Utica Morning Herald:

LONDON, July 19, 1880.—I have been much interested in a report, given in your issue of June 29, of a meeting called by the Utica board of trade, to take into consideration the recent panics in the cheese market. It seems to me that dairymen are at last on the right track. They, and they alone, can do anything effectual towards regulating the trade and steadying the price. Never was there a more causeless panic than the recent one. In proof of this let us look a little at the facts. The American cheese season of 1880-81 opened with the previous make more closely used up than for a long time past. No stocks and bare boards was the universal report alike from importers, wholesale dealers and retailers in all parts of Great Britain. English cheese was in the same position, and the dry, cold spring in this country was also very unfavorable to the early home make. Buyers consequently were extremely eager, taking off the arrivals of fodder cheese, at very full prices, and no time (not even when the panic was at its height) has there been any real accumulation of stock in English markets, nor have our supplies ever yet at all approached the total demand. Were the fear of further serious decline once removed, I believe the trade in this country could readily absorb two, or perhaps three hundred thousand boxes in addition to the bona fide weekly consumption; and then the dealers would hold no more than a normal protective stock. However, in spite of this exceptionally sound position of the article, a panic did set in, prices fell immediately fast, and it seemed as if the bottom was about to fall out of the market altogether. How was this? In the first place panic never stops to reason, it is very contagious, it spreads rapidly and under its influence people seem only too eager to give away their property. Then, the cable with its instantaneous communication of the slightest change in prices or demands, acts and reacts on the markets on either side of the Atlantic in a see-saw fashion. For instance, New York quotes cheese down half a cent, Liverpool responds with a decline of two shillings and so far-ther depresses the New York price, which again reacts on the Liverpool quotation. It seems to be forgotten that tho' we get our advices we do not get our cheese, by cable, but that in this market we are always dealing with property bought and shipped a fortnight or three weeks previous to the latest telegraphic market reports. Further, we are, at this time of year, dealing with an article confessedly made to sell, and not to keep, which has also undergone the trying ordeal of the Atlantic passage. Importers must go with the stream. In the face of rapidly declining quotations from your shipping ports they dare not dwell on stocks, which perish on their hands. Their chief anxiety naturally must be to keep their cheese closely sold up, so as to make room for those which are coming in at a lower cost. Just as prices have held back on a rising market, so do our dealers hold back on a falling one. Expecting to buy cheaper from week to week they take as little as they possibly can, scarcely sufficient in fact for their barest requirements, and it makes a good deal of difference to the daily consumption whether the retailer is or is not pushing a trade in cheese. There are plenty of persons in the cheese trade as elsewhere, who think that because an article is very low in price, that is a reason for its going still lower; but as soon as the lowest point has been touched and a reaction has set in, there is a rush all round to secure a little stock. Over buying results, and the market is carried rapidly up, sometimes beyond all reason. This impetus almost invariably comes from your side. The price generally has to be steadied in New York before it can be steadied here—now the New York receivers cannot help themselves any more than the English importers—they cannot dwell on a quickly perishable article, but are bound to sell their receipts of shackly made cheese from week to week. It is at the factory that a change may be inaugurated. It is by the farmers that a stand may be made. In the full flush of the flow of milk a portion, at any rate, of the cheese should be made to keep, and dairymen must have the courage to hold it when it is necessary to steady the market. If properly made and properly looked after, in a suitable storehouse, the cheese should keep better on the farmer's shelves than anywhere else.

I do not share the apprehensions of those who raise the cry of over-production. I believe Great Britain can take and consume at a fair price, all the cheese you are likely to send her. The supply must be equally spread over the whole year—you must give us twelve months in which to consume the cheese you make in the six or seven months from April to October. What this country requires of us is to consume in July and August the full quantity of cheese you produce in June and July. There will always be in these months, a surplus beyond John Bull's largest digestive power. This surplus must be held somewhere. If forced upon this market it can only be sold at a price low enough to insure the buyer against risks of markets, and above all against the loss attendant on holding an article that rapidly deteriorates in quality. Moreover this surplus necessarily drags down the whole of the June and July make to its own level of value. The present system of smothering this market with cheese that will not keep, made in June, July and early August also works evils in another way. The "public" gets so tired of eating strong ill-favored cheese and the trade gets so disgusted with the risk and worry of handling it, that that there is a general outcry for something clear and keepable, and so a rush is made for September make. This as a consequence is forced up to so extreme a price that the trade is checked and an opportunity afforded to the English dairymen of unloading their summer make at comparatively good prices.

I do not think that the general run of the quality of American cheese is so good as it might, and therefore as it ought to be. The chief ambition of too many factory men appears to be to get a shade higher price for their cheese than is realized by their neighbors. No doubt it is a matter of just pride to a good maker when his care and painstaking meet their due recognition in the satisfactory form of enhanced prices. It is a very legitimate triumph when such a maker can realize for his patrons ¼c. or ½c. or perhaps even more per pound, over the current figures for fairest factories. But I fear this very often leads to mere trading on an old reputation and a slackening of efforts for continued improvement. I am not sure but that it would even pay better in the long run were your best factories to help their less successful neighbors to make finer cheese. The higher your average standard of quality, the surer will be your hold on British markets, and you will even get a more than proportionately better price; for if a considerable part of your make is poor it cannot fail to drag down the value of the balance. I write in the interest of no special department of the trade. I have no private axe to grind. I don't believe in rigging or in cornering the market, but I do believe that dairymen may do much towards regulating it. It cannot benefit either the producer, the dealer or the consumer, that a large amount of valuable property should thus be annually sacrificed and a large quantity of desirable food spoiled or greatly deteriorated. Surely it is not beyond the capacity of those whose energy and intelligence have in so short a time built up your colossal cheese interest, to find a remedy for that untoward state of the trade which I have endeavored to point out.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, AUGUST 6.

N. P. Notes.

The Mail has been paying some attention to the industries of Toronto—a task which it may well continue—and finds that since the new tariff came into force, the manufacture of watches and clocks has been undertaken in Toronto, skilled artizans having been imported from Switzerland for the first named line of manufacture. There are now three piano manufactories in the city, and all doing a large business, in place of the two half-dead concerns which existed under the revenue tariff, or what the Globe calls "free trade." The church organ building industry is flourishing. The bolt and nut manufactory has been revived by the N. P. Eighteen months ago the now busy shops were but empty sheds with grass-grown yards. Safe making is prosperous, and the manufacture of safe locks is a new branch of business just introduced into the Toronto safe works.

The Berlin Daily News states that a new factory for the manufacture of cloth covered buttons is to be started in that town. The same paper states that, owing to the great influx of work people caused by the starting of new factories and recent extension of others, there is not sufficient house accommodation for the residents of that thriving place, which the N. P. has benefitted greatly.

Mr. Cronk, of Ridgetown, is about starting a wholesale boot and shoe manufactory at St. Thomas, in the Moore Block, now undergoing alterations and enlargements for the purpose.

The Waterloo, Que., Advertiser asks whether the removal of the glass works from that town is the result of the N. P.; to which the St. Johns News replies that "The factory has been removed to Montreal where it will be quadrupled in size. The enlargement is the effect of the National Policy, but the removal the result of the stupidity of our own people."

Orders are multiplying for the products of the Toronto Wrought Iron Bridge Company. For the Canada Pacific Railway the Company is building two 200 feet spans and four plate girder spans of 50 feet each, to be raised at Lake of the Woods outlet, and on the Pembina Branch three of their bridges are to be placed. Several railway arches over the Welland Canal are also building by them. Municipalities continue to show of late a preference for durable structures of iron to wooden bridges. The Company has completed one of 180 feet span for Middlesex County, and is completing one for the County of Perth.

As an evidence how the National Policy is killing the country the papers of the Ottawa district state that Mr. Bennett Rosamond has returned to Almonte from England, where he has been purchasing machinery for his new worsted factory; that an agitation is now on foot in Portage du Fort for the purpose of inducing an Ontario gentleman to start a cloth factory in that place; that Mr. Thistle, of Pembroke, is shipping lumber from his mill as fast as it can be made; that the lumber dock of the Canada Central railway at Brockville is to be extended 900 feet to meet the demands of increasing business, and so on ad lib.

Mr. Patton, of Iroquois, has again started his stave factory, and is turning out several thousand per day. A large portion of these staves are sent to Newfoundland, where they are used in barrelling fish for the South American market; the Redpaths of Montreal, however, are Mr. Patton's principal customers. For some years previous to the introduction of the National Policy, Mr. Patton was obliged to suspend business, but he started again last fall and now has orders for all the staves he can furnish. $40,000 is the estimated yearly value of the products of his factory.

"I have to thank Sir Leonard and his National Policy for the good trade I am driving now," said Mr. Loney, of the Cornwall Foundry, to a reporter a few days ago. "Before the introduction of the protective tariff, all the machinery and castings required in this section of the country were imported from the States, and Canadian mechanics had little or no chance. But now Canadian machinists have their hands full, and orders are constantly coming in. New factories are going up in all directions, and the protective duty keeps out American machinery, which is neither better nor cheaper than that made at home."

The Messrs. Perine of the Doon Flax Mills have recently put in operation a large spinning machine manufactured by themselves. Before the advent of the National Policy they imported these machines from the United States. The new Canadian machine cost little more than half of what the imported ones formerly did.

Here's an item for the Reform press to copy. It shows how that terrible N. P. is playing the mischief with the industries of the Dominion. Under Grit rule eighteen hands were employed in Mr. John Crowe's foundry, Guelph. Now forty-eight sturdy workmen sign the pay roll every week.

A paper-box manufactory is about to be started in the village of London East, by Mr. Hendershott, of London, and formerly of Hamilton.

A new glass factory, which will give employment to about 200 men, is nearing completion in Montreal.

The Vacant Seats.

The writs for West Toronto, North Ontario, and Selkirk will be issued immediately. The nomination in the two first-named constituencies is fixed for the 21st inst. and polling for the 28th inst. In Selkirk, nomination will be on the 3rd September and polling on the 11th September.

No Canadian Need Apply.

Mr. Crooks is being handled without gloves by the press generally—and by none more so than by a few of the journals who support the Provincial Government, including the Hamilton Times, London Advertiser, Lindsay Post and Galt Reformer. The latter journal, in its last issue, "goes for" the Minister of Education in the following spirited manner: "The American movement was to exclude all foreigners; the Canadian 'movement' is no movement at all, has no organization, and is simply a general protest against importing a young and probably brilliant Oxford graduate to fill a chair which Canadians could have better filled, and placing the untried importation above all the tried and eminent professors in our university. There has not been the slightest objection raised to securing the best talent for our university chairs. On the contrary, all Mr. Crooks' critics have exhibited the warmest approval of securing able foreigners. They have simply condemned the disposition of the Minister of Education to pass by all Canadians however well qualified, to place over their heads a foreign youth who is totally untried. Even the particular instance which has aroused so much indignation would have passed unnoticed were it the first of its kind, but coming as it does after several trips to Britain for professors, and being of an outrageous nature, it apparently indicates only too clearly a settled determination to give Canadians no chance for positions which they are quite capable of filling." Mr. Crooks has evidently involved himself in a bad business, but he need not be a whit alarmed—the Grit newspapers which now berate him will find an excuse for his conduct before the next election occurs, and will then support him and defend his present objectionable course as heartily as he could desire.

Irish Relief.

The performance given here last spring, by our amateurs for the benefit of the Irish Relief Fund, have received very handsome recognition from those who have the fund in charge. The following correspondence will explain itself: —

"CANADA,
Picton, Ont., June 30, 1880.

"To the Duchess of Marlborough:

"Your Grace,—I have the honor to enclose you a draft on the Bank of Montreal, London, England, for the sum of £11 2s. 2d., a small sum raised in not a very large place, by an Amateur Operatic Entertainment, given for the benefit of your fund. I wish from my heart, that it was ten times the amount it is, to aid you in your successful efforts to help the distressed and destitute people of Ireland; but it is accompanied by the warmest sympathy for the unhappy sufferers, that it may, in a very limited way, assist and also, by the keenest appreciation of the goodness of heart, and wisdom of head, shown by your grace, in your noble work for Ireland.

"I have the honor to be, with every sentiment of respect, your Grace's most obd't serv't,

"WALTER T. ROSS."

"Committee Rooms, The Castle, Dublin, July 15th, 1880.

"Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge, with thanks, the receipt of your letter of the 30th of June, addressed to Her Grace, the Duchess of Marlborough, and now forwarded by Her Grace to the Trustees of the above fund, enclosing a draft on the Bank of Montreal, London, England, for £11 2s. 2d. being the proceeds of an Amateur Operatic Entertainment, kindly forwarded by you, in aid of the distress in Ireland, and I am desired by the trustees to convey to you their sincere thanks for the same.

"I am, dear sir, yours faithfully,
J. C. MEREDITH, Hon. Sec."

"Walter T. Ross, Esq., Picton, Ont."

"Sir,—I have received your letter of the 30th of June, enclosing a cheque for £11 2s. 2d. toward the fund I originated and carried on for the relief of distress in Ireland, and I have forwarded the cheque to the trustees whom I appointed, when the change of Government necessitated my departure from Ireland, and who have dispensed it since on the same system I found so successful; and I have every hope that if we only have the blessing of a good harvest, the distress will in a few weeks come to a close. Pray convey my best thanks to the donors of this contribution, and accept them yourself for your kind expressions. I am most thankful that my efforts have been successful, and remain, yours faithfully,

"F. A. MARLBOROUGH."

"Blenheim Place, Woodstock, Oxon, July 13, 1880."

We felt sorry at the time, that the receipts were not more in keeping with the first-class entertainments presented and with the object, which should have commanded the sympathy of all, but it must certainly be very pleasant to those who took so much trouble for the good cause, to find that the generous and charitable spirit that prompted them has met with such kind appreciation. We are very glad that Picton is not altogether out in the cold, but can hold up her head with her neighbors as having done something, if only a little, towards helping those that were in need.—Gazette.

GRAND TRUNK RECEIPTS.—The total receipts for the week ended July 31st were $201,448, as against $152,423 for the same week in 1879. Increase $49,025. The Riviere du Loup receipts are included in 1879, not in 1880, adding them to the week's increase is $52,225. Aggregate increase for thirty-one weeks, is $1,127,298.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Philippe Henri Lemaine, French sculptor, is dead.

Haunted Me.

Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for Doctoring, which done no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost.—A Workingman.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION ON FRIDAY EVENING, 13th.—Arrangements have been made with Capt. Porte for an excursion in the steamer Varuna. She will leave her wharfat 4.30, sail to Trenton and return at 7 o'clock. She will then proceed down the Bay and return at 9.30. Tickets 25c for the trip. Children half price. Proceeds in aid of the building fund of the M. E. Tabernacle. Participators please take notice.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St. and get your old suit done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE.—One arrest was made last night and two tramps were provided with a bed in the cells.

EXCURSION.—The regular Saturday afternoon and evening excursions will take place on the steamer Alexandra to-morrow.

VISITORS.—To-day being the civic holiday in Picton, a large crowd of excursionists accompanied the Picton Cricket Club, who arrived on the Dexoronto at 10:30.

A STRIKE.—The coal trimmers engaged by Downey & Preston, finding that the work was becoming too heavy, refused to carry out their contract, and asked to be paid by the day. The request was refused and other hands have been employed.

CAMP MEETING.—The Episcopal Methodists announce a camp meeting, to be held on Unger's Island, at the mouth of the Napanee river, to commence on the 13th inst. It is expected to continue about a week. The place is easily accessible to Mill Point, being only about half a mile from there.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.—We have received from Mr. Wm. Bryce, the enterprising publisher of London, Ont., sample copies of two new books which he has just issued. They are "Chesterfield's Handy Letter Writer," (price 10 cents) and "Julian's Interest Tables" (50 cents). The latter contains an accurate calculation of interest at 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 per cent, both simple and compound, on all sums from 1 cent to $10,000, and from 1 day to 6 years.

THOUSAND ISLAND PARK.—The excursion to this great centre of attraction, under the auspices of the Bridge Street Methodist Sunday School, will take place to-morrow, per steamer Varuna. The steamer will leave Belleville at 8:30 a.m., arriving at the camp ground early in the evening, and on the return will leave the camp ground early on Monday, reaching Belleville at 4:30 p.m. A pleasanter trip could scarcely be undertaken, as the steamer is swift and comfortable, and the arrangements are in excellent hands.

THE PRESS.—At the annual meeting of the Press Association in Toronto on the 3rd inst., Mr. J. B. Trayes, of the Port Hope Times, was elected President; Mr. E. J. B. Pense, of the Kingston Whig, Vice President; Mr. George Tye, of the Brampton Times, 2nd Vice President; Mr. W. R. Climie, of Bowmanville, Secretary; Mr. A. J. Matheson, of the Perth Expositor, Assistant Secretary. At the conclusion of the sitting, the members dined at the Rossin House, and in the afternoon they left upon the northern train on a trip to the Lake superior region.

ALLAN LINE.—The cargo steamships of this line which have arrived at the Ports of Liverpool and Glasgow up till this date, season, took out 5,314 oxen, 18 horses, 770 sheep, which were all landed safe and in good order with the exception of one ox and one sheep. This speaks for the management of the Company. In this connection it may be mentioned as an evidence of quick transit across the pond, that the goods per the Sarmatian were delivered in Toronto on the 11th inst. leaving Liverpool. Mr. U. E. Pason, Express Office, is the Agent for Belleville.

LATE AGAIN.—The western mail was late again to-day, for the third day in succession, by half an hour.

POTATO BLIGHT.—This disastrous annihilator of the potato crop has made its appearance in this locality and in the Township of Seymour.

CRICKET.—The match between the Picton and Belleville Clubs was begun here at 11 a. m. to-day. At noon Belleville—who were first to bat—had scored 55 for a loss of two wickets. Belleville's first innings closed for 122 runs, and at 3 o'clock Picton had scored 52 for the loss of four wickets.

MADOC SLATE.—The miners have got below the fifteen feet bed described in our account of the Madoc slate quarry, and are getting out some fine roofing slate, specimens of which can be seen at this office.

THRESHER DOWN.—Considerable quantities of this article have been blowing into and over the city of late by the high winds which have prevailed. This makes it clear that pathmasters have not in all cases done their duty in having the thistles cut down.

RAILWAY GUIDES.—Battersby's Pocket Railway and Travellers' Guide for August is issued. It seems to be growing both in size and favor. Why do the Railway Guides not publish the Time Tables of the Grand Junction and Prince Edward Co. Railways?

AN EXCURSION.—This is the season of excursions, and amongst the many advertised, is one from Trenton, via the Prince Edward Railway to Picton, thence by steamer Hastings to Island Park and St. Lawrence Camp Ground, near Brockville, which offers great inducements to the pleasure seeker. The fare for the round trip from Trenton to the Camp Ground is only $1.25. The time fixed is Saturday, Aug. 28th.

ILLEGAL SHOOTING.—Some pot hunters, who doubtless consider themselves "sportsmen," have lately been attempting to shoot snipe and ducks in the marsh south-west of Flint & Holton's saw mill. Yesterday evening several shots were fired in the locality named, and after one report three ducks were seen to fly away. These parties know very well that neither snipe nor ducks can be legally shot until the 15th inst., and if they do any more shooting until that time they ought to be prosecuted.

SUDDEN DEATH.—A sad case of death from apoplexy occurred in the household of Captain McIntosh last night, the victim being Miss Mary Collins. Deceased had lived from 18 to 20 years with Capt. and Mrs. McIntosh, for the first six years as a servant and later as a member of the family, she having learned the trade of dressmaking and working for private families in that capacity. She is a native of the township of Huntingdon, where her brothers and sisters reside, her parents being dead. Several days ago she was taken ill, and was attended by Dr. Eakins, and seemed to be making good progress towards recovery. Yesterday about noon, however, when Mrs. McIntosh went to her room after an absence of only half an hour, she found Miss Collins on the floor, she having arisen from bed, to which she was at once returned. She was very weak, although sensible at this time, but her condition soon became so alarming that the services of Drs. Eakins and Burdett were at once procured. In spite, however, of medical assistance, she expired about midnight from apoplexy—an ailment to which, owing to full habit of body, she was liable. Miss Collins, who was about 43 years of age, was a person of most estimable character and was a member of the Holloway Street Methodist Church. Her death has so shocked her old friends, Capt and Mrs. McIntosh that the former, who has been in bad health for several months past, was almost prostrated and this morning seemed much shaken. It is probable that deceased will be buried in Huntingdon.

Police Court.

(Before T. HOLDEN, Esq., P. M.)

MONDAY, Aug. 6.

Lt. Col. Lazier vs. Geo. Johnston Jas. Hill, and J. Mills. Lt.-Col. Lazier had the defendants arrested under a warrant for stealing apples out of his orchard on last Sunday.

Owing to Mr. Lazier stating to the Court that notwithstanding the fact that he intended to teach boys and young men that they could not steal from his garden without being punished, yet he was willing in this instance not to ask the severe penalty of the law.

The Police Magistrate said that Mr. Lazier deserved the thanks of the community for taking the steps, and was more lenient than most persons would be in a similar case. That it was just as much a crime in the eye of the law to steal fruit out of gardens as it was to steal a person's money, and that he was determined to put a stop to the practice. After cautioning the parties that if they were again convicted, they stood a chance of being sent to the Central or Reformatory prisons, they were discharged from the conviction.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

BUSINESS.—The Globe's commercial says: "The general trade of the city is quiet with a steady improvement noted in one or two branches. There is a tendency to firmness in the leading staple articles, which is the result of a prospective activity and the improved tone of the foreign market. The dry goods market has improved, and dealers now report a good business doing. The idea that lower prices of woollen goods would rule this season has disappeared and a feeling that prices are to be firm and higher has taken its place. Orders from the country are encouraging in view of the abundant crops, the movement of which will entail a free flow of money. It is said by manufacturers that stocks of tweeds are small and that they will be unable to supply the demand.

Tea has advanced from 2c to 3c per lb in the Montreal market within the last few days. About 5,000 half-chests of Japan have been sold at 30c to 33c for good common, 33c to 36c for medium, and 37c to 40c for good medium. Large transactions are also recorded in Young Hysons.

Trenton Correspondence.

The members of the Presbyterian Church of this town have just completed the purchase of a lot in East Trenton, for the purpose of erecting a brick church which is intended to be built this fall. The old frame church is found to be too small for the increasing congregation.

Mr. Geo. Crowe, contractor, has commenced the excavation for the foundation of the brick building to be used by Molson's Bank. It is to be situated on the east of Mr. Jas. Ryan's residence, which is to have a door of communication with the bank and be occupied by the manager. The building is to be finished by the 15th prox.

On Thursday the Methodist Church Sabbath School had an excursion on the railway to Wellington. It was very well attended.

Campbellford Notes

(From the Herald.)

Messrs. Whyte & Co., have been very busy at their agricultural works, here, this season. They may increase the extent of their business by putting in a foundry, next spring.

One hundred and twenty pounds of frog meat were shipped on the G. J. Railway on Thursday last. So nice did the food appear that it made itself tempting to the palates of those who previously regarded it as being a filthy diet.

The Messrs. Dinwoodie Bros. are preparing to erect a storehouse for the storage of grain. The building is to be 28x48 feet, two stories and a half high. Its location will be near the Railway station, alongside and west of R. Cockburn's building now in course of erection. Mr. Mitchell has the job of the stonework, and Mr. Daniel Rowe, the framework.

Death on the Rail.

CLIFTON, Ont., Aug. 6.

A young man named Richard Prowler, yardman here, while attempting to get on an engine while in motion, slipped and was run over, mangling his right leg so that death ensued three hours afterwards He leaves a young wife behind him, being only married ten months ago.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

CARDIFF, Aug. 6.—Arrived, the Rhemhuia.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—It was announced this morning that Gladstone is convalescing satisfactorily.

VIENNA, Aug. 6.—Accounts of the floods in Moravia, Galicia and Silesia are very serious. Railway traffic is interrupted and bridges are carried away. Rivers are out of their banks; great loss sustained in crops and movable property.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The Times says, troops are going to Ireland will be a thousand strong. A portion of them sail to-morrow. The Indian troopship Euphrates sails to-morrow with a reinforcement.

A concession for preliminary works of the proposed tunnel beneath the channel between England and France, granted for five years in 1875, has been renewed by the French Government for three years.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The Times says, the news that Ayoob Khan was up to the 1st inst. at Saughar, shows that he had retreated a short distance, and there is therefore little fear of his pressing Gen. Primrose hard, before the arrival of Gen. Phayre.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—In the House of Commons Marquis of Hartington said the Government had no information of any special excitement among the Mohammedans in India. Doubtless he said, they watch with great anxiety the course of events in the east. He read a telegram from Cabul on the 4th inst, which says the Candahar forces will march on Saturday and the remainder of the army will leave Cabul for Gundamak Tuesday or Wednesday next.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Tannor entered upon his last day of fast at noon. His pain is intense. Analysis of fluid from his stomach, it is claimed, shows that the fast has been honestly conducted. Every hour he walks around the enclosure without assistance, so that spectators may see him. At noon he declared his condition good.

Two proposals of marriage and an offer for a lecture tour through the Western States were among the morning mail. Very large crowd in attendance.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 6.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lake, light to moderate winds, continued fine weather, higher temperature.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Indications: lower lakes, clear or partly cloudy, higher temperature.

The Old Story.

The morning sunlight looked in through the silken curtains, lighting the room as with an angel's smile, suddenly enveloping the face of its occupant with a strange brightness and transforming her pale brown hair into waves of glistening gold. Said the sunlight: "Maiden I missed you from the garden where I used to find you every morning, and I came here to seek you. Summer will soon be here with her roses almost as bright as your cheeks. Are you ill?" "O, no!" responded the maiden, warming her thin, bloodless hands in the sunbeam, "only a little weak; I shall soon be out in the garden to greet you—to-morrow perhaps! I was just planning how I should arrange my flowers this year, when you peeped in. Are my lilies up yet?" "Yes your lilies are up; I have just been warming them. I have tired you,' said the sunlight, as he noticed the wearily drooping eyelids; "I will come again to-morrow if you are not in the garden"—and silently withdrew, leaving the fair slumberer alone in the gloom. A few hours later the moonlight stole softly through the silken curtains, which were gently rustling in the night breeze. "How cold!" said the moonlight, as she touched the pallid brow, and then gently laid her hand on the pulseless heart. "Dead!" she shudderingly whispered, as she withdrew through the softly rustling curtains. It is the old, old story of consumption. How it flatters her victims at morning with hope's honied words, and at evening makes them the prey of the spoiler! Statistics show that one-third of mankind die of this disease, and of these, far the greater part are young persons between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five, in the dawn of manhood and womanhood. For many years, consumption was generally believed to be incurable. But medicine in her triumphant march against disease has already added consumption to her list of conquered. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures this dread disease if resorted to in time. For a full consideration of this disease and its rational method of treatment, read the article on Consumption in the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, the most reliable popular work upon Physiology, Hygiene, Diseases and their Remedies, yet published. Price $1.50. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y.

KING'S NEW DISCOVERY has no equal and has established for itself a world wide reputation. Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'Oh, I can tell you that too, for you can make nothing of it. The man is dead, but he had lost her months before. A base, brutal fellow in his employment carried her off—her, and a boy about the same age, which the mountebank had picked up somewhere, and do what he would he could never hear of them again. He carried them off—you may guess for what purpose to rear them in vice and crime. And darling Fanny, the cherished treasure of your heart, if she still lives, is——'

'His name—his name,' shouted Philip grasping her wildly by the arm.

'They called him Silas Morgan; but child, I tell you, if she lives, is——'

'Is here,' uttered Lydia, with a loud, indescribable cry of joy, and holding wide her arms towards Mary, who, echoing the cry, rushed towards her, and was locked in her embrace.

'Oh, joy and ecstasy!' ejaculated Philip, as he threw his arms around both, and sobbed over them in deep voiceless emotion.

Arabella recoiled from them, and glared in speechless amazement. Then in a moment or two, she mechanically asked—

'What—what means this?'

'It means that they have found their child,' cried Charles, advancing before her, and standing there with sparkling eyes and joyous animation.

'Their—their—child!' she gasped.

'Yes, the child you gave to Silas Morgan. I am the boy who was her companion in the hands of the mountebank, and here,' he added, pointing with a loud laugh, to Woodford, 'here is the base, brutal fellow who carried us off to rear us in vice and crime.'

'Yes, ma'am,' shouted the little man, who was capering about the apartment in the extravagance of his joy, 'I am the indentical Tobby Sprat that Silas Morgan told you of. As to my being a base and brutal fellow, look at me well, ma'am, and see if I am like it; and as to rearing the little ones to vice and crime, look to them and see if I have done it. It was to save them from Morgan's drunken cruelty I took them away, ma'am, and the last want ed you to come and tell us what you have told us to complete our happiness, by discovering the parentage of the little Myra. Thank you, ma'am, a thousand, thousand thanks for doing that, even if you didn't mean it, but meant quite the opposite, and I daresay, if you had known what was to come out you'd have kept your tongue between your teeth pretty close. Never mind, ma'am, you have done us this blessed good against you intention, and thank you all the same.'

'This explains the resemblance which puzzled me,' said Arabella in a bewildered tone, and as if speaking within herself.

'You mean Mary's resemblance to Mrs. Ravenswarth?' cried Woodford. 'I have noticed that a thousand times, and we all noticed it and wondered at it, but of course there is no wonder about it now, for it is as natural as can be that Mary should be like her own mother. Oh dear, oh dear, this is the happiest, the very happiest, hour in my life.'

And the simple, warm-hearted genuine little man, who had acted so noble a part in days gone by, danced about again in the overflowing fullness of delight.

At length, and suddenly, the truth of what she had done burst on Arabella's mind, and maddened her with rage. The feeling that she was baffled in her dearest purpose was to a woman of her stamp galling in the extreme, but it increased the mortification tenfold to know that she had baffled herself; and this she felt she had done most thoroughly. She had brought joy to the hearts of those she hated when her design was to add poignancy to their sorrow, and even the cup of her revenge in which she had been quaffing for years. The distortion of her enraged countenance was terrible to witness, as with glaring, baleful eyes, she looked on the spectacle of parents and child revealed to each other, and encircled in speechless transport. She clenched her hands and gnashed her teeth in the very impotence of despair; and if the lurid light of her flashing eyes could have blighted or killed, her heart had blackness and bitterness enough to exercise the deadly power.

It was in truth a sight too sacred for her unholy spirit to behold. It was as if a fallen angel had been taken to be a spectator of the pure joys of paradise which it has forfeited for ever.

Philip untwined his arms from the dear ones he held, and approached Arabella, his manly soul quivering with its deep emotion.

'This cancels the past,' he said in a broken voice; 'the evil deed you have confessed to have perpetrated is forgiven because of the rapturous happines you have this night caused.'

'Philip Ravenswarth,' hissed the raging-possessed woman. 'I would sacrifices this right hand to unsay the words by which such happiness has been produced.'

'Thank God, that is what you cannot do' he calmly and solemnly returned.

'I know I cannot,' she yelled, 'and my fancied triumph is gone for ever, but if the bitterest curse of my wronged and raging heart has power to take effect, my eternal malediction light on you and yours.'

'These wild words move us not,' answered Philip. 'You know what is written—The curse causeless shall not come.' In the great happiness of this restoration we are beyond the sphere of your malice, and all your evil wishes are harmless. You have your pity and forgiveness both; and if the time should come, as I trust it may, when you see things in a truer light, do not forget how gladly and eagerly we will relieve you from any straits in which you may be placed. You cannot but wish to be delivered from the miserable and degraded life you are leading.'

'This to me,' exclaimed Arabella, in a voice of frenzy. 'Insulted by your offers of help—you, whom I could see dying in agony at my feet—whose expiring groans would be music to my ear—curse, curse, curse you all.'

Shrieking and yelling out these awful words, so indicative of her rage and her impotence, the wretched woman concentrated on the group one final baleful glare and rushed foaming from the room. Then the door on the stair was dashed behind her with a violence which caused the whole tenement to shake, and she was gone.

She was gone, and it was like the departure of a dark, foul spirit from a sanctuary of sacred love and rapturous joy. It was an intense relief to the group she left, whose pent up feelings—which even her noxious presence could not wholly restrain—now gushed forth in impetuous force and freedom. The occasion was one where moderation was impossible. Smiles, tears, laughter, radiant faces, beaming eyes, spasmodic ejaculations, proud, wild, promiscuous embraces, and every species of mortal transport were manifested, with no attempt to suppress or subdue them. It was a very delirium of happiness started by each and all alike. Mary was rushed upon and hugged by each in turn, and when released from the yearning clasp of her parents and her husband and subjected to the no less loving embrace of her protector and earthly saviour, Philip and Lydia wept in each other's arms, and in forgetfulness of munion of spirit recalled the suffering of the past only to intensify more exquisitely the joy and rapture of the present.

For many minutes coherent words could not be uttered—their excited spirits alone conversed and exchanged vehement feelings. The discovery, so thrilling and sweet in good conception, had been unforeseen of. That Mary Woodford was their long lost child, was a thought, a suspicion, which had never in the most distant way crossed their imaginations. Yet had the choice been given them of the character and position of their daughter when restored to them, they would have desired none others than those possessed by Mary. They admired and loved her already—already had nature asserted itself in the relations which had been established between them. Is enhanced, therefore, in a measure not to be estimated, the joy of having their lost child restored to them to find in her one whom their hearts already loved and clung to, whose heart and mind were such as they warmly approved—whose character and disposition were beautiful and amiable.

What a night of tender reminiscence that was! To separate and retire to rest was not to be thought of, so the fire was made up, and they gathered themselves around it, Mary in the centre, with her parents on each side of her, and a hand given to each, and Charles and Woodford facing each other. Then the events of the past were one by one reasuciated, and minutely rehearsed. Every one was able to contribute a quota of the interesting and absorbing subject. Lydia and Philip related the occurrence of their sorrow producing loss, when the maid came from the park with the tidings that their darling was missing—their bright and beautiful Fanny, the joy and the pride of their then young married life. Then followed the particulars of the fruitless search, the days and nights and weeks and months of wildest grief and anguish, the deep, dense, abiding shadow which enveloped them, and which all the intervening years had not been able to remove.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. It is a monument to Wolfe and to Montcalm. Th monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Ports St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

Perjudice Kills.

'Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicans, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had pooh-ed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

False Impression.

It is generally supposed by physicians and the people generally that Dyspepsia cannot invariably be cured, but we are pleased to say that Green's August Flower has never, to our knowledge, failed to cure Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint in all its forms, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, etc. Out of the 50,000 dozen bottles sold last year, not a single failure was reported, but thousands of complimentary letters received from Druggists of wonderful cures. Three doses will relieve any case Try it. Sample bottles 10cts.; regular size 75cts.

CONSUMPTION
CAN BE CURED
IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. The preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we may say the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Aneamia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients im prove on this food medicine daily, is truly marvellous.

Gents,—I have frequently prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

Messrs. Messrs. December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your Emulsion and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in eleven weeks. I then took no other medicine since commencing with your Emulsion and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some one on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, &c. I have a horrible cough, not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many around and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your Emulsion and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure it shall entirely recover. I am grateful for it.

In its First and Second Stages, are

CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of Fellows & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the most eminent physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

James I. Fellows, Esq.
Dear Sir:—I have been requested writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that I have undoubtedly found a cure for my little girl, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that we had used your medicine I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily, looks quite stout for a child of her age, only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.
J. Walter Oakes.
Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
James I. Fellows, Esq.
Sir:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me. I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but the difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a few weeks to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.
I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name, no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife ; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

CHRONIC LARYNGITIS.

The premonitory symptoms of this disease begin with those of an ordinary cold, only that it is always attended with more or less hoarseness. It is scarcely ever an original disease separate and distinct in itself but is usually an extension of Catarrh this disease passing down the posterior nares and pharynx until it reaches the more sensitive mucus membrane of the larynx, and finally continuing down until it extends to the lungs. When it is caused by Catarrh the symptoms are more of a tickling in the throat, and the patients complain of a sensation as if something "sticking in the throat," which causes a continual coughing to clear the throat and windpipe. The voice is unnatural at first, being rough, while in the later stages it becomes weak and indistinct, and a constant sense of tightness and often difficulty in swallowing.

The above is the simplest form of the disease, and can be readily removed in a few weeks. Although in all cases it must be treated by the direct application of medicated inhalations (not atomization), for if we would properly treat a disease of this nature we must reach all the surrounding parts so as not to drive the disease beyond the reach of attack, and besides like the great danger of using caustics to the delicate organism, as is the custom of many physicians, for if we burn or dry up the inflamed mucus surface of the larynx and only reach those parts we are almost sure to drive the disease farther down into the bronchial tubes and lungs, but by the system of medicated inhalations the mucus surfaces of the larynx bronchial tubes and air cells of the lungs are all reached, hence the impossibility of driving the disease down to remote points, Being treated in this manner there are few cases of Chronic Laryngitis but what are readily curable.

The causes which produce this disease are various. It arises in clergymen, and is very prevalent in school teachers and many others, from too violent use of the voice, dust, the poisonous exudations from decayed vegetable matter, and living in damp houses. It is more often a sequel to ordinary sore throat, and inflamation extending down into the larynx by reason of the continuity of the mucous membrane.

But whatever may be its cause, it is always a very serious disease. When it becomes chronic it threatens a complete destruction of the voice, and rarely ends until the lungs become involved, and then every fresh cold or change in the weather continues to feed the disease and increases its severity, complications, and hold upon the sufferer.

This disease is often a sequel of consumption which is aggravated by the poisoned mucus which is being constantly expectorated from the lungs. When this is the case the disease is of a most distressing character. There is more or less ulceration in the vicinity of the vocal chords These ulcers frequently penetrate through the mucus and cellular membranes, and often attack the ligaments and cartilages themselves. When this is the case we can only hope to effect a complete cure by those means which will remove the cause, viz., the consumption of the lungs. And in order to do this there is only one system of practice capable of approximating face to face with the seat of disease. I refer to Medicated Inhalations, and this system is usually successful after all other means have been tried without avail. Often on account of distance, constitutional debility or want of travel, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, and we write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and, when fully answered and returned to the Institute, remedies can be sent per express (duty free,) together with full directions for use. A SUMMER DAY.

The flowers lay sleeping beneath the dew—
But the mother had watched the whole night through.

The wild sweet carol of one small bird,
Was the sound that the weary watcher heard.

And the summer dawn grew into the morn,
But still she sat weeping beside her first-born.

Life was fading from cheek and brow,
And the mother's heart was breaking now.

Not one sound in the chamber of death
Was heard—save the maiden's laboring breath.

No word of murmur the mother spake ;
Silent and calm are the hearts that break.

Morning passed—and the noon so still
Bathed in warm light the vine wood and hill.

Slumbrous airs from the west went by,
And the mother watched for her child to die.

Afternoon came—and the maiden lay
Lifeless and soundless—a mould of clay !

Rain came down as from eyes that wept ;
Watching was over—the maiden slept.

Through the quiet falling of evening rain
The bird's soft carol stole in again !

Then the mother said, "'Tis a message for me,
To tell me, O child, that 'tis well with thee !"

And the summer day ended, for "late or long,
Every day wreathed to even song."

THERE IS NO DEATH.

There is no death ! The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore ;
And bright in Heaven's jewelled crown
They shine forevermore.

There is no death. The dust we tread
Shall change beneath the summer showers
To golden grain or mellow fruit,
Or rainbow tinted flowers.

The granite rocks disorganize
To feed the hungry moss they bear ;
The forest trees drink daily life
From out the viewless air.

There is no death. The leaves may fall,
The flowers may fade and pass away
They only wait through wintry hours
The coming of the May.

There is no death. An angel form
Walks o'er the earth with silent tread ;
He bears our best loved things away,
And then we call them "dead."

He leaves our hearts all desolate,
He plucks our fairest, sweetest flowers ;
Transplanted in his paradise, they now
Adorn immortal bowers.

The bird-like voice, whose joyous tones
Make glad these scenes of sin and strife
Sings now an everlasting song
Amid the trees of life.

And when he sees a smile so bright,
Our heart too pure for taint and vice,
He bears it to the world of light,
To dwell in Paradise.

Born unto that undying life,
They leave us but to come again ;
With joy we welcome them—the same,
Except in sin and pain.

And ever near us, though unseen,
The dear, immortal spirits tread,
For all the boundless Universe
Is life—there are no dead.

A Sermon On Push—For Boys,

When cusin Will was at home for vacation the boys always expected plenty of fun. The last frolic before he went back to his studies was a long tramp to the woods. And when we were hurrying along in great glee, they came upon a discouraged looking man, and a discouraged looking cart. The cart was standing before a mud hole. The man was trying to pull it up hill to his house.

The boys did not wait to be invited, but ran to help with a good will. "Push, push" was the cry.

The man brightened up ; the cart trundled along, and in five minutes they all stood panting at the top of the hill.

"Obliged to you," said the man "you just wait a minute ;" and he hurried into the house, while two or three pink-aproned children peeped out of the door.

"Push pays, don't it, cousin Will, "this is a small thing ; but I wish we could all take a motto out of it for life 'Push !' It is just the word for a grand clear morning. If anybody is in trouble, and you see it don't stand back; push !

"If there is anything good doing in anyplace where you happen to be; push !

"Whenever there's a kind thing, a Christian thing, a pleasant thing, whether it is at home or in school or at school, just help with all your might; push !"

At that moment the farmer came up with nuts and apples ; and that was the end of this sermon.

The Cruise of a Bottle.

The bottle picked up on South Reach, near Fort Morgan, at the entrance of Mobile Bay, tells an interesting story of the winds and waves. This waif was thrown off the ship Hesperia, bound to London from South Australia, as she was just south of the Azores, (about latitude 37 degrees north and longitude 28 degrees west) on May 12, 1878, and was reported from the Alabama coast on the 22nd instant. It must, therefore, have been drifting a little over two years, which it has consumed in making the circuit of thecequatorial Atlantic and the Mexican Gulf. The course pursued by this little "tally put upon the winds" by Mr. Wregge, a scientific voyager in the Hesperia, can be pretty accurately determined. During the month of May, 1878, when the bottle was committed to the sea, the barometric observations in the Atlantic demonstrate the prevalence of a large area of high pressure (30-20 inches) in the region south of the Azores and around its northern side, a strong band of westerly and northwesterly winds drawing in the anti-cyclonic direction. During the first 20 days of its voyage the bottle was under the pressure of these westerly and northerly winds and the consequent ocean current which they induced, so that its inevitable course was toward the island of Madeira and the Canaries, and thence southwesterally off the Cape Verde into the North Equatorial current In 1848 Capt. Becher, of the royal navy, charted a number of probable tracks pursued by bottles thrown out to test the rate of the equatorial currents, and the mean rate at which they travelled in this marine area was 10.6 miles per day. He found also that bottles thrown off into the North Equatorial drift travelled much slower than those started from points nearer the Equator and on the axis of the north-east trade wind belt. Thus a bottle thrown over from the ship Racehorse in latitude 12 degrees 12 minutes, longitude 63 degrees 20 minutes, April 17th, 1836, was picked up April 22 at Bonair, having made 150 miles in five days. But a bottle thrown from the ship Dunmore in 1838 in latitude 27 degrees, 4 minutes and longitude 29, on the northeastern margin of the Sargasso Sea, reached Cuba a distance of 3200 miles, in 437 days, making on an average less than nine miles a day. The bottle from the Hesperia, just picked up on the Mexican Gulf coast, was approximately under the same wind and wave influences which bore the Dunmore's waif, and hence the former, traversing the equatorial current and passing through the Caribbean Sea, into the Gulf of Mexico, making a total circuit of 5,500 miles, travelled at about the same mean rate—eight miles a day. This bottle crime, performed unnoticed amid the trackless wastes of the equatorial seas, though no living soul can tell its vicissitudes and variations from day to day, declares the regularity of oceanic circulation, and its history will be highly prized by navigators and geographers.—New York Herald.

Only a Husk.

Tom Darcy, yet a young man, had grown to be a very hard one. At heart he might have been all right, if his head and his will had been right, but there things being wrong, the whole machine was going to the bad very fast, though there were times when the heart felt some of its own truthful yearnings.

Tom had lost his place as foreman of the great machine shop, and what money he now earned came from old jobs of tinkering which he was only able to do here and there at private houses; for Tom was a genius as well as a mechanic, and when his head was steady enough he could mend a clock or clean a watch as well as he could set up and regulate a steam engine, and this latter he could do better than any other man ever employed by the Scott Falls Manufacturing Company.

One day Tom had a job to mend a broken mowing machine and a reaper, for which he received five dollars, and on the following morning he started out for his old haunt—the village tavern. He knew that his wife sadly needed the money, and that his two little children were in absolute suffering for want of clothing, and that morning he held a debate with the better part of himself, but the better part had become very much shaky, and the demon of appetite carried the day.

So away to the tavern Tom went, where for two or three hours he felt the exhilarating effect of the alcoholic draught, and fancied himself happy, as he sang and sang and laugh, but as usual, stupefaction followed and the man died out. He drank while he could stand, and then lay down in a corner where his companions left him.

It was late at night, almost midnight, when the landlord's wife come to the bar-room to see what kept her husband up, and she quickly saw Tom.

"Peter," said she, not in a pleasant mood, "why don't you send that miserable Tom Darcy home ? He has been hanging around here long enough."

Toms stupefaction was not sound sleep. The dead coma had left his brain, and the calling of his name stung his senses to keen attention. He had an insatiate love of rum, but did not like to be insulted. In other years Peter Tinder and himself had loved and wooed the same sweet maiden—Ellen Goss—and he won her, leaving Peter to take up with the vinegary and saturnine Jane, so he bought him the tavern, and Tom knew that lately the sapsetter had gloated over the misery of the woman who had once discarded him.

"Why don't you send him home ?" demanded Mrs. Tinder with an impatient stamp of her foot.

"Hush, Betsy ! He's got money. Let him be, and he'll be sure to spend it before he goes home. I'll have the kernel of that nut, and his wife may have the husk."

With a snip and a snap, Betsy turned away, and shortly afterwards Tom Darcy lifted himself up on his elbow.

"Ah, Tom, are you awake ?"

"Yes."

"Then rouse up and have a warm glass."

Tom got up on his feet and steadied himself. "No, I won't drink any more to-night."

And with this he went out into the chill air of midnight. When he got away from the shadow of the tavern, he stopped and looked up at the stars and then he looked down upon the earth.

"Ay," he muttered, grinding his heel in the sand, "Peter Tinder is taking the kernel and leaving my poor Ellen the worthless husk —a husk worse than worthless ! and I am helping him to do it. I am robbing my wife of joy, my children of honor and comfort, and myself of love and life—just that Peter Tinder may have the kernel and Ellen the husk. We'll see !"

It was a revelation to the man. The tavernkeeper's speech to him and his wife's ears, had come on his senses as fell the voice of the Risen One upon Saul of Tarsus.

"We'll see !" he said, setting his foot firmly on the ground; then he wended his way homeward.

On the following morning he said to his wife : "Ellen, have you any coffee in the house ?"

"Yes, Tom." She did not tell him that her sister had given it to her. She was glad to have him ask for coffee instead of the old, old cider.

"I wish you would make me a cup, good and strong."

There was really music in Tom's voice, and the wife set about the work with a flutter at her heart.

Tom drank two cups of the strong, fragrant coffee and then went out—went straight to the great manufactory, where he found Mr. Scott in his office.

"Mr. Scott, I want to learn my trade over again."

"Eh, Tom ! what do you mean ?"

"I mean that it's Tom Darcy come back to the old place, asking forgiveness for the past and hoping to do better in the future."

"Tom," cried the manufacturer, starting forward and grasping his hand, "are you in earnest ? Is it really the old Tom ?"

"It's what's left of him, sir, and we'll have him whole and strong very soon if you'll only set him at work."

"Work ? Aye, Tom, and bless you, too. There's an engine to be set up and tested today. Come with me."

Tom's hand's were weak and unsteady, but his brain was clear, and under his skilful supervision the engine was set up and tested; but it was not perfect. There were mistakes which he had to correct and it was late in the evening when the work was complete.

"How is it now, Tom ?" asked Mr. Scott, as he came to the testing room and found the workmen getting ready to depart.

"She's all right, sir. You may give your warrant without fear."

"God bless you, Tom ! You don't know how like a sweet tune the old voice sounds. Will you take your place again ?"

"Wait till Monday morning, sir. If you offer it to me then I will take it."

At the little cottage Ellen Darcy's fluttering heart was sinking. That morning, after Tom had gone she had found a dollar bill in the coffee cup. She knew that he left it for her. She had been out and bought tea and sugar, and flour and butter and a bit of tender steak; and all day long a ray of light had been dancing and shimmering before her—a ray from the blessed light of other days. With prayer and hope she had set out the tea-table and waited.

But the sun went down and no Tom came. Eight o'clock—almost nine.

Hark ! The old step ! quick, strong, and eager for home. Yes, it was Tom, with the old grime upon his hands, and the odor of oil upon his garments.

"I have kept you waiting, Nellie."

"Tom !"

"I didn't mean to do it, but the work hung on so."

"Tom ! Tom ! You have been to the old shop ?"

"Yes, and I'm bound to have the old place, and—"

"Oh, Tom !"

And she threw her arms around his neck and covered his face with kisses.

"Nellie, darling, wait a little and you shall have the old Tom back again."

"Oh, Tom ! I've got him back now, my own Tom ! my husband !"

And then Tom Darcy realized the full power and blessing of a woman's love.

It was a banquet of the gods, was that supper of the household gods all restored—with the angels of peace and love and joy spreading their wings over the board.

On the following Monday morning Tom Darcy assumed his place at the head of the great machine shop, and those who thoroughly knew him had no fear of his going back into the slough of joylessness.

"Eh, Tom, old boy, what's up ?"

"I am up, right side up."

"Yes, I see, but I hope you haven't forsaken us Tom ?"

"I have forsaken only the evil you have in store Peter. The fact is, I concluded that my wife and little ones had suffered long enough, and if there was a good kernel left in my heart or in my manhood that they should have it.

"Ah, you heard what I said to my wife that night."

"Yes, Peter, and I shall be grateful to you for it as long as I live. My remembrance of you will always be relieved by that tinge of warmth and brightness."—Rural Home.

Being on Time.

Mr. Spurgeon says :—Punctuality is one of the minor moralities, but it is one which every young man should carefully cultivate. The very smallness of the virtue makes its opposite vice the less excusable. It is so easy to be in time as it is to be five minutes late, when you once acquire the habit. Let it be acquired by every lesson and never lost again. Upon that five minutes will depend a world of comfort to others, and every Christian should consider this to be a very weighty argument. We have no right to cause worry and aggravation to others, when a little thoughtfulness on our part would prevent it. If the engagement be for 12 o'clock, we have no authority to make it 12½, and by doing so we shall promote nobody's happiness. That odd five minutes may create discomfort for fourteen persons throughout the entire day, and this perhaps may touch the slugard a little more keenly than any less selfish consideration. He who begins a little late in the morning will find that he is behind all the remainder of the day, and if he is a Quaker, who happened also to be on the committee, and had been compelled to wait, because a quorum could not be made up to proceed with the business, remarked to him, "Friend, thou hast wasted a full hour. It is not only thy quarter of an hour which thou hast lost, but the quarter of an hour of each of the other three ; and hours are not so plentiful that we can afford to throw them away." We once knew a brother whom we named "the late-comer," for he was always late in time. A certain tart gentleman, who had been irritated by this brother's unpunctuality, said that the sooner that name was literally carved on his tombstone the better. His wife had to wait for him. Many a man would much rather be fined than be kept waiting. If a man must injure me, let him rather plunder me of my cash than of my time. To keep a busy man waiting is an act of robbery, and also an insult. It may not be so intended, but certainly if a man has proper respect for his friend, he will know the value of his time, and will not cause him to waste it. There is a cool contempt in unpunctuality, for it as good as says, "Let the fellow wait who is he, that I should keep my appointment with him ?"

Too Proud to Work.

There is an immense amount of power that is never developed in some people, simply from the fact that they have selfishly chosen to conceal their talent in a napkin. God can never smile upon or bless such people. It is by use that our power is to be improved and developed. One of the wealthiest men in Wall Street, it is said, broke down in business some years ago. He went into an office where he was well acquainted, and asked the members of the firm that he had no bread for his family. "I am ready to go messages for you or perform any other service," he said. He hung up his coat and took the unpromised work at the bottom rung of the ladder. You may be sure he mounted up. Take off your coat of self-righteousness and ease, and commence at once with the work of humility, repentance and faith—the bottom rung of the ladder of Christianity—and you will most surely mount up as upon eagles' wings to heaven. Many once, who had been thrown out of work at a handsome salary, took a cotton-hook and went to work among the cotton bales on the wharf. He was a man of grit, and soon began to rise, and was finally promoted to a higher position. Let Christians everywhere be willing to work, and they will find that their power will be greatly developed, their usefulness increased, and their labors rewarded.—Conference Worker.

Gems of Thoguht.

Impatience dries the blood sooner than age or sorrow.

No man can be a good man—that is a Christian man—without a great deal of self-denial, not, however because religion requires more self-denial than worldliness does, but because universal human life requires self denial. Every step of education is a step of self-denial.

Some one has beautifully said ; "You have noticed that all evening shadows point to the east where the dawn will appear. So every shadow made by the descending sun of earthly prosperity, points with sure prophecy to the better hopes which are kindled by the glowing promises of God."

Carry through to the end unminded, and unwasted, the pure flame of your faith and love ; and along the way hold ever in your view that upper sphere in which every burden shall fall away, every deefre reach yield its fulness, and every struggle gain its full goodwithin you come to everlasting bloom and fruitage.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, AUGUST 7.

Toronto Collectorship.

The Montreal Herald of the 5th inst. says :—"It is now pretty well understood "that Hon. Mr. Bowell, the present Min"ister of Customs, is to receive the To"ronto Collectorship." This the Herald thinks is correct, because the statement has not been denied by "Government organs," as it terms the Ministerial press. For its information, and to allay any further anxiety upon the subject, we are in a position to state that there is not now, nor has there ever been, the slightest foundation for the statement that the "Hon. Mr. Bowell is to receive the Toronto Collectorship." The fact that the Ministerial press does not deny ever canard put in circulation by opposition correspondents in Ottawa, is no evidence of the truth of their statements.

Our Tariff in Manchester.

On the 5th inst. Sir John A. Macdonald received an important deputation on the subject of the Canadian tariff, from the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, representing the whole of the Lancashire industries. Sir John, in replying to the gentlemen, said the tariff had been adjusted on the principle to encourage English imports by placing heavier duties on American goods, but that Englishmen were prejudiced and ignored Canada's peculiar situation as regards the United States. American rings and corners had completely crushed all attempts to introduce manufactures into Canada, and would have continued to do so unless Canada, by her new tariff, had endeavored to prevent it. The new tariff had already forced the Americans to clamor for a reciprocal treaty which previously had been contemptuously refused. If America wanted reciprocal privileges she must give something in return. With countervailing duties in English markets, Canada could always afford to make 10 per cent. difference between English and other foreign goods. In conclusion Sir John said he did not think there was any immediate chance for a reduction of the tariff, but he would willingly receive any suggestion and remedy any proved injustice. Sir John incidentally promised to equalize postal rates from England and the United States to Canada on sample parcels. Sir John Macdonald's speech, the despatch says, is considered to be a most slashing defence of the protective policy.

"Legitimate Grounds."

The Moncton Times, remarking upon the ceaseless stream of slander and vituperation which is being poured upon the Dominion Government, says : "It would be much more creditable to the Grit press if it would attack the Government on legitimate grounds. It known that the country is over whelmingly in favor of giving the National Policy a trial, and it knows that the working of the National Policy, so far, has been far more satisfactory than could have been expected. The Grit papers cannot but see a returning confidence among the people. Between one and two millions of dollars have been absorbed in new manufacturing enterprises, shipping property is in demand, and a great improvement in agricultural matters is noticeable, while a good commencement has been made at stock raising. This refers to the Maritime Provinces alone. Then why is it that the Opposition newspapers will adopt such disreputable tactics? Why not follow the example of the American press in doing all that is possible to restore entire confidence, without which there can be no genuine business prosperity or rapid National advancement? And if this is not possible, and the National policy must be attacked, why not give it credit for the good it has done, while attacking it for injury, imaginary or real, that the opposition claim it is inflicting on the Dominion?"

COTTON FACTORY.—At a meeting held in Toronto on Thursday it was decided to establish a cotton factory in that city on the co-operative principle. The factory is to be run by steam, and its capital is to be $2,000,000. Another "monopoly," the Globe will shout.

BUYING UP RAILWAYS.—A rumor is current in Ottawa that Vanderbilt is trying to purchase the North Shore, Toronto and Ottawa and Coteau Landing Railways, with a view to establishing another through competing line from the West.

Cricket.

PICTON vs. BELLEVILLE.

This game was played yesterday under highly favorable circumstances, the weather being all that could be desired. Picton presented their usual eleven, whilst three of the first eleven of the local club were absent and had their places filled by other players.

Belleville went first to the bat and sent in Maybee and Lister to the bowling of Gilbert and Twigg. The former bowled his first ball to Maybee, who drove it for 1, but no more was added to the score in this over. Maybee made a 1 off Twigg's first ball, and a bye was run, closing the over. Maybee next drove Gilbert for 1 and made another on an overthrow, and then another single, followed by a single off Twigg. One more bye was added to the score, and Maybee hit Twigg for 1 more, and Lister hit the same bowler for 1. Still another bye was run, and Maybee made the first 2 hit off Gilbert, following it with a single. Another 1 for Maybee off Twigg, was followed by two 2s for Lister in the same over. A 3 by Maybee off Gilbert was succeeded by 1 for Lister. Tait then took the ball at Twigg's end, his first over being a maiden, and Gilbert followed with an over of like character. Maybee then lifted one from Tait for 1, and Lister hit for 1, which Maybee followed with a 2. Several additions were made to the score, and Maybee was finally bowled by Tait for a nicely played 18, which was compiled in 40 minutes—32 runs for 1 wicket. Clark filled the vacancy, and at the first good opportunity made 4 off an over pitched ball from Gilbert, but retired on the next ball, clean bowled. Jenkins was the next man. Two wickets for 30 runs. Two byes were next run, then a leg bye, and Jenkins slipped one from Tait for 2 and next hit one to mid off for 3. Another change in bowling then took place, Langmuir trundling from the lower end in place of Gilbert, and bowling a maiden over, whilst Tait followed with another. The next hit was a 1 for Jenkins off Langmuir, whose succeeding ball was a wide. Lister then made 1 and Jenkins another and another. Then Lister cut one for 2 off Tait. A bye was run, then Lister gave a chance to Van Patten, which he missed, giving him one run. Jenkins made a drive for 2, when Lister was bowled by Tait after making 15 runs by very careful play—(3 out for 56). Thomas took Lister's place and scored 1 off the first ball with a chance for a catch, and again 3 for a cut. Jenkins drove one for 2 runs. Thomas hit one very neatly for 1, another for 2, then 1. Then Jenkins got one to short leg for a single; Thomas a single. Jenkins one to leg for 2. Thomas then drove for a single. Jenkins a single, then a drive for 2, and another. Then Thomas one for 2 and another for 1. Jenkins was then caught by Vanpatten off Tait, after making 20, and was replaced by Starling, (4 wickets for 79) who gave a chance on the second ball, which was taken by Horrigan. Wilson followed and made one off the second ball. Langmuir was replaced by Vanpatten, and Thomas made 2 runs off his first over. Tait then bowled a maiden over. Thomas made 1 off Vanpatten, then one off Tait, Wilson 1, and another off Vanpatten, and Tait bowled a wide. Again Wilson hit Tait for 3 followed by Thomas for a 2, and a single. Twigg then took the ball from Vanpatten, and Thomas and Wilson each made a single then ran a bye. Wilson a single and Gilbert replaced Tait, whose second ball was hit by Wilson for 1, and Thomas made another and Wilson added 2. Thomas and Wilson each added 1 off Gilbert, and the former made a cut for 1, Wilson being caught by Horrigan on the next ball after securing 13, six wickets for 106. Kemp, who was the next man, retired before the first ball, which took his wicket, and Hodgins, who succeeded, made 1 on his first hit. Thomas and Hodgson next made 1 each and Thomas added 1 more and then 3, which Hodgson supplemented with 2 and then with 1, and Thomas hit up one, which Vanhorn failed to hold. Next a bye was run. Hodgson made 1 more, and Thomas was next bowled by Gilbert, after making 31—the score of the day—which was obtained by free hitting. Eight wickets for 119. Reeves was the ninth man. Hodgson then made a 2 hit off Gilbert, but made one more on an overthrow, Reeves being bowled for 0. Bates was the last to go in, and went out on the second ball from Twigg for 0. Total score 122.

After lunch, Picton sent in Chadd and Merrill to the bowling of Thomas and Hodgson, the former at the south and the latter at the north end. Merrill made 1 in Thomas' first over, and Hodgson's first was a maiden. Then Chadd made 1 by a little hit off Thomas' last ball. Chadd next made a 2 and subsequently 1 off Hodgson. The fielding was very sharp and runs came but slowly, only 1 being made off Hodgson by Chadd in the next over. Thomas' next was a maiden. Merrill made 1 off Hodgson. Play of a similar character followed for several overs, the monotony being varied only by a 3 by Merrill off Hodgson, the batters not being able to do much with the bowling, which was well on the spot. Finally Merrill put up one, which Kemp took, and went out for 9—one for 16. Vanhorn followed, and after some careful play Chadd hit a 3 off Thomas, off whom Vanhorn was shortly after caught for a 0. Two for 19. VanPatten was next man in. Chadd made another 3 from Hodgson, and a single, which an overthrow converted into a double. Some singles followed and Chadd hit one high, but Reeves failed to hold it. He was, however, bowled by Thomas, on the first ball of his next over, after making 16. Three wickets for 26. Langmuir was fourth, and two singles, a bye, a leg bye, and a wide were scored, the latter bowled by Hodgson. Langmuir made a high hit, but Lister failed to get far enough under it, and 3 runs were made. Uneventful play followed for some time, but few runs being made, but afterwards Langmuir varied this by making several two hits and some singles. He retired caught by Jenkins off Hodgson for 15. Four wickets for 52. Lightall went in next, and was caught by Jenkins off Thomas for a round 0. Five for 54. Horrigan succeeded, and after making 1 was bowled by Hodgson. Six for 60. Tait followed, and play became more lively, second runs being added to the score, both men hitting freely. The bowling was changed at both ends, Lister relieving Thomas, and Jenkins succeeding Hodgson. After several overs, during which scoring was slow, Tait was bowled by Lister for 4. Seven for 81. Twigg, who was the ninth man, was bowled by Jenkins for 0. Eight for 82. Gilbert came next, and Van Patten made a hit off which 6 runs were made, the ball being lost, and then added a 2 hit off Lister. Thomas then relieved Jenkins with the ball at the north end, and Jenkins replaced Lister at the south end, and when 95 had been scored "time" was called at 4 p. m., according to agreement, and thus the game ended in a draw, although Belleville's prospects of winning, had Picton's inning been played out, was of the most rosy character.

The local Club missed Peden very much in the bowling department, in which they were very weak, and Dean and Corby were also missed in the batting line. Their fielding was sharp in the first part of the game, but later it became loose and very careless. Picton presented a fairly good team, their bowling being fair, but in fielding they were not generally up to the mark. The game was on the whole a friendly and pleasant one.

At the close of the game three cheers were given for the visitors, who were escorted to their steamer and departed at about 4:30 for home.

The scores made by the respective sides were as follows :

AFGHAN AFFAIRS.

The Scene of the Battle Between Burrows and Ayoob Khan.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Sanghar, where Ayoob Khan was reported to be on the 1st inst., is about half-way between Kushk-i-Nakud and Hyderabad and about fifteen miles from Kushk-i-Nakud. The battle between General Burrows' and Ayoob Khan's forces was fought a few miles north of Kushk-i-Nakud. The Afghans, therefore, instead of advancing, must have fallen back a short distance.

A Cabul despatch says that the Ameer has sent 700 ponies for transport service. He has also sent a number of prominent men to arrange for our supplies on the Candahar route. A Lahore despatch says that the Cabul force on its arrival at Gundamuk, will remain as an army of observation.

The Marquis of Hartington says the Government had no information of any special excitement among the Mohammedans in India. Doubtless, he said, they would watch with great anxiety the course of events in the East. He read a telegram from Cabul on the 4th inst. which says that the Candahar forces will march on Saturday, and the remainder of the army will leave Cabul for Gundamuk on Tuesday or Wednesday next.

A BIG HAUL.—The Globe of the 6th contains the following account of a daring robbery which took place in that city on the 4th inst : —"One of the most daring robberies that has occurred for some time past took place in the offices of the Dominion Bank on Wednesday. It appears that Mr. Pitman, an employee in the Building and Loan Society, came into the Bank with a deposit book and a deposit of over $1,600. The receiving teller being employed in counting another deposit, Mr. Pitman placed his book as he thought in safety inside the rail, and proceeded round the corner to get a cheque marked. Meantime two strangers had entered the Bank, the one a tall fair man, and the other a short dark party, with a full black beard, evidently two Americans. A gentleman connected with the Gas Company was also standing by, and one of the men came up and asked him where the Ontario Bank was, placing himself in such a position as to screen his partner's movements. On being informed the two men left, but on Mr. Pitman's return the box and money had vanished. Information was at once given to police, but up to the present time there is no clue to the thieves."

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The first mortgage consolidated 6 per cent bonds of the Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway are now selling at 106 to 107.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—A Bucharest correspondent announces that the Roumanian Government is about to send Col. Valinesco to Washington on a special mission in connection with the recognition of Roumanian independence. After fulfilling his duty at Washington, Col. Valinesco will go to Rio Janeiro on a similar errand. Both visits are simple acts of courtesy from the Prince of Roumania to the heads of the Governments of the United States and Brazil and have no political significance.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Leading physicians express the opinion that Dr. Tanner's 40 days fast is a worthless experiment.

AMERICAN.

OMAHA, Aug. 7.—"Big Nose George" alias George Parrott, of the Elk Mountain robbers, who about two years ago laid a plan to ditch and rob a Union Pacific passenger train near Carbon Oregon, and who killed deputy sheriff Widdowfield and Tip Vincent, scouts who tracked them to Elk Mountain from Miles City, Montana, was recently caught. He was in charge of Sheriff Rankin, of Rawlins, who left for home with him on the train. Chances are that the friends of Widdowfield and Vincent at Carbon will lynch him as they did Dutch Charley. The arrest of Parrot will probably break up the contemplated organization of a band of outlaws who it is thought were preparing to raid the Union Pacific and other roads and rob stage coaches.

WASHINGTON, Aug 7.—The Consul General of Egypt reports the method of the trial of Mirzan, the convicted murderer of Dahan, had a good effect upon the people and all the nationalities in Alexandria, who for the first time witnessed the salutary conduct of the Consular Court. He says the trial was conducted with as much fairness as if it had been in the United States.

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 7.—It is stated that the Governor informed a number of prominent officers in the Texas militia that they must abandon Dalrymple's movement for the invasion of Mexico or resign their commissions. General James, who commands the first division of the Texas volunteer guards, formally told the Governor that he and those with him would withdraw from the grand army of occupation. This leaves Dalrymple's 1,000 men already enlisted in Texas without a leader. It is thought here that northern capitalists are furnishing the sinews of war to Dalrymple.

BRITISH DELEGATES.—A Toronto despatch says :—"Mr. Donaldson, Dominion Government Immigration Agent, takes charge of the British delegates in the absence of of the Hon. Mr. Hardy, who is now at the sea side, and will forward them through the different sections of the country. It is their intention to remain in Ontario three months. This will afford them an opportunity of visiting the fall exhibitions, where they will collect the most valuable information. Three of the delegates have gone on to Manitoba, and will no doubt return with a favorable account of the country."

A YOUNG EVANGELIST named Henry Bridger, from London, England, has been holding open air gospel services each night this week, on the waste ground of Walker's foundry, to a large number of willing listeners. Will Christian friends remember him in much prayer at the throne of grace: 2 Thessalonians third chapter, first verse.

We know of one local man who is willing to row against Mr Eilbeck at Kingston for a cup to be donated by the residents of that city, or to take part in an amateur regatta at that place.

LAYING THE CORNER STONE.—The corner stone of the new Church of England at Mill Point is to be laid by the Bishop of Ontario on the 18th inst., our civic holiday. They expect to be absent about six weeks".

EXCITE CURIOSITY.—Q. What is advertising? A. The art of exciting curiosity. Q. What is curiosity? A. A feeling of inquisitiveness, which nothing short of investigation or trial will satisfy. Q. What is the result of creating this feeling? A. Prosperity and riches to the advertiser. Therefore if you would succeed in advertising, excite curiosity, and you will hit the mark every time.

FISHMONGERS' COMPANY

A Dinner to the Canadian Ministers in England.

Speeches by Sir John Macdonald and Sir Chas. Tupper.

(By Cable to the Globe.)

LONDON, Aug. 6, 1880.

Sir John Macdonald, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Alexander Galt, Colonel Dennis, Hon. Mr. Pope, Colonel Williams, Earl Derby, and Sir Garnet Wolseley were entertained last night by the Fishmongers' Company. The Prime Warden proposed the toast of "The British Colonies."

Sir John Macdonald responded, and said they in Canada were desirous of having Englishmen, Irishmen and Scotcmen come among them and settle. They had 150,000,000 acres of land, where the Government give men of eighteen years of age and upwards farms of 150 acres gratuitously "of the finest land," as the Yankee would say "that ever lay out of doors."

Sir Charles Tupper also responded, and corrected the suggestion that the object of the Canadian visitors was to obtain money from England, except by way of securing a profitable investment for the construction of railways and the development of the country. He dwelt upon the advantages Canada offered to emigrants and the importance of emigration as a means of contributing to the solution of some of the difficulties which were the subject of controversy in this country.

THE CATTLE TRADE.—In the British House of Commons on the 6th, Mr. Arnold (Liberal) member for Salford moved his resolution that the compulsory slaughter at ports of landing of fat stock from the United States restricts supply and increase the cost of food, and having regard to the freedom from disease of the cattles producing States, the House recommends the modification or removal of the restriction. The motion was defeated by 194 to 20.

IRELAND.—Mr. Forster stated in the House of Commons on the 6th that the fear of a rising in Ireland in consequence of the defeat of the Compensation Bill is unfounded. Small military detachments will be placed in Mayo and other districts where outrages on individuals have occurred and thereby increase public confidence.

SITTING BULL.—It is believed by officers of the Indian Bureau at Washington that before cold weather Sitting Bull will leave Canadian territory and take his chances for trial for the crimes he has committed. His band has almost wholly deserted him. No fears of an Indian outbreak are apprehended this year.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using GRAEN'S AUGUST FLOWER. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Frostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of AUGUST FLOWER will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

Ten and a half cents was freely offered at Watertown, N. Y., on Thursday, for best cheese, and refused; 10½ cents was asked by some sellers, and 11 cents is expected before the week is out.

SAVE TRANSPORTATION.—The cargo steamships of the Allan line, which have arrived at the ports of Liverpool and Glasgow up to this date this season, took out 5,314 oxen, 15 horses and 3,770 sheep, which have been landed alive and in good order with the exception of 15 oxen and one sheep. The goods shipped by the steamship Sarnia on July 22nd, were delivered within ten days. Rapid transit.

MONTREAL'S GRAIN TRADE.—The total receipts of wheat, corn, peas, oats and barley at Montreal, from the first of January to the 4th of August, were 9,499,931 bushels, an increase of 1,800,207 from the corresponding period of last year. Receipts of flour show a decrease and meal an increase.

LIVE STOCK.—The shipments of live stock from Montreal for the week ending August 7th were: Cattle 1,244; sheep 944.

It is estimated that from 20 to 25 tons of cherries have been shipped from Bear River, N. S. this season.

TIMBER.—The Quebec timber maket is excited at present, but sellers and buyers are so far apart in their views regarding prices that it narrows business down to a very small compass. Barret & McKay's raft of white pine, 55 or 56 feet average, has been sold at 24½ per foot, and a raft of red pine, 51 feet average, at 17 cents per foot. A & P White's raft of white pine, 53 feet average, sold at 25c, with red pine, 36 feet average, at 16c. Several old rafts have changed hands, Capt. Young's raft, white pine, 51 feet, and red pine, 43 feet, sold at 20c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.—The receipts of butter at Montreal since January 1st were 83,117 packages, and shipments 90,778. Of cheese the receipts were 210,120 boxes and shipments 237,933 boxes, or 27,997 boxes less than during the same time last year.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Arrived, the Mosel from Bremen, the Columbia from Barrow, and the Nederland from Antwerp.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Arrived out, the Canada.

VIENNA, Aug. 7.—The floods in Silesia have subsided. They have done irreparable damage to public and private property and caused great distress.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—A Constantinople despatch gives the following account of the recent murder of Dr. Parsons, an American missionary, and his servant near Ismid:—Parsons, accompanied by an Armenian servant, was making a professional tour in the mountains east of Ismid and encamped on the night of the 4th inst., by the roadside in the vicinity of some Zurukes, a semi nomadic tribe. Two Zuruki shepherds, who have since been arrested, confessed with cynical composure that they shot two travellers as they slept and robbed them of their money, amounting to less than a pound. As Parsons did not reach his destination at the expected time, and as his horses were found wandering about the hills, his friends instituted a search and their bodies were discovered under some bushes near the scene of the murder.

The authorities on hearing that a despatch on the subject had been sent to the British Embassy, showed more than usual zeal, and by threatening wholesale arrests, induced the Zurukes to surrender the criminals. As they are neither Circassians, nor Bosnians, and have probibly no influe tial protectors in the palace they may possibly be executed, but the fact of their being Mohammedans may put obstacles in the way of the ordinary judicial procedure.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Tanner completed his 40 days fast at noon. A large table of water melons, fruit, bread, &c., was spread in the hall. As soon as the time was up the crowd cheered enthusiastically. 1,000 persons were in the hall and immense crowd on the sidewalk. He at once drank a glass of milk and then he called for watermelon of which he ate heartily, and when contented with the melon he said to be left alone. At 12:15 he left the hall with Dr. Gunn, who took him to his own residence, where he will undergo careful treatment. Tanner's weight at the end of his fast was 121½ lbs., a loss o. 36 lbs.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 7.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, moderate to fresh winds, mostly southerly to south westerly; fine but not weather.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Indications: lower lakes, clear or partly cloudy, stationary or higher temperature.

Haunted Me.

Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for Doctoring, which done no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost.—A Workingman.

The Old Story.

The morning sunlight looked in through the silken curtains, lighting the room as with an angel's smile, suddenly enveloping the face of its occupant with a strange brightness and transforming her pale brown hair into waves of glistening gold. Said the sunlight: "Maiden I missed you from the garden where I used to find you every morning, and I came here to seek you. Summer will soon be here with her roses almost as bright as your cheeks. Are you ill?" "O, no!" responded the maiden, warming her thin, bloodless hands in the sunbeam, "only a little weak; I shall soon be out in the garden to greet you—to-morrow perhaps! I was just planning how I should arrange my flowers this year, when you peeped in. Are my lilies up yet?" "Yes your lilies are up; I have just been warming them. I have tired you," said the sunlight, as he noticed the wearily drooping eyelids; "I will come again to-morrow if you are not in the garden"—and silently withdrew, leaving the fair slumberer alone in the gloom. A few hours later the moonlight stole softly through the silken curtains, which were gently rustling in the night breeze. "How cold!" said the moonlight, as she touched the pallid brow, and then gently laid her hand on the pulseless heart. "Dead!" she shudderingly whispered, as she withdrew through the softly rustling curtains. It is the old, old story of consumption. How she flatters her victims at morning with hope's honied words, and at evening makes them the prey of the spoiler! Statistics show that one-third of mankind die of this disease, and of these, far the greater part are young persons between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five, in the dawn of manhood and womanhood. For many years, consumption was generally believed to be incurable. But medicine in her triumphant march against disease has already added consumption to her list of conquered. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures this dread disease if resorted to in time. For a full consideration of this disease and its rational method of treatment, read the article on Consumption in the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, the most reliable popular work upon Physiology, Hygiene, Diseases and their Remedies, yet published. Price $1.50. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Wonderful Discovery.

KING'S NEW DISCOVERY has no equal and has established for itself a world wide reputation. Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. The formula from which it is prepared is highly recommended by all medical journals. The clergy and the press have compliment ed it in the most glowing terms. THE BABY'S PICTURE.

"We must carry our beautiful baby to town
Some day when the weather is fair," we said;
We must dress him up in his prettiest gown,
And weave his hair on the top of his head;
For all his cousins and all his aunts,
And both his grandmothers, proud and dear,
Declare it is all useful, and every way blameful,
To have had no picture of him this year."

He was three months old when we took him before,
And he lay like a lamb on his mamma's lap;
And the darling now has a twelve month more
Of bewildering graces from sock to cap.
Just look at his dear, little laughing face!
At the rose-bud mouth, at the violet eyes!
Why, the photograph-taker, that vanity-shaker,
Will think this time we have brought him a prize!

We carried our child to the town one day;
The skies were soft and the air was cool,
We reined him richly in fine array—
Ribbons and laces, and Swiss and tulle.
He looked like a prince in the artist's chair,
Sitting erect, and brave and grand,
With his big red apple he scarce could grapple,
Held close in the palm of his dimpled hand.

"He's taking it now." We hold our breath!
We furtively peeped from behind the screen!
"What a pose!" we whispered, then, still as death,
Waited—and baby was all serene
Till the critical moment, when, behold,
The sun was catching that lovely look,
Such a terrible rent, it shook the floor!
And that was the picture the swift sun took.

A wrinkled face and close shut eyes,
And a mouth that's opened so very wide,
That our dear little sister, sibyl-wise,
Declares she can see the cry inside.
Aunts and cousins and grandmothers dear,
Haven't got over their anger yet:
But we thought it was funny, and paid our money
For that strange phase of our precious pet.

Ah! children older than baby, think,
Dear little children blithe and sweet,
With your curls of gold, and your cheeks of pink,
And your naughty tempers, sudden and fleet—
What an awful thing it would be for you
If an artist should happen along some day,
And observe the pouting, the frown or the flout-ing,
Should take a picture of you, that way!

The Festive Fly.

The Great Teaser and Tormentor of Mankind.

It is popularly supposed that flies were originally invented to torment mankind.

And the opinion prevails that they have kept to their work with unceasing regularity during each successive season from time immemorial up to the present.

It is not known whether Noah captured a couple of flies the time of the flood and led them into the ark by the ears, but one thing is certain—they exist.

It is thought that flies must have existed from the time of the creation, for Adam is credited with sixteen wives, 976, after eating of the forbidden fruit, "Let us fly."

Now as neither of the couple had wings they could not fly, hence it must have been fly-time.

However, it is ample for the people of the present time to know that there are such things as flies.

The little creatures are very familiar, in fact too familiar to be fully appreciated, and they are rightly voted a nuisance.

There are different kind of flies, but there is very little difference between them; they all seem to have the same object in view, and that is to tease and torment humankind to the utmost.

The barber shop fly is a little more aggravating than the ordinary house fly, if anything, but both will take the meanest advantages of a man every time they get a chance.

The barber-shop fly begins its attack the moment your arms are safely tucked in under the striped coverlet.

While the lather is being put on the fly introduces itself by taking a skirmish around your head, peeping into your ears with a buzz to see whether they are clean or not, and then finishing up by tickling your eye-lashes.

It is when the operator begins to shave that the barber-shop fly shows its real meanness, though.

While the barber has you by your nose it will take a running hop, step and jump on your forehead, but the moment he does go it will start on a go-as-you-please down the bridge of your nose.

Only those who have experienced this thing know how devilish the operation is.

The man with a fly on the most prominent feature of his face and a razor at his throat wouldn't begrudge five dollars to see that fly run over by a farm wagon and crushed to pieces under the wheel.

While the razor is being scraped over your chin and along your throat the fly makes an inspection of your nostrils, creeping just far enough in to tickle you to a sneezing point, but sneeze you dare not.

By way of diversion it will start to count the hairs of your moustache, but after getting up to twenty-five or thirty will begin over again, fearful of having made some mistake in the count.

This continuous business will be repeated a time or two, when it will take another look into your nostrils and then skirmish up to play with your eye-lashes.

This sort of game will be kept up, with variations, until the operator is just through with you, when the fly will take a place on the chandelier safe out of reach and await calmly for the next victim.

While the barber-shop fly has a strong liking to torment by fooling around his eyes, nose and moustache, the ordinary house fly's strong point of attack is the ears and back part of the neck, at meal times.

The house fly, by way of preliminary operations, generally alights on your nose to look at what you are about to eat, and as the first mouthful starts on its way the fly takes one turn in the air, and then darts into your right ear.

The result is that half the food goes into your mouth, and the other half down along your shirt front into your vest.

This is only the first shot, but it continues at its work with unremitting vigor, skirmishing over the exposed and ticklish parts of mankind without any signs of tiring.

The house fly will get into the butter with its boots on; get drowned in the tea or milk, while taking a swim, or get mixed up with the blue-berry pudding and be eaten while yet alive.

There are two consolations in this life, though, in regard to flies, and they are these:

One is that the flies can only have the run of the land in this country for a short season each year.

The other, that while women may escape the torments of the barber-shop fly they can not get away from the attention of the orange house fly.

Flies, as teachers and tormentors of humanity, are a success, an unlimited but unappreciated success.

The annual crop seems to be steadily increasing. Each hotel, boarding house, shop and dwelling in the land will average all out twelve bushels this year.

He was a Failure.

A day or two since, a travellar from the East walked into the Coes House with his grip-sack in one hand and the other pressed to his jaw, and he wasn't long in permitting fifteen or twenty people to know that he had been afflicted with the toothache every minute since 7 o'clock the previous evening. He couldn't eat, drink nor stand still, and when some one asked him why he didn't go to a dentist, he replied:

"Because I haven't got the pluck! Here I am, a great big six footer, able to knock down an ox, and yet I haven't the grit to stand one yank on this tooth! I've been down on the battle line in free fighting, and cut among the red skins, but I'm a coward!"

Some laughed and some encouraged him, and he finally said:

"Well I believe I'll try it, but I know what I am, and I want somebody to push me on. I'll bet this five dollar bill against ten cents that I'll have the tooth pulled."

One of the guests made the wager, and a small crowd went along to see the fun. The stranger walked up as bold as a lion, took a seat in the dental chair, and evinced no signs of crawfishing until the dentist picked up the forceps and told him to get a good grip on the chair. Then he grew white in an instant, slid out of the chair and seized his hat and said:

"It's just as I expected! I'm a great big calf on wheels, and the worst flunker in America, but I can't help it! I've lost the $5, and will probably have the toothache right along for a week, but I'll have to stand it, and hope to be struck by lightning or smashed up on the cars."—Detroit Free Press.

Wit and Hum r.

They were talking about expanses, says the Galveston News, and how some men get rich. Said one: "My butcher and baker have made money enough out of me to build themselves splendid houses." Responded the other: "The barkeepers I patronize have built whole blocks out of what I owe them."

Out in Nevada a School Trustee had just got everything fixed to run away with the school fund, when, to his indignation, he found that the other trustee had squandered every dollar of it. He now says the world is too full of thieves and scoundrels for an honest man to have any kind of a chance.

The other day, as two friends were talking together in the street, a donkey began to bray and when it ceased it began in a distressing manner. "What a cold that donkey has!" said one of the men. "And, by the way, that puts me in mind—how is your cough?"

"Sooner or later," says a French writer, "everything is found out." Just so. A married man, for instance, is generally found out later—about three hours later—than he should be.

"What did the Puritans come to this country for?" asked a Massachusetts teacher of her class. "To worship in their own way and make other people do the same," was the reply.

The Leadville epitaphs are terse and pointed. Here is one:

O'er this poor gambler's silent clay,
Kind reader, do not grieve;
His death took place when Johnson caught
Three aces up his sleeve.

Don't call yourself a fool, my friend; do not be outdone in politeness by others who only think what you are so rude as to express in words.—Boston Transcript.

A droll fellow fished a rich old gentleman out of a mill-pond, and refused the offer of twenty-five cents from the rescued miser. "Oh, that's too much if exclaimed he; "tain't worth it!" and he handed back twenty-one cents, saying calmly, as he pocketed four cents, "That's about right."

A Leadville newspaper remarks: When they had finished the lunch they asked the price. The man in attendance said: "One piece of pie, fifty cents; one cup of coffee, twenty-five cents—seventy-five cents each." One of the party grumbled a little about the price, whereupon the old man behind the counter straightened himself up, folded his arms in a dignified manner and said: "Stranger, look at me; do you suppose I am staying out here for my health?"

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the morning day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Ports St. Jean, are so many points of interest to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILL'S, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

Perjudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicans, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and finally left her dying in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

False Impression.

It is generally supposed by physicians and the people generally that Dyspepsia cannot invariably be cured, but we are pleased to say that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER has never, to our knowledge, failed to cure Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint in all its forms, such as Sour Stomach, Constipation, Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, etc. Out of the 50,000 dozen bottles sold last year, not a single failure was reported, but thousands of complimentary letters received from Druggists of wonderful cures. Three doses will relieve any case Try it. Sample bottles 10cts.; regular size 75cts.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

WHAT OUR PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1875.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficient.

Yours truly, C. C. LOCKWOOD, M.D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest of all the many diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

December 19th, 1878. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent hemorrhage which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime as a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. He lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of SCOTT'S EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Gradually but surely the blood has been purified, my cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a host of friends who have spoken aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, they took a dozen and says it is worth its weight in flesh for a sick man. I am partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

Very truly yours, D. WALTER GAKES.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.

SIR,—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me. I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of several physicians, but have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and worse. I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical. Your EMULSION is a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully, LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

Sold by all Druggists.

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James L. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES L. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have suffered writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is unquestionably the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that ever since she was a baby I firmly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this now she eats heartily and is gaining flesh fast, and is also partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER GAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES L. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR,—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me. I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of several physicians, but have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and worse. I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical. Your EMULSION is a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

CHRONIC LARYNGITIS.

The premonitory symptoms of this disease begin with those of an ordinary cold, only that it is always attended with more or less hoarseness. It is scarcely ever an original disease separate and distinct in itself, but is usually an extension of Catarrh, the inflammation passing down the posterior nares and pharynx until it reaches the more sensitive mucus membrane of the larynx, and finally confining down until it extends to the lungs. When it is caused by Catarrh the symptoms are more of a tickling in the throat, and the patient is constantly clearing the throat or saying "sticking in the throat," which causes a continual rasping cough to clear the throat and windpipe. The voice is unnatural at first, being rough, while in the later stages it becomes weak and indistinct, and a constant sense of tightness and often difficulty in breathing.

The above is the simplest form of the disease, and can be readily removed in a few weeks, although in all cases it must be treated by the direct application of medicated inhalations (not atomization), for if we would properly treat a disease of this nature we must reach all the surrounding parts so as not to drive the disease beyond the point of attack, and herein lies the great danger of using caustics in the delicate organism, as is the custom of many physicians, for if we burn or dry up the inflamed mucus surface of the larynx and only reach those parts we are almost sure to drive the disease still farther down into the bronchical tubes and lungs, but by the system of medicated inhalations the mucus surfaces of the larynx, bronchial tubes and air cells of the lungs are all reached, hence the impossibility of driving the disease to more remote points. We would say in this way many there are few cases of Chronic Laryngitis but what are readily curable.

The causes which produce this disease are various. It arises in clergymen, and is very prevalent in school teachers and many others, from too much use of the voice, dust, the poisonous exudations from decayed vegetable matter, and living in damp houses. It is more often a sequel to ordinary sore throat, and inflamation extending down into the larynx by reason of the continuity of the mucous membranes.

But whatever may be its cause, it is always a serious disease. When it becomes chronic it threatens a complete destruction of the voice, and rarely ends until the lungs become involved, and then every fresh cold or change in the weather continues to feed the disease and increases its severity, complications, and hold upon the sufferer.

This disease often a sequel of consumption which is aggravated by the poisonous mucus which is being constantly expectorated from the lungs. When this is the case the disease is of a most distressing character. There is more or less ulceration in the vicinity of the vocal chords these ulcers frequently extending through the mucus and cellular membranes, and often attack the ligaments and cartilages themselves. When this is the case the patient has an early opportunity of seeing as many as possible of the old members and others desirous of becoming members of a company which has for so many years maintained a high reputation for promptness and fair dealing.

OVER THE SEA.

XX.

Since despatching our last communication we have spent over a week industriously visiting places of interest in the city of London. The wonder at the size of the city for a time excludes appreciation, almost remembrance of the details of streets, river, buildings, parks, and other items which make up the aggregate. In due course, however, the mind becomes familiarized with the extent of London, the details assume just prominence, and a person recognizes that the magnificence of architecture, variety of aspect, multitudinous objects of interest, and that most perceptible, but most indescribable of things, life's every, where present at this season of the year, while the House is in session, London is as unrivalled as in its colossal dimensions. At any hour of the day, the moving throng of humanity is so dense as to wait a while from one of our Canadian cities would be led to suppose that some great event, such as Barnum's, is on the tapis. The weather is comfortably cool, and people in fashionable life are living in another manner in entertaining their friends. Balls and garden parties, with those who have fine residences and grounds, are now in order amongst the wealthy and aristocratic. We spent a portion of a day visiting the

and were very much pleased with the appearance of their camp, and the tidy, soldierly bearing of our volunteer representatives. Colonel Williams, of Port Hope ville, the officer in command, is evidently "the right man in the right place." The men under his charge speak of him the highest terms as a kind, yet firm, disciplinarian. The camp, over which floats the Dominion flag, occupies a prominent position near the main entrance to the grounds, and Canadians visiting it are at once made to feel themselves at home by the kind reception accorded them by the commanding officer. In the reception tent, which is magnificently fitted up, are exhibited views of our Parliament buildings and Canadian scenery. Pamphlets, descriptive of the advantages of our country and routes, are circulated and everything possible done to bring Canada prominently before the public. Our marksmen have not, on the whole, given as good an account of themselves as on some other occasions. It is difficult, however, for the few we send over to win many honors in competition with the thousands of the best shots in Great Britain encamped on Wimbledon Common.

An interesting feature in yesterday's programme at Wimbledon was a visit to the Canadian camp by Sir Garnet Wolseley, who inspected the Canadian team and complimented our militia in the following address:—

Colonel Williams, officers and men of the Canadian militia—I can assure you it is with the greatest pleasure I have this opportunity of again being on the parade ground of the Canadian Militia. It is now ten years ago since I was associated with them, and some of them then took part with me in the first military expedition I ever had the honor of commanding independently. I always remember with the greatest pleasure and greatest pride the time that I had the pleasure of being associated with two battalions of Canadian Militia, who went with me from Toronto to Fort Garry—an expedition which took one hundred miles across, if I may so call it, a wilderness. The discipline and endurance of the men were tried in every possible way; all their soldierly qualities were made to become apparent, and I can only say, having been associated as I have been for years and years with all classes of troops, I never met with more who behaved better, who showed themselves more worthy of wearing her Majesty's uniform, than those Canadian militia regiments who went with me to Fort Garry, and always commanded with the greatest satisfaction the way in which those men went through the trials and difficulties of the march, and the successful termination of the duty they had to perform. I am glad to be able to say these few words to the representatives of so many different regiments of the Dominion. I can only say, in conclusion, that I hope you may have a pleasant stay, and that you may be as successful in this camp as you are in all other places which you visit.

Colonel Williams said,—Sir Garnet Wolseley, I hope you will pardon my saying on behalf of the officers and men on behalf of the Canadians here present for the great honor you have conferred not only upon them but upon the active Militia of Canada by your visit to this camp to-day. I, who have had the honor of serving under you, and many others of the active Militia, remember how pleasantly you were associated with us; and we never shall forget the kind words of encouragement spoken by you to us in due season. I can only say these kind words have borne fruit. At that time the spirit of the militia was in its infancy. Now, thanks to the kindness which you and other officers have shown us, it is fully developed, and you can see before you a representative force of active militia of Canada from the far Pacific to the Prairie Provinces of the Mid-Continent, as well as Atlantic-bound Nova Scotia. When we return, perhaps during our annual drill, we may be able to speak to our comrades round our camp fires, and tell them that we were not wholly in England deadened our ears, or a notice of a General who has distinguished himself, and who will, and does now, occupy one of the first positions in the world as a military officer."

The principal match in which our representatives take part here is between Canada and the mother country for the Kolapore cup. This match was placed on the list in 1871, and has been fired for every year since. During these nine years the trophy has only been won by Canada twice, in 1872 and 1875.

The ranges are 200, 500 and 600 yards and only eight men on each side are chosen to shoot. Our men, as is customary in this match, came out second best. Some little anxiety and excitement prevailed after the finish of the firing at 200 yards, as the Canadians were only four points behind; but this was soon over, as our team completely broke down at the 500 yard range and allowed England to win by a total of 60 points to spare.

We expected to have had an opportunity of witnessing the skill of

in some of their contests while starring it in this country, but regret to learn that they have abandoned the enterprise and returned to the "Land of the maple over the sea." As predicted by the Mail and other leading Canadian papers, they have been unsuccessful from the beginning and left a bad impression respecting Canadian cricket. A very high opinion of our athletes was created here by the visit of the Montreal Lacrosse Club, and the feats of our great caraman, and resident Canadians have just reason to be proud of their countrymen. The only redeeming feat we have heard of in connection with the cricketers, was in a match at Stourbridge, where Gillian, of London, Ont., bowled five men consecutively, one with each of the four balls of an over and one with the first ball of the next over.

In reply to the jests of English Cricketers Canadians can only claim that this was not a representative team. The fact, is as shown by the following, Canadian residents in and around London were very indifferent about acknowledging them as representatives cricketers.

Some time before their visit to London to play the Crystal Palace Club, the manager of the Crystal Palace Co., Major Page, inserted an advertisement for two weeks in the leading London papers asking all Canadian residents in London, or interested in the Canadian Cricketers, to communicate with him in reference to a reception and dinner to the visitors on the occasion of their match with the Crystal Palace Club. Mr. Richardson, formerly of Toronto, now manager for Great Britain of Dun, Wiman & Co's Mercantile Agency, in response to the advertisement, wrote asking Major Page to place his name on the list as a committee man or otherwise, and assess him for his portion of a good reception and dinner to the Canadian Cricketers. Two weeks afterwards Mr. Richardson received the following reply, which speaks for itself, and shows the interest taken in the Canadian Cricketers by their fellow countrymen in and around London.

CRYSTAL PALACE CO.,

Crystal Palace, S. E., 3d June, 1880.

Dear Sir,—In accordance with promise, I write to say that it is not my intention to take any further steps with reference to the suggested dinner to the Canadian Team. If it was worked by a committee of Colonists in London it might have some effect, but yours is the only response I have received to the advertisement.

Yours faithfully,

Remarkable Discovery of a Murder

The following account of a murder which was committed in Bermuda in the autumn of 1878 is by the Attorney-General of the Islands Mr. S. Bronlowlow Gray:

"In the autumn of 1878 a man committed a terrible crime in Somerset, which was for some time involved in deep mystery. His wife, a handsome and decent mulatto woman, had disappeared suddenly and entirely from sight, after going home from church on Sunday, October 20. Suspicion immediately fell upon her husband, a clever young fellow of about thirty, but as the missing woman was much left behind, and there seemed a strong probability that the crime would remain undetected. On Sunday, however, October the 27th, a week after the woman had disappeared, some Somerville boatmen looking out toward the sea, as is their custom were struck by observing in the Long Bay Channel, on the outside of which was ruffled by a slight breeze, a long streak of calm, such as to use their own illustration, a cask of oil usually diffuses around it when in the water. The fancy struck one of the men among whom suggested some strange connection between this singular calm and the mode of her disappearance. Two or three days afterwards what he cannot tell you—her brother and three other men went out to the spot where it was observed, and from which it had not disappeared since Sunday, and with a series of hooks they ranged along a long line dragged the bottom of the channel, but at first without success. Shifting the position of the boat, they dragged a little further to windward, and presently the line was caught. With water glasses the men discovered that they had caught it in a skeleton which was held down by some heavy weight. They pulled on the line; something suddenly gave way, and up came the skeleton of the trunk, pelvis, and legs of a human body, from which almost every vestige of flesh had disappeared, but which from the minute fragments remaining, and the terrible stench, had evidently not lain long in the water. The husband was a fisherman, and Long Bay Channel was a favorite fishing ground, and he calculated, truly enough, that the fish would very soon destroy all means of identification; but when he entered into his head that as they did so their ravages, combined with the process of decomposition, would set free the matter which was to write the history of his crime on the surface of the water. The case seems to be an exceedingly interesting one; the calm is not mentioned in any book on nautical jurisprudence that I have, and the doctors seem not to have had experience on such an occurrence. A diver went down and found a stone with a rope attached, by which the body had been held down, and also portions of the scalp and of the skin of the sole of the foot, and of clothing, by means of which the body was identified. The husband was found guilty and executed."

Somebody's Child

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flush of hope on his young face and an indescribable yearning in his heart, which should place in the world beside the companions of his youth. And somebody's mother is thinking of the time when that dear face will be hidden, where no ray of hope can brighten it, when her heart and her home will be left desolate—because there was no cure for consumption. Reader, if the child be your neighbor's, take this comforting word to the mother's heart before it is too late. Tell her that consumption is curable, that men are living to-day, aged, robust men, whom the physicians pronounced incurable at the age of twenty-five because one lung had been almost destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most efficient alterative for separating the scrofulous matter from the blood and lungs, and imparting strength to the system. It has cured hundreds of consumptives.

Woman's Wisdom

"She insists that is of more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—Ed.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, AUGUST 9.

"Gross Falsehoods."

With that shameless disregard of propriety for which it has been for many years noted, and which the present managing director solemnly promised, just after the death of his distinguished brother, to reform, but which promise he has failed to redeem in any one particular, the Globe charges the Premier with having uttered "gross falsehoods" in his speech at Manchester. Such scurrility should be frowned down by every right-thinking man in the Dominion, as the language is worthy of a bar-room loafer rather than of a journalist. Under the management of the Hon. George Brown the Globe was at times bad enough, but his successor has made it a very great deal worse, despite his hypocritical promises, made but a few weeks ago, to soften the asperities of political discussion. We feel quite certain that the people of this country will not encourage such insulting references to the foremost Canadian, to whom they entrusted the conduct of their affairs, and who has carried out in a most satisfactory and faithful manner the pledges which he made to them in 1878, when the policy which he proposed was on its trial before the people.

The Globe talks of "gross falsehoods" uttered by the Premier. Let us see to what resorts it has itself been driven by desperation in support of a failing cause. In the very same paragraph in which it thus abuses the First Minister it says: "The fact is that under free trade our manufactures grew and prospered, and that under protection they have, except as regards a few monopolies, perceptibly declined in importance." This is but the repetition of a statement which can only be characterized by the organ's own epithet. Free trade never had an existence in Canada, as we have shown in a previous reference to this same absurd assertion, yet the statement is repeated with all the assurance of the practiced falsifier, and is doubtless as true as that under the present tariff our manufactures have "declined in importance." Such stuff may suit the editors of the Globe, but the people know better, and will not hesitate to condemn a political warfare which is conducted with scandalous vilification of opponents and equally scandalous iteration and reiteration of statements which the writers cannot fail to know are very far from being correct.

A Patriotic Wish.

The chief organ of the Opposition declares, with a great flourish of trumpets, that the mission of Minister to England has been a failure, and that the Pacific Railway will perforce have to be constructed as a Government work, and upon this allegation the truly patriotic organ fairly slops over with delight. The statement is, we have reason to believe, merely a rumor, as nothing definite is as yet known with regard to the result of the negotions. It is almost certain, in fact, that no determination can as yet have been come to, and for the very good reason that the details to be arranged are of so extensive a character that a good deal of time must necessarily be consumed in considering a bargain of such magnitude.

One thing, however, is clear, namely that if the negotiations have failed, it is thereby made plain that Sir John Macdonald has refused to sacrifice such of the public lands in the North-West as were proposed to be transferred to the Company in payment for the construction of the Railway. This would show that all the predictions of the Opposition press to that effect have been incorrect and unjust, and that Sir John has been in this as in all other matters true to Canada.

The Globe's self-gratulation on the subject of the alleged failure is thoroughly contemptible, but that journal will find it difficult to make capital—should its ill-omened desire in the premises be realized—out of the failure of a project the consummation of which, if arranged on fair terms—and the Government will accept none other—would be hailed with the utmost satisfaction by the people of Canada.

Since the above was put in type we have received the Mail, which contains the following telegram from London, showing that the Globe's assertion that the negotiations had failed is incorrect. Doubtless the wish was father to the thought. The telegram reads as follows:—

"The negotiations between the Canadian ministers and the English capitalists for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway are progressing very satisfactorily. The announcement in certain Canadian journals that the mission had failed is entirely without foundation. On the contrary, Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues are meeting with even a larger measure of success than they anticipated, and they are confident that an agreement, satisfactory alike to the Canadian people and to the gentlemen with whom they are in treaty, will be arrived at before long. The London papers, with one or two exceptions, have treated the subject fairly. An enormous amount of capital is now seeking investment here, and the prospects of a favorable bargain for Canada are excellent. Many leading public men on both sides of politics are helping the Canadians, and the Imperial Government is taking a lively and active, if indirect, part in the negotiations."

Campbell'ord Correspondence.

A new employment has just opened up here, in the business of frog catching and dissecting. Several hands are engaged in capturing these amphibious animals for exportation to New York and other cities of the United States, where they sell for 30 cents per pound. The hind parts only are used for nutriment. They average about four to the pound, and are caught at night by torchlight, on the leaves of the water-lily. At Meyersburg one night last week, 200 were caught, and sent off from our station for the market. They are said by epicures to be a delicious dish. Should this new industry increase, we might be deprived of our Canadian band, which we always consider to be the harbinger of spring.

Mr. John West, aged 29, a very promising young man of our township, son of Mr. James West, was carried to his last resting place yesterday, followed by above 80 teams.

Mr. Wm. Whitton, butcher and Mr. Nix, sent off another car load of cattle yesterday for the English market. The business at our station is all the time extending.

The members of L. O. L. No. 36, and O. Y. B. No. 47, will hold their annual pic-nic in Oulton's grove, near the Grand Junction station, on Thursday, August 12th, 1880. There will be sports of various kinds during the afternoon. A large platform for dancing, swings for children &c. The brass and string bands will supply music for the company. Invitations have been sent to all the lodges in the district. Admission to the ground free. All are cordially invited. Dinner will be served at one o'clock.

The new brick foundry is now in operation. The proprietors, Messrs. J. Whyte & Co., deserve great credit for their enterprise in erecting one of the best machine works in the Counties of Northumberland and Durham, and their machinery is second to none in Ontario for the manufacture of all kinds of agricultural implements, also saw and grist mill machinery. Their buildings are commodious, and well adapted for the purpose intended. The motive power is derived from a 48 inch Leffel water wheel under, and 8 foot head, with a plentiful supply of water all the year round. With these facilities, no doubt the company will be well repaid for their energy.

RIOT IN TORONTO.

A Policeman Badly Injured.

A disgraceful faction fight occurred in Toronto on Friday night. There had been a celebration of the O'Connell anniversary on that day, and the display of a "sunburst" in the procession had given offence to some of the Orange Young Britons, whose proceeding are thus narrated by an exchange:

The Toronto brethren proceeded to the Queen's wharf at 8.30 o'clock to go on a moonlight excursion by the Prince Arthur to Victoria Park. As the steamer was leaving the wharf a party of Young Britons threw a shower of stones at those on board. Sergeant Stephens and a squad of police made an attempt to arrest some of the stone-throwers when the steamer came back, and some one on board shied a stool at the Young Britons, which unfortunately struck P. C. Armstrong on the leg, injuring him. The police then dispersed the stone throwers, and the steamer went on her journey. The Sergeant proceeded to the corner of Peter and Queen streets, where a baud was playing party airs, surrounded by a lot of roughs. It proceeded to Brock-street, followed by Sergeants Stephens and Leith each with a squad of police, when the roughs commenced a stone-throwing attack on the police, during which P. C. Harman was struck by one of the missiles in the stomach and became insensible. He was carried in to May's drug store and attended to by Dr. Archibald. His recovery is considered doubtful. Several other policemen were struck with stones. At a later hour about 200 assembled on the Queen's wharf to maltreat the returning Emeralds, but were dispersed by policemen Davis, White, and Ankell. Another batch assembled on York street wharf, but, though about 200 in number, were glad to disperse when Constable Jamieson and a small squad of police showed them that they were not to be trifled with. As they were dispersing, they wreaked their vengeance on some innocent spectators by stoning them.

INCENDIARY FIRE AT NAPANEE.

A Carriage Factory and Dwelling House Destroyed.

NAPANEE, Aug. 9.—About 1:45 this morning, night watchman Emerson discovered a fire breaking out in the carriage factory of James White at the railway bridge. The fire engine was quickly on hand, but the bursting of the hose caused some delay and the building being frame and very dry, the fire soon had full control of the building, which was entirely destroyed with nearly all the contents, consisting of 6 buggies, carriage material, stock, tools, &c., and the household goods in the upper story, which was used as a dwelling. There was an insurance of $1,400 on the contents in the Royal Canadian and Quebec Insurance Companies, an equal sum in each company. The buildings were owned by Sir R. J. Cartwright, and are insured for $600 in the Western Insurance Company. The fire was no doubt the work of an incendiary, as it took in two places in the upper story. The matter will likely be investigated.

MURDEROUS ATTACK IN TIPPERARY.—A Dublin despatch says: "Mr. Boyd, Crown Solicitor of Tipperary, and his sons, were murderously attacked at New Ross, on the 8th inst. by a body of disguised men. One son was killed, and the other, together with Mr. Boyd, was seriously shot."

THE TARIFF.—Sir John Macdonald has been waited upon by a deputation from the Manchester Chamber of Commerce on the subject of the tariff imposed by Canada on British importations. Sir John defended the N. P., said that free trade was a religion, if not a superstition, in England, and predicted that the logic of events would induce a modification of the English policy sooner or later.

NEARING THE CRISIS.

Ayoub Khan One March from Candahar.

Preparations for the Defence.

An official despatch from the British commander at Candahar, dated the 3rd inst., says:—"Beyond slight skirmishing between the country people and the troops covering working parties nothing has occurred during the past three days. Ayoob Khan is reported as intending to reach Kohokaran, four miles south-west of Candahar, to-morrow or Thursday. No news has been received from Chaman-choki or Khelat-i-Ghilzai since we shut ourselves up. The defensive preparations are proceeding satisfactorily. The entire Pathan population has left or has been expelled. The wounded officers are doing well. The account in number of our loss in the fight with Ayoob Khan is not yet known, but the former estimate is not far wrong, about 1,100 killed and missing out of 2,800.

The Times has the following from Candahar under date Aug 3: "All well. There are no signs of the enemy. We have demolished all the buildings around the city. All the Afghans have been expelled. We have 3,500 infantry, 1,000 cavalry and 15 guns. The heat is very great. The majority of the officers of the 66th regiment were killed while defending the colors, which were lost."

A Portsmouth despatch says the troopship Tamar sailed to day for Bombay with a thousand men, destined to reinforce the army in Afghanistan.

A Bombay despatch says: A generally accepted rumor is current here that the Afghans have taken Chamar-Choki. It is reported that 4,000 Afghan tribes men have gathered in the vicinity of Quettah. Gen. Roberts' force has left Cabul.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—A Kuihan despatch says that on July 20th a large Russian foraging party was driven back by Tekkes near Geoktepe. The entire Turcoman army is concentrated at Goektepe. Reiuforcements numbering 12,000 from Merv have arrived, and a battle seems imminent.

A Dublin despatch says that the harvest prospects in Ireland are again causing great anxiety. The rains for the last fortnight have been exceedingly heavy. Potatoes generally sound, but blight visible in many fields. Green crops promise an abundant yield.

A Berlin despatch says Hasselmann, a socialist German deputy, writes denying that he has taken flight to America. He says he is making a political tour in Germany in consequence of the suppression under the socialist law of a paper which he edits. He denies that he has any private debts, though he admits that he is somewhat heavily involved as legal security for certain publications.

A Cabul correspondent says that Roberts' force, numbering 8,000, made its first march to Feuishcer. Roberts hopes to reach Candahar in 25 days. The authorities do not anticipate opposition to Stewart's withdrawal to Gundamuk, or Roberts' advance as far as Ghuzni. The Ameer has appointed Mooshki Alan Khan Ul Alam, or religious head preacher of Afghanistan; he also appointed new Governers of Ghuzni, Jellalabad and Bamain. The Governor of Ghuzni accompanied Roberts to the latter place. Sirdar Walli Mahomed has gone to India.

A Calcutta correspondent says, to abandon Cabul may mean the expenditure within a few years of fresh blood and treasure; to abandon Candahar may mean the loss of India.

AMERICAN.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Senator Davis, Ill., announces he will support Hancock for the Presidency.

The loss by the burning of vessels laden with naphtha at Williamsburg last night was over $100,000.

Arrived, the Bath City from Bristol.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 9—Pat's Concoran, aged 24, was found yesterday at the foot of a bridge pier dead. It is supposed he was murdered in a groggery in the vicinity.

EXCURSION TO THOUSAND ISLAND PARK on Saturday, Aug. 21st, by steamer Varuna, returning on Monday afternoon, Aug. 23rd.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as the economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St. and get your old suit done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

CITY COUNCIL.—A regular meeting of Council will be held to-night.

POLICE.—Only one prisoner was lodged in the cells since Saturday night. No tramps.

THE IRON ORE TRADE.—Six car loads of iron ore arrived this morning. Ten empties were sent to the hematite mine on Saturday night.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—A moonlight excursion per steamer Varuna, is to take place on Friday evening next. See the advertisement.

PERSONAL.—Mr. S. G. Beatty has made a rapid tour through the British Islands and is now on the continent, where he will visit the chief points of interest.

GOING TO AUSTRALIA.—D. C. Ross, the well-known athlete, is going to Australia, with the view of contending against some of the best men in the Antipodes.

FIRE.—The roof of the residence of Mr. James Woodley, of West Belleville, was discovered to be on fire about noon yesterday. By the assistance of the neighbors, the fire was extinguished before much damage was done.

FINE OATS.—Mr. T. Farnham, County Gravel Road Superintendent, brought to the city on Saturday two heads of oats, each upwards of a foot in length, which he picked at random from a field in Marmora. The farmers who can raise such crops certainly have no reason to complain.

NEED LOOKING AFTER.—The fence on the Bridge Street side of St. Thomas' Church is nightly a favorite roosting place for a number of youths who are not always complimentary in their remarks upon passers by, especially females without escort. The hobble-de-hoys in question badly need the attention of the police.

CHILDREN FOR CANADA.—His Eminence Cardinal Manning has written to His Grace Archbishop Lynch, of Toronto, to say that he has two thousand orphans for whom he is desirous of getting homes in Canada. These waifs, it appears, have been rescued from the streets and workhouses of London. Their ages range from ten to fourteen years and as they have already received training they will not be altogether a burden on those adopting them.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.—We learn that the contract for the engine sheds and workshops has been let to Messrs. Northcott & Alford, and that work will be commenced at once and pushed forward to completion as rapidly as possible. The buildings will be located near the Grand Trunk Junction. The plans, which were prepared by Mr. D. G. Charles, C. E., were fully approved by the contractors and by Mr. Ellis, C. E. This latter gentleman has so far recovered that he is now able to relieve Mr. Charles, who returns to Toronto, well pleased with his visit to Belleville.

DR. TANNER.—Yesterday the Rev. B. Lane, M. A., announced that on Sabbath evening next he would preach a sermon on the religious aspects of Dr. Tanner.

RAILWAY NOTES.—Twenty-five car loads of cattle passed eastward yesterday. An emigrant train passed westward yesterday morning. A horse was killed on the track near Kingston by this train.

ICE CREAM FESTIVAL.—An entertainment of this nature is to be given in the lecture room of the Holloway Street Methodist Church on Tuesday evening next. A great attraction will be the Rev. Dr. Jeffers' lecture on "Phrenology and Religion."

ROCHESTER RACES.—The steamer Hastings will not make a trip from Belleville to Rochester for the races. Tickets will however, be issued by Mr. U. E. Thompson at the Express office, from Port Hope to Charlotte and return by the Norseman, on the 9th, 10th and 11th, for $1.50. Good to return in seven days.

THE CEMETERY.—The Belleville cemetery is now looking better than ever before, most of the graves and plots being carefully attended to and many of the paths have been cleared of weeds. One slight improvement is needed, and that is a landing place for skiffs, as many people prefer going by water to encountering the dust of the roads. A small landing stage on the east side of the wharf would serve the purpose.

BENCH SHOW OF DOGS.—The great international bench show of dogs will be held on the 8th, 9th and 10th of September in Toronto, on the ground of the Exhibition Association. We have in receipt of the prize list and also a circular from Mr. A. D. Stewart, secretary of the Toronto bench show, in which we are informed that special efforts are being made to make this exhibition one of the best ever held on the continent. Entries will possibly close on the 21st inst, a fact which all interested should make a note of. Forms will be sent on application to Mr. H. J. Hill or Mr. A. D. Stewart, Toronto. The prize list is an unusually large one, consisting of money and medals. On Friday, 10th prox., an auction sale of dogs will be held.

CRICKET.—The Oswego Palladium of Friday says: "The match to have been played to-day between Utica and Syracuse has been postponed for two weeks. To-morrow the Oswego Falls cricketers play the Onondagas at Lakeside park, game commencing at 2 o'clock. The Onondaga club has two matches arranged for next week, one with Oswego, and a second with Canastota. Mr. Henderson of Cobourg, Ont., club, wrote Mr. Millward ye teday, proposing a game at Syracuse, and a return at Cobourg." This does not look as if the visit of the Syracuse men to Belleville would take place this week, as was expected.

THE TORONTO "TELEGRAM."—This able and very enterprising journal has won a great success during the five years of its existence, and is already able to boast a daily circulation of 10,000 copies. The Telegram is now printed on a Scott perfecting press at the rate of 30,000 copies per hour, it possesses one of the finest and most complete establishments in Ontario, and is really worthy of the success which it has achieved. Mr. J. Ross Robertson, its proprietor, has the well-won distinction of being one of the most acute and enterprising of newspaper proprietors, and supplies a first class newspaper at 1 cent per copy.

LACROSSE.—The Peterborough Times says:—"We understand that the secretary of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club has been corresponding with the secretary of the Belleville Club for the purpose of arranging a match to take place here. So far he has been unable to do so; in fact his last letter to the Belleville man, sent some weeks ago, remains unanswered. Does not this look like a slight attack of the white feather on the part of the latter club? If they mean business why don't they come to the scratch and play, or give a reason why they cannot! Only one opinion in reference to the matter can be held." If our contemporary's statement be correct, the Belleville Club have certainly not complied with the etiquette usual in such matters. They owe the Peterborough Club a return game on their grounds, and if our Club cannot from any cause play this game, they at least ought to have the courtesy to answer the letter of the secretary of the Peterborough Club.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTES.—The Monetary Times says: "We have a letter from the Secretary of the Mechanics' Institute in Belleville, stating in reference to an item in our last issue about a manufacturer giving his apprentices free access to the Galt Institute, that Messrs. J. M. Walker & Co., of Belleville, make it a rule that each apprentice, during his term of apprenticeship, shall have free access to the Belleville Mechanics' Institute. 'This rule,' says our correspondent, 'they adopted three years ago; so that Mr. Cowan is not the first man who adopted the plan of presenting tickets for the Mechanics' Institute to his apprentices for their mutual benefit.' It gives us pleasure to hear of instances of the sort; it will be all the more satisfactory and the more generally beneficial if there are in Canada—as there may well be—a number more who take the same course as the two manufacturing firms named. We learn that the Northern Railway Company regularly pays for the admittance to the Toronto Mechanics' Institute of all apprentices in its workshops. Some of the banks, too, and the telegraph companies, have an arrangement by which their employees, or groups of them, are admitted to the use of the library at a slight reduction in rate."

PRINTS, PRINTS.—Prints, prints, prints, prints, prints, prints, prints, prints, prints, prints. The largest stock of prints in Ontario at HENNESSY'S. Good fast colors at 5½c and 6½c. These are undoubtedly the best bargains in the trade. See them.

THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.—His Excellency the Governor General and Lord Archibald Campbell and suite, with Mr. Gregory, visited Cape Rosier lighthouse on the 6th. The inhabitants turned out en masse, amid the firing of guns and a great display of bunting in honor of the distinguished visitors. It was His Excellency's birthday.

Police Court.

Wm. Gibson was further remanded till Wednesday.

THEFT.

Mary Campbell was charged with fraudulently removing from premises owned by C. L. Coleman on which she was owing rent, her household goods. Some evidence was heard and Mr. Coleman asked for an adjournment till to-morrow, which was granted.

Marine.

The Schr Mary Foster has arrived from Fair Haven with coal for Rathbun & Son.

The small hookers John Wesley and Kinsey have arrived from Mill Point with lumber.

Commercial Notes.

Eighty-three head of fat cattle were shipped to England on Friday from Quebec.

The alleged heavy expense of shipping cattle to England by the Allan and other ocean steamships has set on foot an agitation among Nova Scotia exporters to build steamers especially for the trade. A letter from a Nova Scotian in London says the Montreal Cattle Exporting Company are making money fast. They want steam accommodation for 5,000 head of cattle and as many more sheep this season.

The import duties paid in Montreal during the fiscal year in 1878 amounted to $3,814,864.67; in 1879, $4,026,995.70; and in 1880, $5,232,783.18.

The traffic receipts of the Great Western Railway for week ending July 30th, were $93,277.99, against $75,437.34 in the corresponding period last year, an increase of $17,840.65.

Advices from the North-west indicate that the spring wheat crop is being harvested in good condition, and that the quality is generally better than that of last year.

THE PEMBINA MOUNTAIN COAL.—Samples of the coal deposits found in Pembina Mountain district are on exhibition a Winnipeg. They are of the Lehigh species, and excel in quality that brought from the Souris mines.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

QUEENSTOWN, Aug. 9.—Arrived, the City of Richmond.

BOMBAY, Aug. 9.—Ohaman Choki is threatened by Afghas's, but the rumor of its capture is impending. Certain tribes over the whole country are in commotion.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 9.—At the Cabinet Council on Saturday at which was present Said Pasha, the ex-Premier, it was decided to send troops to Dulcigno. This is understood as preliminary to ceding Dulcigno to Montenegro.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The news of the despatch of reinforcements to Ireland was received there with no feeling of alarm, but with a single surprise. Gladstone continues to convalesce.

MADRID, Aug. 9th.—The opposition press commends strongly upon the royal decree intimating that if a son is born to the Queen, he will take the title of Prince of the Austrias, but if a daughter, she will take the title of Infanta of Spain.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Last night near Nell-Ross, Ireland, Thos. Boyd, Crown Solicitor for the County of Tipperary, and two sons were fired at by masked assassins. Boyd was severely wounded and one of his sons probably fatally shot, and the other son slightly wounded. Three men were arrested on suspicion.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Tanner continues in good condition. He passed a quiet night, sleeping most of the time. He ate heartily to-day, and weighed at noon 132½ lbs.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, moderate to fresh winds, mostly between south and west, fine hot weather, possibly thunder storms in some localities.

Haunted Me.

Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for Doctoring, which done me good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost.—A Workingman.

A Wonderful Discovery.

For the speedy cure of consumption and all diseases that lead to it, such as Inflamed Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Asthma, pain in the side and chest, dry hacking cough, tickling in the throat, Hoarseness, Sore throat, and all chronic or lingering diseases of the throat and lungs, Dr. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY has no equal and has established for itself a world wide reputation. Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. The formula from which it is prepared is highly recommended by all medical journals. The clergy and the press have compliment...d it in the most glowing terms. Go to your druggist and get a trial bottle free of cost or a regular size for $1.00 For sale by JAS CLARKE & Co.

From the Hub

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover from.—Boston Globe.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

The proud, bright faced little man in the corner was the next to take up the threads of reminiscence. He became Tobby Sprat once more, and told of little Myra's first appearance to him in the caravan. Where she had come from or how she had been procured he was not told; but her beauty and artlessness won his heart at once, and he became the subject of a settled conviction and a strong desire the conviction being that Myra was a stolen child—that her friends were refined and cultivated; and the desire being to discover these parents and restore her to them. To assist in her indentification, he carefully put away and kept the clothes she wore, and when Tobby came to this part of the narrative Mary remembering that she had that bundle still, jumped up and ran and fetched it to display its contents to her mother. These no one now considered as a proof of her identity, for they had the best of all testimony—the testimony of their instincts and their hearts, that Mary was their lost one. Still it was a touching and interesting sight to witness Lydia's burst of emotion as she saw and recognised the tiny garments which had been so carefully preserved and kissed them and wept over them. Most of them had been made and sewn by herself, when her nimble hands had moved lightly to the music of the happy mother's heart and the sight of them brought back to her vividly the awful sorrow of her life that for a moment she hid her face in the folds of the white muslin, and wept with vehemence. But the bitterness was out of her tears now and, ere long, she was smiling though them upon the face of her recovered joy.

This touching interlude having ended, Tobby continued the history of his adventures, whose deepest and most tenderest interest was excited. He spoke of the love which grew up between him and the sweet little Fanny, and his unabated watch over her all the good he knew, and to keep her from the evil which so closely surrounded her. At this point Charlie's story was joined to Myra's in the narrative, for then it was that Charlie was brought to the caravan at Glasgow, and Tobby's charge was doubled. But why need we recapitulate incidents and events which the reader already knows? Tobby's listeners knew them all too, but they recalled and reviewed them now with a double interest, and the strange eventful history of the past kept them talking with undiminished zest till the morning light streamed through the chinks of the window shutters, and the chirruping notes of the birds were heard clear and shrill in the shrubberies of Circus Place.

The days that followed were days of quieter, but full, deep, and intense happiness, during which they quaffed on at their cup of joy. In the gaiety of their spirits, old and new names were indiscriminately used. Sometimes they reverted to the old Myra, sometimes Mary, and sometimes Fanny, and it did not seem as if they were inclined to fix on any one of these three in particular. As Mary was the name by which they had so long known her, it came most naturally and most frequently to their lips. By and by Philip and Charles woke up to a remembrance of Lord Eagleheart and the Grange, and the business they had to do there. In the excitement of their spirits they had forgotten this phase of the situation for a season, but with the coming of a calmer mood it arose in their recollection, and the desire to take immediate action in the business possessed each of them. Charles had new found parents likewise to come in contact with, and it saddened him not a little to think of what a different reception awaited him from what Mary had just received. He had to fight his stern way to recognition, and establish by contest his natural rights, which were persistently sought to be denied. This, at least, was the case as regarded his father Lord Eagleheart, and ever as the thoughts of Charles reverted to him, his feelings grew strong and bitter, accompanied by the determination to fight by his own efforts the wrongs he had received. But his thoughts parentward were not all sad and heavy. His mother's image called up gentler and softer feelings, for he had ample reason to believe that she had no share in his repudiation, when as an infant he had been cast on the world. She had been kept ignorant of that horrible deed by a cruel deception, and now he had as good reason to believe her maternal heart yearned to receive him with the full gushings of a mother's tenderness and affection. Nay more, he strongly suspected that she was being made to suffer a pain, an injustice and a deep wrong, that the past doings of his lordship might be screened, and himself preserved in the position which by fraud he had secured. Therefore, for her sake it behooved him to confront Lord Eagleheart speedily with the proof which had been obtained of the private marriage, and terminate his career of wrong doing.

From the Hub

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters, and at this season of the year, when the stomach needs a appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover from.—Boston Globe.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where the Governor in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abrahym, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicans, who gave her diferent names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

ORANGE CERTIFICATES, handsomely got up, for sale at the INTELLIGENCER office.

False Impression.

It is generally supposed by physicians and the people generally that Dyspepsia cannot invariably be cured, but we are pleased to say that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER has never, to our knowledge, failed to cure Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint in all its forms, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, etc. Out of the 50,000 dozen bottles sold last year, not a single failure was reported, but thousands of complimentary letters received from Druggists of wonderful cures. Three doses will relieve any case Try it. Sample bottles 10cts.; regular size 75cts.

The Greatest Remedy Known.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is certainly the greatest remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity. Thousands of once hopeless sufferers now gladly proclaim their praise for this wonderful Discovery, to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request that you call on your druggist, JAMES CLARKE & Co., and get a trial bottle free of charge, which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what as regular one dollar size bottle will do.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of AUGUST FLOWER will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

A careful observance of the laws of health and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish the following results. This preparation has all the virtues of the two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Aneamia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to the medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

GENTS.—I have frequently prescribed Scott's EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I gave up all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pain is quite disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use, as I feel perfectly well. I frequently meet some of my former friends on the street who ask what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so much prostrated that one who met me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that only genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across the face of the label, and unless this is found in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that if it had not been for this remedy she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial, and not near so frequent and less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully LAWRENCE DORAN.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

In this city I have placed my ladders on the private residences of Thos. Bell, Esq., W. H. Ponton, Esq., T. S. Carman, Esq., T. C. Wallbridge, Esq., on the factory of E. Burrell, on the Roman Catholic Church, and Convent. Parties wishing to have my ladders, can do so by leaving their orders at the hardware store of James Smith (late Gillen & Keith's old stand), where they will see sample of ladders, and testimonials from parties who have them in use.

Putting my ladders on the building, with Fire Escape attached, firmly fixed and painted, for 40c per running foot.

All orders promptly attended to.

CHRONIC LARYNGITIS.

The premonitory symptoms of this disease begin with those of an ordinary cold, only that it is always attended with more or less hoarseness. It is exactly on original disease separate and distinct in itself, but is usually an extension of Catarrh, this disease passing down the posterior nares and pharynx until it reaches the more sensitive mucous membrane of the larynx, and finally continuing down until it extends to the lungs. When it is confined to the larynx, there is more or of a tickling in the throat, and the patients complain of a sensation as of something "clinging in the throat," which causes a continual rasping cough to clear the throat and windpipe. The voice is unnatural at first, being rough, while in the later stages it becomes weak and indistinct, and a constant sense of tightness and often difficulty in swallowing.

The above is a common form of the disease, and can be readily removed in a few weeks. Although in all cases it must be treated by the direct application of medicated inhalations (atomization), for if we would properly treat a disease of this nature we must reach all the surrounding parts as not to deny the disease beyond the point of attack, and herein lies the great danger of using caustics to the delicate organism, as is custom of many physicians, for if we burn or dry up the inflamed mucus surface of the larynx and only reach those parts we are almost sure to cause Chronic Laryngitis to work into the bronchical tubes and lungs, but by the system of medicated inhalations the mucus surfaces of the bronchial tubes and all the cells of the lungs are all reached, hence the impossibility of driving the disease to more remote points, being forced in this manner. Here we few cases of Chronic Laryngitis but what are readily curable.

The causes which produce this disease are various, but all are contagionem, and is very prevalent in school teachers and many others, from too violent use of the voice, dust, the poisonous exhalations from decayed vegetable matter, and living in damp houses. It is more often a sequel to ordinary sore throat, and inflamation extending to the larynx, and by reason of the continuity of the mucous membrane.

But whatever may be its cause, it is always a serious disease. When it becomes chronic it threatens a complete destruction of the voice, and rarely ends until the lungs become involved, and then every fresh cold or change in the weather continues to feed the disease and increases its severity, complications, and hold upon the sufferer.

This disease is often a sequel of consumption which is aggravated by the poisoned mucus which is being constantly expectorated from the lungs. When this is the case the disease is of a most distressing character. There is more or less ulceration in the vicinity of the vocal chords These ulcers frequently penetrate through the mucus and cellular tissue, and often destroy the ligaments and cartilages themselves. When this is the case we can only hope to effect a complete cure by those means which will remove the cause, "viz.," the consumption of the lungs. And in order to do this there is only one system of practice capable of approximating face to face with this foul destroyer. I refer to Medicated Inhalations, and this system is usually successful after all other means have been tried without avail. If on account of distance, constitutional debility or expense of travel, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and when fully answered and returned to the Institute, remedies can be sent per express (duty free,) together with full directions for use. OVER THE SEA.

XXI.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

The Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper arrived here a few days ago, and, as worthy representatives of the Canadian Government, are being lionized by the members of the Imperial Parliament. Their scheme respecting the construction of the Pacific Railway is very favorably viewed by large capitalists, and it is rumored that the co-operation of a very powerful syndicate is being obtained that will bind itself to complete the road in ten years. The contemplated scheme is understood to be so far advanced that a gentleman of experience and reputation as Colonial railway direction has been elected as President.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

Business men throughout Great Britain are looking forward to better times for themselves and the country, and confidently point to numerous signs of returning commercial prosperity. That business has greatly expanded with them, since this time last year, is demonstrated by the great increase in the amount of the Clearing House Returns, which, for the past three weeks, have been upwards of twenty millions sterling in excess of those of last year. Again, comparing the last six months with the corresponding period of last year, the Board of Trade returns show an increase of imports to the extent of twenty-two per cent., and of exports 21.2 per cent. The fact that during the past month the increase of imports has been 34 8 per cent. compared with June, 1879, and the increase of exports has been 24.6 per cent., shows that this great expansion of foreign trade is progressing. In considering this comparison between this and last year in the trade of England, it must be remembered that the business was so very bad in 1879 that it has been made from the lowest possible ebb, and therefore shows to better advantage.

In passing banking institutions we observe notices up that half yearly dividends are now being paid. Not withstanding the very

in this country, banks pay a much larger dividend than those of Canada or the U.S. The Bank of England rate is two and a half per cent, but the rate in the open market has a lower tendency. In glancing over the dividend sheets of the Metropolitan Banking establishments, we are grieved that they pay from twelve to fourteen, and in one case, that of the London and Westminster, sixteen per cent per annum, and they claim to have made a larger addition to their reserve this year than usual. With a growing increase in trade, merchants look forward to a still lower Bank rate than ten and a half per cent. Money is quite a "drug" on the market, and the amount entrusted to the keeping of the Bank is increased from private sources with the prosperity of the country. Credit is not so cheap with manufacturers and wholesale men as it is with us, and as a natural consequence this country is comparatively free from fictitious speculative enterprise. Solid trade, such as is done here, may be expanded without tightening the money market or producing a strain upon banking institutions. There are many merchants who do not borrow money at all, and the great mass of traders need no help from the Bank save the ordinary discount of their bills—which are constantly being paid—"running off" the books of the bank before discounts are required. It is rumored in here that Hanlan ruptured himself while rowing in the regatta at Providence, and it is feared that he will not be able to measure oars with the Great Australian Oarsman during the coming autumn. English men who take an interest in aquatics acknowledge since the signal defeat of Boyd that they have no man able to compete with either of those "blowsted foul sculling colonists," and feel very much regret at the accident that would prevent them from coming together. Trickett sailed some time ago from Sydney by the Royal Mail Steamer Orient, and is expected to reach here this week. Bell's Life in referring to the anticipated meeting of these champions says:—

"Trickett is visiting this country for the purpose of rowing Hanlan, of Toronto, next November. Let us hope that the Canadian, who has recovered from the indisposition which affected him so much, during the late "hop bitters" business, or, probably, the Australian will have his long journey for nothing, as there is no one here a match for Trickett."

keep pouring into London. Every steamer that sails from New York is filled to its utmost capacity. We meet them on every public thoroughfare, on steamers plying up and down the Thames, on omnibuses and street cars, in museums, theatres, concert halls, and other places of interest and amusement. An estimate based on the passenger lists of steamers, places the number of Americans who visit Europe each year at between 40,000 and 50,000, and the amount of money left by them, for travelling expenses and purchases, at about $130,000,000.

TRAMP.

London, July 28, 1880.

Long Rests at Noon.

Travellers affirm that the people of no foreign country do so much out-of-door labor during the heat of the day as Americans. In all the countries about the Mediterranean sea a long season of rest for man and beast occurs during the middle of the day. Among the Spaniards the practice of sleeping at noon is almost as common as that of sleeping during the night. In northern Europe a shorter time is given to rest at noon, because the temperature is lower, and the rays of the sunlight fall so as to produce a less injurious effect upon laborers. Still the time for rest is longer in this part of Europe than in the United States. With us there is no stopping work for the sake of taking rest at noon. Labor is suspended only to allow men and animals to take food and drink. As soon as eating and drinking are finished work in the open sun is resumed. Without doubt we should be gainers, both in the matter of health and wealth, if we gave a considerable time during the middle of the day to rest. More sickness occurs among farmers immediately after haying and harvesting than at any other season of the year, and the cause of it may be attributed in a great majority of cases, to exposure to the heat of the sun when it is almost directly over the heads of the workmen engaged in the fields. The number of cases of sunstroke increases every year. Many who are not prostrated by the heat are greatly injured by it. What is true of men in this respect is also true of animals. A good long rest at noon would prevent exposure to the sun at the time when its injurious effects are most likely to follow. It would also put both men and animals in a condition to do more work during the cooler portions of the afternoon.

The Bender Fiends.

FURTHER CONFESSIONS OF THEIR CRIMES BY THE OLD WOMAN OF THE FAMILY.

Their Plans of Murder and Plunder.

OSAWA, Neb., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Bender, in gaol at Fremont, said to-day that the first murder committed by her and her husband was in Illinois, on a farm near Jacksonville. The victim asked for lodging and supper, and in paying for the same in advance exhibited a considerable money. While eating supper, Bender cut his head in two from behind, and he was dumped into the cellar through a trapdoor arranged by the table for the purpose. The corpse was buried next morning back of the house. A few weeks after this they went to Iowa, remaining eight months and then went to Indiana, living on the murdered man's money. They then went to Kansas, where Bender's children by his first wife—John and Kate—were living with their cousin Maggie. They kept a resort for travellers, and they called it Bender's Hotel. They had committed no murders prior to the old folks' arrival, but in the course of time old Bender arranged a trap door, and then murdering operations began. Kate at one time had a man in bed with her, and she cut his throat and slept till morning beside the corpse. His money was divided. She never injured the horse-thieves and cut-throats who came to her house, but entertained them well with her cousin Maggie. No murders were committed by the family after they fled to Kansas. Old Bender has also confessed, believing the old woman has escaped. His story tallies with his wife's exactly. He relates the history of the whole family and their crimes. A sheriff from Kansas is now probably at Lincoln obtaining a requisition from the Governor, and will be at Fremont to-morrow.

FREMONT, Aug. 7.—The Sheriff of Labelle county, Kansas, arrived last night with a requisition for the return of the supposed Bender here in custody. He is confident that the prisoner is the original John Bender. The Sheriff started with the pair this afternoon. The Kansas man declares that he will not be taken to Kansas alive. Nothing has been received here from the rest of the gang.

Marriage of Lord Lorne's Sister.

On Saturday forenoon, at the parish church of St. Mary Abbott, Kensington, Captain Edward H. Clough-Taylor, Twenty third Regiment, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clough-Taylor, of Kirkham Abbey, Yorkshire, was married to the Lady Elizabeth Campbell, second daughter of the Duke of Argyll. The wedding party assembled at the church shortly after the clock, shortly after which hour the bride arrived and was received by her father and six bridesmaids, namely the Ladies Mary and Constance Campbell, sisters of the bride; Miss Clough-Taylor, Miss Clough-Taylor, sisters of the bridegroom; Hon. Florence Milnes, second daughter of Lord Houghton, and Hon. Antoinette DeSaumarez, daughter of Lord and Lady DeSaumarez. The bride's dress was composed of white duchesse satin, the front of which was entirely covered with antique point de Flandre; and in her hair were sprays of real orange flowers, covered by a white veil. In addition to a necklace, a present from the Duke of Westminster, her ornaments were pearls and diamonds. The six bridesmaids were dressed alike in cream Indian muslin trimmed with Languedoc lace, cream silk fichus trimmed with the same, and bonnets to match. The bridegroom had previously arrived, accompanied by Captain G. Duncombe. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Very Rev. the Dean of Westminster, the Duke of Argyll giving his daughter away. The wedding party afterwards assembled at Argyll Lodge, Campdon Hill, to breakfast. Early in the afternoon Captain Taylor and Lady Elizabeth took leave of their friends for Manor Cottage, Lord Walter Campbell's residence, near Staines, for their honeymoon. The bride's travelling dress was of myrtle green velvet trimmed with Honiton lace, with fichu and bonnet to correspond. The bridal presents were very numerous, and included an Indian shawl, a gift from the Queen.—London Post, July 19.

Geographical Puzzle Story.

A gentleman named river in Virginia (1) mountains in New Hampshire (2) and a river in Brazil (3) who owned a range of mountains in Washington Territory (4), to order some islands in the Pacific ocean (5) for the wedding of his city in France (6).

The groom was lake in New York (7) peak in British America (8), and the bride was named city in Italy (9) city in Texas (10), although the bridegroom said he would rather city in Cuba (11) or city in North North Carolina (12) like a cape (13) as the islands near England (14). It was this same man who went hunting one day and brought home a cape of South America (15), which he had taken from a lake in Maine (16).

As he wanted a river in Michigan (17) wedding, he had ordered such quantities of bay on coast of Long Island (18) town in New Jersey (19) islands in Malaysia (20) river in Idaho (21), and country in Europe (22) that people thought he could a be river in France (24).

The bride had a dress of city in France (24,) a city of Italy (25); hat, a handsome mountain in Oregon (26), and one of her gifts was islands in the Atlantic (27). It was sun on coast of Asia (28) lantic (27).

On their tour the pair met with a great cape south of Australia (29). The day was lake north of Minnesota (30) and the air very mountains in North Carolina (31), and the path along which they strolled was island south of Connecticut (32) and lake in New-York (33), so they were in constant cape of North Carolina (34). Once they forgot to cape of North Carolina (35), and quiet city in France (36). In their hurry to escape, the bride fell over the capital of one of the United States (37), and raised a mountain in North Carolina (38) and mountains in the eastern part of the United States (39) on her forehead, and her sea coast of Australia (40) jewelry was broken to pieces.

While she was getting well, the bridegroom dug some city in Germany (41) and tried to catch cape of Massachusetts (42), but slipped from the cape in the south of England (43), and had an unexpected city in Maine (44). The water was very deep and he was in point on coast of Australia (45) of being swallowed by country in Europe (46). He wished Noah could be there to rescue him in a city of New Jersey (47). At last he reached the shore, mounted a horse, and, holding by its cape of the United States (48), was soon snug in the sea in the south of Europe (49).

This happened in cape of New Jersey (50) during some cape on Pacific coast of United States (51).

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, AUGUST 10.

Sugar and the Tariff.

The Montreal Gazette of Thursday says:—"Yesterday granulated sugar refined in in this city was selling at 10½ wholesale, less 2½ per cent. discount for cash, making the net price 10c. At the same time American refiners asked 10⅛ net cash for the same grade of sugar of an inferior quality, as evidenced by the analysis. It would cost under the Mackenzie tariff 10⅛c to lay down American granulated sugar in Montreal or 4c per lb. more than is now being paid for Canadian refined, the calculation being as follows:—Price in New York $10.25, less drawback $3.15, making the net cost in New York $7.10; to this has to be added the ad valorem duty of 25 per cent., $1.77½, the specific duty of 1c per lb. $1.00, and 45c for freight and charges, making the actual cost of American refined laid down in Montreal, under the old tariff, $10.32½c, or about 10⅛c per lb. In the light of such facts as this the wild assertions of the Liberal newspapers in relation to the effect of the tariff upon the price of sugars become worse than ridiculous, the truth being that a better sugar is now being obtained by consumers for the same and often less money than would have to be paid had the old tariff been continued."

To show what sort of stuff was formerly imported from the United States in antebellum times as sugar, we take the following from the Montreal Witness:

"A witness in a recent lawsuit at Buffalo, N. Y., lets some light in upon a matter of interest to almost everybody, namely, the cost of glucose or grape sugar, a substance extensively used to adulterate cane sugar and cane syrup. The average product of a bushel (fifty-six pounds) of corn in glucose is set down at thirty pounds, the cost of converting a bushel of corn into glucose is stated at twenty-five cents, and the net profit ranges from forty to seventy cents per bushel of grain converted. The actual cost of a pound of glucose seems to be from two to three cents, but an advance on these figures of one to one-and-a-half cents is charged to the sugar manufacturers or dealers who do the adulterating. The proportion of this substance used in adulterating is said to reach as high as twenty per cent, from which it would appear that, even at the highest figures usually quoted for it, those dealers who use it very materially increase their profits at the expense of the consumer. It is said to improve the appearance of the cane sugar with which it is mixed, but however this may be, and it is a mat ter about which there is room for a difference of opinion, there can be no doubt that the sweetening quality of the mixture is much inferior to that of the cane sugar before the glucose was mixed with it."

The License Law.

We cordially agree with the following from the St. Catharines Journal:—"The Mail announces that eminent counsel have been employed to apply to the Court of Queen's Bench for a mandamus to compel the Toronto License Commissioners to grant a license to certain persons who have been struck off the list. This means that the much disputed license question is to be settled by the highest tribunals in the land, as, of course, the Ontario Government will oppose the application. Indeed, it is understood that in case the decision of the Superior Court here is not satisfactory, the appeal will be carried before the Privy Council, thus settling forever the question. The applicants maintain that the Local Government has no power to deal with tavern or shop licenses, but that such power belongs to the Dominion authorities. Then there is, admitting that the Ontario Government has power to deal with the question, the unjust discrimination as against individuals, in the working of the Act.—All men are supposed to be equal in the eyes of the law, but all men are not equal in the eyes of Boards of License Commissioners, and deserving citizens have been injured in their estate by being debarred of privileges which they had fully as good a right to ask for and receive as their more favored neighbors. Nor has the working of the law been free from political bias. As a principle of justice, the power should never be placed in the hands of an irresponsible Board of License Commissioners to discriminate against certain individuals, either on account of politics, religion or color. This is now done, and if the law stands will likely be perpetuated. But, say the friends of the Government, the liquor traffic must be restricted. To this few will object, but let it be done by raising the standard of qualification, or fees, and not by unfair discrimination. The progress of the case will be watched with interest by all parties. The contention has been long held in certain quarters that the province has no right under the B. N. A. Act to regulate the liquor traffic by license, and the sooner it is settled the better."

CITY COUNCIL.

MONDAY, Aug. 9.

The Council met at 8 o'clock.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

NEW MEMBER.

Ald. Niles, the newly elected member for Ketcheson Ward, took his seat.

PETITIONS, &c.

The following petitions, &c., were presented:—

From J. W. Walker and others, for the proclamation of the 18th as a civic holiday.

From Fenwick & Strathy regarding fire hose.

From the Belleville Gas Company, to be allowed to build a trestle tramway across the old market lot to facilitate the storage of their coal.

The Treasurer's statement for the last six months shows, Receipts $46,350.77; deposited in bank $45,855.13; drawn from bank $43,000.

REPORTS.

Ald. Jellett said he had been absent from home last week and the Finance Committee had had no meeting.

Of the Public Works Committee, that Downey & Preston be allowed to place a railway siding on the north side of their storehouse, provided it do not interfere with the traffic, be located to the satisfaction of the Street Surveyor, and that the siding be removable at the pleasure of the Council; and that tenders for street work be accepted.

Of the Printing Committee, that sundry accounts be paid.

Of the Poor and Sanitary Committee, recommending sundry accounts for payment, and objecting to the ordering of coffins for paupers, unless by the Superintendent of Poor or the Chairman of the Committee.

Ald. Robertson stated that the Harbor and City Property Committee had had an interview with Mr. Austin, the Government Engineer, who would report a very favorable scheme to the Government for harbor improvement. This would be the dredging of a 14 ft. channel to the foot of Wharf Street, in view of the probable early construction of the Murray Canal; and as this would necessitate rock blasting of 4 feet, it could be done only in the winter. The harbor could be cleared to the light house on the east side and up to the deep channel of the river north of the foot of Dundas Street. The west channel he would not recommend to be thoroughly dredged, as the cost would be too heavy. He (Ald. Robertson) had accordingly written to ask the Minister of Public Works to send a dredge and scows to do the necessary work as soon as possible.

THE FERRY.

Ald. Holden gave notice of a resolution requesting the Ferry Committee to report upon the cost of locating the ferry on Bushy Island and the expense of a road thereto.

WAYS AND MEANS.

Council went into Committee on Ways and Means. Ald. J. Smith in the chair.

The Street Surveyor's pay list was ordered to be paid.

Ald. Jellett moved to grant the petition of the Gas Company to erect a trestle, provided the same be removed when the Council requires.—Carried.

The report of the Public Works Committee was taken up. Some discussion took place on the clause regarding the siding to Downey & Preston's elevator, and the clause was adopted.

The clause relating to street contracts was taken up and strongly supported by Ald. Lingham and Ostrom, who urged that the work be undertaken now.

Ald. Robertson protested against the work being done until the appropriations are made, which had been agreed to by a previous resolution.

Ald. Geen urged the passage of the clause, and Ald. Vandusen spoke to the same effect.

Ald. Jellett opposed the report as too indefinite, there being one street in Murney Ward which alone would cost $1,000. At the next meeting he would introduce the estimates, when it would be determined what amount would be expended on public works.

Ald. Vandusen contended that all the work embraced in the report would not cost over $800.

Ald. Hambly contended that the report was out of order, as the estimates had not yet been brought in.

Ald. Lingham said the street spoken of by Ald. Jellett could be improved for $150. Work could be done now for one-half the amount it would cost during the rainy season.

Further conversational discussion took place on the question, when Ald. St. Charles asked a decision of the Mayor on the point of order raised by Ald. Hambly, which point the Mayor held to be well taken, as the report had not been before the Finance Committee. This disposed of the report.

Ald. Ostrom moved, seconded by Ald. A. L. Smith, for the Solicitor and the Finance Committee to examine claims credited as assets of the city with instructions to report such as should be written off.

Ald. Jellett beat time the motion was out of order, the Auditors' report for the present year having been adopted.

Ald. Ostrom contended that by adopting his resolution they were simply carrying out the request of the Auditors.

The motion was adopted.

Ald. Jellett moved, seconded by Ald. Niles, for the proclamation of the 18th inst. as a civic holiday.—Carried.

Ald. Robertson moved for the appointment of a Special Committee to arrange for the celebration of the day, in combination with representatives of the citizens. He thought it advisable to get up some games so as to retain our people in the city, instead of having them go elsewhere on that day.

Ald. Holden moved the passage of his resolution regarding the ferry.—Carried.

Committee rose and reported.

Ald. Brennan moved the reference of the report back for the referring of the clause regarding the siding to Downey & Preston's elevator to the Harbor and City Property Committee.—Lost.

The report was then adopted.

Council adjourned.

DOMINION RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—The approaching meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association in Ottawa promises to be the most successful yet held. Upwards of four hundred competitors are expected, and it is anticipated that the Governor-General will fire the first shot. The number of targets is to be increased from fourteen to twenty, and are to be of the Brunel pattern.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

Mechanics' Institute.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—There is an institution in the city called the Mechanics' Institute, supported in part by a Government grant and in part by private subscription, and one of the principal functions of which is the support and management of a lending library. The librarian in charge of this is an official in receipt of a respectable salary, and who is supposed to devote his time to his duties. As a matter of fact, however, he does nothing of the kind, but is apparently only at his post at such odd times as he can spare from his other occupations. To show you that I am not speaking at random, I may say that during the past fortnight I have called at the library nine times without finding him in, and of course in his absence the library is locked up. I am writing this as a warning to the official in question, and I can assure him that before many days a formal charge will be laid before the directors, unless there is a decided change in his manner of attending to his post.

Yours, &c., &c.,
A FREQUENT SUFFERER.

Belleville, Aug. 10, 1880.

Railton, Aug. 9th, 1880.

DEAR SIR,—In justice to C. F. Gildersleeve, Esq., the proprietor of the steamer Hastings, would you allow me to remove a false impression existing in the minds of many of my friends in your city regarding the great disappointment on the occasion of my pic-nic at Bath, on June 29th, in consequence of the boat leaving ahead of her advertised time. It has been stated that such was done as a political dodge.

Mr. Gildersleeve has assured me that such was not the case, that he never allows politics to interfere with his business.

Such I believe to be the fact.

Yours very respectfully,
CHARLES A. MCWILLIAMS, Priest.

YAWNING HIS JAW OUT OF JOINT.—A strange accident occurred to Mr. Lewis, of Lobo, on Monday last while he was visiting a neighbor. When about leaving, late in the evening, he happened to yawn, and opened his mouth too wide, producing dislocation of the lower jaw. Every effort to replace the bone proved unavailing, and Mr. Lewis was obliged to go all the way to Ailsa Craig, suffering considerable pain, besides being obliged to keep his mouth open the whole distance. Dr. Gunn speedily set the jaw, and Mr. Lewis is now all right again.

EXCURSION TO THOUSAND ISLAND PARK on Saturday, Aug. 21st, by steamer Varuna, returning on Monday afternoon, Aug. 23rd.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St., and get your old suits done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard, to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—A regular meeting of the Board will be held to-night.

NOISY.—A very noisy drunken man was abroad on George Street last night, but the police were not in that vicinity.

REMINDER.—Remember the ice cream festival, and the lecture by Dr. Jeffers in the Holloway Street Church to-night. Free busses will be run for the accommodation of those resident in East Belleville.

SIDEWALKS.—A new sidewalk is being laid on the north side of Bridge Street, between Pinnacle and Church Streets. There are many equally bad sidewalks that will have to be relaid before the season closes.

SUNSTROKE.—On the 8th inst. Mr. Striker, M. P. P., for Prince Edward, was overcome by the heat, and for a time was unconscious. He was better yesterday, and it is believed no serious consequences will follow.

HEAVY STORM.—Yesterday afternoon a heavy thunder storm passed over the south-western portion of Prince Edward County. The rain poured in torrents for over half an hour, and the storm was accompanied by a gale which blew down trees and levelled standing crops.

TEMPERANCE.—Mr. Thomas McMurray, who has been engaged by the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance for the total prohibition of the liquor traffic, to hold a series of meetings throughout the Province, is to give one of his discourses here on the evening of Monday, the 16th inst.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.—In compliance with the prayer of a largely signed petition, the City Council have proclaimed Wednesday, the 18th inst., as the annual civic holiday. A Committee has been appointed to arrange for games, etc., and will meet to-night in the Police Court to prepare a programme and devise ways and means. All citizens who are interested in the matter are invited to attend.

HARBOR IMPROVEMENT.—The scheme for the improvement of the harbor, which Ald. Robertson last night stated to the City Council would be reported by Mr. Austin, C. E., to the Government, is one of a large character. Ald. Robertson has asked the Minister of Public Works to send a dredge and scows here, in order that the work which can be done during the season of navigation may be proceeded with at once.

ESTRAY CATTLE.—Every person who neglects to advertise cattle which stray on to his place is liable to a penalty. There are probably but few farmers who are not aware of this, as they have been told it often enough in the papers; but, judging from the neglect of some to comply with the law until late in the fall, they appear to imagine that they can keep estray animals (milch cows included) until grass fails and it begins to cost some thing to feed them, which is a mistake, as they are bound to advertise them if no owner appears within a reasonable time.

A GOOD CHANCE.—Messrs. Chaney & Furnias have a few counties still in Ontario and in Western Territory to sell, and those who want to make money cannot do better than to purchase the right to use their celebrated Feather and Mattress Renovator.

THE IRON ORE TRADE.—Eight cars of hematite ore were received this morning for direct shipment to Buffalo and two cars of magnetic ore for shipment by vessel. The prospects of the trade are now excellent, and a resumption of work on a large scale in the Madoc mines is expected at an early date.

TO SPORTSMEN.—Duck shooting or rather the legal season for killing ducks, will begin on the 15th of August, which day being Sunday the sport will not commence until Monday the 16th, for, of course no true sportsman will attack the game on the Sabbath day. The duck are said to be numerous this season; and there will be good sport which would be better still were it not for the many bad shots who frighten but seldom kill the birds. Wild duck shooting is a profession that has to be learned by a long apprenticeship, together with considerable knowledge of natural history, before success can be achieved.

EXCURSION TO ROCHESTER.—In consideration of the disappointment and loss sustained in consequence of the steamer Hastings leaving Belleville and Bay Ports in advance of her advertised time on the 29th June, the day of Rev. Father Mc. Williams' pic-nic at Bath, the proprietor C. F. Gildersleeve Esq., has given the Rev. gentleman the same steamer free, for an excursion from Belleville, Bay Ports and Kingston to Rochester and return on Tuesday next, the 17th inst. This will in all probability be the last excursion from this city to Rochester this season. See advertisement in another column as to hour of leaving &c.

CLEANING BEDS.—The following extract from a letter from a gentleman lately resident in Belleville, who is using Chaney & Furnias' Feather and Mattress Renovator in Illinois, shows the value attached to the Renovator in that country and the money to be made by any live business man who runs it. He says: "If you could see the number of beds we handle in a day you would want to start at once for the west. In two days we made $43.50, being $21.75 per day, and although we do not expect to make this amount every day, still it is the best paying business we ever engaged in. When are you coming out? Any live man is sure to make money, as the machine will do all that is claimed for it." Messrs. Chaney & Furnias are still operating in Belleville, but as they purpose leaving shortly, any one who wants their beds or mattresses cleaned would do well to call upon them at once.

WHY NOT SAVE MONEY?—And buy your prints at Hennessy's, where you will get a first rate washing print for 5½ and 6½ cents, light and dark colors, beautiful patterns; also umbrellas; we have a nice useful umbrella for 20 cents.—JAS. HENNESSY.

Marmora Correspondence.

We are now having more settled weather than for some time past and a large amount of rye and barley which was kept out in the fields so late in the season owing to the "catching" weather, has been safely brought in.

In Blairton and vicinity, ague, chill fever and typhoid have been rather prevalent.

Land in the vicinity of Emerson has increased five times the original value the last four years.

The Gatling mine resumed operations on the 2nd ult., but will not have many men employed until October, when the payment becomes due.

The Bradshaw iron mine has for the most of the week been idle, and it is not a matter of certainty whether it will soon resume business or not.

The wheat harvest has begun and looks very well where it was sown on good ground, and seems to have suffered but little in the berry from the rust.

Commercial Notes.

There is an increase of 11½ per cent in the amount of freights forwarded from Halifax during July 1880 over the corresponding month last year. The larger portion of this increase is in local freight sent by Halifax merchants to local buyers.

The coal trade of Nova Scotia shows an increase of 25 per cent. up to July 1st over the corresponding period of last year. Total shipped to June 30th 1879, 221,631 tons; to June 30th this year, 300,783 tons; increase 79,162 tons. This result is solely due to the N. P., for the increased sales are all within the Dominion, the exports to the United States exhibiting no improvement.

Haunted Me.

Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for Doctoring, which done no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well at year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost.—A Workingman.

AFGHAN AFFAIRS.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—A Cabul despatch says the whole of Northern Afghanistan is fairly quiet as are all Kohistan, Wardak Ghilzai and the country around Jelalabad. The Ameer's chances of maintaining himself in power have certainly increased by General Roberts' march through the country most hostile to him.

General Roberts' force, numbering 8,000, made its first march to Benishaher. General Roberts hopes to reach Candahar in twenty-five days. The authorities do not anticipate any opposition to General Stewart's withdrawal to Gundamuk, or General Roberts' advance as far as Ghuznee. The Ameer has appointed Mooshki-Alam Khan as Ul-Alam, or religious head preacher of Afghanistan; he has also appointed new Governors of Ghuznee, Jellalabad, and Bamain. The Governor of Ghuznee accompanies Gen. Roberts to the latter place. Sirdar Wali Mohamed has gone to India. To retire from Cabul may mean the expenditure in a few years of fresh blood and treasure. To abandon Candahar may mean the loss of India.

Replying to a question, the Marquis of Hartington said the Government's intention to withdraw from Cabul immediately had been formed before General Burrows' defeat, which does not, according to the opinion of the Indian or Home Governments justify deferring the withdrawal. General Stewart, he said, fully concurs in believing that all objects have been attained, and that a longer stay in Cabul is unnecessary. No information has been received regarding the capture of Chaman-Choki by the Afghans. The Government was unaware that Ayoob Khan had any Russian officers with him. It could not be said that the British were retiring from the enemy's country in the face of severe defeat, as Generals Roberts and Phayre are both advancing to meet the enemy.

A despatch from Quetta reports that another fight has occurred between the troops retiring from the line of railway upon Sibi and a large body of tribesmen. The troops retired with the loss of ten killed, the greater portion of their baggage animals and treasury chest, containing a lac and a half of rupees. Native reports state that Ayoob Khan is a few miles away. It is reported that dissensions are rife in the camp. Cabulee regiments favor Abdurrahman, while the Heratee wish to retire with their booty. The dead of both armies remain unburied.

AN AIR LINE BRAKEMAN'S CLOSE SHAVE.—Michael Weston, an Air Line brakeman, had an almost miraculous escape from death on Saturday. He was on duty on a freight train, and when near Tilsonburg started to climb up the side of a car. By some means the ladder gave way and he was thrown between the rails, but fortunately he retained presence of mind to stretch himself flat upon the ground, where he lay in agonizing suspense while twenty-five cars passed over his prostrate body. He was brought to St. Thomas, where his wounds were dressed, and an examination disclosed that the young man's head had been almost entirely denuded of the natural covering. The scalp was torn loose and nearly severed, leaving the skull bare. His hand was severely squeezed and he sustained internal injuries in addition, but will recover.

BERWICK UPON TWEED.—The fast train running between Edinburgh and London, known as the "Flying Scotsman" has gone over the banks at Marshall Meadows near this town. No particulars yet. Physicians have gone to the scene.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—The final results of the elections for Councils-general show that 1,012 Republicans have been elected, and 404 reactionaries, being a gain of 300 for Republicans.

Baron Harden Hickey, editor of the anti-republican paper La Tribonstat, who has been expelled from France, is a native of the United States, whose ancestors emigrated from Ireland the beginning of the present century. Reactionary papers warmly protest against his expulsion, on the ground that he has long resided in France, and made a very generous use of his large fortune.

SCUTARI, Aug. 10.—The Albanian league constructed a mine under the Greek consulate at Priarend, which was blown up.

CABUL, Aug. 10.—Gen. Roberts' exact force for the relief of Candahar is 2,636 Europeans, 7,150 natives, 8,000 camp followers. Roberts says he is confident of the successful accomplishment of his plans.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 10.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, moderate variable winds, partly cloudy to cloudy weather with local rains.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Indications: lower lakes, partly cloudy, occasional rain, nearly stationary temperature to-morrow, cooler, fair.

The Old Story.

The morning sunlight looked in through the silken curtains, lighting the room as with an angel's smile, suddenly enveloping the face of its occupant with a strange brightness and transforming her pale brown hair into waves of glistening gold. Said the sunlight: "Maiden I missed you from the garden where I used to find you every morning, and I came to seek you. You summoned me to come here with her roses almost as bright as your cheeks. Are you ill?" "O, no!" responded the maiden, warming her thin, bloodless hands in the sunbeam, "only a little weak; I shall soon be out in the garden to greet you—to-morrow perhaps! I was just planning how I should arrange my flowers for you when you peeped in. Are my lillies up yet?" "Yes your lilies are up; I have just been warming them. I have tired you," said the sunlight, as he noticed the nearly drooping eyelids; "I will come again to-morrow if you are not in the garden"—and silently withdrew, leaving the fair slumberer alone in the gloom. A few hours later the moonlight stole softly through the silken curtains, which were gently rustling in the night breeze. "How cold!" said the moonlight, as she touched the pallid brow, and then gently laid her hand on the pulseless heart. "Dead!" she shudderingly whispered, as she withdrew through the softly rustling curtains. It is the old story of consumption. How she flatters her victims at morning with hope's honied words, and at evening makes them the prey of the spoiler! Statistics show that one-third of mankind die of this disease, and of these, far the greater part are young persons between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five, in the form of manhood and womanhood. For many years, consumption was generally believed to be incurable. But medicine is her triumphant march against disease has already added consumption to her list of conquered. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures this dread disease if resorted to in time. For a full consideration of this disease and its rational method of treatment, read the article on Consumption in the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, the most reliable popular work upon Physiology, Hygiene, Diseases and their Remedies, yet published. Price $1.50. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y.

KING'S NEW DISCOVERY has no equal and has established for itself a world wide reputation. Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. and LADY EAGLEHEART and I am their eldest son. They have been married on the border a year before, and as his father had had a reason for concealing their marriage, he brought my mother here to be secretly confined, and I was sent into obscurity. But for your story I could never have known my parentage, or asserted my rights so I have to thank you very sincerely for telling it.

Mrs. Fairweather's amazement and astonishment were as great as every one expected, and she could only stare and gaze and ejaculate during the whole evening—'The like o' that! Well, but I'm clean bambazed! It's a wonderfu' Providence—a most extraordinary wonderfu' Providence!'

Which latter opinion her hearers, one and all, most emphatically endorsed.

Next morning after bestowing on the still excited landlady a substantial token of their gratitude indebtedness to her, they entered the post chaise which had been hired to convey them to Singleton Hall, and were soon rolling eastward along Princess Street, through Waterloo Place, and past the gloomy gate of the Calton jail, where, among other prisoners, Jay, in solitary and hopeless foreboding, the notorious and already half-convicted Jim Mackouli.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

The carriage stood at the entrance-door of Singleton Hall, and Philip and Charles were putting on their gloves in the breakfast-room, preparatory to setting out for the Grange to an interview with Lord Eagleheart.

Philip Ravensworth had been all the morning stern and silent—scarcely, as the rest well knew, the wrath he cherished in his bosom against his cousin, and looking forward with grim and fierce exultation to the triumph that awaited him.

As they were about to go out, Mary glided into the room where they stood, and with a shy timidity—for she had not yet got quite accustomed to treat Ravensworth as her father—put with an earnest womanly purpose she put her arms round his neck, and laid her head on his breast.

Philip looked at the fair face nestling in his bosom, and the fiery light in his eyes gave place to a soft tender lustre—the sternness of his features melted, and with a loving smile he bent his lips to hers, and fondly kissed her.

'You are going to the Grange to-day! dear father,' she said in a low, sweet voice and blushing as she spoke.

'Yes, darling, Charles and I are going over. We have business, you know, with his lordship. Have you come to bid us good-bye before we start?'

'I have come to prefer a request,' she archly rejoined with a bewitching smile.

'You won't refuse it, will you, seeing it is the first I make to you?'

'Refuse it, love! How can you think so! I can refuse you nothing, though I own you have too good cause to think me a hard-hearted bear. Come tell me what you want that I may grant it at once.'

'I want you to be generous to Lord Eagleheart,' she wistfully replied.

He started and a frown came on his suddenly knitted brow.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of of several of the best and some of the worst) physicans, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Keat, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for other purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Rest St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. Henrick's Sedan Chaffed Pills, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

How it is Done

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using Green's August Flower. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of August Flower will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

The impatience of Philip Ravensworth was of a still fiercer and sterner kind. His long cherished wrath and bitterness against his cousin it was now in his power revengefully to gratify, and he longed with feverish eagerness for the moment when he would have the supreme joy of humbling, mortifying, and crushing him. This state of mind, this fierce burning desire, was—viewed after the manner of men—natural enough, but it was not worthy of Philip Ravensworth. He had a soul essentially nobler and higher than this passion implied. On every other theme, in every other direction, this was manifested; but in reference to Lord Eagleheart it was passion alone that governed him, and passion which those who knew and loved him sincerely regretted. Lydia had striven to raise him to the level of his true nature in regard to his dealings with his lordship, and to persuade him to cast aside the unworthy purpose of a paltry triumph and a mean revenge, but on this one point his wife had never been able to make an impression on him.

The proposal was made and agreed to that they should immediately leave Edinburgh and take up their abode at Singleton Hall, Philip and Charles privately settling with each other that, immediately on arriving in England, they should proceed at once to the Grange, and confront his lordship with the power which they now had, to charge him with his guilt, and demand reparation at his hands.

Before leaving Edinburgh it was resolved to make their neighbor, Mrs. Fairweather, acquainted with the discoveries which had been made. The good landlady had been to them a stanch friend during the affair. She had also been the unconscious means whereby the parentage of Charles had been discovered. To what likewise feel a strong interest in learning more about the mysterious lodgers of twenty years ago. So they had her up to tea the evening before their departure, and, without anticipated no little pleasure from witnessing the amazement of the worthy woman when the disclosure was made to her.

Charles had claimed the right to make it, and after tea, when they had settled themselves for comfortable discussion, when, indeed, the stream of Mrs. Fairweather's talk had begun to flow, the youth seized the first lull which occurred to observe—

'You remember the story you told us a few weeks ago about the lady who came to you to be confined?'

'Dae I remine it? Maister Ravensworth. Bless me sir, if I minded it for twenty years it's no likely I sud forget it in twa or three weeks.'

'True,' returned Charles, amid the general laugh. 'I should have said the story you remember telling it to us—to Mary and I?'

'Brawly; and the mair sae that I never tell't it to onybody afore.'

'Well, Mrs. Fairweather, I was the baby that was born then, and that you were taken away on horseback by the man with the broken nose and the queer eyes.'

The landlady dropped her knitting, and gazed at him for some moments in silence.

'Oh, I'm not joking. I am perfectly in earnest.'

'Hoots, sir, dinna come Yorkshire over an auld wife. It's no a story that I like tae jock about, at ony rate mony sad and sair thochts it gied me, and even yet I canna think o' the bonny lady and the pure little lammie that was carried awa' in the snaw, without something heavy comin' and lodgin' ower the tap o' my stamach.'

'But I tell you I am not joking,' said Charles in a tone the sincerity of which puzzled the landlady exceedingly.

'You remember how you thought of telling us the story? It was the resemblance of my eyes to the eyes of the lady.'

'Guid save us, sae it was,' ejaculated Mrs. Fairweather, startled now into astonishment.

'Up to that moment I was not certain who my parents were, but your story tallied so strangely with what I knew of my early history that the suspicion was formed, that the story you were telling was the story of my own birth. The clue then given I followed up, and the mystery is now explained. The lady and gentleman were Lord and Lady Eagleheart and I am their eldest son. They have been married on the border a year before, and as his father had had a reason for concealing their marriage, he brought my mother here to be secretly confined, and I was sent into obscurity. But for your story I could never have known my parentage, or asserted my rights so I have to thank you very sincerely for telling it.

SUBSTITUTES!

The public are cautioned against a custom which is grown to unlicensed of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they "have just sold out," but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. The substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer, and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle on the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz. and 4 oz. bottles, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively—the best medicine for the money in the world.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable agents in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

Messrs Scott & Bowne:— 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

Gents,—I have frequently prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne, Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practice prescribed very extensively Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, and I candidly declare it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got worse again, then went to the general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, chills, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I was induced to try a bottle of your Emulsion and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have often taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 117 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your Emulsion and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I recommend it to some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, &c. I have a dear friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought five more. Can use it as a food and say it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the praise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1878. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne: Lynn, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1876.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your Emulsion and at that time was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover.

"Epileptic Fits"

St. Paul, Minn. January 4th, 1878.

James L. Fellows, Esq.

Dear Sir,—I have neglected writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the result of your medicine, a can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried; as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way to recovery, and if you must hear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have had a fit before now. She is also gaining heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are not partial and the action of the heart is less terrible; I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. Walter Oakes.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

James L. Fellows, Esq.

Sir,—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me. I was also ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many physicians and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and it was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation has merit to for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

CHRONIC LARYNGITIS.

The premonitory symptoms of this disease begin with those of an ordinary cold, only that it is always attended with more or less hoarseness. It is scarcely ever an original disease separate and distinct in itself, but is usually an extension of Catarrh, this disease passing down the posterior naries and pharynx until it reaches the more sensitive mucus membrane of the larynx, and finally continuing down until it extends to the lungs. When it is caused by Catarrh the symptoms are more of a tickling in the throat, and the patients complain of a sensation as of something "sticking in the throat," which causes a continual rasping cough to clear the throat and windpipe. The voice is unnatural at first, being rough, while in the later stages it becomes weak and indistinct, and a constant sense of tightness and often difficulty in swallowing.

The above is the simplest form of the disease, and can be readily removed in a few weeks, Although in all cases it must be treated by the direct application of medicated inhalations (not atomization), for if we would properly treat a disease of this nature we must reach all the surrounding parts so as not to drive the disease beyond the point of attack, and herein lies the great danger of using caustics to the delicate organism, as is the custom of many physicians, for if we burn or dry up the inflamed mucus surface of the larynx and only reach those parts we are almost sure to drive the disease farther down into the bronchical tubes and lungs, but by the system of medicated inhalations the mucus surfaces of the larynx bronchial tubes and air cells of the lungs are all reached, hence the impossibility of driving the disease to more remote points. Being treated in this manner there are few cases of Chronic Laryngitis but what are readily curable.

The causes which produce this disease are various. It arises in clergymen, and is very prevalent in school teachers and many others, from too violent use of the voice, dust, the poisonous exudations from decayed vegetable matter, and living in damp houses. It is more often a sequel to ordinary sore throat, and inflamation extending down into the larynx by reason of the continuity of the mucous membrane.

But whatever may be its cause, it is always a serious disease. When it becomes chronic it threatens a complete destruction of the voice, and rarely ends until the lungs become involved, and then every fresh cold or change in the weather continues to feed the disease and increases its severity, complications, and hold upon the sufferer.

This disease is often a sequel of consumption which is aggravated by the poisoned mucus which is being constantly expectorated from the lungs. When this is the case the disease is of a most distressing character. There is more or less ulceration in the vicinity of the vocal chords These ulcers frequently penetrate through the mucus and cellular membranes, and often attack the ligaments and cartilages themselves. When this is the case we can only hope to effect a complete cure by those means which will remove the cause, "viz.," the consumption of the lungs. And in order to do this there is only one system of practice capable of approximating face to face with this foul destroyer. I refer to Medicated Inhalations, and this system is usually successful after all other means have been tried without avail. If on account of distance, constitutional debility or expense of travel, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and, when fully answered and returned to the Institute, remedies can be sent per express (duty free,) together with full directions for use. OVER THE SEA.

XXII.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

COST OF A TRIP, NECESSARY PREPARATIONS, &c.

The question is often asked, What does it cost to see England, Scotland and Ireland pretty thoroughly, and to visit Paris and its environs? Well, that depends. Some are able to do it on from $300 to $350 and spend a couple of months of most enjoyable holidays.

Another important question is, What preparations does a person require? None that cannot be completed in half an hour. But first thank Heaven that you were born a man instead of a woman, and then get your valise ready. Let it be a small portable one, and pack it only with linen and underclothing sufficient, that you may not be at the mercy of the washerwoman. Take one suit of clothes only; this you will usually require to wear. You cannot well do with less, but you can well do with that if you are not pitiably dependent on your clothes to create or deepen favorable impressions on the people you meet. Let the cloth be of mixed tweed and of such a pattern as will laugh at a sniff of the salt sea spray, and of such a color as will invite you to a seat in the wishing chair of the Giants' Causeway, or to recline at full length upon the Highland heather. A cap for the boat and train, a light waterproof overcoat, and an umbrella that may be utilized as a walking cane, may complete the outfit. Remember you are going to a country where every comfort and luxury are easily supplied, and where clothing is one-third cheaper and can be procured better than in Canada. Anything like dandyism at sea will be sure to render a person disagreeably conspicuous.

What about a suitable apparel for ladies? Oh! excuse us, if you please. We observed, however, that sensible ladies who had crossed before had plenty of warm wraps, wore plain dark woollen dresses, polonaise shape, with large convenient pockets, that were easy to dive into and seemed to hold smelling bottles, pincushions, and almost everything required in any case of emergency.

The most oft recurring, and one of the sweetest consolations of a voyage, is found in the reflection that you have little baggage to hamper and distract you. You may, if you feel disposed, walk from boat to station, or, if near at hand, from station to hotel, with your valise in one hand and your umbrella in the other, with nothing to trouble you—looking down upon and pitying the poor fellows with wives and band-boxes, wrestling with great Saratoga trunks and other incumbrances, shouting unheeded and doubtless covertly cursing, amid a confused sea of whipstalks and hackmen.

We took occasion, in a former communication, to allude to the complicated form of government now existing in London, and now notice that a bill has just been introduced into the house of Parliament to unite under one government all the towns and parishes known under the general name of London. To comprehend the scope of such a bill, it should be understood that proper, is simply that part of the great metropolis that is included in the old walls of the town. It is essentially the business portion, and has only about 70,000 inhabitants out of the 4,000,000 of the great metropolis. This little group elects the Lord Mayor and Aldermen and has control over a vast amount of public property. The other towns that have grown into London still keep up their old systems of government and manage local affairs as they please. Of late years there has been appointed what is called the Metropolitan board of public works, which has jurisdiction over all these places in all that relates to public improvement, but as systems of taxation are different, and the boards of government, some towns, cities or parish districts are always working at cross purposes. On this account it would be a great gain to merge them all into a grand municipality. Notwithstanding the fact that the annoyance and confusion resulting from all the present mixed governments, are becoming more and more apparent every year, there will be a strong opposition from Londoners to the bill in consequence of the advantages they already possess over the other cities, towns and parishes. Some people outside of London are of opinion that this would be too powerful a government to plant in the heart of the Empire. In wealth and importance it would be greater than the majority of nations.

We are to leave London this evening for the Continent and shall omit particular descriptions of places of interest in and around the metropolis until after our return.

TRAMP.

LONDON, July 31st, 1880.

Cold Storage.

There is no present question of equal interest to all parties engaged in the dairy or poultry business with that of cold storage. It is only within the last half dozen years that interested men have come to believe that cold storage would tend to preserve perishable goods. Not that it would not suspend the action of decay so long as it lasted, but the belief was general that so soon as the goods were removed from the influence of the cold the decay would be rapid in the same ratio as it would have been if left in a high temperature. This notion is rapidly fading away, however, and actual test is usurping the place of false tradition. Cold storage is becoming wonderfully popular, not only at points of delivery, but while in transit also. No very scientific tests have ever been put to this matter on a large enough scale to attract the attention of the practical dealer of perishable goods, so that there has been much doubt and dissension as to the proper temperature for holding butter, cheese, eggs and such articles. We, therefore, hail with delight an effort to formulate these matters by the merchants assembled at Indianapolis in April in attendance upon the meeting of the National Butter, Cheese and Egg Association. We give their arguments pretty nearly in full that they may go on record for future reference and correction if they should prove in any particular incorrect as demonstrated by future experience.

Mr. John Tiley, of Boston. I think Mr. Belknap is correct, but I think cheese should not go below 60°, and butter below 55°. My experience is that it keeps as well in a temperature the most natural for butter, and when you move it it stands the weather much better. In cheese when you get below 60° it is below the natural coolness. Mr. Belknap's temperature would be better if the butter was to be transferred to a refrigerator to be kept at that temperature, or to be cut right up for use.

Mr. Gilbough, of Philadelphia. The ideas that we have in Philadelphia of temperature is about 60° for cheese is best, and a lower temperature even for butter. It has not been our habit to keep butter at less than 50°, and the preference has been at 55°. A colder temperature destroys some of the aroma, freshness and flavor of the butter.

Mr. Albro, of Chicago. I don't agree with either of these gentlemen. I think 36° is the best temperature for butter. I have tried it at 48°, 55° and 60°. I have kept creamery butter at 50° for ninety days, and I would say to keep butter for sixty or even ninety days, perhaps 60° would be low enough or 55°.

Ninety days, in my experience, is about the turning point in any article of perishable goods. I think cheese would commence in about sixty days; but cheese, when well cured and put in a refrigerator, I have no doubt can be kept for ninety days, and there will not be any great change, but in the next thirty days the change is sure to take place. It may be, if you could put that cheese in a temperature of sixty degrees, and keep it thirty days then reduce the temperature to fifty degrees, and then keep it thirty days more, then get it just as near freezing without freezing as you can, you will accomplish your object surer than by any other way. I have tried butter by sad experience at fifty-five degrees, but I have kept butter at thirty-six for a number of years, and I must say with a great deal more profit, and with a great deal more satisfaction, to the consumer, and to all hands concerned, at thirty-six than at any other temperature. Butter, I think, keeps very well for ninety or a hundred days at about forty-nine; then it begins to go back. I would as soon keep butter at that temperature from June to September as at a higher temperature. You take cheese and put it in an ice house and it will sink in the middle, you take butter that is porous—packed loosely, put it in an ice house and it will dish every time.

Mr. Kepler. I have been in the cold storage business several years. I have carried butter, cheese and eggs, and I find in a uniform dry temperature there is no trouble in carrying them with safety and certainty. My experience for butter is, that the temperature should be from forty-eight to fifty-two degrees; but, as Mr. Albro says, it can be carried at a lower temperature, and carried well. But our markets are generally better in September and October, or November at the latest. At that time we cannot rely on cold weather; the temperature then is generally about 60° to 70°. It is too great a change to take butter out of 36° and put it in a temperature of 70°. I find that 48° to 52° is the best for all purposes; there is no trouble in carrying it. I recommend air tight packages as near as possible, for butter, cheese and eggs. The less circulation of air they get the better. Instead of putting dry salt on it to get butter air tight, I should make a paste of salt, and the salt remains firm, and keeps the air from getting in. I have carried eggs from April to December and January in my ice house in Chicago, and sold them, and they have the reputation of being the best eggs in the city, as the commission merchants will testify. I don't let eggs get above 40°. I carry them as near 38° as possible. Moisture that would spoil an egg would not hurt butter. You have got to have a drier temperature for eggs than butter—butter will absorb the moisture. I keep cheese in a box and do not remove the scale board. I have carried 235 for two years, made by Mr. Turner, or Lime Centre, Wis., and they were shipped to Europe. (Samples of this cheese are on exhibition.) When the gentleman from Boston remarked that butter could not be removed without damaging it from one ice house to another, he omitted to speak of the refrigerator-car. I think it can be safely removed at any season of the year by the use of the refrigerator-car. Cheese should not be above fifty-five or below fifty; that is my experience. And the cheese should be close-made and not porous; the box well trimmed, and the scale board allowed to remain until the cheese is removed to market.

Mr. Winsor, of New York. The ice house men in that city keep a temperature in butter rooms of from forty to forty-five degrees. Butter packed and covered with salt so as to form a crust on top of the tub is most desirable. For local trade butter is stored at from fifty to fifty-five degrees; for export trade forty to forty-five degrees.

Mr. J. A. Smith, of New York. In regard to cold storage of butter, Mr. Winsor has expressed my sentiments pretty closely. We have or use two kinds of ice houses in New York, one for immediate use, the other for long storage. The long storage house is kept usually about 40° to 42°. I think Mr. Winsor got it a little too high. The house that we consider the best in New York will hold goods properly put up from three to eight months perfectly sweet, probably a longer time—that is when the products are good.

I think the egg trade of this country the most irregular trade that we have. A storage house properly constructed, properly put up, will keep eggs three months, possibly four months. They should be worked off within four months. Three months is as long as any eggs should be held in cold storage. I have never known but one way to hold eggs in cold storage and hold them properly, than they came out good, and that is, take good old oats; the oats must be perfectly dry, sweet and clean, get every particle of dust out of them, then pack the eggs in them. If you pack eggs in musty oats they will certainly be useless when they come out. They should be in a temperature of 36° to 40°. The reason so much is said against this cold storage is, that eggs are not properly packed, they are put in musty straw.

Mr. Gilbough. I have had fifteen years experience in keeping eggs in cold storage. If eggs are taken fresh and placed in cold storage they can be safely kept. It has resulted profitably to me. First, get fresh eggs, take out all dirty or soiled eggs; get the very best oats; the cleanest and the best, put it through the fanning mill, and take all the dust out of it, and pack them in cold storage of about 45°. When we take them out of the cold storage we let them stand, so that they may become of the same temperature as the atmosphere around them.

Mr. Winsor. I move it be the sense of this convention that a temperature of from 45° to 48° be considered the proper temperature for keeping butter ninety days. Motion prevailed.

Mr. Gilbough. I move that butter to be held an indefinite length of time over ninety days, should be held somewhere between 36° and 40°, not over 40° nor less than 36°. Carried.

Mr. A. Albro. I move to hold eggs any length of time in cold storage 38° to 40°, should be considered the proper temperature. Motion carried.

Mr. Duckworth, of New York. I move that 45° to 50° be considered the proper temperature for the storage of cheese.—Carried.—American Dairyman.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 11.

The Coal Tax.

It certainly is rather cool of the Globe to claim in one column of its issue of Monday a deficit on the past year's Dominion revenue of $2,550,000 as compared with the expenditures, and at the same time to claim that the coal tax is unjust and oppressive, and especially to the poor man. Now the organ well knows that revenue must be had to balance the expenditure. This is conceded by all, therefore why should not coal be taxed as well as any other import? Coal is an article which is not consumed by more than a comparative few of our people as fuel. The farmers—for whose interests the free-trade agitator professes especial regard—do not burn coal. The poorer classes in cities, towns and villages do not use the article, burning wood instead, unless it may be in Toronto and Hamilton, therefore the taxation on coal is paid by the manufacturers, Gas Companies, the wealthy, and what may be called the middle classes, who are as a rule able to contribute towards the revenue. Taking all the facts into consideration, we do not know of a tax that is less oppressive to the great body of the people than the coal tax, as even where coal is used almost exclusively for heating purposes, the rich man pays from $10 to $15 on the 20 or 30 tons passed through his furnaces and grates during the winter, whilst the poor man, who burns his 3 or 4 tons in one self-feeder, contributes but $1.50 to $2 towards the revenue on that account—a sum which would have been hard to raise under the Mackenzie-Cartwright starvation tariff, but which, now that work is comparatively plentiful, is scarcely felt by him.

The plain fact of the matter is that the Government are determined to borrow no more money to meet current expenses, and to have no more deficits, as their predecessors had, in order that the credit of the country may be restored. Therefore money must be had from some source, and the much abused coal tax being, as we have seen, as little oppressive as possible to the great body of the people, whilst largely assisting a vast industry in the Maritime Provinces, was devised with commendable wisdom, and has been retained with praiseworthy firmness, despite the hostile outpourings of critics who do not perceive that their bellowings fall upon deaf ears, as the great mass of the community is not affected by the duty and consequently feels no interest in the matter.

If the Globe were not blinded by prejudice and made reckless by the crushing defeat of all its predictions of evil which it prophesied were to flow from a protective tariff, it would see how ridiculous it makes itself by a duty which is so little felt by the working classes and which does not affect the farmer, whilst at the same time it is fostering a great national industry and producing a considerable amount of revenue which cannot possibly be done without.

Political Notes.

THE TARIFF.

It is a favorite assertion with the opponents of the Government, that the tariff imposes monstrous taxes upon the people of the Dominion, and some set it down as averaging upwards of 30 per cent. on all articles imported—dutiable as well as free. What such a statement is worth is easily shown. The imports of the Dominion for the month of June—the last month for which returns can as yet be had—were of the value of $6,600,493, and the amount of duty collected was $1,278,903, or a trifle under 20 per cent.; to be exact, 19.37 per cent. This is the way in which Grit assertions regarding the N. P. usually turn out when subjected to a test which cannot be evaded.

DIFFERING DOCTORS.

The Globe is never tired of asserting that the duty on wheat is of no benefit to the farmers. The Montreal Journal of Commerce, which ought to be much better authority, takes an exactly opposite view. It says:—"That from the standpoint of protecting native industries a duty has been placed on flour it is easy to understand, but a duty on wheat that prevents exportation, which taxes four provinces for the benefit of the farming interest of part of Ontario and increases the daily expenses of the laborer or the mechanic, is not so easy of explantation on economic grounds." The authority quoted from is in principle almost as strong a free-trader as is the Toronto organ, but it has the good sense to acknowledge that the differing interests of the various Provinces require special consideration, which has been given to them under the N. P.

THE IRON INDUSTRY.

Writing of the Hull iron mines, the special correspondent of the Globe says:—"The Company will, in the course of the next few months, repair the smelting furnaces already referred to as having been partially destroyed in the great forest fire of 1870. They will export by boats iron ore, bringing as a return cargo anthracite coal for smelting ore for Canadian use. The duty on coal, however, is one of the difficulties in the way, but the Company have been told by Ministerialists in a vague sort of manner that the Government will allow them a drawback on the coal imported for such a purpose. This, however, is not the only direction in which the N. P. is hampering this industry instead of benefiting it. Any Conservative who is foolish enough to believe that the N. P. is giving one iota of assistance to this growing industry, had better enquire of the proprietors of the mine and have this illusion dispelled." How the duty on coal can unfavorably affect a business which has not yet been commenced, and on the coal used for which, in any case, the duty is to be remitted, can "hamper" the industry in question, we leave the correspondent to explain. As pig iron now pays $2 per ton duty, whereas under the late tariff it was free, and the duty on the coal (1¼ tons) used in manufacturing a ton of pig iron would amount to 75 cents per ton of iron, thus leaving $1.25 per ton protection on iron, how does the N. P. hamper the trade? We pause for a reply.

The Coming Civic Holiday.

How it is Proposed to Celebrate it.

A meeting of the Special Committee of the City Council, appointed to consider arrangements for the celebration of the Civic Holiday met a number of ratepayers in the Council Chamber last night.

Alderman D. B. Robertson was called to the Chair, and Mr. E. Corby was appointed Secretary to the meeting.

The Chairman said the object of the meeting was to see if anything could be done towards getting up a programme of amusements for the Civic Holiday. It had been suggested that a cricket match should be got up—the return match, if possible, with the Syracuse Club, and if not, then a match with the Campbellford and all north, also a lacrosse match, a rowing regatta and a sailing regatta for second class yachts. Athletics were under a cloud at present, and it did not strike him that it would be advisable to seek to have a programme of that character at present.

It was stated that a number of excursions had been arranged for, and some doubt was expressed as to whether it was advisable to proceed, and it was suggested that in the first place a subscription should be taken up, in order to see what could be done.

Mr. W. A. Shepard moved, seconded by Ald. Farley, that Messrs. Ald. D. B. Robertson, R. S. Bell, Ald. Farley, and Ald. Niles be a Committee to solicit subscriptions.—Carried.

After considerable discussion of a conversational character, it was resolved to arrange a cricket match with a team to be selected from Stirling, Campbellford, Hastings and Madoc, and that a ball be presented to the winners of the game and a bat to the batsman scoring the largest number of runs.

A programme of games and sports, of a popular character, and to be under the management of Chief McKinnon, and to be held on the cricket ground in the afternoon was also drawn up. The competition, it was agreed, should be limited to amateurs, cups of the value of $3 for first and $2 to second, to be offered in each event, and a band will be engaged to play during the progress of the games.

Another meeting will be held at the same hour and place to-night, when it will be determined whether the project will be gone on with.

All who take an interest in the matter are invited to attend.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—In answer to Mr. Mackintosh's reply to my letter in your issue of 15th July, firstly he endeavors to make the public believe that I had written to him privately, threatening him with some kind of terrible and mysterious punishment, which statement is untrue. I declare that I never wrote anything of the kind, or to any of the co., trustees, as he styles them. Mr. Mackintosh also states that we wrote to him last spring for a teacher for Bell's Rapids school, and that he was willing to grant Miss Scott a permit—which statement is not altogether correct. The facts are these: we made a request for a teacher for the No. 1 school. In reply to this he said that he did not know of any available one at present, but that the trustees were to do the best they could to obtain one, and if he was at all suitable that he would grant a special certificate. We did the best we could. We procured one whom he acknowledges himself was qualified for the position. Then we were anxious to procure a teacher for the Union School at Bells Rapids in June last; we asked him to grant a permit to Miss Scott; He replied that if we authorized him he would do so for the Union School. It being so near vacation, the people of that school and the trustees had agreed that we would not open that school until after vacation, and we reported the same to Mr. M. in a letter dated either the 21st or 28th of June last. This letter is the only one in which was sent concerning a certificate for my son; that must contain the bulldozing and threats that he speaks of. Now would Mr. M. be kind enough to publish that letter of that date, as it will show that we did not want the Bell's Rapids school put off until fall as he states. Now Mr. M. says that he deputed part of his power to the trustees, which is true, but why did he take that power from us again by refusing to grant a certificate to the one selected by the request of the ratepayers against the petition of all others in the said Section. We, the trustees, then requested Mr. M. to grant Miss S. a permit for the whole section intending to change her from one school to the other, which would be better than no school at all, in which he was willing for her to teach at Bell's Rapids which we look upon as a fair proof that he is opposed to our school. For further proof that he is against us, he is in communication with Bell's Rapids now, and heretofore writing to private individuals advising them to force the trustees to open this school, which would give him power to object to our school being established. This is the way we consider he is so anxious to aid the trustees in their efforts to set their school in operation. Mr. M. states that the great bulk of the children are at the Rapids, but he is mistaken. Rather question if he knows where Bell's Rapids is, for he has never had his foot in No. 1 section. I will ask your readers how he can judge, or upon what grounds he forms his ideas upon our number of children and our distances. If Mr. M. was so opposed to us having a school, why did he so encourage us to build a school house? why not have objected to it at once in a plain and straightforward manner? If this school is not allowed the children would have from 2 to 5 miles to go to the nearest school house, and in this mountainous country it is equal to double the distance. Mr. Mackintosh says that when we cease our squabbling I think that if Mr. M. had done what was right there would be no occasion for a squabble. At the present time I think that the advice given to Mr. Lake and Mr. C. Dafoe might be thankfully received at home.

I remain respectfully,
Yours, &c.,
CALVIN DAFOE.

EXCURSION TO THOUSAND ISLAND PARK on Saturday, Aug. 21st, by steamer Varuna, returning on Monday afternoon, Aug. 23rd.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St., and get your old suits done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

THE CELLS.—There was but one prisoner in the cells last night.

IRON ORE.—Three cars of iron ore for shipment by vessel arrived this morning.

PERSONAL.—Mr. W. L. Hamilton, Collector of Inland Revenue, is visiting St. Catharines, at which place he was stationed for some years.

THUNDER STORM.—Another thunder storm, the tail of which only reached Belleville, passed to the north of the city yesterday afternoon.

TIME EXTENDED.—It will be seen by advertisement that the Government has decided to extend the time for leasing certain of the Thousand Islands.

STIRLING ELEVATOR.—Mr. James Haggerty, one of the proprietors of the Stirling elevator, was in town yesterday, and states that he is now about ready to receive grain.

SPECIAL SERVICES.—A series of special services have been commenced in Bleecker Street Church by Rev. Mr. Jenkinson. The services are held Tuesday and Wednesday of each week.

THE IRON TRADE.—Some of the iron mines are about to commence shipping the product of their mines by water to Ashtabula, Ohio. Vessel owners have been offered 80c per ton, but refuse this rate.

NORTH HASTINGS FAIR.—The Annual fair of the North Hastings Agricultural Society will be held at Garner's Hotel, instead of Lake's, as in former years. The date is fixed for Thursday, 7th Oct.

THE RIVER.—The water in the river has fallen rapidly of late, and the use of slash boards on the slides at the dams has been resorted to, in order to keep a sufficient head of water for mills and factories.

ONTARIO TEACHER'S ASSOCIATION.—The twentieth annual convention of the Ontario Teacher's Association, is now in session in Toronto. A number of teachers from this section of the country went up yesterday.

CRICKET.—Kingston played Ottawa at cricket on the 9th inst. The Ottawa Club scored 82 runs in the first and 123 in the 2nd innings. Kingston scored 86 runs in the first and 24 in the 2nd for the loss of three wickets when time was called, and the game declared a draw.

JUDGMENT DEFERRED.—The Police Magistrate was to have judgment in the case against the Police Commissioners this morning, but as all the parties were not present, the delivery of judgment was deferred till Monday by consent of all concerned.

RAILWAY NOTE.—Upwards of nine hundred cars loaded with freight, passed the Belleville station going westward on Monday. This shows a wonderful development of west bound freight, as in former years the cars were sent empty from the east, to be returned loaded with the produce of the west.

PHRENOLOGY AND RELIGION.—The lecture delivered by Rev. Dr. Jeffers on the above subject in the Holloway Street Church last evening was one of the best the people of West Belleville have ever had the pleasure of listening to. The attendance was good, and throughout the lecture the audience were very attentive. The proceeds amount to a sum in the vicinity of $100.

RAILROAD SIDING.—Whilst the siding to be placed in front of Downey & Preston's elevator will be of great convenience to that firm, it will also, they claim, render the obstruction to the ferry less onerous, as teams can be driven past the cars beside the elevator, whereas the cars were formerly left on the main line to be unloaded and thus obstructed the street.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.—The Peterboro' Review of the 10th says:—"Some fifty men that have been engaged in Toronto to work on the Grand Junction Railway, came to town to-day by the noon train. Work is progressing rapidly. A number of men were sent to Hastings yesterday to fill in at the end of the bridge. Tracklaying is soon to commence at Hastings. The ballast for the track in this vicinity is to be taken from the large cut on the road west of the Midland Railway."

THE DOG BY-LAW.—Is the Dog By-law to be allowed to remain this year, as last year, a dead letter? The police, who ought not to need such instruction, have been requested by the City Council to enforce the law, but so far they have not done so at all effectively. Some people have complied with the request of the Chief of Police to register their dogs, but the great majority have not done so. This is not fair; so let the law be enforced.

THE RIFLE.—A meeting of the 49th Battalion Rifle Association is to be held at Hambly's to-morrow night at 8 o'clock.

EAGLES.—Four fine eagles were seen flying along the beach near Wellington on Monday morning. The resident says these noble birds are frequently seen in that vicinity.

JOHN STREET CHURCH.—The Rev. G. M. Milligan B. A., pastor of Old St. Andrews, Toronto, will preach this evening at 8 o'clock in the John St. Presbyterian Church.

A SAFETY SWITCH.—A safety patent railway switch, from which cars cannot run off, even if it is misplaced, has been satisfactorily tested by the Ottawa and Occidental Railway, and it is said the Company will adopt it.

NEARLY A FIRE.—A Trenton telegram of the 10th inst says:—"A coal oil lamp fell and exploded in the old covered bridge to-night, nearly causing a disastrous fire. The bridge is one of the oldest in Canada and is now undergoing extensive repairs."

YACHTING NOTE.—The Globe of Tuesday says:—"The sloop yacht Bloodhound, now lying at her moorings in the bay, is a fine specimen of the freshwater racing yacht. She was built in Trenton by Mr. Alexander Cuthbert, and registers 55 tons. Mr. John Prindiville, of Chicago, is endeavoring to get her up to that place, to take part in the forthcoming regatta of the 17th. He offers to pay for her towing up from Port Dalhousie to Chicago, and give $350 towards her expenses, and a guarantee that a satisfactory sale of the boat will be made there if the owner, Mr. Cuthbert, wishes to part with her. It appears that the Chicago yachtsmen are desirous of owning her, as they are of the opinion that she can "walk away" from anything on the lakes. Mr. Richard Bilton, of Kingston, the famous yachtsman, will assist Captain Cuthbert in taking her up if she goes. The Bloodhound is valued at $3,500."

THE OSWEGO ROUTE.—The fine new propeller Thomson Kingsford arrived from Oswego this morning. She is a very comfortable vessel, being 122 ft. 6 in. long, 23 ft. 6 in. beam, and 238 tons register, her carrying capacity being 12,000 bushels of barley. The Kingsford is very safe and steady because of her great breadth of beam; she has sleeping accommodations for 50 passengers; she can steam 10 miles per hour easily, and is in every respect a first-class vessel, having been built of the best material under the superintendence of her owner, the Hon. A. C. Mattoon, of Oswego. It is the intention of Mr. Mattoon to place his fine steamer on the route between Oswego and Belleville and to run three trips per week, if sufficient encouragement can be had. We wish him success in his enterprise which could not fail to be beneficial to both ports.

WHY NOT SAVE MONEY?—And buy your prints at Hennessy's, where you will get a first-rate washing print for 5½ and 6¾ cent., light and dark colors, beautiful patterns; also umbrellas; we have a nice useful umbrella for 20 cents.—JAS. HENNESSY.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 11.

LARCENY.

William Gibson was convicted of the charge brought against him and was liberated on bail, to appear for sentence when called upon.

Alfred Premo, the blind man charged with stealing $14 from John McDonald, withdrew his request to be tried summarily and was sent for trial.

Marine.

The schr. Flora Careeth has been caulked at Mill Point and will probably be chartered to carry iron ore to Ashtabula, Ohio.

Freights continue to advance, and the following rates are current: Lumber to Oswego $1.15 per m; iron ore to Sodus 40c per ton; poplar wood and basswood bolts to Charlotte $1 per cord; iron ore to Ashtabula 55c per ton. Vessels continue scarce at these rates.

Passed up—Schr. McClellan from Dexter for Trenton, light.

Arrived—Str. Thomson Kingsford, Oswego, light.

Cleared—Schr. Millie Cook, Dexter, lumber; str. Thomson Kingsford, Oswego, lumber.

Board of Education.

TUESDAY, Aug. 10.

The Board met at the usual hour.

PRESENT.—Messrs. W. A. Shepard, Chairman; Newbery, Hayne, McGinnis, Hudson, Diamond, Van Allan, Richards, Northcott, Docter, Tennant, Macoun.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The notice of motion given by Mr. Diamond for the appointment of Truant Officer was allowed to stand.

Mr. Newbery gave notice of motion for the reference of the second clause of the Finance Committee's report presented at last meeting to the Committee on School Management.

In answer to Mr. VanAllan, who inquired if anything could be done in reference to the School in Coleman Ward in the absence of the Chairman of the Building Committee? There was work to be done, and he wished to know what could be done.

The Chairman replied that it was competent for the Committee to meet, and proceed as they saw fit.

In answer to Mr. Diamond, who urged that the repairs to the Octavia Street School should be proceeded with,

Mr. Northcott said the Surveyor is going on with the necessary repairs.

The Board adjourned.

Ameliasburgh Correspondence.

The hum of the threshing machine could be heard in most every direction during the past week.

Farmers are getting grain threshed so as to make room for the rest of their crops.

Barley is a very good sample but mostly colored.

A strike was made by some of the threshers for four cents a bushel all around, but failed.

Few farmers in the township will have less than 600 bushels of barley.

Mrs. Delong, mother of D. H. Delong Esq. of this township, is 104 years old, and can thread a needle without spectacles. She attended the first camp-meeting held at Indian woods, and intends going next Sabbath (if nothing happens) to the same place.

A picnic was held at Melville on Thursday.

Trenton Items.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mrs. David Gilmour is improving from the effects of the accident which occurred last week by the team of horses running away and upsetting the carriage. Mr. Gilmour, who was driving, was badly bruised, but his wife was thought at the time to be seriously injured.

Rev. John Brennan, of Picton, has a monster pic-nic excursion on the 18th inst. to Hoecker's Grove, Trenton, on the Prince Edward Railroad. The Picton Silver Cornet Band will accompany the party. There are prizes offered in athletic games, &c.

On Tuesday evening one of the coal oil lamps used in lighting the bridge exploded smashing the lantern frame to atoms. If being early in the evening parties close by prevented what might have been a serious fire.

The iron work for the new swing bridge has arrived from Hamilton.

The foundation is laid and the brick work has commenced on the new building for Molson's Bank.

Mr. William Gilbert, one of our popular landlords, contemplates retiring from business on the 1st prox. Messrs. McLaren and Heagle take his house.

I. O. O. F.—At the meeting of the Grand Encampment of I. O. F. at Guelph on the 10th inst. the following were elected officers for the ensuing year:—John Donogh, Toronto, Grand Patriarch; Dr. F. Rae, Oshawa, Grand High Priest; W. D. Gordon, Kingston, Grand Warden; M. D. Dawson, London, Grand Scribe and Treasurer; H. Urquhart, Strathroy, Grand Junior Warden; J. Ham Perry, Whitby, Grand Representative to the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

ARRIVAL OF THE PRINCESS LOUISE IN ENGLAND.—The Allan royal mail steamship Polynesian, Captain Brown, from Quebec, on the 31st ult, with their Royal Highnesses the Princess Louise and Prince Leopold on board, arrived out on Sunday at noon, having made a splendid run across the ocean in eight days. The royal yacht Victoria and Albert went to Liverpool to meet the Princess Louise and Prince Leopold and convey them to Osborne.

—By the collapse of a warehouse in Montreal yesterday afternoon one lad was killed and six others were seriously wounded. For a time the lives of fifteen or twenty boys who had been employed to stow away bran in the building were in imminent danger.

—Dr. Tanner is as successful at gormandizing as he is at starving. He can mix up more stuff in his stomach in less time than you could count the articles. Look at this, watermelon, beef tea, milk, and potatoes. Beefsteak, apples, lime water, mutton chop, wine, liver, &c., with a little dough to give consistency.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

QUETTAH, Aug. 11.—Candahar is surrounded by tribesmen who do their utmost to intercept letters, rendering communication with the garrison very difficult. It is likely an attack is meditated on Chamin Choki, as Ayoob Khan is reported to have detached a force who are going in that direction.

KUSTINJE, Aug. 11.—Six pontoons and two propellers, heavily laden with Austrian troops, munitions and artillery, passed up the Danube last night. Other vessels similarly laden, but bearing no flag, have also been passing up. Evidently an important movement is in progress.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—A Vienna correspondent says the meeting at Ischo of the Emperors of Austria and Germany is interpreted by all the Vienna journals as an evidence of a new consolidation of the Austro-German alliance, and as a sign of the main tenance of peace.

ADEN, Aug. 11.—Upwards of a thousand of the passengers and crew were drowned by the foundering of the steamer Jeddah on the 8th inst. off Cape Guardafua. The vessel was bound from Singapore to Jeddah. The Jeddah belonged to the Singapore Steamship Co. She was built at Dumbarton, Scotland, and was an iron screw steamer, 280 feet long, with a gross tonnage of 1,541.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, moderate to fresh winds, mostly northerly and northeasterly, fine and slightly cooler weather

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Indications: lower lakes, partly cloudy, occasional rain, stationary or lower temperature, to-morrow cool and fair.

Haunted Me.

Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for Doctoring, which done no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost.—A Workingman.

KING'S NEW DISCOVERY has no equal and has established for itself a world wide reputation. Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'Anything but that, dear—anything but that,' he hastily rejoined. 'I can show no generosity to the man who has wronged me so.'

'Oh father,' she pleaded, 'what good will revenge do you?'

'There, there—do not let us pursue the subject further. You do not know the cause I have to hate my cousin, and render to him a well merited retribution.'

'But I ask it more for the sake of those who have not injured you—for the sake of Lady Eagleheart and Dora. In ruining his lordship, you ruin them.'

'That cannot be helped—it is their misfortune.'

'But, dear father, it can be helped,' returned Mary, earnestly. 'It all depends on you.'

'I shall act only according to justice,' he answered in a dogged, almost sullen tone.

'No, no,' she warmly cried. 'Not according to justice. If we were all treated according to justice, how would it fare with us! Be merciful, father—be true to yourself, and be magnanimous. I know the great wrong his lordship has done you. I know, too, how he galled and mortified you when poverty compelled you to bear his ill treatment, but be it yours to show a nobler spirit. Do not descend to his level, but keep upon the summit of your own high nature. If you will be just, be just to yourself, and do not for the sake of taking an unworthy revenge on him, inflict pain on those you love. Say, dear father, you will not refuse this my first request, but will have respect to the words of Him who says, 'Do good to those who despitefully use you and persecute you.' Promise, dear father—promise that you will.'

He stood long in deep silent reflection, during which his face worked through many changes. Sometimes it was all sternness and bitterness, but gradually a softer and more characteristic expression predominated. The struggle was severe, but the man—the real nature—conquered. The demon of passion, which had swayed him so long in this one direction, was banished for ever. He got a true glimpse of the feelings he had cherished and despised them, and from that moment his attitude towards Lord Eagleheart was altered.

'What would you have me to do?' he asked in a grave but calm and composed tone.

'Just what your generous nature tells you is proper. Do what is right, but do nothing unjustly.'

'I am glad you have given me such a judicious answer,' he approvingly returned. 'There are times when forgiveness is as mischevious as you have just shown me revenge to be. His lordship must be fought till he is disarmed, and made to yield Charles his rights. As to the Grange which is mine, and which I could wrest from him, why, it will belong to you and Charles either way; and as you say, consideration must be shown for Lady Eagleheart and Dora. In a word, darling, your request is granted, and you may trust me to deal with Lord Eagleheart in a better way than he deserves.'

'Oh, I am so glad,' cried Mary; 'and so will mother.'

'Ah it is your mother who set you on to this, I know. Away to her, then, and say that she and you have conquered.'

She warmly kissed him, cast a bright, glad smile to Charles and ran from the room.

The gentlemen followed, and passing through the entrace hall, entered the carriage and drove away.

Philip was for some time silent, leaning back in his carriage with his eyes shut. Suddenly he opened them, turning them full on Charles, and exclaimed—'What a fool I have been!'

'In what respect?' was the simple question.

'In the insane hatred I have cherished against Eagleheart. It was a poor, pitiable feeling after all, and just of a piece with his conduct. Those words of Mary let the truth in on me like a flash—'Don't descend to his level.' I have been on his level all along in my bitter hatred. See what it led me to do to you and Mary. Eagleheart himself could not have behaved worse.'

'With this difference,' returned Charles, with a smile, 'he would not have made the noble amends which you did. The fact is, Mr. Ravensworth, in reference, to your cousin, and your feelings towards him, your conduct and character have been exceptional altogether; but your true nature was constantly showing itself, and never more brilliantly than when you were reconciled to me and my marriage with Mary.'

'For God's sake, don't speak of that,' exclaimed Ravensworth, with a look of agony. 'I felt it bad enough before I knew that Mary was our own poor lost darling, but now—Oh, I can almost curse myself, and it will be better for me never to think of it. However, it all proceeded from the one cause—the passion I cherished in my heart towards his lordship, and which, thank God, Mary has killed by her quiet, gentle words this morning. I shall now meet Eagleheart on very different ground. What a vision of vengeance and triumph I had up to the moment she came and laid her head on my bosom! Not only did I mean to turn him out of the Grange and exact compensation for all those years he has wrongfully possessed it, but I meant to hunt him with the hounds of the law, and had sweet thoughts of seeing him a criminal at the bar and a felon at the hulks, never thinking of the misery and anguish I would thereby inflict on the gentle Lady Eagleheart and the innocent Dora, not to speak of yourself, Charles, for is he not your father?'

'Then, sir, am I to consider that those intentions are changed?' asked Charles,

'Changed so far as mere revenge is concerned. Eagleheart's fraud must be charged against him, and he must be dealt with according as he himself acts. He may force us to use all our power against him, but my impression is his pride will save both us and him from such extremity. But here we are at his portals.'

'And yonder is Dora at the end of the lime-tree walk,' cried Charles, half starting from his seat, and gazing to the right, where at a distance of not many yards a girl's drooping form was seen, standing motionless, yet eagerly regarding them. It was Dora, sure enough, but how wan, and pale and wretched she looked; and how far removed from the bright blooming creature which Charles had last beheld her! He was astonished and shocked at the change in her appearance, and Philip also was greatly struck by it.

The carriage was stopped, and they got out to join her. Charles eagerly advanced and she took a few steps forward to meet him.

'Good heaven, Dora, how ill you look,' he cried in a tone of the utmost concern. 'What has occurred to work so sad a change?'

'Oh, Charles,' she answered, as she gave him the hand he sought, 'I am wretched and miserable beyond expression. There is a mystery hanging over us, a dreadful mystery which I cannot fathom, but which is inflicting on me the keenest anguish. Oh that I could penetrate it—that I could know where mamma has been taken to! Can you give me no information?'

'Is my m——, I mean Lady Eagleheart not at the Grange?' asked Charles much surprised.

'No. Papa took her away the morning after you were last here, and she has not returned—nor will he tell me where she is. But, oh, surely you or Mr. Ravensworth can throw light upon the matter, for I infer that mamma's departure was connected with your visit.'

Charles turned towards Philip with a look of alarm and consternation, and saw that his friend's face was no less grave and anxious.

'This is more serious than we though.,' observed Ravensworth.

'Oh, you do know about it, then?' exclaimed Dora. 'I have ridden over to the Hall every day in the hope of seeing you, but found you always absent. For heaven's sake tell me the meaning of this dreadful mystery, and relieve my oppressed heart.'

'Is his lordship at the Grange now?' asked Philip.

'He has never left it since he returned without mamma,' she answered. 'He spends most of the time alone in the library, and he is so stern and irritable. When I venture to ask about mamma he gets angry at once, and orders me to be silent.'

'Is he in the library now?'

''Tis most likely. He seldom quits it.'

'Charles,' added Philip, turning to the youth, 'it may be as well that I alone should have the interview with Lord Eagleheart. And while I go to find him, you cannot do better than talk with Dora; you have much to tell her.'

'Alas! alas! what ill tidings am I to hear?' faltered the fair girl, her wan, pale face turning whiter still.

'No ill tidings—quite the opposite,' replied Philip. 'This sad mystery, which has troubled you so much, my poor girl, is at an end. Charles can dispel it, and he will do so immediately. He has some wonderful—very wonderful things to tell you. But don't look scared; his revelations will give you unbounded delight. I envy him the opportunity of imparting so much joy and happiness.'

TO BE CONTINUED.

--The only variation in quality which will ever be found in "Myrtle Navy" tobacco is in the degrees of moisture which it contains. Tobacco is a very ready absorbent of moisture, and in unusual states of the weather it may become a little too moist or a little too dry to suit the taste of some. This is a minor matter, however, as the essential quality of the tobacco is not changed. Its combustion is a little faster according to the degree of moisture, that is all. The darker the plug the greater the moisture, and many prefer the dark. In each caddy, however, the preferance for either can be met.

—'Don't you think that a good likenes of me,' said a pretty wife to a small fraction of herself called her husband. 'Very good, was the reply except that there is a little too much repose about the mouth.

Perjudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicans, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of AUGUST FLOWER will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is prevailing quite extensively of late among a certain class of unprincipled dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they unblushingly discover that they "could sell you" but have another article just as good, or which is exactly the same as Pain-Killer, or which is manufactured by the proprietor of Pain-Killer; and that the reputation of Pain-Killer is entirely owing to the value of the ingredients of which it is composed, and that the substitution article is just as good, or can do the same as the genuine. The reputation of PERRY DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER has been acquired by the merit of that article, and we caution the public against imposition, and advise them to call for the genuine Pain-Killer, which combines more virtue in a few cents than any other article in the market. Be sure and call for PERRY DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER, and take no other, as the imitation article is worthless. Directions in different languages accompany each bottle. None are genuine unless the fac-simile of our name is blown in the glass of each bottle.

IT CURES ALMOST INSTANTLY.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz. and 5 oz. bottles, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively—large bottles are therefore cheapest.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine dies, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

C. C. LOCKWOOD, M.D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

December 19th, 1878. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and sent medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am now I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

ST. PAUL, MINN., JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine; and I can safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing for six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit; but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully, LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

A Trip to the North-West.

Oval top and evenly cemented South Park is entirely new, but covers more ground than old Lincoln Park, upon which the Chicagoans used to pride their souls so much. It is situated near Lake Michigan and commands a nice view, and in time will be more attractive than any other in the city, on account of its enchanting drives, lovely fountains, and tasty flower beds. Just in the centre of this park there stands an elevated platform for the band to perform upon. Close by this stand is a large and magnificent fountain with a spacious basin of water literally alive with fish. The fountain stands about 20 feet high with nearly 40 jets of different sized all pouring forth their share of water for the maintainance of the many different specimens of the finny tribe. In addition this attraction it has 25 gas jets with colored globes for evening illumination. The fountain itself is a fine specimen of mechanical skill, and will be one of the chief attractions in Chicago Parks.

Just at the entrance of South Park and on the east side of the boulevard, there is in course of erection what is to be the finest and most elegant private residence in the city, owned by Mr. Wilbur F. Storey, editor and proprietor of the Chicago Times. We drove from South to Lincoln Park. The chief attractions here are the Zoological Gardens, the Lakes with their majestic swans swimming around the shore, and little boys and girls amusing themselves with the oar, rowing around the little islands that dot the lakes and give them so romantic an appearance. Lincoln Park is purely a work of art and South Park is just the reverse—a striking contrast between the labors of art and the production of nature. All cities should have their places where people can while away the hot hours of summer, and in a very short time Chicago will be able to boast of two of the finest parks in the world, exceeding those, not even Central of New York, or Fairmount of Philadelphia.

I have already taken up considerable space about Chicago, but will like to say a word about the people's pride. It is a most astonishing thing to see in a city of so much wealth and business, and where there is supposed to be so much common sense, such an amount of uncompromising tasteless pride and hollow vanity. I am not much of an observer of the fair sex—fortunately or unfortunately for me—but if my eyes do not deceive me there is an immeasureable amount of paint brought into service by the more ethereal part of the city's population; even the elderly matrons indulge in that most abominable of all practices, the coloring of the cheeks. A Chicago lady told me that from childhood they indulge in it and in after years it becomes a habit. Such fashion is the Chicagonian's god of wor-hip. All nations are represented here, and to use the words of Barney Bradley, Ireland's celebrated poet:

There are all gradations of civilization.
From the highest station, down to the hooked nosed Jew.

Leaving Chicago at 9 o'clock p. m., on the 22nd inst., via the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway. Here we were joined by the genial immigrant commissioner, Mr. Paul Mondon, who accompanied us all the way to Winnipeg, and with his joviality made the rest of our trip most pleasant. Rather amusing it was to see how he would collect together those who would volunteer to sing, and distribute the "gospel song" books amongst them, and with the instrumental accompaniments would draw forth some fine music. Our surveyors joined heartily in the exercises and furnished plenty of bass and tenor to balance nicely the female voices. "Hold the Fort, "Only an Armor Bearer," "Over There," and several other old favorites were entered into with spirit and vigor, and pleased our old friend Paul so much that he stood on his tip toe and swung his cane about the crowd, and in his own French accent said, "Men and brethren, youre sala'es shall pee increased from this night."

The scenery along this line is particularly striking, as the Mississippi and Missouri River from Lacrosse to Hastings, a distance of 109 miles. Along this line the tourist has an excellent opportunity of seeing those mighty flat bottom steamers that ply up and down the Mississippi.

We had a very good run from Chicago to St. Paul, arriving there at 2 o'clock p. m. on the 23d inst., with six hours on our hands to see the city. There is not so very much to be seen in St. Paul, and to make a long story short, I will just say, in order to see St. Paul, hire a rig and drive out on Summit Heights and Daten's Bluffs, and you have the whole of it.

We shot out of St. Paul at 8 o'clock on the evening of our arrival, and the next day we were in the middle of the flat, level, unvarying Minnesota State. All day long we travelled over a monotonous, houseless, uninhabited prairie, until we reached the boundary line, after which we soon enter the Mennonitic region of southern Manitoba. We struck the Canada Pacific at St. Vincent; the track for some distance north is very rough, and the train men have to move very cautiously until we reach the ballasted part of the road, and then we shoot along with lightning speed. The Pembina branch of the C. P. R. is well furnished with water tanks, station houses, and all that goes to complete a railroad outfit. At Otterburn, a station on this line about 28 miles south of Winnipeg, there is one large tank, the largest I have ever seen on a railroad. It is supposed to hold 848,000 gallons of water. It is an enormous tank, and it looks as though the Government were not only trying to meet present demand, but were looking forward to future necessities. There appears to be an efficient staff of officers on this branch. Mr. J. M. Ross, the Roadmaster, is an experienced practical man, and knows exactly what is required, pays good wages, and expects a reasonable amount of work done in return. I fell into conversation with one of his men while standing at Niverville; he said "it was a pleasure to work under such a master as Mr. Ross; he is constantly up and down the line, giving his orders personally, and if anything goes wrong he is never slow to find out the blame," but says he "thinks nothing ever goes wrong." The Pembina branch of the C. P. R. is a creditable link in the chain of Canadian railways. We made good time on this part of our trip, and arrived in Winnipeg, the metropolis of the great Northwest, a few minutes behind the regular time. There were many of our old friends at the station waiting to greet us on our arrival and give us a hearty shake of the hand, and with a smile on the countenance would say, "You have struck it this time—this is the country!"

TO BE CONTINUED.

The Pacific Railway in British Columbia.

The Inland Sentinel, published at Emory, Yale, in the course of an account of the progress of work on the Canada Pacific Railway in British Columbia, says:—"We believe railway contract section A by Boston Bar is 29 miles; section B to Lytton 29 miles; section C 4 and half miles above Cook's, 23 and half miles, and section D out at Savona ferry, 40 and a half miles, making the 127 miles. Mr. Keefer's party is located 17 miles from Yale, and Mr. Hamlin's party at Boston Bar. Mr. Gray goes up the line next week to open work at a couple of additional points. It is intended to prepare for fall and winter camps near Boston Bar and other up-line places. At present Messrs. Onderdonk and Bray are up and down the line almost daily and their stretches will soon be lengthened. Generally speaking the railway work is progressing favorably. Occasionally some of the white men get riley at school-tax levies that are unjustly, as we pointed out last week, and the late dissatisfaction among the Chinamen was caused by some of their own countrymen trying to take advantage in trade. However, the work goes steadily forward. We understand that there was a trifle over 1,500 names upon the Railway Company pay roll, a little over half that number being Chinamen. A few Indians and half-breeds are also employed, principally in getting out timber or chopping along the right of way. In localities along the road fine timber is squared and stored for bridge purposes, &c.

Canadian Emigration.

The Liverpool Daily Courier of the 20th July says: "Canada, too long neglected as a field for the British emigrant, is now being recognised as one of the most promising places of settlement for the hardy and industrious agriculturist. Clerks and other ornamental persons are not wanted there, but men with a practical knowledge of farming and some capital to lay out in stock and implements. This class is finding its way to Canada, particularly to the fertile regions of Manitoba and the Northwest, to an extent that has hitherto been unknown. The Dominion authorities took a wise step in inviting delegate farmers to visit the country and judge for themselves of its capabilities. The reports of the delegates who have visited the Provinces are uniformly favorable. Another batch of these representative English tenant farmers will sail on Thursday for Canada for the purpose of making an inspection on behalf of their neighbors. We believe that the Hon. John Henry Pope, the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, who arrived in Liverpool yesterday on his first official visit to England, is not unlikely to utilize his sojourn in this country for the purpose of organizing a more systematic and extensive plan of emigration to Canada. He is a gentleman well qualified for this duty, being practical, active and business like. To this fact Mr. George Jacob Holyoake, the veteran political economist, bears testimony in the current number of the Nineteenth Century, where, in the course of an article entitled "A Stranger in America," he thus describes a visit to the Minister of Agriculture:—

Both myself and my friend Mr. Charlton, who was also a guest, were struck with with the Cobbett-like vigor of statement which characterized Mr. Pope. He exclaimed the Canadian theory of protection as dispassionately as Cobden would that of free trade. Mr. Pope had himself, I found, caused to appear many valuable publications of great service to emigrants. He admitted, however, that there might be advantages in combining all the information in one book which would be universally accessible, and known to be reposited there. I made but one remark of this minister worth repeating. "In Canada," he said, "we have but one enemy of any size to fight, and that a manageable adversary, for whose advent we can prepare and whose time of departure we know; while in America, malaria, ague, fluctuation of temperature are intermittent. Science and sanitary prevision will in time exterminate some dangers, while watchfulness will always be needed in regard to others."

OUR NEIGHBOR'S VIEWS.

State of Trade Between Canada and the United States.

(From the New York Graphic)

The trade between Canada and the United Stated amounts annually to many millions of dollars. That far in the history of the two countries the balance of trade has generally remained in favor of the United States, but for the fiscal year of 1878-79 the decrease of imported goods from this country to Canada threatens to soon reduce the balance of trade in our favor to a mere fraction. The falling off in our exports to the Dominion has occurred entirely in free goods. For the years 1877-79 they amounted to $19,63[illegible],656; against $25,163,686 in 1877-78, a decrease of $5,231,-018. The decline in our exports to Canada as compared with those of Great Britain shows for the past six years a decrease of 20 per cent. for the United States, and 100 per cent. and over for Great Britain. Although for the past few years the exports of the United States have decreased in value, the quantity exported into Canada has actually increased, while prices have fallen in that time some 24 per cent.

The cause inducing the advancing stagnation of our favorable trade with Canada may be attributed to the protective policy which was put into operation in that country in March 1879. The details of this new tariff have been fully explained in the past but those portions tending to the injury of this country are that all goods which can be successfully manufactured or produced in Canada are entirely debarred from importation, and that goods which cannot be made in Canada are brought from Great Britain rather than from the United States. The probable effect of the tariff will be more deeply felt this year than heretofore, as during the last fiscal year it was in full operation only three and one-half months. Under the National Policy nearly all the articles now imported from Canada from this country will soon be produced there, owing to the similarity of climate, etc., but the importations from Great Britain will continue.

Canada's fisheries constitute one of her greatest industries, and the export trade in this staple is very large. The United States, notwithstanding the large sum paid for fishing privileges in Canadian waters, at present is the largest customer for her cured fish, and her purchases have been nearly double those of Great Britain.

The imports of horses, cattle, and sheep into this country from Canada are assuming vast proportions, and are increasing yearly. The increase for the year 1878-9 over the preceding year was 2,381 horses, 3,661 cattle, and 22,751 sheep. The farmers of the Dominion are turning their attention more towards stock raising.

The new tariff has made great changes in Canadian sugar duties, reducing the duty on raw sugar, and increasing the duty on refined sugar. The bounties or drawbacks in the United States are now rendered inoperative by the imposition of a duty on the actual value of the sugar, and in the future duties will be collected on drawbacks allowed by this country on refined sugars exported to Canada. The refined sugar importations into Canada from the United States, against 35,107,229 pounds the year preceding. The great increase was caused by the United States government offering local refiners a drawback on all sugars exported and by the refusal of the Canadian Government to protect its own refining industries. This action on the part of the Dominion Government caused the leading sugar refiners to suspend, and for a time the almost total destruction of her sugar trade with the sugar-producing countries was imminent. Now, however, the situation has changed, and no doubt local refiners meet home demands and over refined sugar exportations will be greatly impaired.

Trade in other staples between this country and Canada will no doubt continue as at present without material decrease, but as to whether the balance of trade will remain in our favor under the operation of the new tariff is a question which will be decided in the near future.

Customs Valuations.

A good deal of highly virtuous indignation has been expressed against the Government by not a few of the Opposition organs because of the fact that, in order to prevent quasi smuggling by Yankee manufacturers who have been in the practice of invoicing their goods sent to Canada, and doubtless to other countries, at prices much below their actual value, hoping of course to evade the payment of the full amount of duty to which their goods were liable, the government enforced the law. Cases of this kind will be remembered as having occurred not many months ago in Belleville and other places, when some buggies imported from the United States were seized because of under-valuation, and their owners justly compelled to pay the full amount of duty and a heavy penalty besides, for their attempted roguery. Discussion upon the subject of the fixing of values has of late been caused by the protest of an American firm against the adoption by the Canadian Customs department, for Customs purposes, of the fair market value of goods imported as the basis for the imposition of duty. With the object of making capital for their party, the Opposition press attribute the passage of this order to the present Government, but that is not correct, the law having been passed by the Mackenzie administration when Mr. Mackenzie was in power and Mr. Burpee was Minister of Customs. The provision was a good one, and one of the few good things that the late Grit Government did during their five years' tenure of office, though they neglected to enforce it. It reads as follows :

"The fair market value for duty, of goods imported into Canada, shall be the fair market value of such goods in the usual and ordinary commercial acceptation of the term at the usual and ordinary credit, and not the cash value of such goods, except in cases in which the article imported is, by universal usage, considered and known to be a cash article, and so bona fide paid for in all transactions in relation to such article ; and all invoices representing cash value, except in the special cases herein above referred to, shall be subject to such additions as to the Collector or Appraiser of the port at which they are presented may appear just and reasonable, to bring up the amount to the true and fair market value, as required by this section."

The Ottawa Citizen discusses the subject with its usual ability, saying :—"This was Mr. Burpee's law. It was adopted to protect the revenue from the grossest form of slaughtering. But Mr. Burpee and his friends had not courage or wisdom enough to put their own law in force. No doubt the Grit press accepted Mr. Burpee's law with pleasure. They acquiesced, too, perhaps, in its being ignored. And when it is enforced by the present Government, the Minister of Customs is roundly and coarsely abused. Now, to show the necessity for just that very law, we will quote the letter about which so much has been said, but which deserves full discussion :—

"No invoice has ever emanated from this house with the goods billed at a less price than actually sold for, nor with any intent to evade or defraud Customs.

"There is a combination of manufacturers in the United States who convene at stated intervals, and arrange a schedule of discounts for the United States market. This, however, only governs the trade on this side of the border, and does not effect foreign or Canadian markets, which are subject to such prices and quotations as are made available and necessary by influences of location, foreign competition, &c.

"The anomalous condition is thus, at times presented, that goods manufactured in the United States actually sell for a higher price at home than abroad, the strong efforts made here to extend trade to other countries, within the past year or two, has principally contributed to this state of affairs, and to-day we are shipping our wares to Australia, South America, Canada, and other parts of the world, at sometimes a positive loss, in order to retain our foothold and the trade built up at large expense. In all countries, except in the case of Canada, these facts seem to be comprehended, and we have experienced no similar trouble in any other direction.

"The fact that manufacturers as well as other lines of production, have given to foreign buyers (for reasons heretofore stated) the benefit of a margin of from ten to 25 per cent., does not seem to have penetrated the mind of the worthy commissioner, with its bearings upon the case at issue.

"The result has been that, time and again our consignments of goods have been detained in the Canadian Custom houses for weeks, involving delay and detriment to our customers, and endless correspondence and annoyance to ourselves.

"As it now stands, by misapprehension or motive at Ottawa, our business is subjected to loss, and threatened with still further damage."

Nothing could be more amusing than the pathetic complaint about the detention of their goods, made by men who confess that their object is to "retain their hold" on our markets, and that their practice has been to sell "at a loss" in order to do so. Why, this is the very thing which the late Government said should be guarded against, but which Mr. Burpee had not the courage to check. He knew that the Americans were slaughtering our system in Canada ; and he passed a law against it ; but he allowed the law to be a dead letter ; and now the Grit organs denounce a Minister who has more patriotism and more firmness than his predecessor ; and who is determined that the law shall be enforced ; the revenue protected from fraud and our own home industries from "slaughter." Some of our Grit contemporaries have endeavored to prove that the fixing of "discounts" in the United States means the fixing prices in that country. That is not a possible thing where the market is so large, the interests so varied and the rivalries so many. But the real danger is one that is feasible and present, viz., the possibility of combining to undersell in a limited market, the few competitors in Canada. That danger has been avoided as far as possible by the present Minister of Customs, who is greatly abused for checking it, but who deserves the support of every business man in his endeavor to protect legitimate trade. Prices can seldom be fixed by combinations for any length of time, under even the most favorable terms. Prices are fixed by causes operating over the world as well as over the particular markets we may be discussing ; they yield to slight influences, and cannot be artificially maintained. But combinations such as those which exist in the United States to undersell our manufacturers are dangerous because they can be maintained and because unless our laws are strict and rigidly enforced, they may be successful. It is the object of the Minister to behead such combinations at the start, or at least to guard against them. The Grits are giving the American slaughterers all possible help ; no doubt the slaughterers wish them success in their campaign against the Government.

Some Facts and Some Figures.

The Grit press are very strong in assertion but lamentably weak in proof in all things, and particularly so as regards the N. P. Their prophecies of evil they are never tired of repeating, but the facts and figures, fortunately for the country, give the most emphatic contradiction to the evil accuries of the advocates of free trade, and show that the tide has been turned and is now flowing with us. There is, therefore, the best of ground for hoping that ere long the flood of prosperity, which went out with the Conservative party in 1873, will again return to us, and that the "hard times" which afflicted Canada under Grit rule will depart, not to return for a lengthy season.

To show that this is no mere fancy picture, such as are our opponents' predictions of a contrary character, we herewith adduce a few facts and figures which fully bear out the most hopeful anticipations for the future, as will show that trade is showing a remarkable revival of activity under the protective policy of the present Government.

The imports of Montreal for the past three years compare as follows :

	Total Imports.	Entered for Consumption.	Duty Paid.
1877-78	$26,404,849	$25,686,843	$3,814,864
1878-79	30,223,290	25,374,380	4,026,993

The arrivals of sea going vessels at the same port up to the 5th inst., number 331 against 270 last year, whilst the Customs revenue for July exhibits an increase of $224,617 over the corresponding month last year.

So at Quebec, we learn that for the year ending 30th July last, 460 vessels of 369,000 tons entered at the port of Quebec, against 389 vessels of 298,000 tons for the same period last year. Of ocean steamers there have arrived this season up to this date, 127 of 200,000 tons, against 61 steamers of 141,000 tons this time last year. From the Lower Provinces the arrivals this season have been 89 vessels of 33,624 tons, against 70 vessels of 21,000 tons, up to the same date of 1879.

At St. John, N. B., as we learn from the News, the value of imports for July, 1879 and 1880 compare as follows :—

Value of goods entered for warehouse	65,685	82,212
Value of goods entered free	27,761	52,932
	$218,304	$359,215

The value of goods withdrawn from the warehouse during July, 1879, was $49,981, as against $73,489 in July, 1880. The Customs duties collected in July, 1879, were $44,454.78, and in July, 1880, were $59,384.61—a clear gain of $14,929.83 in favor of the latter. The exports for July, 1880, were of the value of $437,395, as compared with $277,688 in July, 1879, an increase of $159,708.

The revenue of the Dominion for July of this and of the past year, was as under :

	July, 1878.	July, 1879.	July, 1880.
Customs	$66,823.56	$760,312.41	$1,249,873.00
Excise	316,134.13	212,364.61	335,644.41

This shows an increase for July 1880 over the same month of last year of $837,799.30, or nearly 42 per cent.

The railroad business, too, shows an extraordinary increase, the receipts of the Intercolonial for the first six months of the present year having exceeded those of the corresponding year of last year by $229,000, whilst the Grand Trunk shows an increase for the same period of upwards of $1,000,000, and the Great Western and other roads give equally satisfactory returns.

These are but a few of the facts and figures which could be presented to show that the prophets of evil have mistaken their calling, and that the era of deficits and the hard times have gone out together with the Grits.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.—It is said that contract 15 of the Canada Pacific Railway will be completed and in operation by October next. Section 16 is also making good progress, and it is expected that the entire line from Thunder Bay to Winnipeg will be completed by the contract time.

Silver Islet Mine.

"Almost pure nuggets of silver, weighing from 90 to 150 pounds, and worth $500 to $1,000 are being taken out of the new find at Silver Islet.

It will be remembered that in the early history of this mine, by a refusal of its stockholders (chiefly Montrealers) to furnish $50,000, the mine with a large quantity of land belonging to the Company, were sold to an American company for comparatively a song.

This mine is said to have produced nearly $4,000,000 of silver, not $500 of which have ever found its way into Canada. After losing the vein the Company has again made a "find" with results given in the article quoted.

Silver Islet is in Canadian territory, but like most of our mineral enterprises, has been left for Americans to develope. The fact is Canadians are too slow in taking advantage of their opportunities. While they are talking, and hesitating, and wondering whether it would be prudent to invest, the Yankee steps in, investigates quickly, satisfies himself there is something in it, and forthwith becomes possessor of the gold, or silver, or iron mines, as the case may be.

Excursion to Thousand Island Park on Saturday, Aug. 21st, by steamer Varuna, returning on Monday afternoon, Aug. 23rd.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St., and get your old suits done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

Police.—One arrest was made last night. No tramps.

Civic Holidays.—Colborne will have its civic holiday on the 19th and Napanee will follow on the 20th.

Moonlight Excursion.—Attention is again drawn to the moonlight excursion per steamer Varuna to-morrow night.

Reminder.—The members of the 49th Battalion Rifle Club are reminded of the meeting at Hambly's to-night at 8 o'clock.

Cheese.—Nearly all the factories in this section have contracted for the remainder of this season's make at from 12½ to 11¾c.

Returned.—The yacht Katie Gray returned home yesterday after an absence of eleven days among the Thousand Islands. The crew report bad weather, but a good time.

A Failure.—The projected getting up of games to be held on the cricket ground on the civic holiday has proved a failure. It is probable, however, that the game of cricket proposed will be played.

One Good Effect.—The French journal La France says of Tanner's fast: "The familiar appeal, 'My God, sir, pity me; I've eaten nothing for two days,' will never more have any effect on us."

Excursion.—The Prentice Boys had an excursion to Picton to-day. Their procession was small, but made a neat appearance, and a considerable number of friends accompanied them. The band of the 15th Battalion was in attendance.

Rifle Matches.—The Prince Edward Rifle Association intend to have a prize meeting at Picton on the 2nd and 3rd of September. The matches will be open to all Canada, and $200 will be offered in prizes.

Advanced Geography.—Mr. John Lovell, of Montreal, will publish, on the 18th inst., his Advanced Geography for the use of School and Colleges, edited by a gentleman residing in Ontario. In its 148 pages will be found a large quantity of useful information relating to the Countries of the World, embellished with 45 Colored Maps and 126 illustrations. It will be on sale at the Bookstores. Price $1.50.

Needs Attention.—In several places along the line of the Street Railway, particularly in the vicinity of the wharves, the rails are now considerably above the level of the street. The Corporation should insist that the necessary repairs be made by the proprietors of the railway before the grain trade fairly opens and the traffic on the portions of the street in question becomes heavy, as it annually does.

Products of the Mine.—The proprietors of the Madoc slate quarry have left at the Intelligencer office, where they can be seen, some of the products of their quarry, consisting of fine roofing slate and a large flag-stone. The slate, which is obtained from a depth of only 15 feet, improves as it goes down, and is equal to anything of the kind found elsewhere. The flag-stone, which was taken from the surface, is not so good, but is of fair quality. The Company have also sent us an exhibit of lithographic stone from their quarry on lot 5, in the 5th concession of Madoc. This stone is of excellent quality, and is procurable in blocks of any size that may be desired. Samples have been sent to lithographic printers, and a large trade in the article is likely to spring up.

The late J. H. Hambly.—A large photograph of the late Mr. J. H. Hambly appears in the window of Mr. Ford's establishment, where it was executed.

Moonlight Excursion.—Friday evening by steamer Varuna will be a very enjoyable trip—under management of the Building Committee of M. E. Tabernacle—see advertisement.

Personal.—Mr. J. H. Elliott, formerly assistant Postmaster here, and now filling a similar position in Winnipeg, is in town on a brief visit. He is much pleased with his present location, and reports sundry former residents of this locality well and doing well.

The Oswego Route.—Mr. Mattson has been so successful in his negotiations with local merchants that, providing he can obtain permission from the Government to land passengers and goods from Oswego at Picton, Mill Point and Northport, he will at once commence to run his fine steamer Thomson Kingsford between Belleville and Oswego.

Not Coming.—Mr. R. J. Eilbeck, the Kingston oarsman, who, it was expected, would row against Mr. Geo. Sutherland, at Massassaga Point on the civic holiday, has decided not to visit Belleville at present. Perhaps the reason of this may be found in the fact that Mr. Eilbeck took part in a sculling race at Kingston on Tuesday, when Mr. Coulson won easily and Eilbeck and McNaughton made a dead heat for second place.

Railway Note.—The Hastings Star says: "A large quantity of barbed wire for fencing the railway, has been received at the station. Business, both in passengers and freight is very brisk. The railway bridge, including the swing, is ready for the rails. It is, as every one who knew the contractor, Mr. James Dinwoodie, an ticipated, a first class job. A construction train, or 'wild cat,' as the railway people term it, will be put on in a few days, and the work of laying the rails will be commenced."

Quick Work.—On Thursday last, says the Hastings Star, a gentleman in Belleville was having a schooner loaded with cordwood, finding he had not sufficient to complete the load, telegraphed one of our merchants to have some men at hand on the arrival of the train to load the required quantity of wood on the cars. When the train arrived, the men in waiting learned that three cars were left about five miles down the track, where the wood was piled. Thither the men, there being six of them, proceeded in a hand car and loaded the cars with twenty cords in an hour and a half.

Ontario Business College.—The twelfth annual circular of this institution has just been issued. It is enclosed in a neat cover, is printed on toned paper, and is in all respects creditable to the Intelligencer Job Office. The circular shows the continued success of the College, which is due to the thoroughness with which the talented staff of instructors perform their labors, under the superintendence of the able proprietors, Messrs. Robinson & Johnson. During the year the number of pupils in attendance has been larger than any other similar institution in Canada can boast of, and these were drawn from all parts of the Dominion and from the West Indies, and the United States as well. The record of the Ontario Business College is one to be proud of. It has been won by excelling all competitors, and we have no doubt that its future will be as successful as its past, so long as the institution is so efficiently conducted as it now is.

Why not Save Money?—And buy your prints at Hennessy's, where you will get a first-rate washing print for 5½ and 6¼ cents, light and dark colors, beautiful patterns; also umbrellas; we have a nice useful umbrella for 20 cents.—Jas. Hennessy.

A Big Gold Strike.

News was brought into the city by a party from Marmora last night, that a big strike was made yesterday in the deep shaft of the Gatling Gold Mining Company's property. Our informant says that it is the richest strike of gold ore that has ever been made there, the ore being, in the words of our informant, "immensely rich." Additional particulars will be looked for with interest.

Sporting Notes.

A professional and amateur regatta is to be held at Midland on the 19th.

The Peterborough Boating Club will have their annual regatta on or about the 1st of September.

The Longwood Cricket Club of Boston beat the Hamilton Club in a match played on Monday and Tuesday by 10 runs. The excellent bowling and sharp fielding of the Yankees did the business.

The next regatta at Idyl Wild is to take place on Wednesday next, 18th of August. The events include, besides the single scull race for the champion cup, a four-cared race, double hunting canoe, and a single hunting canoe races, for all of which substantial prizes will be given. Besides local scullers, Messrs. E. Jarvis, of Hamilton, W. Dunspaugh and Roach, of Toronto, have promised to compete in the single scull race, and other entries from a distance are expected.

Gold Mining at Montague.—A Halifax despatch says:—"Mr. Ross, manager of the Rose Gold Mining Company, Montague, brought to town to-day a bar of gold weighing 800 ounces and valued at over $16,000. It is the product of the labor of fourteen men for six weeks. The profits to the Company as the result of this crushing will be over $14,500.

Four Thousand People Drowned.—A despatch from Canton says news has been received there of the destruction of a large town on the north river above that city by inundation, by which 4,000 are said to have perished.

The Classical Professorship.—The Globe announces that Mr. Warren has declined Mr. Crooks' proffer of the Classical Professorship in Toronto University, and that it has been accepted by Mr. Maurice Hutton, M. A., Professor of Classics, of Perth College, Sheffield, Fellow of Merton College, Oxford.

The Canada Pacific.

The Ottawa Citizen of the 11th inst., has information that a meeting of capitalists interested in the Dominion Government's offer of a land and money grant to a company for the construction of the Canada Pacific Railway has been held in London. Plans and maps showing the projective lines, scenes and other important documents have been inspected by the negotiating capitalists. So far there is every prospect that the result will be the formation of a powerful and wealthy syndicate. A conference was held with Sir Charles Tupper, in which explanations were made by the Minister of Railways and his colleagues. It is probable that an interim memorandum will be signed, containing final propositions, and that the ministers will leave England the latter part of this month."

Railway Enterprises.—The Chicago Railway Age of July the 29th contains an article on the railway enterprises of the United States for the first half of this year. Over 67 different companies, 730 miles of rails were laid; construction was in progress and 110 roads of a total length of 8,000 miles; and 110 roads of 10,850 miles were projected; making a total of 287 roads of 20,640 miles. With a few exceptions these enterprises are entirely legitimate, and will probably be completed. Many of them run through new territory, and others are intended as feeders of roads already in existence. The Railway Age is thus enabled to hold out to contractors, manufacturers of rails, builders of rolling stock, and dealers in supplies a very encouraging prospect.

I. O. O. F.—At the annual meeting of Oddfellows at Guelph, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year:—Grand Master, W. H. Cole, Hochelaga; Deputy Grand Master, R. M. M. Patton, Chatham; Grand Warden, H. Robertson, Collingwood; Grand Secretary, J. B. King, Toronto; Grand Treasurer, W. Badenach, Toronto; Grand Representative, James Woodyatt.

FORM BROCKVILLE.

What Liquor Did.

Brockville, Aug. 12.—On Monday the firemen held an excursion to Senecal's Hotel, Grenadier Island, west of here. Liquor was quite abundant, and during a row a man named Buell, from Mallorytown, was knocked down and kicked by some Brockville roughs, which caused his death yesterday afternoon.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

London, Aug. 12.—The train which met with the accident on the Midland railroad between Leeds and Lancaster yesterday was the local fast train running from Leeds to Morecombe. All the persons that were killed or injured belonged to that section of the country. The train left the track while passing a switch near Wennington station, going at a speed of 21 miles an hour. Two forward carriages were telescoped and the others piled on them in a heap, but the serious casualties were confined to the first carriages.

Philadelphia, Aug. 12.—It appears now as though only one was killed outright and forty-one injured by the railway accident, the nearly all of them were living in the north west part of this city. A number of those who were supposed to be fatally wounded, were not brought to the city.

The House of Lords passed a bill indemnifying Plunkett from the penalties for voting on the Compensation Bill without having previously taken the oath, as the Peer Bill was brought down to the House of Commons on Tuesday and was ordered for its second reading yesterday, but O'Connor, home ruler, having raised an objection the second reading was postponed. O'Connor will move the rejection of the bill to-day.

Haunted Me.

Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for Doctoring, which done no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost.—A Workingman.

The Old Story.

The morning sunlight looked in through the silken curtains, lighting the room as with an angel's smile, suddenly enveloping the face of its occupant with a strange brightness and tinting her pale brown hair into a wave of glistening gold. Said the sunlight: 'Maiden I missed you from the garden where I used to find you every morning, and I came here to seek you. Summer will soon be here with her roses almost as bright as your cheeks. Are you ill?' "O, no!" responded the maiden, waving her thin, bloodless hands in the sunbeam, "only a little weak; I shall soon be out in the garden to greet you—to-morrow perhaps I will go planning how I should arrange my flowers this year, when you peeped in to Are my lilies up yet?" "Yes your lilies are up; I have just been warming them. I have tired you," said the sunlight, as he noticed the wearily drooping eyelids; "I will come again to-morrow if you are not in the garden"—and silently withdrew, leaving the fair slumberer alone in the gloom. A few hours later the moonlight stole softly through the silken curtains, which were gently rustling in the night breeze. "How cold" said the moonlight, as she touched the pallid brow, and then gently laid her hand on the pulseless heart. "Dead!" she shudderingly whispered as she withdrew through the softly rustling curtains. It is the old, old story of consumption. How she flatters her victims at morning with hope's buoyant words, and at evening makes them the prey of the spoiler! Statistics show that one-third of mankind die of this disease, and of these, far the greater part are young persons between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five, in the dawn of manhood and womanhood. For many years, consumption was generally believed to be incurable. But medicine in her triumphant march against disease has already added consumption to her list of conquered. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures this dread disease if resorted to in time. For a full consideration of this disease and its rational method of treatment, read the article on Consumption in the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, the most reliable popular work upon Physiology, Hygiene, Diseases and their Remedies, yet published. Price $1.50. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y.

Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. The formula from which it is prepared is highly recommended by all medical journals. The clergy and the press have commended it in the most glowing terms. Go to your druggist and get a trial bottle free of cost or a regular size for $1.00 For sale by Jas. Clarke & Co.

Irish Outrages.

London, Aug. 11.

Great alarm and agitation are said to prevail in the vicinity of New Ross on account of the mystery of organization surrounding the Boyd outrage. The disguise of the perpetrators was so perfect that their identification is unlikely. Marked attention has been directed to the fact that the weapons abandoned by the murderers are Enfield rifles, bearing the Government brand. Another person has been arrested in connection with the affair.

In the House of Commons on Monday, Sir Stafford Northcote called attention to the New Ross outrage, and stated that the guns used were long Enfield rifles with bayonets. Mr. Forster, Chief Secretary for Ireland, said the late Government had ordered the sale of some Enfield rifles, but the present Government had stopped their sale.

The Irish Times, of Dublin, asks how many such rifles are in the hands of the people, and urges upon the magistrates the necessity of inquiring how they came into their possession. It is rumored that 1,400 Enfield rifles have been sent from Dublin to various parts of the country during the last few months.

Lord Waterford has received a threatening letter.

Railway Disaster.—On the evening of the 11th inst., the second section of an excursion train which left Atlantic City at six o'clock, ran into the first section, telescoping the rear car, and killing two persons and injuring about twenty-five others. As the locomotive forced its way into the car the cylinder heads were forced open, and dense clouds of steam poured through the cars, scalding nearly every passenger in it. In an instant there was a scene of fearful excitement. The sound of hissing steam and the shrieks of the terrified passengers were blended and carried through the cars, striking terror to the hearts of all. The crowded cars were speedily emptied and every effort made to aid the wounded. The express train carried just as the accident occurred, and the passengers from it also hurried to render assistance. The work of removing the injured was immediately begun and medical aid summoned. The wounded were taken to neighboring houses.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'And mamma?' cried Dora, eagerly.

'Of Lady Eagleheart's condition we know nothing; but rest assured that the mystery regarding her is also at an end. Wait my return at the far end of the lime-tree walk. When my interview with his lordship terminates I will seek you there.'

He waved his hand with a cheerful smile, and walked away towards the mansion, leaving Dora and Charles standing alone—the former gazing at the latter with eager, breathless expectation.

'Charles, what—oh, what have you to tell me?' she gasped.

A great throb of brotherly emotion came into his heart, and he yearned to fold her to his breast—give her a fond, fraternal kiss and call her sister. But the impulse was subordinated to prudence, and conscious that the information he had to give must first be communicated, he gently drew her away into the shady walk.

'This is too public a place for the nature of my communications,' he observed. 'The seclusion of the summer-house at the end of the walk is more desirable. Let us go thither.'

She silently took the arm he offered, and walked on by his side, hurrying her steps in her impatient anxiety to hear his tidings.

'I am truly distressed, dear Dora, to see you so worn with grief,' he remarked, as they went along. 'I little imagined while we were so happy in the north how greatly you were suffering here.'

'I heard of your marriage,' she rejoined. 'I would congratulate you and ask for Mary, but pardon me if I cannot—cannot speak or think of anything till this mystery is cleared up and my mind relieved.'

'Well, you heard Mr. Ravensworth say that I was able to do it in the wonderful and joyful revelations I have to make. Believe that this is true, and that you pain and anxiety are at an end. In one respect only will my tidings give you pain, and that is as they have respect to the conduct of Lord Eagleheart. But there I have the same cause for sadness as you.'

'I am already half-prepared to hear something not good of papa,' returned Dora. 'You know how cruel, unjust, and tyrannical he has been of late. Not that the chief consequence of that is to be regretted,' she added with a blush.

'You mean the breaking off of our proposed marriage?' said Charles with a laugh.

'Or rather your marriage with Mary Woodford,' said Dora. 'There was at least one happy event which come from papa's bad conduct.'

'You are not a bit piqued, then, at my marriage with Mary?'

'No indeed,' she answered, in a sincere and honest tone.

'Not even at the haste which we manifested?'

'Was there not a good reason for that?' she asked, with a look of serious inquiry.

'We thought so,' he returned, with a smile.

'I am so glad that the estrangement has ceased—at least, I judge it has, from Mr. and Mrs. Ravensworth having been down with you in Scotland.'

'You heard then of his opposition and our quarrel?'

'I did, and was grieved by it, for where could you find a better wife than Mary Woodford?'

'Mr. Ravensworth has come to be of the same opinion now' said Charles with another smile; 'the reason you shall learn bye-and-bye. But here we are at the summer house, and other matters of even more pressing interest demand our attention.'

The lime-walk terminated at the brow of a deep romantic ravine, and at the top of the slope a circular little building had been erected, open in front and seated within so that from it a fine view of the dell could be obtained. It was a very secluded spot. Behind was the shady, far-stretching lime walk, and in front the gorge, with a dark wood of firs beyond—a place of perfect privacy and silence.

Charles led Dora into the summer house, and sat down beside her. The eager look and breathless attitude returned to her, and in this way she waited for his communication.

'You remember when and where these troubles began?' he said, as he laid his arm on the little rustic table, and bestowed on her an earnest loving look.

'Yes,' she readily replied. 'They had their origin in the discovery of your birth, which was made in Dick Morris's cottage when we sought shelter from the rain.'

'The discovery that I was the son of Huffey White?' said Charles with a peculiar smile.

'Yes from that moment the conduct of mamma and papa has been inexplicable. You remember how dreadfully shocked mamma was at the time. Then papa broke off the marriage on account of it.'

'And his ostensible reason,' resumed Charles, 'was that I was the son of such a wretch.'

'That was the reason,' rejoined Dora, 'and a most unworthy one it was I fear, Charles, had we been really in love with each other, we should not have paid much heed to it, but taken our own way in defiance of his command.'

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Perjudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicans, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The City house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe and Montcalm, the harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every one of them can supply DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILL'S, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint. Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another dey. Two doses of AUGUST FLOWER will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

And the said Executor will not be answerable or liable for the assets so distributed, or any part thereof, to any person or persons of whose debt, claim or demand he shall not then have had notice. Also all persons indebted to the estate of the said deceased are requested forthwith to pay the amounts of their debts respectively to me, said Executor.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Aneamia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La,

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve. and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878,

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink acros each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife ; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PARIS LETTER.

(Regular Correspondence.)

PARIS, France, July 26th, 1880.

The dead season, social and political, has set in with the hot weather, and Paris is once more deprived of its chief occupation —the daily study of politics as reproduced in the two Chambers. Ministers, Senators and Deputies have deserted their various spheres of usefulness in the capital and betaken themselves to the more genial atmosphere of country and seaside.

The Paris Congress of Working Men held on Sunday its first meeting, at which some startling Socialist doctrines were propounded. The assembly, composed of ninety-three representatives of the laboring classes, elected as honorary presidents, besides the inevitable Trinquest, the Citoyenne Louise Michel and Citizen Nourrit, a choice which sufficiently indicates the revolutionary tendencies of those present. The meeting began its proceedings by unanimously declaring itself "Collectivist Revolutionary," that is, resolved to take by force and to divide factories, fields, machinery, and capital. Such a comprehensive programme naturally demands the most energetic efforts to accomplish its fulfilment, and several of the reports presented by various delegates were quite worthy of their object. One and all dwelt on the so-called deplorable condition of the working man, and suggested more or less violent means for readjusting the balance between labor and capital, usually consisting of a forcible seizure of capital for the benefit of labor. One son of toil advocated a general arming of the people, the equality of salary between male and female workers, and a compulsory rest on Monday. All the reports predict something terrible as being in store for all hostile to the interest of the laboring classes. Such sentiments as are here spread do not emanate from the working men themselves, but from the class of scheming agitators who are always endeavoring to turn the susceptibilities of the laboring population to their own benefit.

The committee for erecting a statute to Rouget de l'Isle, the author of the "Marseillaise," have issued a stirring appeal to the French Nation to aid them in their object. They remind the people of the services rendered to the cause of France by the great revolutionary hymn ; how General in command of the Republican armies wrote after a battle, "We were one against ten, but the 'Marseillaise' was on our side ;" and how another, asking for reinforcements, wrote, "Send me a thousand men and a couple of Marseillaise," and I will answer for the victory." The appeal is signed by a large number of Deputies, members of the committee.

St. John Del Rey Mine.

"The fiftieth annual meeting of this company was held in London on June 20th. From a report in the Mining Journal we condense the following items :

The profit this year has been unfavorably affected by a reduced output of 7,273 tons of mineral, caused by want of suitable hauling machinery and scarcity of labor. The yield of the mineral was nearly one-third of an oitava, or 2s 6d per ton better than last year, and the cost was only £700 more; had, therefore, the mineral raised been equal to the previous year, the profits would have been quite as large.

Active steps have been taken to have the necessary underground and surface arrangements completed early this year, and the new hauling machinery is now at the mine. The B shaft has been sunk to the requisite depth, and a man-engine has been added to convey the miners to and from their work. Forty eight thousand cubic feet of timber props have been effectively placed in the mines during the year, and the property is reported as being in an especially safe condition.

In the first process, over 70 per cent of the gold is recovered, notwithstanding the small proportion of stamped mineral which is amalgamated (only 9 tons out of every 160 tons, or about 6 per cent).

The second process consists in regrinding a portion of the sand in the Moro Velho arrastras; and the third process in regrinding a further portion in the Praia. In these subsequent processes but little is accomplished. The ore, after stamping, is passed through a sieve with 12,000 holes to the square inch, 90 per cent of the mineral passing through. At the Moro Velho arrastras, of the 160 tons stamped daily, 69 tons are there reground ; contents by assay 246 oits ; or over 3½ oits per ton ; but only 55 oits, or 0·77 oits per ton (less than 1-7th) are covered. In the third process at the Praia, further 42 tons are reground with a recovery of about ¼ oit per ton ; but the whole recovery by these two processes is only 52 oits, out of 246 oits by assay, or the assay contents of the sand daily passed through. Seventy per cent of the gold is recovered in the first process, but only about 4 per cent in the two subsequent ones.

In March 628 oitavas were recovered, or say 20, 2 oits per day, from the 40 stamp-heads. In April, the recovery was 1,002 oits, or 33 oits per day, some mineral having been stamped with the sand. A portion of the sand is stored for future treatment. The American pan and setter have been tried, by which the recovery of the gold was satisfactory, but the loss of quicksilver was very great. The Calcining Furnace had not been completed in time for any experiments to be made. Considerable additions to the water power had been made, and future additions were contemplated, which, when completed, would give ample power throughout the dry season.

At the Cuiaba Mine considerable work has been done, and 4·7ths of the outlay—the larger portion of which has been on capital account preparing for extended operations—has been met by gold sold.

The mineral stamped during the year has been a fair average of the quality of the lode passed through, and the yield has been 23 oits per ton, the yield realizing 4d. per oit, or 3s. per oz. troy more than the gold from Moro Velho ; but the appliances being rude, the unrecovered gold has been large. The new machinery, when up, will somewhat remedy this defect, but the want of an effective mode of second treatment will, it is feared, be felt at the Cuiaba mine as well as at Moro Velho. The average cost of extracting and treating the mineral during ten months of the year has been 13s. 2d. per ton, while at Moro Velho it has been 28s. 2d. ; so that a recovery of 3 oitavas at Cuiaba is equal to 5 oitavas at Moro Velho, and large profits have been realized at Moro Velho from a yield of considerably under 5 oits per ton.

A deep adit-level has been commenced, to strike the lode at 32 fathoms below present working, which will unwater the mine to that depth. It will be 300 fathoms long, of which 21 fathoms are already driven. Efficient boring machinery has been sent out under charge of Mr. J. G. Cranston, of Newcastle, the inventor of the machines.

These celebrated old mines have a capital of £293,000 in shares of £100 each, on which a half yearly dividend of 12½ per cent. was declared, and the stock is quoted at £230.

NOTE.

The above facts demand fullest consideration, showing upon what large capital 12½ per cent. half yearly dividends can be made.

An oitava is worth $1.89.

An Exciting Yacht Race.

(From the London Telegraph.)

This year attention has been centred upon two remarkable vessels—the Vandurara, built by a Glasgow shipwright, and the Samœna, a Solent-born ship, each of them of the same burden 90 tons, and each fore-rigged. The Glasgow clipper in question has shown herself a wonderful and witch-like production of sea-architecture. Built of steel plates and steel frames, she is an experiment in construction which seems, however, already justified. The economy of space effected by her materials permits the ballast to be carried very low down and close. Her lines are marvellously fine, her beam small without being too much sacrificed, and her appearance splendid and highbred. The peculiarity of the Vandura seems to be in the cutting away of her forefoot, all the dead stuff of which is removed, so that she comes round in stays like a thing alive, after the quick and sure fashion of the Jullanar, and beats to windward upon a breeze till her fleetest and most renowned antagonists fall hopelessly to leeward of her. It is true that her want of hold upon the water forward, due to shallow draught under the stem, appears to make her yaw somewhat wildly before the wind, and there is no doubt that she is then oftentimes difficult to steer. But, beating or reaching on or off the wind, this steel sided waterwitch has proved herself a most extraordinary vessel. She has hoisted her fighting flag on something like sixteen occasions, and twelve or thereabouts times has she beaten off all competitors. Blow high, blow low, in soft airs or piping gales, with a heavy sea running or the ocean sleeping like a lake, the wonderful craft of Mr. John Clark has romped away from her rivals, or shaken out of their reach as it hidden sea-nymphs towed her through the sleeping seas. Even the beautiful Formosa, of which the Prince of Wales is the owner, a famous and formidable vessel, and a tough contestant,—even the splendid Latona, queen of the yawls, and the crack schooners, all of them in turn have been compelled to strike their colors to this steel ship. She is out and out, at present, the most distinguished among the "Ladies of the Sea," and after her magnificent race down the Channel to the Solent, where she ran clean out of sight of her opponents, there existed nothing of the new season's Autocrat which could be spoken of along with her except the Samœna, the pride and champion of the Solent.

The "Samœna" is of wood, in the old style—a 90-ton cutter, like her rival, but less peculiarly built, and with a sheer forward that gives her a somewhat more commanding look upon the water. She is owned by Mr. J. Jamieson, and made her debut, as the "Vandura" did, this season. Winner in all or most of her engagements, she met her greatest enemy at the beginning of this month in the northern waters, but the wind was paltry and fickle and the contest indecisive. The same thing occurred last Friday on the Irish shores, when the great rivals encountered once more, to sail the course by Carrick, Black Head shores, and South Briggs, in Belfast Lough. But yet again the breezes were unstable, and the race finished without any real test of merit, and it was after much drifting and fuming, followed by protests, that the "Samœna" beat the "Latona" by 4 minutes and 34 seconds, besides her time allowance, defeating the "Vandura" by an extra 18 seconds. Nothing, of course, was settled by such a day of light puffs and cat's-paws; but on Saturday last a steady whole-sail breeze from the north-east blew merrily up the Irish lough from Arran and over Magee Island, and the first fair and clear trial of these two splendid yachts came gloriously off. The Samœna finished the first round ahead, 2 minutes and 10 seconds in advance of the unvanquished steel boat, But beating down the Arran shore upon the second round the real sailing had to be done, and here the Vandurara, tack after tack, weathered upon the Samœna, doing wonderful things into the eye of the wind, and, at the close, left the Solent ship helpless under her lee. This luffing match between the jealous cutters let up the Latona and Cuckoo, so that in the second round those handsome craft finished ahead of the 90-tonners, but at the termination of the hard match the great yawl had won by only a minute and a half, while the Vandurara was 6 minutes and 15 seconds ahead of her swift enemy. This encounter of struggle decides the question between the famous cutters of the year, and adds another and the proudest winning flag of all to the long line which will flutter in the Vandurara's rigging when she sails to take part in the grand matches at Cowes.

If we glance back at the last few weeks of yachting, it will be seen how the records of the season show one long Io triumphe! for the matchless Vandurara.

—Mr. Gladstone being one day in the London offices of Mr. Lindsay, the ship owner, making a note of steamer sailings, returns for his budget, a brusque and wealthy Sunderland ship owner, who was watching him, and was struck by the industrious and intelligent way in which he went to work, without dreaming of who he was, said, "Thou writes a bonny hand, thou dost," "I am glad you think so," was the reply. "Thou dost; thou makest thy figures well ; thou's just the chap I want." "Indeed ?" "Yes, indeed," said the Sunderland man. I'm a man of few words, nor if thoult come over to Sunderland I'll give thee £120 a year. Noo, then." "I'm much obliged for the offer," was the answer, "and when Mr. Lindsay comes I'll consult him." Mr. Lindsay when he came, kept up the joke, saying he would not stand in a young man's way, and the sooner they knew each other the better. "Allow me, therefore, to introduce you to the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone of the Exchequer." There was much laughing.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, AUGUST 13.

The Stove Robbery.

The Globe has found another mare's nest. A few days ago it published, with a great flourish of trumpets, an alleged agreement entered into between the principal stove founders of Ontario to sell only at certain rates. The Mail most effectually replies by publishing the following list of prices prevalent in 1878 and 1880, with accompanying comment:

	1878.	1880.
Do. small size	23 75	22 00
Do. without oven	11 40	10 85
Ranges	24 75	24 75
Large range	33 00	31 00
Cooking stove	11 50	10 95

The robbery theory appears all the more absurd when it is remembered that iron was 22 per cent. cheaper in 1878 than it is today, and that wages have been increased 10 per cent. since the new tariff came into force.

This story of a so-called "stove robbery" is quite as reliable as those from the same source as to the alleged "sugar robbery," "cotton monopoly" and other "monopolies" of which the organ prates so glibly, but as to the existence of which it has never given any truthful evidence, and for the best of reasons—it has none to offer.

The License Business.

The Mail thus narrates how the partizan License Commissioners of Toronto were forced to issue licenses to applicants to whom they had previously been refused and who had taken out mandamus to compel those officials to issue licenses to them:—"The License Commissioners have made a novel change of front. On the 24th ult. the money for nine-months' licenses was tendered the Chairman of the Board on behalf of persons who had been refused licenses, and he was notified by Messrs. Hoskin & Creelman that if the licenses were not granted these parties would sell without license, and that steps would be taken to test the legality of the Board. This somewhat disturbed the Chairman, and an article in this journal announcing that the right of the Local Government to control licenses would be challenged in the Courts did not tend to relieve him. Well, Chairman McGee and Commissioner Doherty met on Monday, and granted twelve licenses to persons who had previously been refused them. They could not do that without dragging in politics, and so a worthy alderman, who would be glad to get the party nomination in West Toronto, was informed on Saturday of what was to be done; and he called on the applicants for licenses and promised to use his influence on their behalf. When they received their licenses on Monday they supposed, of course, that they had to thank the worthy alderman, and doubtless he will not care to undeceive them."

Perhaps a similar course by the applicants in this city might have a like effect, provided that the Commissioners be adjudged to have the power to issue twenty-nine licenses, as two of them and the Inspector have contended.

Political Notes.

CONSISTENT—AS USUAL.

A contemporary pithily observes that "the Globe continues to prove in one column that free trade is the only road to wealth, and in the next that free trade with our neighbors would be the road to ruin." The consistency of the Globe, it must be remembered, lies in its inconsistency.

THE "HUM" IN BELLEVILLE.

Some one who has paid a casual visit to Belleville writes to the Globe, giving a doleful picture of business in this city. The truth of this individual's statements can be accurately gauged by the fact that he alleges that empty stores on Front Street are almost as numerous as those which are occupied. It would be a waste of space to deal further with such an effusion, which throughout is animated by a small spirit of hostility towards this city, in which we may tell him that more business is now being done, in the principal business street of which greater improvements have been made, and in the manufactories within whose borders a considerably greater number of men are now employed, than on the memorable 17th of September, 1878.

THE N. P. AND FOREIGN TRADE.

Some of the free trade advocates cry out that the value of imports is falling off. A telling answer is given to this class of people by the St. Catharines Journal, which says:—"The National Policy was conceived and enacted with a view of developing home industry. If it injures our foreign trade, so much the better. It is our home market that must furnish wealth and comfort to all. Let us therefore develop to their fullest capacity our latent sources of wealth. The N. P. gives us control of our own market, and as manufacturing and production is developed our revenue must naturally fall off. If it did not then would the N. P. prove defective in its working. With our industries and productive powers fully developed and active, we could reasonably look for a foreign trade which would be profitable; for then it would be based on the wealth of Canada, and not, as heretofore, on Canadian credit, a trade which intensified instead of ameliorating our miseries."

RULE OR RUIN.

Writing of the Ministerial mission to England, the Montreal True Witness says: "It is certain that Sir John has not up to this succeeded in getting a syndicate to build the road, but it does not follow from this that he will not succeed before he leaves for Canada, though, of course he may not. He is evidently fighting hard to accomplish his mission, and if it be possible he will carry out his scheme. At all events he will do his best, and that means something. The Globe would, of course, be delighted at his failure, from political motives let us hope, though indeed, it looks as if the Globe would wish nothing good to befall Canada except through Reformers, a miserable enough policy. For our own part we hope Sir John will obtain the syndicate." The True Witness correctly interprets the motive of the Grit press in hoping for the failure of the pending negotiation, with the English capitalists, and all who are not party-mad will re-echo its wish for the success of the Ministerial project. "Rule or ruin" is the motto of the Grit party, and most of them carefully live up to it.

The Toronto Collectorship.

Some of the Opposition newspapers still adhere to their assertion that the Hon. Mr. Bowell is to resign his position in the Cabinet and become Collector of Customs at Toronto, despite authoritative denials of the story made through the columns of the INTELLIGENCER and of the Ottawa Citizen. This line of conduct on the part of the Opposition organs can only be founded on their belief that their political opponents have as little regard for the truth as they themselves hold and constantly exhibit. If, however, our statement in regard to the matter is not considered by these Doubting Thomases as being sufficiently clear and definite, the following, from the Kingston News, is plain enough to leave nothing to be desired:—"In addition "to the contradiction already published by "the journals named, we have direct authority for pronouncing the representations of the Globe and other Grit newspapers ABSOLUTELY FALSE."

Will the Opposition journals which have given currency to the false assertion have the decency to publish the above emphatic contradiction, in substance if not in the exact words of our contemporary? We doubt it, as the story was manufactured for the purpose of affecting the West Toronto election. Possibly after that contest has been decided and further use of the falsehood has become useless, the subject will be quietly dropped, but not, we venture to say, until then.

The British Grain Trade.

The Mark-Lane Express, in its review of the grain trade for the past week, says:—"The finer weather with less rain, has enabled farmers of some counties in the south to make a fair beginning of the harvest. The wheat will certainly be a great improvement on 1879, but the yield is likely to be very uneven. The markets during the past week retrograded slightly, but trade was so susceptible to the weather that buyers or sellers have the best of the market according as the day is fine or foul. The reaction has been confined chiefly to wheat and flour. Foreign descriptions are 6d and 1s per quarter and per sack, respectively, lower on the week. English wheat was nearly stagnant, and prices are unchanged. The deliveries at the several well-known markets have stopped entirely. Last week's shipments from America direct to the Continent are stated at 33,000 quarters of wheat and 120,000 quarters of maize, but until the telegram is confirmed by letter we must accept the statement under all reserve. The 33,000 is probably a mistake for 333,000. The price of wheat on passage has receded slightly. Red Winter for immediate shipment marke 43s., the same as California; for September shipment the same rates are asked, but the value is really lower. The imports into the United Kingdom during the week ended July 31 were, of wheat, 1,474,707 hundred-weight, and flour, 233,170 hundred-weight. Barley was in small supply, and slow of sale at unchanged rates. Oats were slightly lower, except for the best samples which are unchanged. Maize was 6s lower. Beans and pease were firm, and in some instances is dearer. The commercial trade has been inert."

THE PRINCESS'S TRIP HOME.—A cable despatch says: "Great interest was felt in the royal passengers. Prince Leopold, though otherwise in fair health, was obliged to use crutches on board in consequence of having sprained his ankle when salmon fishing, as reported before he left. His condition explains the impossibility of keeping the Newport and other engagements. The Princess, though in fair health, suffers somewhat from the injuries received some time ago. She was, however, on deck every day of the voyage. The Princess expresses warm attachment to Canada, speaks highly of the country and intends returning at an early day."

LYING IDLE.—It is estimated by well informed persons that there is now in London lying idle, waiting for a safe and profitable investment, not less than $1,000,000,000; in other words, the amount is fully twice as large as the unemployed floating capital usually on hand at that financial centre. The effect of this glut is seen in the increase in price of all good securities. It is said that there is not an investment in the English market that looks sound and will yield a clear and permanent 4 per cent. per annum

The Pacific Railway.

The Globe has a cablegram from its London correspondent, which must be galling news to its commander-in-chief. The telegram is dated London, Aug. 12th, and reads thus:—"Sir John Macdonald's Pacific "Railway negotiations are within a few "hours of completion. A city firm of the "highest standing and solvency is willing "to take the matter over from the Dominion Government."

Of course the Globe editorially thinks, notwithstanding this plain telegram, that there is "a nigger in the fence," and even if true hints that the bargain will be ruinous to Canada, that the "negotiation is a blind" to cover some signal failure. The Globe has evidently made up its mind not to be satisfied no matter how favorable or unfavorable the result of the mission to England may be, and therefore it matters very little to the Canadian public what may be its opinion on the subject.

Still Booming.

The Grand Trunk Railway traffic receipts continue increasing at a pace which must be very satisfactory to the shareholders, and very gratifying to the present management. The receipts for the present week show an increase of $11,000 as compared with those of the previous one. The receipts for the week ending August 7th, 1880, compared with those of the corresponding week last year, are shown in the following table:

Year.	Miles Passeng'r, & express	Freight & Live Stock.	Total.
Increase in 1880			$51,502

The Riviere-du-Loup receipts are included in 1879, but not in 1880; adding them ($4,200) the week's increase would be $55,702. The aggregate increase for thirty-two weeks is $1,183,000.

The highest was St. Thomas' Hospital, 4s 6½d. At the Westminster Hospital the cost was 1s 10½d; St. Mary's, 3s; Charing Cross, 4s 1d; University College Hospital, 3s 10½d; Guy's, 3s 6d; Royal Free, 4s 5d; Montreal General, 2s 1d.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

CORK, August 13.—Just before the raid on the Juno was made, the dockyard watchman while going to ascertain the meaning of the noise of boats rowed towards the wharf, was seized by six men, one of whom, who seemed to be the leader, presented a revolver and enjoined secrecy. The revenue officers on the deck of the Juno were simply seized. The marauders told the crew to keep quiet or they would be shot. The captain was compelled to surrender the keys, with which the marauders ransacked the ship. After their departure it was found that only 40 stand of arms had been taken. The guns were all smooth bore, old fashioned muskets, useless except at close quarters. The wires being cut, news was sent to the police by horse express. The police soon arrived and searched the ship and vicinity. A fragment of human scalp with hair attached was found on the ore in the hold. One of the crew said he heard a sharp cry followed by tramping of feet, as if a burden was being borne along. The police removed the remainder of the arms from the Juno. A number of gags were found on the wharf. The boats were pulled with muffled oars.

The ropes supporting the platform at a land meeting at Clonmell, were discovered cut through, after the platform had fallen.

BUCHAREST, Aug. 13.—Eugene Schuyler is officially recognized as the Minister resident pending permanent arrangements at the meeting of the United States Congress.

TUCSON, Arizona, Aug. 13.—Private advices state that Gen. Canto was routed at Magadallan and the state of Sinola in the hands of Rammez, an ally of Marbuez. The latter reported the coming from Sinalva with a considerable force. One of his lieutenants, Brigadier Reys, started from Tucson with thirty men ten days ago on the road to Sonora on the other side of the border, but the force had increased to 100 men with which he went in the direction of Magdalena. It is rumored this town was taken some days ago by him. Zacatecas, Leon, Talisco, Sinalva and Sonora have risen and it is believed the general taking up of arms is directed against the new President Gonzales.

SANTA FE, Aug. 13.—Information from El Paso states that a hundred Indians either from Victoria's own band, or Indians from Mexico who aided Victoria, who have been hovering for a few days between old Fort Quitman and Eagle Springs, crossed the Rio Grande near Quitman yesterday, and headed into the State of Chihahua. Col. Buell, commanding the Mexican troops, will endeavor to head them off.

LONDON, Aug 13.—An official despatch from Ragusa states that twelve men were killed and twenty-five wounded by the blowing up of the Greek Consulate at Prisrond by the Albavians.

SANTA FE, Aug. 13.—A sensation was created here by the announcement of a rich mining strike in the Mexican village Las Placitas, 30 miles distant. Some assays give three to six hundred dollars gold per ton. The whole village is built on a ledge, and rock worth $3 a pound has been thrown about as worthless.

EXCURSION TO THOUSAND ISLAND PARK on Saturday, Aug. 21st, by steamer Varuna, returning on Monday afternoon, Aug. 23rd.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell Bro. and get your old suits done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE.—One prisoner and one tramp last night.

IRON ORE.—The arrivals for shipment by water this morning were four cars. The total arrivals were fourteen cars.

NEW TELEGRAPH LINE.—The Montreal Telegraph Company are preparing to build a line from their office in Campbellford to the Grand Junction Station, in order to give direct telegraphic communication with Belleville and Stirling.

THE COURT HOUSE.—Owing to the strictures of the Judges on the arrangements of the Court room, considerable improvements will shortly be made, which will add much to the comfort of all who have business to transact there.

SMALL CHANGE.—Serious complaint is made among business people about the scarcity of small change. Indeed, there is so little small coin in circulation in some municipalities that the money collected in churches and public places commands a premium of two to three per cent.

RAILWAY APPOINTMENT.—The Campbellford Herald says:—"So satisfactory have been the services of Reeve J. W. Dinwoodie in his connections with the Grand Junction Railway, that the Company lately appointed him as Mechanical Superintendent of the road. Mr. Dinwoodie accepts the situation with a good salary."

PICTON REGATTA.—In a regatta sailed at Picton on the 11th and confined to local craft, the Iris won the second-class race, with the Aline 13 seconds behind. In third class the Rambler won first money, and the Ida second. In a skiff race W. P. Reynolds won the first prize, and E. M. Merril the second. The prize is the champion flag of Picton bay for each class.

DISMISSED.—Officer Slattery, of the Oswego police, who is well known in this city, has been dismissed from the force. The charges preferred against him were as follows: First leaving his post without permission; second, drinking and entering places where intoxicating drinks are sold while on duty, which the rules of the force forbid; third, wilful disobedience of orders and neglect of duty; fourth, neglecting the payment of his just debts.

DROWNING IN LAKE ONTARIO.—Among the passengers by the Corsican, which left Toronto on the 10th inst., were Mr. John B. Crawford, head book keeper to Messrs. James McCready & Co., dry goods merchant of New York, and Mr. T. Alexander, of the same firm. The two were on a tour through the Dominion. Two hours after sailing Mr. Crawford took a stroll upon the hurricane deck, and was seen to take a seat upon the taffrail with his back to the water and his legs dangling over the deck. The boat gave a sudden lurch and Mr. Crawford fell overboard. The keeper of the bookstall threw a chair overboard, but the unfortunate man failed to grasp it, and after swimming for a short time disappeared. The steamer was stopped and a boat lowered, but only succeeded in recovering the chair and Mr. Crawford's hat. A reward is offered for the recovery of the body. The deceased was 27 years of age and unmarried.

LAID OVER.—Just before the accident, Mr. Alexander had given Mr. Crawford a masonic badge, consisting of a cross with two swords, and the inscription, "Phœnix Chapter, Palestine Commandery Lebanon Lodge," and Mr. Alexander's name. This badge was attached to the watch chain of the deceased.

A HEAVY ROBBERY.—On the morning of the 11th inst., a safe belonging to Dr. Edgar Hunt, of Glengordon, N. J., was blown open by burglars and bonds to the amount of $35,000 were stolen. The bonds consisted chiefly of St. Joseph and Denver Railroad securities.

YACHTING NOTE.—The Gracie was at Kingston yesterday, homeward bound.

EXCURSION.—The steamer Armenia brought an excursion from Picton to Massasaga Point to-day.

CRICKET.—The Onondaga Cricket Club of Syracuse have been communicated with, asking them to play the return match with the Belleville Club here, on the Civic Holiday.

RUNAWAY.—A horse belonging to David Bradford ran away this morning, the driver and two other young men who sat on the truck to which the animal was attached being thrown off, but fortunately without serious injury. The horse was stopped near the Commercial House.

METROPOLITAN HALL.—Mr. Grahame is making all preparations necessary for the transformation of Metropolitan Hall into a first class place of amusement, and work will be commenced about two or three weeks hence. Managers of first class entertainments are applying for dates, and there is a good prospect that the attractions to be offered to amusement seekers will be even more varied and of a better character than usual.

A TRIAL OF SPEED.—The propellers Armenia and Varuna had a race from Picton up yesterday, the latter beating her competitor by about 5 minutes. The Varuna made three stops and the Armenia but one, but it is contended by those who were on board of her that the one stop which she made was as long as the three made by the Varuna, and also that the last named boat had the best fuel.

THE RIFLE.—The meeting of the 49th Battalion Rifle Association last night, it was resolved to ask the Prince Edward Rifle Association to have the return match shot at Picton on the 18th instead of on the 20th, as previously arranged. As the date of the match would thus be brought forward but two days, and as the alteration would add greatly to the convenience of our local men, the 18th being the civic holiday in this city, it is to be hoped that their request will be acceded to. A competition for places on the team of the 49th will take place on Saturday. A private match was to be shot this afternoon between Lieut. Johnson and Sergt. Cunningham, against Major Hambly and Private Tammadge. Ranges 200, 500 and 600 yards, seven shots at each range. A match between No. 1 Company of the 15th and No. 3 (Sidney) Company of the 49th will take place about the 1st September.

DEATH IN THE WELL.—The following is related by a correspondent of the Picton Times: "Mr. Isaac Youngs of the 4th concession of Ameliasburg died of fever on Sunday night, after about ten days illness. On Monday his father, Mr. Daniel Youngs, died, having kept his bed about three days. Mrs. Youngs, wife of the latter, is down also and not expected to live. Three years ago, a family, living in the same house, lost father, mother, and one young person, in a few days, by the same disease. The water is believed to be the cause. Drs. Thornton and Day subjected some of it to microscopic examination, and found in it a quantity of fungus matter, but no animalcules. It is said that there is a good spring in the well, but that it needs to be cleaned out more frequently, and surface water excluded. The cellar also needs more thorough drainage."

WHY NOT SAVE MONEY?—And buy your prints at Hennessy's, where you will get a first rate washing print for 5½ and 6½ cents, light and dark colors, beautiful patterns; also umbrellas; we have a nice useful umbrella for 20 cents.—JAS. HENNESSY.

Sporting Notes.

CRICKET.

Cobourg beat Barrie in an Association tie match on Wednesday. The game was decided on the first innings, the score being 48 to 43 in favor of Cobourg.

The Montreal club will shortly play the Kingston club at Kingston. The Oswego club is also expected to play at Kingston soon, probably on the civic holiday.

A cricket match was played at Whitby on the 11th, between the Whitby and Peterboro clubs, resulting in a draw. Peterboro' went first to the bat, making 87 in the first innings. Whitby then made 67. Peterboro' in the second made 63, and Whitby 22 for one wicket. The stumps were then drawn, there not being time to finish the innings.

In the match between the Toronto and Longwood (of Boston) Cricket Clubs, played at Toronto on Wednesday and Thursday, the Torontos won by 44 runs. Score: Toronto, 55 and 104; Longwood, 58 and 57.

Guelph beat Cobourg in an Association match on Thursday. Guelph, 129; Cobourg, 36. Cobourg, in the second innings, had 19 runs for 7 wickets.

AQUATICS.

The Mail says: The Argonaut champion four has virtually disbanded. Being strictly amateurs, and men who row simply for pleasure, they find it impossible to give up their whole time to the pursuit of rowing. The club will, however, be represented at Barrie on Monday, that day being a public holiday. It was the calls of business which prevented the crew from rowing at Lachine on Saturday last.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Maud S. and St. Julien, in special trials of speed against time, each made a mile in 2m. 11¼sec. This lowers the record by 1 second.

The notes of the organ grinder can be heard through the streets.

The school house is finished, and it speaks well for the contractor, W. H. Garrison.

The corner stone of the new English Church will be laid on the 18th of this month, by the Lord Bishop of Ontario. When finished, it will be one of the finest in this County. W. H. Garrison has the contract. With his well earned reputation as a church builder, it is sure to be a fine church.

Mr. E. W. Rathbun is building an addition to his grist mill, and also making some improvements in the mill. He has built a new file room 28x30, which makes a grand improvement to the saw mill. He received an order to-day for 300 more doors. This makes for the last four weeks about 5,000 doors, varying from $1.30 to $1.50 a door.

Camp-meeting starts on the 13th.

Mill Point, Aug. 10.

The Railway Commission.

Its Object Stated — Examination of Witnesses.

OTTAWA, August 12.

The Railway Commission met this morning with open doors. All the members were present. The Secretary read the commission. The preamble sets forth as follows:—Whereas, it appears from a report of our Minister of Railways and Canals, bearing date the 20th day of May, 1880, among other things that an expenditure has been incurred from the month of April, 1871, down to the 31st day of December, 1879, and charged to the account of the Canadian Pacific Railway, amounting to the sum of $14,287,820; that two changes in the Government of Canada have taken place during that period; that important questions have arisen and become subject of discussion, both in and out of the Parliament of Canada, touching the propriety of and responsibility for large expenditures connected with this work; that allegations have been made as to divers irregularities and extravagance, neglects and other derelictions of duty on the part of the officers and others employed on the said work, and that sundry irregularities and improprieties have taken place in the obtaining of contracts for portions of said work and with performance of the same, whereas we deem it expedient in the interest of the good government of Canada to cause an enquiry to be made into and concerning all the facts connected with such work and the conduct and prosecution thereof from its conception to the present time, the commission is consequently appointed to report upon this matter and more especially their conclusions as to the works on which such work has been carried on, both from the engineering and financial point of view, and the proper discharge of their duties by all officials and others in relation to the said railway, and also as to the manner in which all contracts have been obtained and executed on the said work; and as to the payments made for and in respect to said work, the commission is given power to take evidence upon it.

Judge Clark then made a statement saying that the Commissioners had been engaged up to the present time in learning the history of the scheme, and now intended to proceed to take evidence. They intended to exercise more independence of judgment, he stated, and that the proceedings would generally be open to the press but he considered it expedient that the door be closed.

Mr. Trudeau, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, was then examined as to the mode of keeping the accounts of the road. He said that they were first kept by an accountant for Mr. Fleming, but as the vouchers were not satisfactory, although he believed the money had been properly applied, the accounts had been afterward kept by the accountant of the department. The contracts were then gone into, commencing with the telegraph contract of Sifton, Glass & Co.

THE DOMINION EXHIBITION.—A fund is being subscribed in Montreal to provide outside amusement and other attractions during Exhibition fortnight in September, with the object in view of drawing to the city an extraordinary number of strangers from all parts of the Dominion and adjoining States. Among the subscriptions is $1,000 from the Press of Montreal.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—It was no secret that there were arms on board the ship Juno in Cork Harbor. All the marauders were armed with revolvers. The six men arrested were brought before the magistrate yesterday. They all belong to Cork and were unable to give an account of their presence at the passage, and were remanded for trial.

A Cork correspondent says the most remarkable circumstance connected with the affair is that while the boats were leaving and were still in view from the vessel, no alarm was made by the captain or revenue officer on the ship.

At the time of the robbery the patrol were on the road outside the dock wall only 25 yards from the ship, and the slightest alarm would have reached them.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Post says the committee of the Irish Land League has determined to devote a portion of the funds subscribed by American sympathizers to the prosecution of the actions for the recovery of penalties against Lord Plunkett for voting five times before taking the oath as Peer, Lord Plunkett has been served with five writs.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, fresh to brisk northerly to westerly winds, partly cloudy weather, with local rains to-night, stationary or higher temperature.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Indications: lower lakes, clear partly cloudy, possibly occasional rain, generally higher temperature.

Haunted Me.

Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for Doctoring, which done no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost.—A Workingman.

Irish Disturbances.

Fenian Outrage in Cork Harbor.

A Cork despatch says:—This city was thrown into a fever of excitement this morning by a fresh scare connected with the Fenian movement, which seems to have been gaining ground lately in various parts of the country, and especially in the counties of Wexford and Limerick. The facts which have come to the knowledge of the authorities appear to be substantially as follows:—The Norwegian ship Juno has for some days been lying at the docks in Cork harbor, undergoing repairs preparatory to a voyage west. She was this morning at daybreak boarded by six boat loads of men, supposed to be Fenians, who overcame the men in charge of the vessel, and stole three cases of arms and decamped, having previously cut the telegraph wires. Some persons are of the opinion that the robbers are members of the organization connected with the Boyd outrage recently committed in New Ross, Wexford county, and that the rifles are intended for use in that county. Others affirm that they are emissaries of the central organization in Dublin, which has been sending out large quantities of Enfield rifles to different parts of the country within the last few months. The men in the boats were disguised so as to be unrecognizable, and did their work without unnecessary talk.

It is believed by well-informed persons that the whole affair was manipulated by American emissaries, who are known to be in Ireland working a Fenian agitation.

In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Forster, Chief Secretary for Ireland, in reply to an enquiry, said sixty men had boarded the Norwegian ship Juno, secured the captain and officers, and taken away forty-seven muskets. Six men have been arrested.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

The shipments of cheese from the Grand Junction Railway station at Cambellford for the week ending August 11th were 474 boxes. These aggregated 30,970 pounds of cheese.

The schr. Paragon has arrived from Fair Haven with coal for Rathbun & Son.

The schr. Flora Carveth has arrived from Mill Point and is loading lumber at the Eagle Mill.

The steam barge Saxon and the canal boat Vickery have cleared for Oswego, the former with lumber and the latter with leached ashes.

The schr. British Queen will bring coal from Fair Haven for Rathbun & Son.

YACHT PICKED UP.—The Kingston News says the schooner A. Muir when about four miles west of Salmon Point, some 75 miles from Kingston, observed what appeared to be a large boat, floating bottom upwards. On reaching the place it was found to be a yacht measuring about ten tons, which had been upset with all her rigging standing and sails set. An American flag floated at her mast head. On her was painted the name "Phœnix," but there was nothing to show where or to whom she belonged. Captain Keene brought her down to Kingston, and she now lies at the foot of Princess street in charge of Captain Gaskin. It is supposed that the yacht must have foundered in recent gales, but of course this is purely conjecture. The yacht has evidently been well built. The upsetting had caused everything to fall out, except one pair of socks. It is hoped that western papers will notice the finding of the yacht, in order that it may be discovered whether any lives have been lost or not

A FISH STORY.—An Ottawa despatch says; "Mr. Wm. Gilker, the diver at the Chaudiere bridge works, states that while he was exploring on the bottom of the river he was attacked by a large fish or sea serpent, seven or eight feet long, and was bitten by it two or three times on the hand. He had great difficulty in driving it away, which he was enabled to do after a quarter of an hour's fight, and then only by placing spikes between his fingers and stabbing it as it came rushing towards him."

THE CLASSICAL PROFESSORSHIP.—The Globe announces with regret that the youthful Mr. Warren has declined the offer of the Classical Professorship of University College made to him by the Minister of Education. It states, however, that the place has been filled through the efforts of Hon. Mr. Mowat and Dr. Daniel Wilson, both of whom are now in England. Mr. Maurice Hutton, M. A., Professor of Classics in Firth College, Sheffield, Fellow of Merton College, Oxford, is the new incumbent of the chair.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'Perhaps so,' said Charles gravely. 'But the kind and degree of our affection was providentially directed, as you will speedily understand. For I have now to tell you, Dora, that his lordship did not break off the marriage because I was the son of Huffey White.'

'Charles—what mean you!' she cried, in wonder.

'Lord Eaglehart,' went on the youth and speaking now with marked gravity, 'Lord Eaglehart knew that I was not the son of that man.'

'Not the son of Huffey White!' exclaimed Dora.

'No.'

'Merciful providence!' Then whose son are you!'

'Dora, I am the son of Lord and Lady Eaglehart.'

'The son of Lord and Lady Eaglehart! Impossible.'

'It is true. I discovered it by an extraordinary accident in Edinburgh; at least, I there heard a story which made me strongly suspect the fact and my last visit to the Grange was paid to learn the truth. His lordship would have denied it, but a mother's feelings were too strong for Lady Eaglehart, and with a great cry of affection, she threw her arms about her son, threw herself into my arms, and went into a swoon.'

Dora pressed her hand over her eyes in utter bewilderment. She seemed unable at the moment to realize the import of the astounding revelation and could only sit gazing at the youth like one whose powers were paralyzed.

'After that confession his lordship could deny it no longer, but he was careful to remove her ladyship before her sensibility returned, and as carefully did he afterwards keep us separate. He had a purpose in this—a base, foul, horrible purpose—that he might defame her by pronouncing me illegitimate.'

'What!' cried Dora, starting up as if a reptile had stung her, 'Who dare breathe a word against the fame of Lady Eaglehart, of my mother! The man who does so lies—and the man who believes it has lost all sense of manliness and honor.'

'I repudiated the slander with all the scorn I had voice to command,' rejoined Charles; 'and knowing the triumphant test to which I was about to put my faith, I told him I would believe it only from her own lips. He appointed me to come to the Grange on the following evening and bring Mr. Ravensworth with me, when he undertook that Lady Eaglehart would substantiate his statement.

'But she did not,' cried Dora, with flashing eyes. 'She, Charles, that she who hurled back the falsehood on her husband's lips.'

'The meeting never took place. He doubtless found that he could not persuade her to endorse such a wicked falsehood, and conveyed her away out of our reach.'

'Ha! that then, is the explanation of mamma's absence,' cried Dora, with the violent start of one on whom light had suddenly broke.

'I have no doubt of it. His lordship, persisting in the terrible course of wrong he has so long taken, has adopted this cruel plan to avert the consequence which he knew must follow the discovery of the truth.'

'Oh, this is horrible, horrible,' groaned Dora in agony.

'It will end soon,' said Charlie in a gentle tone, 'and I expect this very day.'

'And mamma will return!'

'I cannot doubt it, for her absence will no longer be necessary for its present purpose. We come to-day armed with the register of their private marriage prior to my birth.'

'I knew it,' cried Dora, with proud exultation. 'Then, Charles, you are—are'—

'Dora I am your brother,' he answered, with great emotion.

'My brother,' she cried with a wild exclamation of joy. 'Are you indeed my brother! Yes, I know it—I feel it. This explains—this reconciles everything. You have mamma's eyes, as I have. You have papa's form as much as Edgar. Oh, for instinctive feelings all along have been those of brother and sister. Oh Charles, Charles, you have indeed given me tidings of joy!'

Impulsively and impetuously she threw herself into the brotherly arms which were as impulsively thrown wide to embrace her and there did these two hearts feel for the first time that closeness to each other which a false position had hitherto prevented.

A true and warm affection had really existed between them always, but of a kind which could not express itself in connection with their former relation, and this had caused them to maintain a constrained and apparently cold bearing towards each other. But the ground and basis of their feelings had now been reached, and having at last freedom to flow forth holy and spontaneously, they realized their depth and ardor in those first moments of their full outflow.

Dora's sensibilities were the most violently awakened in the manifestation. Poor girl, hitherto she had had but one mother to love and to be loved by. Her feelings as a sister had never yet been drawn forth for her brother. Edgar had a cold, selfish nature which could never inspire nor bestow affection, and the wide capacity of sisterly love which resided in Dora's bosom had as yet lain dormant there—much to the saddening and languishing of her spirit. But this astounding revelation which had given her a brother, whom she already knew as good and noble, unsealed the rich fountain, and the waters gushed forth with tumultuous vehemence.

The expression of feeling she displayed was for a little time almost alarming, so vehement and uncontrollable was it. She clung to him, she caressed him, she wildly strained him to her heart, and all the while sobbed hysterically. The great force of her emotion was intensified by the suffering of the last few weeks which had rendered her weak and nervous.

By voice and by act, by gentle tone and soothing caress, Charles strove to calm her and succeeded. The first restless wave of the pent-up waters soon rolled over her soul, and a stiller and quieter flow followed. Her sobs gradually ceased, and she lay calmly on his breast a smile of gladness breaking on her fair face, and beaming glances of happiness shining through the tears which still lay, like gems on her beautiful eyes.

'O,' she murmured. 'I never knew till now what it was to have a brother. But Charles, let me think—why you must be older than Edgar. You—you are the heir to the title.'

'Well, you,' he replied, 'the rights of a first-born son are naturally mine; but you know how cruelly I have been deprived of them hitherto.'

'Oh, I have been able to think of nothing. The delicious knowledge that you are my brother has so filled my soul as to leave room for nothing else. But why was your birth concealed? why were you abandoned as you must have been? why did papa seek so eagerly to conceal your true parentage, and call you son of that bad man White!'

'All, Dora, that he might defraud his cousin Philip Ravensworth, and obtain possession of this estate of the Grange, which according to their uncle's will, was to go to Lord Ravensworth if Lord Eaglehart was married at the time of the old man's death. When the provision of the will came to be known Lord and Lady Eaglehart were already united by a secret Border marriage, which fact really put the estate past his lordship, and gave it to his cousin.'

'Merciful heaven! then it was concealed.'

'It was—and this was what rendered my birth so inconvenient. Measures were, however, taken to have that event concealed also. Lady Eaglehart was taken by her husband to Edinburgh, and was there privately confined. By that event I came into the world and you have a notion what was done with me.'

'You were forsaken and abandoned,' said Dora, with a shudder. 'But—but—mamma did—she—'

'No' said Charles with great emphasis. 'A thousand times no. Lady Eaglehart knew nothing of the foul deed. She was made to believe that I was dead. And now you understand the meaning of her strange behavior when Dick Morris told his facts concerning Huffey White and the infant he received from him.'

'She divined the dreadful truth,' cried Dora. 'She knew, then, that she had been deceived, that her child had not died; that White had carried it away, and that you were her son. Poor, poor mamma, what agony and wretchedness must hers have been! This then, was the cause of her illness, and of that melancholy and wretchedness for which I could not account.'

'It is this that accounts for everything,' returned Charles, 'and among the rest for the breaking off of the marriage. But the proposal was not abandoned because I was the son of Huffey White, but because I was your brother.'

TO BE CONTINUED.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accordance with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using Green's August Flower. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of August Flower will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "that have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

FOR CHOLERA MORBUS, CRAMPS, AND ALL SUMMER OR BOWEL COMPLAINTS PERRY DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER

IS UNEQUALLED.

IT CURES ALMOST INSTANTLY.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz. and 4 oz. bottles, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively—large bottles are therefore cheapest.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the assertion, qualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully,

A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affection of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

December 19th, 1878. Yours truly,

J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but no real permanent health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning, for a short month, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I bottle of SCOTT'S EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL. One friend who has not spoke to me for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is the astonishment of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours,

H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: Lynn, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effects from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown in the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city where it has been introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

Epileptic Fits"

ST. JOSEPH, MIS., JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine. I am now fully say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no denial that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you will bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had a few more doses been given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats partial and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and in duration of the exciting causes terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.

NORTHPORT, WIS., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year and have found the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a complication of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

THE VOICES of the FLOWERS.

If you lie with your ear on the soft green earth,
When the rain and the sunshine fall,
You can hear the flowers in their gay glad mirth
To each other whisper and call.

For hush'd, like an infant in sleep they lie
In their moist cool cells below,
Aweary of hearing the wind's bleak sigh,
And the falling of the snow.

But when Spring comes down to the earth, and her feet
Sends a thrill through woodland and plain,
And the buds overburst that are soft and sweet
But which we miscall the rain.

Then they waken up with a light in their look,
And in low, sweet whispers they cry—
"Sisters, a murmur is heard in the brook,
And sunshine is seen in the sky.

"It is time we should burst through the young green earth,
As the stars through the heavens by night,
That the young and the old may rejoice in our birth
And we in the calm, sweet light."

Then one said, "Sisters, where shall we grow!
I shall grow by the side of the stream,
And all glad spring I will blossom and blow,
Till the dew-fall of autumn is seen."

"And I," said another, "will bloom by the way
Where the children go in a band;
They will stop for a moment their gladsome play,
And touch my lips with their hand."

"I will peep from the long, rich grass," said one,
"When the meadow is bow to the wind,
And will catch like dew drops the fairy tone
Of the music it leaves behind."

"And I," said one, "in some garden rare,
Where my fairer sisters abide,
And it may be that I may be twined in the hair
Of the maid as she blooms into bride."

Then a weaker voice held the rest in thrall—
"O sisters, what things ye have said!
I shall grow in the sweetest spot of all—
On the graves of the calm pure dead.

They will know that I blossom above their dust,
And will yearn, in their silent abode,
For the grand Resurrection to come in their trust
In the love and the promise of God."

Thus the flowers whisper, and if you lie
When the rain and the sunshine fall,
You will hear them question and make reply
If your heart is one with all.

—Good Words.

Are all the Children in?

The darkness falls, the wind is high,
Dense black clouds fill the western sky;
The storm will soon begin;
The thunders roar, the lightnings flash,
I hear the great round rain drops dash—
Are all the children in?

They're coming softly to my side;
Their forms within my arms I hide—
No other arms are sure;
The storm may rage with fury wild,
With mother feels secure.

But future days are drawing near—
They'll go from this warm shelter Here
Out in the world's wild din.
The rain will fall, the cold winds blow,
I'll sit alone and long to know
Are all the children in?

Will they have shelter then secure,
Where hearts are waiting strong and sure,
And love is true when tried?
Or will they find a broken reed,
When strength of heart they so much need.
To help them from the tide?

God knows it all; His will is best,
I'll shield them now and yield the rest
In his most righteous hand;
Sometimes souls he loves are riven
By tempests wild and fierce are driven
Near r the better land.

The Men who do us Justice.

The masculine mind at its best is certainly at least a more logical mind than the feminine, and the greatest things in science, literature and art have been done by men. A woman should never marry a man who is not mentally her superior—and never does if she is worth much, except from interested motives.

But the men who boast of the superiority of their sex, who consider women inferior beings, and sneer at the idea that any woman can do anything worth doing, are always the meanest and poorest specimens of their kind —contemptible little creatures who never have made any mark in the world and never will, and often owe all their butter, to the efforts of some hard working member of the sex they scorn.

A brave and brilliant man never despises a woman—never sneers at her. He gives her credit for all the good he does, and makes allowances for her failures. He protects her by his word and look, as he would by his right arm were she in danger of his life. He is never apt to applaud her and to believe it possible that she can do something worth doing save the coward to whose bosom the impulse of protection never dwelt. When women receive justice, give more than justice, for any of their efforts in pen, pencil or voice —for any work that hard brain can do, it is from these men who are their superiors both mentally and physically. Just as the men who rest under the delusion that all the women are beautiful, seem to be exceedingly handsome men; while very fastidious personages who most criticise the softer sex, are generally the quietest of their own belongings, and the most modest. And a man who cannot bear to think lightly of a woman, or to hear her lightly spoken of, is an honorable man of pure life and morals; while he who manufactures every innocent girl's smile, and is a secret scandal-monger, is sure to be a very bad and unreliable person.

MARY KYLE DALLAS,

Temper at Home.

I have peeped into quiet parlors where the carpet is clean and not old, and the furniture polished and bright, into rooms where the chairs are dust and the floors carpetless; into kitchens where the family live, and the meals are cooked and eaten, and the boys and girls are as blithe as the sparrows in the hatch overhead; and I have said it is not on much wealth, nor earning, nor clothing, nor town, nor country, nor station—as tone and temper that made life joyous or miserable, that render homes happy and wretched. And I see, too, that in town or country, good sense and God's grace make of life what no teachers, or socomplishments, or means, or society, can make it, the opening stave of an everlasting psalm, the fair beginning of an endless existence, the goodly, modest, well proportioned vestibule to a temple of God's building, that shall never decay, wax old or vanish away.—John Hall, D. D.

A little philosophy inclineth a man's mind to atheism, but depth in philosophy bringeth men's mind about to religion.

"My Spare Moments."

A poor country lad came one morning to the door of the head master of a celebrated school, and asked to see him. The servant eyed his mean clothes, and thinking he looked more like a beggar than anything else, told him to go round to the kitchen. The boy did as he was desired, and soon appeared at the back door.

"I should like to see Mr. ——," said he.

"You want a breakfast, most likely," said the servant; "and I can give you that without troubling him."

"Thank you" said the boy; "I've no objection to a bit of bread, but I should like to see Mr. ——, if he can see me."

"Some old clothes maybe you want," remarked the servant, again eyeing the boy's patched clothes.

"I think he has none to spare," and without all minding the boy's request she went about her work.

"Can I see Mr.——?" again asked the boy, after eating his bread and butter.

"Well he's in the library; if he must be interrupted, he must, but he does like to be alone sometimes," said the girl going to the door. Opening the library door, she said, "Here's somebody, sir, who is very anxious to see you, and so I let him in."

I do not know how the boy introduced himself, or how his business, but I know that after talking a while, the Principal put aside the paper he was studying and took up a latin book and began to examine the newcomer. The examination lasted some time. Every question which the Principal asked, the boy answered as readily as could be.

"Well!" exclaimed the Principal, "You certainly do well!" looking at the boy from head to foot, over his spectacles.

"Why, my boy, where did you pick up so much?"

"In my spare moments," answered the boy.

Here he was, poor and hard-working, with but few opportunities for schooling, and yet almost fitted for college, by simply improving his spare moments. Who are not spare moments the "gold dust of time?" How precious they should be! and yet how apt we are to waste them!

What account can you give of your spare moments? What can you show for them? Look and see. This boy can tell you how much, how very much, can be laid up by wisely improving them; and there are many, many other boys, I am afraid, in the gaol, in the house of correction, in the forecastle of a whale-ship, in the gambling house or the tavern, who, if you could ask them when they began their sinful course, might answer, "In my spare moments." "In my spare moments I gambled for marbles." "In my spare moments I began to smoke and drink." "It was in my spare moments that I first began to steal chestnuts from the old woman's stand." "It was in my spare moments that I got acquainted with wicked associates." Take care of your spare moments!

Borrowing Trouble.

Borrowing money is a bad habit; and borrowing trouble is no better. Some people are always borrowing trouble, and in this way making not only themselves but every one around them uncomfortable. They have contracted the painful habit of discovering a look at everything. What time they do not spend in lamenting over the unalterable past they devote to the prognostication of evils to come.

It is a most pernicious and disagreeable habit.

There is no use of regretting the past, except so far as to profit by its experience in the future; while half the evils a gloomy minded person is always predicting, never happen.

Cultivate a cheerful spirit, not only on your own account, but for its happy influence on all with whom you associate.

To Marry or Not to Marry.

Is married life the happiest? you ask. My dear, marriage is a lottery, and, like most lotteries, has blanks as well as prizes in it. Life is not going to be a vale of roses to you, whether you marry or remain single; you are to have your share of misery, in either case.

You may sometimes find that your husband falls short of your standard. You may dis agree with him sometimes. You may not always "get on" perfectly; but should you go to live with your grandmother or your second cousin Abigail, you might disagree with either of those ladies, and find fault with your conduct and fail to get on with her. The mistake is in expecting a human being to be angelic because it has married you, or life to be human life under any circumstances. And if marriage should bring you a little trouble and many regrets, remember you might have had more had you remained single and only of another sort. In fact, to quote an old adage, "it is six of one and half a dozen of the other." Let wives encourage themselves, and spinsters console themselves, with that thought.

Boys, Read and Heed This!

Many people seem to forget that character grows; that it is not something to put off ready made, with womanhood or manhood; but, day by day, here a little and there a little, grows with the growth and strengthens with the strength, until, good or bad, it becomes almost a coat of mail. Look at a man of business; prompt, reliable, conscientious, yet clear headed and energetic. When do you suppose he developed all those admirable qualities? When he was a boy! Let us see how a boy of ten years old will act in the morning, works, plays, studies, and we will tell you just what kind of a man he will make The boy that is late at breakfast, late at school, stands a poor chance to be a prompt man. The boy who neglects his duties, be they ever so small, and then excuses himself by saying, "I forgot; I didn't think;" will never be a reliable man. And the boy who finds pleasure in the sufferings of weaker things, will never be a noble, generous, kind man—a gentleman.

Somebody's Child

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flush of hope on his young face and an immortal crown yearning to live and take an honored place in the world beside the companions of his youth. And somebody's mother is thinking of the time when that fair face will be missing, where no ray of hope can brighten it, when her heart and her home will be left desolate—because there was no cure for consumption. Reader, if the child be your neighbor's take this comforting word to the mother's heart before it is too late. Tell her that consumption is curable, that men are living to-day, who, a few years since, were the physicians pronounced incurable at the are of twenty-five because one lung had been almost destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most efficient alterative for separating the scrofulous matter from the blood and lungs, and imparting strength to the system. It has cured hundreds of consumptives.

The noblest spirits are those which turn to Heaven, not in the hour of sorrow, but in that of joy; like the lark they wait for clouds to disperse, that they may soar up into their native elements.

Gems of Thought.

If the wind will not serve, take to the oars.

People are never so near playing the fool as when they think themselves extra wise.

To wipe all tears from all faces is a task too hard for mortals; but to alleviate misfortune is within the most limited power

Pain is a spurring of nature that comes to remind man that he has gone off the track of happiness, and to bring him back again.

Temperance and labor are the two best physicians of man; labor sharpens the appetite, and temperance prevents him from indulging to excess.

A cannon ball passing through a four-feet bore, receives the direction for the whole range. So the soul, in childhood, receives its direction for eternity.

Attach not thy heart to those treasures with which this fleeting life is adorned. If thou enjoyest, learn to lose, and if happiness is with thee, remember grief.

Title and ancestry render a good man more illustrious, but an ill one more contemptible. Vice is infamous, though in a prince; and virtue honorable, though in a peasant.

Women are the poetry of the world in the same sense that the flowers are the poetry of heaven. Clear, light-giving, harmonious, they are the terrestrial planets that rule the destinies of mankind

Perjury is not only a wrong to a particular person, but treason against human society, subverting at once the foundation of public peace and justice, and the private security of every man's life and fortune.

We double all the ills of our fate by dwelling on them; a scratch becomes a wound, a slight injury, a justice, an insult, a small peril a great danger, and a slight sickness often ends in death by brooding apprehensions.

All that we do depends upon what we are; he then who has left to the world the record of a noble life, though he may have left no outward memorial, has left an enduring source of inward, and, though inward, of outward greatness.

The tree will not only lie as it falls, but it will fall as it leans. And the great question every one should bring home to himself, is "What is the inclination of my soul? Does it, with all its affections and power, lead toward God or away from him?"

Life is so ordered in Providence, that what we call great deeds only occur now and then. Even prisoners and conquerors cannot be always magnificent. If we are not doing good in the ordinary affairs of life, we are not the persons whom Jesus commends.

To be satisfied with the acquittal of the world, though accompanied with the secret condemnations of conscience, this is the mark of a little mind; but it requires a soul of no common stamp to be satisfied with its own acquittal, and to despise the condemnation of the world.

Death is simply a natural event in the course of life, as the failing of the eyesight or hearing is a natural event. If there were no such thing as death, life would be a curse to an end in wearing out; death is letting go of the worn, decaying present and taking hold of the new and strong future.

The natural alone is permanent. Fantastic structures, however imposing or discouraging in length they are overturned by the continual and silent process of growth, as the grim statues of Copper have been pushed from their pedestals by the growth of forest trees, whose seeds were sown by the wind in ruined walls.

Nothing in life has any meaning, except as it draws us further in to God, and presses us more closely to Him. The world is no better than a competition for the prize of wealth, or a gloomy storehouse of disquieting mysteries, unless we look at it by the light of this simple truth, and the eternal God is blessedly the last and only end of every soul of man.

Tale-bearing and idle gossiping is, under all circumstances, and by whomsoever indulged in, a most unprofitable and disreputable business; but when it assumes the form of malicious slander, it at once becomes a crime, even though the poisonous darts are so shaped that the strong arm of the law may be unable to reach or redress the wrongs of the ones thus injured.

Hope is the most notorious bankrupt that ever figured in the transition of events; yet his credit is equally as firm as when he signed his first promissory note, or sounded in the ears of despairing Adam a note of happier days. Every moment in Time's chronicle is black with the record of his failure, and fault with convinced shall cease, every drug store can supply Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

—The report of the foundering of the steamer Jeddah at Aden, with the loss of over one thousand souls, turns out to be a hoax.

Another Plea for the Murray Canal.

The St. Catharines Journal with, praiseworthy regard for the interests of vessel owners, grows wrathy over the detention of schooners laden with grain from the west at Kingston, caused by an almost unprecedented rush at present prevailing. Our highly indignant contemporary holds forth in the following strain over this grievance:

"It is the old story over again. Our vessels are suffering the usual delay at Kingston in getting their grain discharged, now that there is a little rush of business above the ordinary. Our readers must have noticed that an unusual amount of wheat has gone forward of late from Toledo to Kingston en route for Montreal and Europe. This slight rush added to the Chicago trade in corn to the same port has overtaxed the small-potato appliances at Kingston in the way of floating elevators and barges, which are all the accomodation they have there for grain. And now with the lucrative rates of freight offering, time with our lake vessels is literally and truly money, they are delayed for days at Kingston waiting an opportunity to get rid of their cargoes and start westward for others.

So it goes, so it has gone, and we suppose will go to the end of the chapter at Kingston, and we may add, Montreal, for the barges are mainly owned there we believe. As in the past our really live, energetic lake vessel owners and masters must continue to be cramped in their actions, their business devastated, and their prospects of making money darkened, when freights are good and plenty, and offering to move to the seaboard, by the sleepy, old time, short-sighted, and narrow-minded people they have to depend upon to take away the grain they bring forward from the upper lakes. Those Kingstonian Rip Van Winkles, along with the Montreal barge owners, are the individuals who maintain the excellence of the system of transhipping grain at Kingston into the St. Lawrence river barges, and oppose tooth and nail the enlargement of the St. Lawrence Canals to the size of the enlarged Welland. No government should listen to them. Give our lake people the opportunity to meet the ocean ships, with lake cargoes of 80,000 bushels, and Canada will realize the grain trade she now merely dreams of."

The Journal is doubtless right in some regards, as Kingston is undeniably somewhat deficient in such facilities for transhipping grain as the magnitude of the trade renders necessary at the present day; and no doubt with the usual regard for self, her people oppose projects which would cause the divergence of their trade or a portion of it to other places. But the Journal is scarce reasonable in asking for the enlargement of the St. Lawrence canals to the capacity of the new Welland canal, which would entail a great deal of rock blasting at different points in the river, in order to render the channel deep enough to float safely vessels of the large capacity of 80,000 bushels. Such a work would be of vast proportions, and would not only render necessary the expenditure of many millions of dollars, but would require several years of time to execute, and besides is probably beyond the means of the country at present. There is, however, another scheme which would afford all the facilities required by the trade, namely, the cutting of the Murray canal to connect the waters of Lake Ontario with those of the Bay of Quinte. By means of this small and comparatively inexpensive work, river navigation would be extended to the head of the Bay of Quinte, where transhipment of grain could be carried on as readily as at Kingston, thereby affording at least twice the facilities which now exist. Belleville and Trenton would beyond doubt engage largely in this trade, and the necessity for improving the St. Lawrence navigation to as great an extent as the Journal suggests would be obviated for at least a quarter of a century. Besides, a most desirable harbor of refuge would be secured by this means, and return cargoes could be had for many vessels by the shipment of iron ore hence to Buffalo, Ashtabula, and other western ports, and the way would be opened for cheap freight to Charlotte and Sodus, and to our own western ports. The iron ore trade is as yet in its infancy, but is capable of immense development, and with the encouragement of lower rates of freight, caused by the shortening of the distance to western ports by 150 miles, which the construction of the Murray Canal would secure, it would in a short time attain very large proportions. Let the Journal and its constituents, the ship owners of St. Catharines, take our suggestion into their favorable consideration and agitate for the immediate construction of the Murray Canal, and they will be much more likely to secure the object of their desires than by grasping at the moon—in other words, asking for the carrying out of their project for so extensive an improvement to the St. Lawrence navigation as they are at present crying out for.

Melancholy Accident.

The Drowning of Mrs. Sherwood.

The Port Hope Times of the 13th inst. gives the following particulars of this melancholy event, which occurred on the 12th:

As the Norseman was rounding the lighthouse on the pier at Charlotte and entering the harbor, the accident to which we refer occurred. Mrs. Sherwood, the young and charming wife of Capt. Sherwood, commander of the steamer, fell overboard and was drowned. As usual in such cases, there are a hundred different versions of the sad affair, but the following is supplied by an eye-witness on whose observation and strict adherence to fact the public may, with ourselves, fully rely. It appears that Mrs. Sherwood was ascending the ladder, in front of the wheel, on the port side, and had reached the top rung, when letting go the left hand to place her parasol on deck, the boat must suddenly have lurched, causing her to swing round and fall over backward upon the railing and into the water. A friend, Mrs. Barrett, was with her at the time, but no one appeared to be at hand to render the necessary assistance. One of the hands of the steamer gave the alarm to the mate, who was then in charge, and the boat was at once backed up, but by that time Mrs. Sherwood must have been 150 yards astern. Some carpenters who were at work repairing the end of the pier, seeing the accident happen, threw in some pieces of timber and endeavored to effect a rescue, but said to relate, the unfortunate lady sank for the last time, when the foremost of these was within a few feet of her. The body was discovered about an hour afterwards, and taken by the Norseman to Whitby, where the Rev. Mr. Shaw and his son received the remains.

The deceased, Jennie E. Shaw, was the eldest daughter of the Rev. John Shaw, ex-President of the Toronto Methodist Conference, stationed at Whitby. During the three years—from 1876 to 1879—her father held the pastorate of the Methodist church here, she endeared herself to the hearts of all with whom she had intercourse, by her lively, genial, thoroughly excellent disposition, and her readiness to aid in any good work in which she could assist. Gifted with remarkable musical talent, she was a prominent member of the Methodist choir, and for some time its leader. There was nothing sectarian, however, in her spirit; she was always ready to respond to the invitation of the members of any Christian body to their charitable and social gatherings.

On the 18th February of this year, she was united in marriage to Capt. Sherwood, the esteemed commander of the Norseman, who in his sore bereavement has the respectful sympathy of hundreds of friends.

The body arrived at Whitby on Friday morning, and the funeral took place at 2 p.m. to day.

Mrs. Sherwood had a number of acquaintances in this city, who will deeply regret her untimely death. Her last visit to Belleville was during the sitting of the Methodist Conference, when on ordination Sunday she sang in the choir of the Bridge Street Church.

Sporting Notes.

YACHTING.

The Gazette gives an extended account of the regatta recently sailed at Picton, judging from which the sport must be growing in popularity among our neighbors. Picton has a good course for yachting, and if an open regatta were given over it, the sport would beyond doubt become even more popular than it now is.

The famous Scotch steel cutter Vandaura (90 tons) concerning which some interesting particulars appeared in yesterday's issue, took part in the Plymouth regatta on July 30th, and was beaten by the yawl Latona, 132 tons, by 16 seconds. The Vandaura would have won on time allowance but for a shift of wind near the finish, which favored her opponent.

THE TURF.

The Picton Driving Park Association summer meeting will take place on the 31st of August, and 1st of September

THE RIFLE.

The Prince Edward Rifle Association will receive a grant from the Government of $75.

The Picton Gazette says:—"The Prince Edward Rifle Association announce their intention of holding their Grand Rifle Tournament on the 2nd and 3rd September. They offer about $235 in prizes—the 1st, Association Match, will be for 20 prizes, amounting to $80. The 2nd, "Volunteer" Match, 20 prizes, $75. 3rd, "All Comers" Match, $40, in 14 prizes, and a Team Match, $40, in 6 prizes. The Association is open to all, and we may expect some of the best marksmen in this part of the Dominion to take part. These matches occurring between the Ontario matches at Toronto, and the Dominion at Ottawa, will give an excellent opportunity to those from the west to get their hand in, taking in Picton on their way down to Ottawa."

The same paper announces that the return match between the Prince Edward Rifle Association and the 49th Battalion will be shot at Picton on the 18th.

The matches of the Ontario Rifle Association, which are to commence at Toronto on the 27th, promise to be of more than usual interest. The prize list is greatly increased over last year, both in the amount of cash and number of prizes, there being $3,150 offered in cash, and $1,350 in cups, medals, &c., making a total of $4,500. A skirmishing match and a team aggregate match have been added to the usual list, besides a general increase to the others. The target accommodation has been extended, so that twenty targets are now available for use, while the telephones introduced last year will again play a prominent part in carrying ordinary details of the several competitions.

GOLD IN MANITOBA.—Quite a number of experts from California and Nevada have been prospecting in Manitoba, in the interest of American Capitalists, and they report that gold silver and copper, are to be found in paying quantities around High Lake and the Lake of the Woods.

BRIDGE STREET CHURCH.—Work on the contemplated alterations in the basement of the Bridge Street Church will be commenced on Monday. The present partitions will be torn down and the interior will be transformed into an amphitheatre of large dimensions, with recess opening off at various points.

Fall of a Bridge.

Fourteen Cattle Precipitated into the River.

Last night, whilst Mr. Edmund Snell, butcher and cattle dealer, and his son John were driving a drove of twenty-eight cattle towards the city, the central span of the long bridge across the river on the Hunger, ford gravel road, known as O'Brien's bridge gave way, precipitating fourteen of the cattle into the water. The other fourteen had crossed the span which gave way, and Mr. Snell and his son were on the opposite side of the break. The animals which fell into the water struck out for the north or further side of the river, which there runs from eastward to westward, and all were got to shore. Two of them were, however, so badly hurt that they had to be killed, and several of the others were so seriously bruised that their owner will sustain considerable loss. The bridge was one of the largest in the County. It was of the truss style, built of wood, and was erected about eight years ago, partially by a contractor, but was finished by the County officials. Its breakage will not only be a serious loss to the County, but will greatly impede travel, as over it passed the traffic to and from Plainfield, Roslin, Stoco, Tweed, Bridgewater, and adjacent country. The necessary steps to restore it will doubtless be undertaken at once.

The Raid on the Juno.

CORK, Aug. 13.—There were fully one hundred men engaged in the delivery of arms from the Juno yesterday. The crew of the Juno were battened down in the forecastle, and armed sentries were placed over them. The captain and revenue officers were shut up in the cabin. The captain would have fired upon the sentry guarding the cabin door but for the entreaty of his wife, who feared they would be killed. It is supposed that one of the party fell down into the hold, thus putting an end to further operations, marks of blood being traceable. Twenty men kept guard on board to assist in carrying off the spoil. All the raiders appeared to be armed. A pool of blood was found on the deck and in the hold, where some person must have fallen on the iron rails. The captain, mates, and revenue officers were shut up in the cabin an hour and a half. They finally burst the door and saw the marauders departing in boats. Six men who have been arrested evidently formed a party of shore pirates. They were found lurking about the road to Cork.

Desperate Workingmen.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—A special from Rockaway Beach states that trouble is hourly expected from the unpaid workman at the monster hotel. Some are absolutely starving The 420 Canadians are armed with weapon of all descriptions, and only the prompt payment of the men's dues can avert a terrible scene, and perhaps bloodshed. The men are becoming hourly more impatient and dangerous.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK, Aug 14.—The Herald states that a delegation of the Woman Suffragists called on Hancock yesterday. They gathered from Hancock's remarks that he was in sympathy with their cause, and if elected the President he would not veto legislation which would benefit them.

The Tribune's Washington special states that the Secretary of State concluded the examination of the cases of American vessels fired upon and boarded by Spanish cruisers in West Indian waters and addressed a communication to the Spanish Government.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14.—Early this morning a fire broke out in Lapham & Co.'s wooden ware manufactory. The loss will be heavy. The lumber yard adjoining caught.

SPRINGFIELD, Ms., Aug. 14.—Mrs. Laura Miller, aged 92, of West Springfield, died from the consequence of taking fly poison by mistake for medicine.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Isabella Smalley died here yesterday, it is alleged from her husband's cruel treatment. The case will be investigated.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 14.—The fire at Thomas' colliery is increasing. An explosion took place yesterday upsetting the stack and furnaces and doing other damage. It is proposed to extinguish the fire by forcing into the colliery immense quantities of carbonic acid gas.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The Railroad earnings for the first week in August show the following increases: Rock Island, $14,000; Louisville and Nashville, $83,136; Hannibal and St. Jo, $16,199.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The Times publishes a lengthy resume of the celebrated Keene wheat deal, which now has been closed out with a loss to its organizer and participants of several million dollars. This deal originated more than a year ago with Jas. R. Keene and Jesse Hoyt, who associated with them Perry H. Smith, Geo. L. Dunlap, Nathan Car. with, Z. G. Simmons and Judge Howe. The last named five were allowed a quarter interest in the syndicate. Hoyt had a quarter and Keene a half. The New York end assumed the entire direction of the deal. Angus Smith, of Milwaukee, gauged his speculations by theirs, and an agreement was finally arrived at whereby, though he was not to share in the profits of the syndicate, he was to be guided by its directors. At one time the syndicate had bought 16 million bushels of wheat. They proposed to close out the deal last May, but the attempt did not realize expectations and they decided to postpone it until June, and by renewed purchases to force up the prices and then unload. For a time it looked as if this would succeed, but Hazleton, Hoyt's partner, began selling right and left and the market slid away. Now almost all their wheat has either been shipped or sold, and Chicago owners of one quarter interest in the deal find themselves each from $250,000 to $300,000 out. What Keene's loss is cannot be calculated. Smith's loss is estimated at a quarter to half a million.

THE MINISTERS IN ENGLAND.—The Ottawa Citizen says:—"We learn by telegraph that Sir John Macdonald, Sir Charles Tupper and Hon. Mr. Pope have bespoken passages on the outcoming steamship sailing from Liverpool on the 2nd of September. It is probable that several of the negotiating capitalists for the Canada Pacific Railway will take passages for Canada at the same time."

AFGHAN AFFAIRS.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Times has the following, dated Camp Zargunshahr, Aug. 10:—

General Roberts arrived here to-day. This will probably be the last news of him until he arrives at Candahar.

A letter from Khelat-i-Ghilzai of the 8th inst., says:—

We have plenty of food, forage, water and ammunition, and don't fear an attack, of which there are no signs. No news has been received from Candahar since July 25th, except reports from the surrounding country that the garrison there is shut up.

A letter from Khelat-i-Ghilzai dated August 8th, says all are well there.

A despatch from Quetlah says that advices from Candahar on the 9th inst., through native sources report that Yakoob Khan intends to attack Candahar as soon as his preparations are completed. A large number of tribesmen continue to flock to his standard.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.—The managers of St. Thomas' and St. John's churches excursion to the Indian Woods and Mill Point to witness the corner stone celebration, are determined to make the trip as cheap and enjoyable as possible. The tickets have been placed at the low price of 25 cents for the round trip and children half price, and the Oddfellow's Band has been engaged to accompany the boat. As previously announced, the Mary Ellen will leave the wharf between 8 o'clock and 8:30 and start for home at 6 o'clock p. m.

Two new covered and one second hand phaeton, also several carriages and draught horses for sale at the street railway stables 8842t

EXCURSION TO THOUSAND ISLAND PARK on Saturday, Aug. 21st, by steamer Varuna, returning on Monday afternoon, Aug. 23rd.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St., and get your old suits done over to look like new ones. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE.—Two prisoners were immured in the cells last night.

YACHTING NOTE.—The Gracie was at Picton yesterday and will be home to-night, probably.

MILITARY.—As was rumored some two months ago the 15th battalion will go into camp on Thursday next.

STATUTES.—The Dominion Statutes for 1880 form a volume of 140 pages, which has been received from the Queen's Printer at Ottawa.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.—Trenton's civic holiday will probably occur on the 31st, as a petition to that effect is to be presented to the Reeve.

LONGEVITY.—Mrs. Delong, of Ameliasburg, has attained the remarkable age of 104 years, and her eyesight is unimpaired as yet by age.

SPORTING.—The season for duck and snipe shooting will open on Monday, and judging from the preparations made by sportsmen there will be a brisk attack on the waterfowl on Monday.

FOUND.—The watch chain stolen from Mr. W. R. Smith's residence on Monday evening was found on the lawn in front of the house last night. It had doubtless been placed there by the thief.

GOT A BATH.—A boy who went to view the fire at the light house last night, tell from a wharf where the water is deep. He was unable to swim, and would have been drowned, but for the friendly offices of a spectator who rescued him with some difficulty.

HOTEL KEEPERS and other would do well to examine Jas. Hennessy's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offered at 25 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessy.

MAIL CONTRACTS.—The tenders for the mail contracts between Norwood and Peterborough, Marmora and Keene have been awarded. The tenders of Mr. John Vosburg to Peterborough and Marmora routes have been accepted, and that of Mr. Wm. Richardson tor the Keene route.

EXCURSION TO MILL POINT.—It will be seen by business notice that the managers of St. Thomas, and St. John's Churches, have an excursion to Mill Point on the Civic Holiday on the occasion of laying the corner stone of the new Church of England there. Particulars will be found in the notice.

RIFLE MATCH.—The rifle match yesterday afternoon between Major Hambly and Private Tammadge against Lieut. Johnson and Sergt. Cunningham proved to be a most interesting one. Each pair led alternately up to the last shot, which decided the match in favor of Messrs. Hambly and Tammadge by one point. The scores were fair, averaging over 60 points per man. Ranges 200, 500 and 600 yards—seven shots at each.

A GOOD YIELD.—Mr. John Robertson, jr., brought in some mispickle ore a few days ago, from lot 18 in the 9th concession Marmora, and selecting three pounds of what he considered the best, crushed it by hand, and obtained from the three pounds six grains of pure gold. A pretty good yield. The mine is owned by some Belleville parties, and is known as the Pemberton property.

DOMINION ALLIANCE.—Mr. Thomas McMurray one of the agents of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance for the total suppression of the liquor traffic, will deliver a lecture in the Holloway Street Church on Monday evening, the 16th August, 1880, on the probition of the liquor traffic. Chair to be taken at 8 o'clock. A collection will be taken up in aid of the funds of the Alliance. We hope there will be a large attendance.

EXCURSION.—Attention is directed to the advertisement of the excursion per steamer Varuna, under the auspices of the congregation of Christ Church, to Mill Point on Wednesday next, the civic holiday. On that day the corner stone of the new church of England in that village will be laid by the Bishop of Ontario, which ceremony will be a highly interesting one. Tickets can be obtained at Harrison's and Overell's book store, Carmichael's drug store, and Dunnet's dry goods store.

PERSONAL.—The Minister of Customs arrived in town this morning.

THE GOLD FIND.—Further information confirms the report that a rich strike has been made in the deep shaft of the Gatling Gold Mining Company. We will have additional particulars in a day or two.

PERSONAL.—We had a call to-day from Mr. R. S. Rhodes, the inventor of the Audiphone, which is claimed to be a great aid in the education of deaf mutes. It was to be tested this afternoon at the Deaf and Dumb Institute.

ALBERT UNIVERSITY.—The Beaver says: "As was intimated some weeks ago, Rev. A. Campbell has been in this section, soliciting subscriptions towards the endowment fund of Albert University. We are informed that he has succeeded so far in raising $1,420, and the canvas is, as yet, incompleted. It is expected that $2,000 will be raised on the station. A very favorable report."

AUGUST MAGAZINES.—We have received from Messrs. Warwick & Sons, Toronto, the August number of the Boys' Own Paper, the Sunday at Home, the Leisure Hour, and the Girl's Own Paper. These popular serials have a world-wide reputation and we are glad to to learn that the venture of the Canadian publishers is meeting with favorable success. The Boys' Own has a fine collection of stories, with the salient points illustrated in wood engravings, clearly and neatly printed. The Leisure Hour is also replete with matter which, once read, is well worth remembering. We have here too, engravings that are faultless in design and execution, and appropriate to the subjects which they are intended to portray. The Girls' Own Paper is both entertaining and useful. There are in it contained many lessons that might be learned with profit by our young ladies, who throw away so much of their time in reading wretched stuff which neither enlarges the mind nor enlightens the understanding. The illustrations in this, as in the other cases, are very fine; and help to make this magazine bright with pleasant scenes and sunny faces. The Sunday at Home is also finely illustrated, and is replete with the choicest reading from the pens of some of the ablest writers in Great Britain. The magazines may be had of the publishers, Messrs. Warwick & Son, Wellington street, Toronto. The annual subscription to each is $1.50; single copies, 15 cents.

THE LIGHT HOUSE BURNED.—Shortly before 8 o'clock last night, as Mr. Wm. Sidley, the care-taker, was as usual lighting up the lamp in the light house, it exploded, and the burning oil soon set fire to the building. Despite the efforts of Messrs Sidley, Thomas McDonald, John Bonar and others, who tried to extinguish the flames with pails of water, they kept gaining, and they were driven out by the heat and smoke, some of them getting slight burns from the oil and solder from the lamp. In a short time the fire made its way downward nearly to the wharf. The services of No. 1 steamer were procured as speedily as possible, and prevented the spread of the fire to property in the vicinity, which was for a short time threatened, as the wind was strong. The structure which was destroyed, was a square frame tower thirty feet high, and was erected and maintained by the Corporation. It served its intended purpose but poorly, being too low, and its loss is no great calamity. When re-erected it should be built at least ten feet higher; a red light should be shown, instead of a white one, as heretofore; and if its location could be changed to the Grand Junction wharf it would be a decided improvement. It has also been suggested that it be removed to the island, placed on a pier of solid ground there, and a range light fixed to the southward in line with the channel, which would be of much service to vessels coming in at night.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.—At the meeting of the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal on the 12th inst., the Chairman reported that the Harbor Commissioners had inspected the Trent valley route, and are of opinion that the water stretch is admirably adapted for the navigation intended. Seventy locks will be required from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario. By the Welland Canal there are only 27 locks, 45 feet wide, and 14 feet deep, while in the Trent Valley Canal the lockage built is 133 feet long, 23 feet wide and five feet deep. Whether this difference in width and depth does not more than compensate for the longer distance is a question on which the commissioners do not yet feel able to offer an opinion. The value of the canal to the surrounding country and to Montreal, if built, would no doubt be great. An estimate should be prepared of the cost of deepening it to nine feet, so that barges carrying 20,000 bushels might pass through.

THE TWELFTH IN PICTON.—The Gazette says.—"Yesterday being the anniversary of the closing of the Gates of Derry, the day was celebrated by the Orange Young Britons, and representatives from the sister lodge of Kingston and 'Prentice Boys of Belleville. The Armenia arrived from the latter place about 11 o'clock, with 200 members of the order and excursionists, who were accompanied by the excellent band of the 15th Argyle Light Infantry. The Kingston brethren arrived about 8 o'clock, overland, and were accompanied by a fife and drum band. A procession was formed early in the afternoon and marched through the principal streets, and although the number was not so great as could have been desired, the display was very creditable. The 15th A. L. I. Band headed the procession, while the band of the 16th also had a place in the procession, each of which enlivened the tedium of the march at intervals with appropriate music. The members of the Kingston and Belleville bands were entertained by the members of the 16th to a hastily got up lunch in the Town Hall, to which they did ample justice. Refreshments in the shape of temperance drinks and cigars were dispensed liberally, and fully appreciated by the visiting musicians."

WEST TORONTO.—Mr. Bethune has declined the nomination of the Grits for West Toronto, and Ald. Ryan has been selected to oppose Mr. Beaty.

Campbellford Notes

About noon to-day our village was excited by the sound of the fire bell, a messenger had just arrived in the village with news that C. Bonnycastle's house was on fire; the premises are about a mile from Campbellford; your correspondent hurried to the spot and the fire engine soon arrived, but its services were not required, as the fire, which emanated from some brushwood, had been pretty well subdued by the neighbors before its arrival. Had the wind been blowing from the opposite direction there is no doubt but the premises would have been demolished. The brushwood, being very dry, burned furiously for a while, and it was thought at one time the house would be consumed.

St. Lawrence Hall, Campbellford, formerly kept by D. Collins, Esq., has lately been purchased by Messrs. W. & D. Kerr, the present proprietors. The house, which is situated in Front Street, opposite the Standard Bank, commanding a beautiful view of the River Trent, is commodious, has been newly furnished and thoroughly renovated. Their commercial rooms are convenient, airy, and well fitted for the display of samples.

THE PICKED UP YACHT.—The Kingston News says, "The Lowry, in hand on board the schooner Maryland, which arrived from Port Dalhousie this morning, called at the News office this morning and informed us that he recognized the yacht Phœnix as belonging to Rochester. He could not remember the name of the owner, but he knows that several young men used to take a trip down the river every summer in her. His impression was that the yacht had been upset in a squall on Tuesday night last and still on board lost. We understand that when picked up there was a reef in the mainsail, showing that the crew had evidently tried to prepare for the squall. It is hoped that definite information will now be obtained of those who were on board the Phœnix. It left the foot of Barrack Street. A gentleman called to-day to say that he and others saw a yacht answering the description of the one found going out of Charlotte harbor just before the Magnet left on Tuesday evening. There were two ladies and several gentlemen on board.

THE IRON TRADE.—The Madoc Review of the 12th inst. says:—"We are glad to be able to announce this week a decided improvement in the prospects of the iron trade in this section. Messrs. Cox, Mitchell & Co. resumed operations at the hematite mine a few days ago, and, we understand, have contracted to ship 200 tons on trial, with good prospects of continuing the work regularly. Shipments are regularly being made from the Seymour mine, and at the Dominion work has been actively resumed. Mr. Munson has not yet been able to secure satisfactory terms for carrying ore, but we trust this difficulty will be overcome shortly. With the upward tendency of prices in the States, we trust in another week or so to be able to record as great an activity in the Madoc mines, as was experienced a few months ago.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Times says so hurriedly have the shipments been made that there are said to be large quantities of American grain here unsold. The present magnificent weather enhances the value of the home crops and lessens the demand for foreign supplies.

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 14.—President Avellaneda has resigned.

CREEDMOOR, Aug. 14.—The International Rifle match opened this morning, with six riflemen on each side. Weather fine and hot, wind blowing across the range from the left. Shooting very rapid. At 800 yards the score stood: Americans—L. Weber 74, J. Waters 74, R. Rathbone 74, H. S. Jewell 73, Isaac Allen 72, Hepburn 72; total 439. Canadians—Jos. Mason 74, Dr. McLaughlin 74, J. Gibson 73, A. Paine 70, S. Schwarz 69, W. Mitchell 69; total 429.

LONDON, Aug 14.—A race has been arranged between Laycock, an Australian sculler, and Blackman, of London, for £100 a side over the Thames course on the 5th October next.

The following is a verbatim copy of the important despatch received from a correspondent at St. Petersburg last night:—"I have good reason to believe Ayoob Khan has been acting in concert with and been assisted by Abdul Rahaman Khan, and that the worst suspicions are not without some foundation. I could say more but send such disconcerting intelligence except on most serious grounds." The expression "worst suspicions" probably refers to Russian intrigues, possibly to rumors of actual Russian co-operation with Ayoob Khan.

MONTREAL, Aug. 14.—The Sardinian passed Fox River at 11:20 a. m.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Vanity Fair says the marriage of Lady Burdett Coutts and Ashmead Bartlett will take place on Tuesday at Chapel Royal, Savoy.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 14.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, fresh to brisk winds, mostly northwesterly to northeasterly, fair cooler weather.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Indications: lower lakes, partly cloudy, occasional rain, stationary or lower temperature.

Haunted Me.

Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sickly family and large bills for Doctoring, which done no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost.—A Workingman.

A Wonderful Discovery.

For the speedy cure of consumption and all diseases that lead to it, such as stubborn Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Asthma, pain in the side and chest, dry hacking cough, tickling in the throat, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, and all chronic or lingering diseases of the throat and lungs, DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY has no equal and has established for itself a world wide reputation. Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. The formula from which it is prepared is highly recommended by all medical journals. The clergy and the press have complimented it in the most glowing terms. ORANGE CERTIFICATES, handsomely got up, for sale at the INTELLIGENCER office.

Seasonable Topics.

The INTELLIGENCER office has recently been supplied with several fonts of new and beautiful Job Type, which business men are invited to examine. All kinds of plain and fancy work done as neatly and cheaply as any other office in the country.

The next sensation is to be a woman who will hold her tongue for forty days.

It is astonishing how full four women can fill a church pew made to accommodate six, when some woman they don't like comes along the aisle inquiringly looking for a place to sit down.

A good thing to do is to look over your sealskin sacques and see that there are no moths about them. It is stated that this insignificant little insect destroys yearly in the United States $25,000,000 worth of goods.

The market was a busy scene this forenoon. The square was insufficient for the teamsters that the streets had to be utilized. The inside market was uncomfortably crowded.

All kinds of fruit are evidently superabundant judging from the supply on the market to-day. Prices were low.

Wheat pancakes cooked to the color of old gold and covered with young gold butter, are served for breakfast in some country houses.

When you go in bathing put cotton into your ears. You will not hear what the wild waves are saying, but you will not have ear ache.

How singular is it that a man can sit up half the night in a bar-room talking politics and never lose his temper once; but just as soon as he gets home and his wife wants to discuss the equally important question of coming home early, he turns crusty and lovingly suggests that she mind her own business.

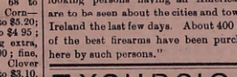

When you meet a young man who is smoking a cigar it is your duty to a top him and say:—Young man, that cigar contains acetic, formoic, cutyric, valeric and proporonic acids, prussic acid, creosote, carbolic acid, ammonia, sulphuretted hydrogen, pyridine, viroline, picolene and rubidene, to say nothing of cabbagine and burdockic acid. He may stick to the cigar, but you have done your duty in the premises.

ANOTHER COTTON FACTORY.—The Mail says "Still another cotton factory to be started; Mr. Whittaker, a large manufacturer of Manchester, England, and who visited Canada in the spring with a view to establishing one of his sons in business here, has written to a friend in Ottawa stating that he has fully made up his mind to start a cotton factory in Canada capable of giving employment to 300 hands. The site will be fixed on when he returns in the spring, and among the places mentioned are Lachute, Port Hope, Valleyfield, and Beauharnois. Does any man of common sense seriously imagine that such a venture would ever have been dreamed of but for the N. P.?"

SUSPICIOUS CHARACTERS IN IRELAND.—A cablegram from Dublin, Aug. 13th; says: "A greater number than usual of sinister-looking persons having an American air are to be seen about the cities and towns of Ireland the last few days. About 400 stand of the best firearms have been purchased here by such persons."

FARMER BEN'S THEORY.

"I tell ye, it's nonsense," said Farmer Ben,
"This farmin' by book and rule,
And sendin' the boys to learn that stuff
At the Agricultural school.
Rotation o' crops analysis!
Talk that to young Isaac soon!
But ye needn't be tellin' yer science to me,
For I believe in the moon.

"If ye plant yer corn on the growin' moon,
And put up the lines for crows,
You'll find it will bear, and yer wheat will too,
If it's decent land where it grows.
But potatoes, now, are a different thing,
They want to grow down, that is plain;
And don't ye see you must plant for that
When the moon is on the wane.

"So in plantin' and hoein' and hayin' time
It is well to have an eye
On the hang of the moon—ye know ye can tell
A wet moon from a dry.
And as to hayin' you wise ones, now,
Are cuttin' yer grass too soon;
If you want it to spond, just wait till it's ripe,
And mow on the full o' the moon.

"And when all the harvest work is done,
And the butcherin' times comes round,
Though yer hogs may be lookin' the very best,
And as fat as hogs are found,
You will find yer pork all shrivelled and shrunk
When it comes to the table at noon—
And fried to rags—if it wasn't killed
At the right time of the moon.

"With the farmer's meetin's and granges new
Folks can talk till all is blue;
But don't ye be swollerin' all ye hear,
For there ain't more'n half can't true.
They are trying to make me change my plan.
But I tell 'em I'm no such coon—
I shall keep right on in the safe old way,
And work my farm by the moon."

"How does painting agree with my daughter?" asked an anxious parent. "It makes her too red in the face," replied the teacher.

"How dare you say damn before me?" severely inquired a clergyman of a street loafer. "Why, sir, did I know you wanted to say 'damn' first?" retorted this bad man.

"Have you seen my pipe love?" "Do you mean your meerschaum, darling? Here it is, inside the fender, and as sure as that horrid tobacco that I washed it for you."—Punch.

Did you ever notice the fact—of course you have—that a tramp who coaims he has a trade, but can get no work at it in the winter is a brickmaker, and in the summer a lumberman or a surveyor?

"Is he mean?" asked one club man of another. "Mean? why when he has spent a quarter, it continues after it has left his hands to turn over and over for several days as a mere matter of habit."

"Do not know commas when you see them said the village school teacher to the bookkeeper of a banking-house, whose education had been neglected. "What are these (,,,,,,) on your grocer's bill?" "Beers" said he.

"Your future husband seems very exacting; he has been stipulating for all sorts of things," said a mother to her daughter, who was on the point of being married. "Never mind, mamma," said the affectionate girl, who was already dressed for the wedding, "these are his last wishes."

"How far is it to Club Creek?" asked a traveller of a Dutch woman. "Only shoost a leetle vays." "Is it four, six, eight, or ten miles?" impatiently asked the stranger. "Yaw. I dink it vas," serenely replied the unmoved gate-keeper.

The editor of a New Haven paper reveals the skeleton of his household as follows: "Women with banged hair are deceitful. They never put their share of intellect, and a man will marry one of them expecting to find a good-natured fool for a wife; but she'll turn out smarter'n chain lightning, and make him dance all the household hornpipes."

While a country grave-digger was engaged removing a quantity of human bones from a vault in a church, the minister in passing by took the opportunity of giving a "word in season" about the solemn occasion when the dead should be raised; to which he replied, "Ay, mister; but after the mixing up I have gi'en them, they'll be a bonny scramble for ane anither's banes!"

At the recent examination for teachers' certificates at the County Court of Placerville, California, one of the exercises was: —"Define hyperbole, and give an example." To which one of the lady applicants responded as follows: "A hyperbole is an exaggeration of truth, used to illustrate wit and humor. Example:—The train running between Shingle Spring and Latrobe goes with such speed that the kiss left on the hand of Mr. Watkins by his Placerville girl was not dry before it was shaken by his girl at Latrobe."

A young lady has a Sunday School class of rather bright boys, averaging between seven and nine years. Recently she requested each pupil to come on the following Sunday with some passage of Scripture bearing upon love. The lads heeded the request, and in turn recited their verses bearing upon that popular topic—such as, "Love your enemies," "Little children, love one another," &c. The teacher said to the boy whose turn came last, "Well, Bobbie, what is your verse?" Rising, he responded, "Song of Solomon, second chapter, fifth verse—"Stay me with flagons, comfort me with with apples, for I am sick of love."

THE GOOSE AND THE QUILLS.—The dramatic editor of a French paper had occasion recently to criticise severely the performance of a somewhat popular actress. Shortly afterward the lover of the young lady met the journalist in the theatre, and presented him with a package of goose-quills. "This sir," said he, "is a present from Miss X." "What!" exclaimed the critic, "did she tear all these out of you herself? How you must have suffered!"

He opened the door cautiously, and poking his head in in a suggestive sort of way, as if there was a chance to follow, enquired "Is this the rinktum?" "The what, my friend?" "Is this the rinktum—sinktum—sanctum, or some such place where the editors live?" "This is the editorial room, yes sir. Come in. No; guess I won't come in. I wanted to see what a rinktum was like, that's all. Looks like our parlor, only wuss. Good day."—New Haven Register.

A clergyman's wife had impressed upon her little boy the necessity of ejecting the skins of grapes, and a few days afterwards she told him the story of Jonah and the whale. "The whale is a very large monster," said the mother, "and he swallowed Jonah." "Did he swallow other men too?" asked the little boy. "Well, I suppose he did," continued the mother, who was somewhat fu doubt; and while she was hesitating about the continuation of the story, the boy interrupted: "And, mamma, did he spit the skins out too?"

St. John Del Rey Mine.

"The fiftieth annual meeting of this company was held in London on June 20th. From a report in the Mining Journal we condense the following information:

The profits this year has been unfavorably affected by a reduced output of 5,273 tons of mineral, caused by want of suitable hauling machinery and scarcity of labor. The yield of the mineral was nearly one-third of an ounce, or 2s 6·1 per ton better than last year, while the cost was only £700 more; had, therefore, the mineral raised been equal to the previous year, the profits would have been quite as large.

Active steps have been taken to have the necessary underground and surface arrangements completed to remedy this defect, and the new hauling machinery is now at the mine. The 11 shaft has been sunk to the requisite depth, and a man-engine has been added to convey the miners to and from their work. Forty eight thousand cubic feet of timber props have been effectively placed in the mines during the year, and the property is reported as being in an especially safe condition.

In the first process, over 70 per cent of the gold is recovered, notwithstanding the small proportion of stamped mineral which is amalgamated (only 9 tons out of every 160 tons, or about 6 per cent).

The second process consists in regrinding a portion of the sand in the Moro Velho arrastras; and the third process in regrinding a further portion of the Pena. In these subsequent processes, last September 11,000 tons was sent little was accomplished. The ore, after stamping, is passed through a sieve with 12,000 holes to the square inch, 90 per cent of the mineral passing through. At the Moro Velho arrastras 160 tons stamped daily, 60 tons are there reground; contents by assay 246 oits; or over 3½ oits per ton; but only 33 oits, or 477 oits per ton (less than 1·7th) are covered. In the third process at the Pena, further 42 tons are reground with a recovery of about ½ oit per ton; but the whole recovery by these two processes is only 92 oitavas, out of a total of 400 oitavas, the assay contents of the sand daily passed through. Seventy per cent of the gold is recovered in the first process, but only about 4 per cent in the two subsequent ones.

In March 628 oitavas were recovered, or say 20, 2 oits per day, from the 40 stamp-heads. In April, the recovery was 1,002 oits, or 33 oits per day, some mineral having been stamped with the sand. A portion of the sand is stored for future treatment. The American pan and setter have been tried, by which the recovery of the gold was satisfactory, but the loss of quicksilver was very great. The Calcining Furnace had not been completed in time for any experiments to be made. Considerable additions to the water power had been made, and future additions were contemplated, which, when completed, would give ample power throughout the dry season.

At the Cuiaba Mina considerable work has been done, and 4 7ths of the outlay—the larger portion of which has been on capital account preparing for extended operations—has been met by gold sold.

The mineral stamped during the year has been a fair average of the quality of the lode passed through, and the yield has been 23 oits per ton, the yield realizing 4d. per ton, or 7s 8d per oit, leav ving more than the gold from Moro Velho; but the appliances being rude, the unrecovered gold has been large. The new machinery, when up, will somewhat remedy this defect, but the want of an effective process for second treatment will, it is feared, be felt at the Cuiaba mine as well as at Moro Velho. The average cost of extracting and treating the mineral during ten months of the year has been 13s 2d, per ton, while at Moro Velho it has been 28s 2d.; so that a recovery of 3 oitavas at Cuiaba is equal to 5 oitavas at Moro Velho, and large profits have been realized at Moro Velho from a yield of considerably under 5 oits per ton.

A deep adit-level has been commenced, to strike the lode at 32 fathoms below present workings, which will unwater the mine to that depth. It will be 300 fathoms long, of which 21 fathoms are already driven. Efficient boring machinery has been sent out under charge of Mr. J. G. Cranston, of Newcastle, the inventor of the machines.

These celebrated old mines have a capital of £253,000 in shares of £100 each, on which a half-yearly dividend of 12½ per cent. was declared, and the stock is quoted at £230.

NOTE.

The above facts demand fullest consideration, showing upon what large capital 12½ per cent. half yearly dividends can be made.

An oitava is worth $1.89.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicans, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to as good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had pooked at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters"—Tne Parents.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a cusom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out;" "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will sumply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

FOR CHOLERA MORBUS, CRAMPS, AND ALL SUMMER OR BOWEL COMPLAINTS

PERRY, DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER

IS UNEQUALED.

IT CURES ALMOST INSTANTLY.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 8 oz. and 4 oz. bottle, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively—large bottles are therefore cheapest.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility, and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1875.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a reliable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practice, when prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in addition to the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.
December 19th, 1878.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent coughing appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I last all hope and gave up to die. My friends Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, spinal trouble all right, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you? I answer SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, and I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago and is improving wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879, Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 21, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

MANHOOD.

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land. Address

Protection in Canada.

(From the New York Indicator.)

"Previous to the coming into force of the National Policy, the Province of British Columbia bought all her furniture from American firms. Now the order of things is reversed. Messrs. Owen, Garvey & Son, the extensive furniture manufacturers of Montreal, have received an immense order from a firm of dealers in British Columbia and the first shipload left Montreal en route to the Pacific coast a few days since. Messrs. Macdonald & Macpherson, of Stratford, have received an order from their agent, Winnipeg for agricultural machinery, to the amount of nearly $7,000. Mr. William Wilkie, of Guelph, has just received several very large orders for a special class of goods that he manufactures. Formerly all these articles were brought from the United States. The Waterous Engine Company, of Brantford, at a meeting of the shareholders, placed a statement on the table showing that in the year just ended a profit of $44,000 had been cleared."

We think that evidence like this must afford satisfaction to the advocates of the "National Policy" in Canada, and convince them that they have at last hit upon the true method of advancing the material interests of their country; and we have not the least doubt that if the present policy of protection is persisted in, that the Canadians in due time will have much to congratulate themselves upon in the increased prosperity of the country. Of course, the free trader will say there is another side to this question. He would probably argue that the people of British Columbia and of Winnipeg have to pay more for their furniture and agricultural implements, and are to that extent taxed for the support of the manufacturers of these articles. Why, he will say, should the bedstead classes be forced at the expense of others, who are thus deprived of the benefits of competition? Of what advantage is it to the consumers of the articles enumerated, or of any other articles so protected, to pay more for them in Montreal than he can purchase them for in Chicago? These are the ad captandum arguments commonly presented by the advocates of free trade, and they obtain their force by being addressed to the cupidity of the individual, but they do not either present the whole case or present it fairly. In the first place, when the farmer has to pay more for his tools with which to work his farm, and more for his furniture—in short, when it costs him more to live, he must charge more for what he has to sell, and the same will be the case with all classes of traders. The price of labor of every description will also rise, and, as a consequence, laborers from elsewhere will gravitate toward the better market for their labor. Thus commences immigration and thus, by degrees, the home market for all productions is developed. This process goes on quickly when once started. Does any one for a moment doubt that if the woollens, say, consumed in Canada were from the time fixed to be manufactured there, that there would be a considerable addition to the consumers of the country by the number of operatives and their families that would be sure to seek a home where there were better wages for them than they were receiving elsewhere? Thus the encouragement of manufacturing enterprises creates a home market for the productions of the farmer, for which he obtains higher prices and a better demand to compensate him for the increased cost of the articles which he consumes himself in his family and on his farm. The most rabid free trader in existence will scarcely contend that the United States would have attained her present stitch of power, wealth, population and general prosperity, were it not for the encouragement and protection afforded manufacturing enterprises of all kinds by the high tariff imposed for revenue to help to meet the expenses of the war. Of course, this cost the people a good deal. They, as the free traders say, were taxed that a comparatively small number of persons might be benefitted. But who will say that the people so taxed are any poorer for the taxation? On the contrary, they are very much richer. But it is mere waste of time to argue the question. The present prosperity of the United States is more due to her high tariff, the result, not of great wisdom or foresight, but of an accidental necessity, than to any other cause. It encouraged manufactures, promoted immigration and created home markets for the produce of the farmer. What is true of the United States will also prove true in the case of Canada. Her tariff will prove of incalculable benefit if wisely constructed and firmly maintained.

The St. Lawrence Route Gaining.

The Montreal Gazette publishes some important figures, from the market report of Messrs. C. A. Stevenson, of Toledo, dated July 31st. In their report of July 17th, this firm had before given the shipments of grain by lake up to that date, with the destination of the shipments, thus:—

To Buffalo and Erie.....446,000 bush.
To Kingston and Montreal.....155,000 bush.

Since the 17th and up to the 31st inclusive, shipments have been as follows:

To Buffalo and Erie.....834,000 bush.
Kingston and Montreal.....1,035,000 bush.

Total for July:

To Buffalo and Erie.....1,280,000 bush.
Kingston and Montreal.....1,190,000 bush.

Concerning these figures the report goes on to remark:

"Our cheapest route to Liverpool, via Montreal, has additional advantages over the extra charges in Buffalo and New York for transfer, and is a great protection to western shippers, and with the enlargement of the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals now being made, must take the western trade."

According to the opposition organs, or some of them, the St. Lawrence route is going to the bad, principally as a consequence of the N. P. Figures of shipment, however, tell a very different tale, the prospect being that the close of the present navigation season will show it as the most prosperous for many years. The task of keeping up false pretences under difficulties is what the organs have before them.—Ottawa Citizen.

Profession and Practice.

The platform of principles recently put forward by the Toronto Globe has been pretty freely discussed in the press. But really, the discussion is useless, as the professions of the Grits when out of office have been proved to be quite unworthy of attention. As a basis of action they are utterly worthless. They are made in a spirit of insincerity, and with an eye single to the loaves and fishes. This was so thoroughly tested and proved during their term of office that the people will be slow to trust in their professions again. No amount of fair promises can possibly wipe out the record of the past. They so deluded the country by false cries, and so miserably went back on all their pressed principles, that upon the very first opportunity they were indignantly spurned and hurled from the places of power which they disgraced. There is no confidence, therefore, to be placed in any "platform" they may put forward. Let us recall some of their professions in opposition and their practices in power.

1. In opposition they laid down the principle that coalitions were corrupt, that scarcely any coalition could be; and they could they be justified:—In power they formed a coalition with Cauchon, whose sins, the Globe said, smelled to heaven, with Cartwright and Scott, both in-bred tories, with Huntington, Lafleamme, Fournier and Jones, the professed opponents of British rule.

2. In opposition a leading plank of their platform was economy and reduction of the public debt. During the five years they were in power their estimates exceeded those of 1873-4 by over six millions of dollars; the expenditure in every part of the public service was increased, and forty-five millions of dollars added to the public debt.

3. In opposition they preached light taxation:—the first year of their administration they increased the taxation by three millions of dollars. They protected "the great body of consumers," as Mackenzie said he would, by placing 5 cents a pound on black tea, 6 cents a pound on green tea, 60 per cent on tobacco, 40 per cent on Porto Rico sugar, 40 per cent on crushed sugar, 50 per cent. on starch, 50 per cent. on rice, 10 per cent. on ship materials, &c.

4. In opposition they never ceased urging purity in elections,—In power the number of Grit members unseated for corrupt practices was about one-fifth of the whole House of Commons, while Senator Brown's "big push" letter, Senator Simpson's "mesmerism," Major Walker, John McIver,—"Come along John, we have lots of money to put down bribery and corruption"—are all fresh in the public mind.

5. In opposition the Grits were great sticklers for the Independence of Parliament;—in power they violated the Independence of Parliament Act in such notable examples as are furnished by the contracts to Mr. Speaker Kirkpatrick, Mr. Bannerne $35,000, Mr. Morris $42,000, Messrs. Vail & Jones $24,000, and others too numerous to mention.

6. In opposition they were great advocates of Parliamentary control of public money;—the first year of Mr. Mackenzie's administration he purchased three million dollars worth of steel rails, mainly through his brother Charles, without consent of Parliament. Other examples of a similar kind might be cited.

7. In opposition they urged neutrality between the Federal and Local Governments;—in power the Federal and local Ministers hunted in couples in election campaigns—Mackenzie and Mowat in Ontario, Cartwright and Joly in Quebec, Huntington and Davies in Prince Edward Island.

8. In opposition they advocated a reduction in the number of Cabinet Ministers;—in power their first act was to increase the number to fourteen.

9. In opposition they strongly insisted that the salaries of Cabinet Ministers should be reduced to an aggregate of $75,000;—in power the Grit Ministers quietly pocketed for salaries a total of $90,000.

10. In opposition they declared in favor of a reduction of pensions and superannuations;—in power they more than doubled the pension list, increasing it from $102,200 in 1873 to $217,300 in 1877.

We might go on at almost any length and show what a very different person is the Grit in power from the Grit in opposition, but let the above suffice for the present. Their past record and their present conduct prove conclusively that whatever principle which they professed when in opposition did they carry out when in power. Hence it is that the Grit party has no principles of principles coming from that quarter is thoroughly worthless and undeserving of a moment's consideration. The people of Canada are perfectly willing that Mr. Blake shall air his theories and Mr. Gordon Brown shall construct his platforms, but it will be a long time before they will have another opportunity of showing to the world how easily Grit Ministers can ignore their professions.—St. Croix Courier.

Business Competition.

There were once two rival storekeepers in Lincolnshire, England, one of whom had the store of the place and whose establishment was of earlier origin than that of his competitor. When the latter arrived on the scene the first man put up a sign announcing his place as the original store Then a brisk competition ensued in the way of signs addressed to passers-by. At length, weary of the constant warfare, which involved time and thought, the more reasonable man of the two retired to his own old ways, and in explation of the cessation of hostilities, inserted in his window a card bearing the Latin words "Mens conscia recti" (a mind conscious of being right). This was too much for his neighbor. He regarded it as another blow of the adversary, but said to himself, "I can beat that," and the next day his window appeared a sign in bolder letters than those used by his competitor, bearing the announcement: "Mens and women's conscia recti for sale." That was the last of the warfare.

The Greatest Remedy Known.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is certainly the greatest remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity. Thousands of once hopeless sufferers now loudly proclaim their praise for this wonderful Discovery, to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request that you call on your druggist, JAMES CLARKE & Co., and get a trial bottle free of charge, which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what as regular one dollar size bottle will do.

Haunted Me.

Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for Doctoring, which done no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost.—A Workingman.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, AUG. 16.

N. P. Notes.

The building for the new cotton mill at Hamilton is nearly completed. The boilers, engine and steam heating apparatus will be in position this week, and the whole of the machinery will be placed ready for work by the 1st of October.

James Linton & Co., and James Pophaun & Co., boot and shoe manufacturers of Montreal, are about erecting in that city the largest boot and shoe manufactory in Canada.

A new establishment for the canning of all kinds of meat, fish and fruit will go into operation at St. John, N. B., on the 18th inst.

The carriage makers of Goderich propose forming a joint stock company to manufacture wheeled vehicles on an extensive scale, the idea being to meet the enormous and growing demand in the Northwest and elsewhere.

The leading manufacturers of Brantford, Ont., such as Harris, Sons & Co., agricultural implements, Waterous Engine Works Company, and Wm. Buck, foundry, are all pressed with work.

The large cotton factory in the course of construction at Brantford, Ont., and to be known as "Craven Mills," is nearing completion rapidly.

Owing to an extension of business, the owners of the St. Catharines axe factory are constructing a large addition to their buildings.

The Hamilton Tool Works are so busy, and orders are arriving in so fast, that they have been compelled to advertise for additional hands so that they can fill orders. McKechnie & Bertram, of Dundas, have a great quantity of work on hand. All the hands in the shop are very busy.

The Guelph Mercury (Grit) testifies thus:—"Business in Hespeler is very brisk just now. Messrs. Schofield & Forbes are turning away orders from their woollen mills every day. Their mill has been running over time, almost without cessation, since spring, and they have every hand employed that can be put on." And yet the Grits are not happy.

The iron works at upper Woodstock, N. B., which were closed under the revenue tariff, have been re-opened and now give employment to 75 men.

To show the vast amount of goods Manitoba is constantly receiving from Ontario manufacturers, a good instance is furnished by the make-up of Patterson's Manitoba freight train from the line of the Great Western last week. In addition to some eight cars of emigrants' effects and stock from different stations on the line, there were one car carriages and carts from John Campbell, London; 1 do. implements from Elliott & Co., London; 1 do. wagons from Vanstaden & Richardson, Strathroy; 1 do. thrashing machines from McPherson & Co., Clinton; 1 do. wagons from Warnock & Co., Galt; 2 do. implements from A. Harris, Son & Co., Brantford; 2 do. threshing machines from D. Maxwell, Paris; 1 do groceries from Toronto for Rapid City. This is a fair average of his train for the last four months. Haggart & Cochrane, of St. Thomas, sold $2,300 worth of implements at Winnipeg in two days. Before the change in the tariff the farmers of Manitoba were chiefly supplied with implements from the United States. Ontario now supplies their wants.

Slaughtering.

The resolute determination of the present Government to prevent the slaughtering in our markets of Yankee goods entered for duty below their value, continues to excite the ire of the Grit press, although they merely enforce the law passed under the auspices of Mr. Mackenzie in 1877. They have, it is true, been somewhat taken aback by the discovery that the law is of Grit and not of Tory origin, but they may perhaps be more surprised to learn that Mr. Burpee, the then Minister of Customs, during the debate on the clause bearing on the subject, which we have previously quoted, declared duty should be charged on goods imported from the United States, that the prices in their own markets should form the valuation for duty, and further that "the Minister was competent to set aside the invoice "price, when this perhaps related to back-"stock, and not to the ordinary cash market "value, and take evidence as to actual "value." These facts ought to silence our opponents, as the discussion of the subject only shows that, whilst professing regard for the interests of the country by passing an enactment so satisfactory, the Mackenzie Government showed their real disregard for the manufacturers of the Dominion and for the law made by themselves, by persistently neglecting to enforce it.

Success.

The Montreal Gazette of Saturday has the following editorial announcement:—"We have great satisfaction in announcing that the mission of the Canadian Ministers to London has proved completely successful, and that arrangements have been made with a powerful syndicate for the construction of the Pacific Railway as a private enterprise, for the consideration of a subsidy in land and money. The news we are sure, will be received with the greatest pleasure by the Canadian people. In spite of the opposition of the Globe and one or two papers in Ontario, even the Opposition newspapers see in this success cause for patriotic congratulation. It is a rather remarkable fact the first announcement of success should have been made in Canada through the Globe's London correspondent. We ventured the statement, in reply to the Globe's pretence that it had information of failure, that if failure had occurred, its correspondent, who has excellent sources of information, would have informed it of the fact. Our confidence is thus vindicated. There is a poetic justice in the fact that the very newspaper which has been pretending to have information of failure, should be the first to announce success."

The Trent Valley Canal and the Grand Junction Railway.

Messrs. Andrew Robertson, Henry Blumer and J. B. Rolland, the gentlemen who formed the deputation of the Montreal Harbor Commissioners to inspect the Trent Valley Canal route, have presented their report to the parent body. They give a number of details and conclude as follows:

"There is no doubt that the canal would be of considerable value to the country which it passed through, and, of course, every new avenue from the West must be of benefit to the trade of the city and harbor of Montreal.

"It would, however, be desirable, before any decision is arrived at as to building the canal, that an estimate should be made of the cost of making it of a depth of nine feet, so as to enable barges to pass through with 20,000 bushels or over.

"Midland City seems to be well adapted for a lake port, and is now connected directly with Lindsay and Port Hope, and when the Grand Junction Railway is completed will have an outlet to Trenton and Belleville. It seems to be well situated to command a share of the grain trade, and if an elevator were established at Midland City and another at Trenton or Belleville, navigation could be conducted by barges now using the St. Lawrence canals, thus saving considerable by this route of continued water and rail, with the largest barge navigation to Montreal."

The Audiphone.

On Saturday afternoon last, a number of ladies and gentlemen, by invitation of Supt. Mathieson, assembled in the beautiful chapel of the Deaf and Dumb Institute of this city to witness an exhibition of the Audiphone by its inventor, Mr. Richard S. Rhodes of Chicago. Among those present were the Hon. M. Bowell, Minister of Customs for the Dominion of Canada, Mr. Coleman of the U. S. Treasury Department, Washington, Mr. Shepard of the INTELLIGENCER, Mr. Ashley of the Ontario Chronicle, Mr. Lewis, of the Free Press, A. L. E. Crouter of the Pennsylvania Institute for Deaf Mutes, Mr. Livingtone, Messrs. Coleman and Watson, and Mrs. Terrill, teachers in the Institution, and others interested in the instruction of the deaf and dumb.

Mr. Rhodes, being introduced by the Superintendent, proceeded to explain the construction of his instrument and the ends to be attained by its use. It is made of vulcanized rubber, is shaped somewhat like a common palm-leaf fan, is very flexible, and supplied with small silken cords, which, passing from the upper portion of the plate, are secured in the handle by means of a small rubber pin; in use it is made to assume a more or less convex shape by shortening the cords to increase the tension of the plate—out of use they are relaxed, and the little instrument made to do duty as a fan. When fully regulated the upper edge of the instrument is placed in contact with the front teeth, particularly the eye teeth, when the vibrations received upon its surface are conveyed by the teeth and bones of the face and head to the Auditory Nerves, which, if in healthy condition, transmit the impressions to the brain, as in the case of a hearing person—the difference being that the instrument, added by the teeth and bones of the face, is expected to perform the function of the ear.

The inventor of this instrument claims that by its use, deaf persons whose nerves of hearing have not been destroyed nor seriously impaired by disease, may be taught to hear and to speak. Mr. Rhodes himself uses the instrument constantly, and though quite hard of hearing (he is not so deaf that he cannot hear without it), is enabled to carry on a conversation with little or no difficulty whatever. Having explained the construction and object of his invention, Mr. Rhodes next proceeded to test its power upon several mutes who were fortunately present, though the school is not now in session. Placing the upper edge of the instrument against their front teeth, he uttered sharply several vowel sounds, laughed, and pronounced a number of short words, which, while not being understood, seemed to make considerable impression, but whether upon their nerves of hearing or feeling, we were unable to decide. It must be borne in mind that deaf-mutes are very sensitive to vibrations,—they will often feel sounds that hearing persons scarcely notice,—especially so when the vibrations reach them through any hard substance. This is why they are usually aware of footsteps upon the floor, the opening or shutting of doors, the ringing of bells, beating of drums, playing on pianos or organs, &c.; with the latter they experience considerable pleasure when allowed to place their hands upon the instruments, not that they hear, but because they feel the vibration. It will thus be seen that in testing the Audiphone, great care must be exercised to determine whether the really deaf hear or feel what is said to them, because the vibrations which reach them are conveyed by a hard, highly vibratory substance, the thin plate of vulcanized rubber in a high state of tension.

Mr. Ashley, who is quite deaf, made repeated efforts to distinguish what was said but failed in every instance, unless he followed very carefully the lips of the speaker; he however stated that the instrument seemed to intensify sound, and that to those suffering from imperfect hearing the invention might prove very beneficial.

Prof. Crouter, of Philadelphia, who was called upon to state what success had attended the introduction of the Audiphone into the institution with which he is connected, said that after what had been considered a fair trial upon every inmate of the school they had been led to regard the invention as one of little or no value in teaching the deaf to hear or to speak, but that persons whose hearing is defective may receive great benefit. He seemed to regard the chasm between total deafness and defective hearing as being too wide to be bridged by the Audiphone or any other instrument thus far devised, and expressed the opinion that while Mr. Rhodes is entitled to great credit for having perfected an instrument which affords so much comfort to those afflicted with defective hearing, still the large and constantly increasing class of deaf mutes have yet to look to the old and long-tried methods for instruction and education.

After some further remarks upon the merits of the instrument (so far as disclosed by the trial) by Prof. Coleman, Mr. Ashley, Mr. Shepard, Supt. Mathieson and the Hon. Mr Bowell, the exhibition was brought to a close.

Mr. Rhodes, we understand, has presented halt a dozen instruments to the Deaf and Dumb Institute, and the teachers expressed their intention to give them a fair and thorough trial during the next session of the Institution.

Mr. Rhodes, accompanied by Supt. Mathie. son, will proceed to Toronto on Wednesday next and hopes there to give fuller and more convincing proofs of the powers of his invention.

SHOT IN MISTAKE.—The Kingston Whig says: "On Thursday night a young man residing near Ompah, a Mr. Albert Arkle, met with a very sad accident. He was paddling down Lower Trout Lake, about nine o'clock at night, to visit some friends, when he was shot by Mr. Fred. Ostler, who mistook him for a deer swimming in the water. The night was very dark, but Mr. Ostler could see a little rippling reflection on the water, and heard a gentle splashing, and so fired at a venture. The ball entered the unfortunate young man's back a little to the right of the spine, and traversed the abdomen. The ball was a conical one, from a Snider rifle, and, as all such bullets do, inflicted a terrible wound; it can not be extracted. The wonder is how at that distance, eighty rods, the ball did not pierce through and through. The wounded man is still alive, but in great agony. Mr. Ostler is in a most pitiable state of mind through distress at his own want of caution, and its lamentable result."

TELEPHONIC EXPERIMENTS BY CABLE.—A Paris correspondent says that the telephonic experiments with the submarine cable from Brest in Finisterre were made yesterday in the presence of the Director of the French cable and others. The new system invented by Dr. Herz was very successful. The Bell and Phelps system governed the experiments. Edison's system failed.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

MADRID, Aug. 16.—The Arch Duchess Isabella of Austria, mother of Queen Christina, has arrived with her suite to be present at her daughter's accouchment. She was received at the steamer by the king and royal family. The first interview between the queen and her mother was very affecting. Apartments in the palace have been prepared for the Arch Duchess close to the magnificent suite of rooms re cently fitted up for the expected heir to the throne. Queen Isabella is expected about the 24th. If the child should be a male he will probably be named Philip or Ferdinand. If a female Isabella. For godfathers Pope Leo and the Emperor of Austria are mentioned. For godmothers Queen Isabella and the Arch Duchess.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The imports at New York last week reached eight million three hundred thousand dollars, or three million less than the imports of the preceding week.

The Tribune says a very large crop of cotton as well as grain is coming into market rapidly, and will seek a foreign market at a lower range of prices than last year.

The demand for good American Railway securities is now decidedly stronger in Europe than here, and large purchases on foreign account have recently been made.

The Turf.

The Rochester Driving Park—Maud S. and St. Julien Beat the Best Time on Record.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 13.—The announcement that St. Julien and Maud S. would each be trotted, the former to beat his own best trotting record of 2:12¾, and the latter to beat this and Sleepy Tom's best pacing record of 2:12¼, was enough to attract a multitude of spectators who went in throngs to the track; and there were fifteen thousand people present to witness the grand events of the day. At five o'clock St. Julien was driven out upon the track and up past the grand stand by Orin Hickok, who is a part owner of the great trotter, and who also handles him when on the turf Prolonged applause and loud cheers rent the air as St. Julien was trotted around to get heated for the greatest effort of his life. He went down past the judges' stand several times before Hickok nodded to the judges to give the word. Then he darted around the track without a running mate or anything else than his driver to urge him, making his first quarter in 33, the half mile in 1:07, the third quarter in 1:41, and the mile in 2:12¾, the fastest trotting ever done upon the Rochester track. The crowd cheered vociferously. Forty minutes later Bair, of Cincinnati, drove out the beautiful six-year-old mare Maud S. Deafening cheers ensued." Bair nodded to the judges, and Maud was given a send-off the first time she came down the stretch. The track, weather, and everything was in her favor, and she sped away magnificently. She completed her first quarter in 32½, her second in 1:05, her third in 1:38½, and the mile in 2:11¾, an entire second lower than the best trotting time on record, and half a second better than the best pacer ever went. The wildest enthusiasm prevailed, and everybody knew that the best time on record had been made before the time-keepers had made their announcement. St. Julien was brought out for his second heat, got away in fine shape, and trotted the first quarter in 34¼, the second in 1:04½, the third in 1:38½, and the mile in 2:11¾, precisely the same time made by Maud in her first heat. The cheers of the crowd this time were strongly mingled with dissatisfaction, for not a single expert timekeeper, other than those in the judges' stand, made St. Julien's time less than 2:12; but the official record had to stand, and each horse won the special purse of $2,000 offered to each. Stone, of Cincinnati, refused to permit the mare to be speeded again, while Hickok took the same position. Maud S. was trotted again, but she only made her second mile in 2:20¾, and was excused from the third heat, while St. Julien's third was trotted in 2:24½. Handsome testimonials were presented to the drivers of both King and Queen of the Turf, and this terminated the greatest trotting event the world has ever known.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.—The managers of St. Thomas' and St. John's churches, excursion to the Indian Woods and Mill Point to witness the corner stone celebration, are determined to make the trip as cheap and enjoyable as possible. The tickets have been placed at the low price of 25 cents for the round trip and children half price, and the Oddfellow's Band has been engaged to accompany the boat. As previously announced, the Mary Ethel will leave the wharf between 8 o'clock and 8 30 and start for home at 6 o'clock p. m

EXCURSION TO THOUSAND ISLAND PARK on Saturday, Aug. 21st, by steamer Varuna, returning on Monday afternoon, Aug. 23rd.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St., and get your old suits done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE.—All has been quiet since Sat. day night. No arrests were made and no tramps sought lodging in the cells.

TO-NIGHT.—Mr. Thomas McMurray, the eloquent advocate of temperance, will deliver an address in the Holloway Street Church to-night.

SPORTING.—The campaign against the ducks and snipe commenced at an early hour this morning, as was indicated by a lively fusilade in the marshes near the city.

COLD.—Last night was almost cold enough for frost, the wind having blown from the northward and the night being "chilly chill," like a late September or early October night.

CRICKET.—Mr. Boanycastle writes from Campbellford that he is unable to pick up a team from the northern district to play here on the civic holiday. He will, however, get up an eleven from the district suggested, to play here later in the season, when a most interesting match may be expected.

A BIG "BEE."—A few days ago thirty-two teams belonging to neighbors of Mr. George Hall, of Thurlow, whose house was struck by lightning on July 12th and burned a few days later, visited a local brick yard and each took a load of brick to Mr. Hall's to assist him in rebuilding, and today thirty more teams came to town on a like errand. Mr. Hall will have a new house built by Messrs. Northcott & Alford.

GRAND JUNCTION BUILDINGS.—On Friday last Messrs. Northcott & Alford, the contractors, commenced work on the new engine shed for the Grand Junction Railway Company. The structure will be of wood, with a stone foundation, and accommodation will be provided for four locomotives. A turn table will also be erected.

TO ROCHESTER.—Father McWilliams' excursion to Rochester will take place tomorrow. The steamer Hastings will leave here at 5 a. m., and will arrive at the port of Rochester in the evening, leaving on the return at 9 p. m. on Wednesday. The fare is only $1 for the round trip, and as special arrangements have been made with the hotels, the trip will be a very cheap as well as a very pleasant one.

GATHERING OF THE CLANS.—There was a large gathering of the clans at Montreal on the 14th inst. on the occasion of the Thistle Benefit and Social Society holding its annual games. A number of athletic games were contested, and among the Judges we notice the name of Mr. McKinnon, Chief of Police. The Witness says: "Chief of Police McKinnon, of Belleville, gave a capital display of athletic feats, throwing the heavy hammer 98 feet 4 inches, and the light hammer with one hand 133 feet 6 inches." It may be mentioned that the person winning the first prize in heavy hammer threw 84 feet 10 inches and in the light hammer 93 feet 6 inches. It is evident therefore that the hand of our Chief is not losing its cunning or its skill.

TORONTO MARKETS.—To-day being the civic holiday in Toronto, there is no market report from that city.

CRICKET.—The Longwoods of Boston beat the Cobourg Club on Saturday by 61 runs. Score: Longwoods 72 and 70; Cobourg 32 and 49.

SPECIAL MEETINGS.—There will be special services conducted by the Rev. H. S. Jenkinson, in the Bleecker Street Church, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Commence at 7.30.

THE "GRACIE."—This yacht arrived on Saturday night from a two weeks' cruise cruise down the St. Lawrence. She left again this morning with a party for Mosquito bay, for the duck and snipe shooting.

CIVIC ELECTION.—The election of an Alderman for Dolman Ward, in place of the late A. E. Proctor, is taking place to-day. The candidates are Messrs. Emanuel Hayne and John G. Froat, and there has been but little excitement. The result will probably be known by about 6 o'clock.

THE RIFLE MATCH.—The team selected to represent the 49th Battalion in the rifle match at Picton on the civic holiday is as follows:—Lt. J. W. Johnson, Col.-Sergt. Cunningham, Col.-Sergt. Haggerman, Corp. Hilton, Priv. W. Acre, Priv. J. Kerr, Priv. T. Tracey, Priv. W. Carruth. It is doubtful about Sergt. Cunningham getting away. In that case Priv. J. Marshall will take his place.

THE GOLD FIND.—With regard to the reported rich strike in the deep shaft of the Gatling Gold Mine, we are informed that the vein has been looking very much better during the last week, gradually widening until it has now reached fully six feet, the ore being thickly studded with free gold, nearly the whole of the "gang" being gold-bearing sulphurites of increased richness.

VENNOR'S PROPHECY FOR AUGUST.—Writing from St. Jerome, Que., Mr. H. G. Vennor says:—"Heat will in all probability extend through the first half of the month of August, and equal, if not exceed, the heated term of July. August will likewise be characterized by severe storms and heavy showers of rain, or in places hail; but on the whole the month will be comparatively a dry and hot one in Canada and bordering United States. A cool to cold term, with frosts, may occur between the 15th and 20th days, after which heat may again be expected up to September 1st. The month will resemble that of the year 1876. I already foresee very early and severe cold, with snowfalls in October, but of this more again."

HOTEL KEEPERS and other would do well to examine Jas. Hennessy's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offered at 25 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessy.

Marine.

The schr. British Queen has arrived from Fair Haven, with coal for Rathbun & Son.

The schr. McClellan arrived yesterday from Dexter, light.

The schr. Ocean Wave has arrived from Prescott, light. She and the Flora have been chartered to take iron ore to Sodus at 40c per ton.

The schr. Flora had a good run from Brockville up. Leaving that place at 10 p. m. on Saturday, she arrived here at 7 o'clock last night.

The schr. Resistance has arrived from Picton, and cleared again for that place with lumber.

The schr. Gazelle has arrived, light.

The tug Wm. Gardner, which arrived here on Saturday with two barges from Ogdensburg, infringed the cessation law by towing barges in Canadian ports, and was seized on Saturday by the Customs officers here. The Minister of Customs being in town, the case was submitted to him, and a fine of $100 was imposed on the captain of the tug, which left yesterday for Clayton to tow off an excursion steamer, which had got aground there.

The Oswego Palladium of Friday says:—"The Caledonia takes coal to Belleville at 30c, and ice from Trenton to Charlotte at $100 free The Sherwood gets 30c on coal to Trenton. The steamer Thomson Kingsford has arrived with lumber from Belleville. On Sunday morning she will leave with an excursion for Stony Island, and Mr. Mattson thinks that he will then take coal to Toledo and bring grain down.

A Fatal Mistake by a Druggist Clerk.

WHITBY, Aug. 15.—The community was shocked this morning by the intelligence that Capt. Sherwood, of the steamer Norseman, was dead. It was but yesterday that his young wife, who was drowned at Charlotte on Thursday, was buried, and it appears that the captain, who was staying at the residence of his father-in-law, the Rev. John Shaw, being much prostrated with grief, his brother-in-law, Dr. Shaw, prescribed quinine for his relief. The prescription was sent to Whitfield's drug store and was there made up. A dose of six grains was administered at eight o'clock, and early this morning alarming symptoms setting in, further medical aid was summoned, but was of no avail. The captain expired at seven o'clock. The remainder of the medicine in the bottle was examined, and an analysis proved it to be morphine instead of quinine. It seems that the druggist's clerk by mistake gave the wrong medicine. A coroner's inquest has been summoned for to-morrow at ten o'clock. The captain's remains are to be taken for burial to Prescott, where his family reside. The distressing event and the sad circumstances surrounding it excite the liveliest feelings of sympathy and regret for the afflicted families.

IRON MINES IN SHOWDON.—The Monetary Times of the 13th inst., says:—"It is always pleasing to hear of successful enterprises in connection with our hidden mineral wealth, and among the latest mining items is the strike made on the Snowdon property of Messrs. A. S. Irving, Ledyard and others. In a high bluff on this lot, alongside the Fusey mine, iron ore has been found in abundant quantity, which yields, according to a twelve ton sample lot sent to the Cleveland, Ohio, Rolling Mills Co., sufficient to make it worth $8.00 per ton. The ore is taken out within 2¼ miles of the rail, and is pronounced remarkably free from impurities and of a kind well adapted for the production of Bessemer steel. It is now proposed to erect a charcoal furnace to reduce the iron ore on the spot. Meantime there are parties in Ohio willing to contract for 25,000 tons a year for the next twenty years."

—The round house of the Ogdensburg and Lake Champlain Railway in Ogdensburg, containing five locomotives, was burned on the 15th inst. The fire is supposed to have caught from the incoming train. Loss $100,000.

—The London Times says:—So hurriedly have shipments been made that there are said to be large quantities of American grain here unsold. The present magnificent weather enhances the value of the home crops and lessens the demand for foreign supplies.

FROM TORONT .

TORONTO, Aug. 16th.—To-day is Toronto's civic holiday. City quiet, with a large outpouring on excursions.

AFGHAN AFFAIRS.

SIMLA, Aug. 15.—A despatch from Candahar, dated August 11th, reports as follows:—All's well. The enemy are throwing up siege works round the city, which, up to the present are insignificant. The enemy has many guns, 5,000 infantry, and 5,000 Ghazis.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The following is a verbatim copy of an important despatch received from a correspondent in St. Petersburgh last night:—

I have grave reason to believe that Ayoob Khan has been acting in concert with and assisted by Abdurraman Khan, and that the worst suspicions are not without some foundation. I would assuredly not send such disconcerting intelligence except on the most serious grounds.

The expression "worst suspicions" probably refers to Russian intrigues, possibly to rumors of actual Russian co-operation with Ayoob Khan.

A St. Petersburg despatch states that the Novoste in a leading article yesterday says:—The real reason why the English have withdrawn from Cabul is because they are too frightened at their recent defeat and the prospect of a general Afghan rising to remain.

The article is written in a caustic and exultant spirit, and clearly indicates the pleasure that a portion of the Russian press takes in the muddle in which England finds herself in the East.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Arrived out, the City of Chester, Alexander De Ruyter and Storm Queen.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—A Berlin despatch says an unwonted sensation was caused here by a telegram from Paris summarizing a letter by Gambetta published in the Verite. The letter is generally discredited, but it produced a painful impression.

PARIS, Aug. 16.—The Republique Francaise says Gambetta's letter published as new in the Verite was written in 1871, when it appeared in all the Paris newspapers and was published in pamphlet form.

CANDAHAR, August 16.—Irregulars occupy the neighboring villages. Ayoob Khan has brought a few guns to bear on Cabul, but they are too far away to do much damage. 8,000 Afghans have been expelled from the city. The garrison is well provisioned, except with fresh meat. Rumors of Roberts' advance have reached Candahar.

GILMANS, Pa., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Theodore King, hitherto considered a very upright woman, has eloped with Delbert Meyers. The woman left her children in a house over a mile from any habitation. The little ones would have starved to death had not Mr. King, who was in the habit of remaining away for weeks, chanced to return home.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The Times says the sudden death of the actress Neilson was hardly expected. She was subject to seizures of heart disease. A fainting fit after a scene calling for more than ordinary emotional strain, has been something not uncommon with Miss Neilson.

Arrived, the Weiser from Bremen, and the Bolivia from Glasgow.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 16.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, fresh to brisk northeasterly, to southeasterly winds, fine to local showers, ulcers, and virulent blood cloudiness and showers, probably rain to-morrow.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Indications: lower lakes, clear or partly cloudy, generally higher temperature. Frosts probable in norteern New York to-night.

Fatal Accident.

A Man Killed by a Runaway Team.

On Saturday morning last a man named Sexsmith, in the employ of Mr. William H. Garrison, 4th con. of Thurlow Township, met with an accident which terminated fatally. While driving a team of horses from the barn, one of the lines got under the waggon pole, and on stepping forward to arrange it the horses started to run. The man's feet, in falling, became entangled and he was dragged about two or three hundred yards before the horses were secured. Death resulted in about an hour.

We are also informed that the same team, whilst conveying the coffin from town yesterday, ran away, smashing the coffin and the wagon as well.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'Oh, papa, papa!' wailed Dora. 'What misery and suffering has your great sin brought upon us all!'

'Yes,' said Charles, a stern shadow coming for a moment upon his face; 'Lord Eagleheart is the author of all the evil, the cruelty, and the wrong. But his fraud is now charging him with it to his face, and with full proof in his hand.'

'And he will visit him with full retribution,' murmured Dora, with a look of dismay: 'I have often noticed there was great enmity between Mr. Ravensworth and papa. Now he will show him no mercy.'

'Yes, he will,' answered Charles gently. 'Till to-day he was implacable in his vindictive intentions, but this morning an influence was brought to bear on him which he could not resist—a gentle, potent, merciful influence, which softened his heart and brought his better nature into ascendancy. He will now treat Lord Eagleheart generously, and all public exposure, will, I think be spared.'

'I know whose influence it was that wrought the change,' said Dora. 'It was that of good, kind, Mrs. Ravensworth.'

'There you are wrong. She had tried her power of love and failed. It was an influence more powerful still—the influence of his daughter.'

'His daughter!' echoed Dora.

'Yes, Dora, they have found their daughter, which as a child, they lost long ago. Providence has been strangely at work here too, bringing about a wonderful and blessed discovery.'

'They have found her!' cried Dora breathlessly. 'How! Where—where!'

'You know her already, Dora. It is Mary Woodford!'

We shall not dwell on the amazement produced in Dora by this second astounding communication. We shall leave brother and sister to continue their absorbing conversation in the summer house, and proceed to the mansion to depict a still more exciting scene which was taking place there between Lord Eagleheart and Philip Ravensworth.

CHAPTER XI.

LORD EAGLEHEART MEETS DISCOVERY AT LAST —A DESPERATE INTENTION FRUSTRATED.

On entering the mansion, Philip Ravensworth went straight to the library, where he had been informed Lord Eagleheart was to be found. The door was covered all over with thick baize, and opened noiselessly, so that the entrance of Ravensworth was neither heard nor perceived by the inmate of the chamber, who sat at a table with an open folio before him, which, however, he was not reading, for his eyes were directed in an abstracted gaze towards a marble bust of Shakspeare, which crowned one of the rows of shelving.

Philip stood near the door for some moments intently regarding him. He could study his lordship's countenance now through a better knowledge of his character—of his action—of his cruel, heartless, and even criminal conduct. His lordship's face was gloomy and troubled. There was noting like repose or contentment in it—it was an anxious, irritable face, very hard and haughty still, but most throughly ill at ease moody, and anxious.

The sight of it would, a day earlier, have called up from the heart of Philip all his fierce bitterness against him—the memory of the former degradation and galling dependency which he had endured at his cousin's hands—and, with yindictive triumph and exultation, he would have used all his power against him, to humiliate, crush and ruin him.

It was otherwise now. A change, a wonderful, but a blessed change had been effected in Ravensworth's mind by Mary's words to him that morning. Through the shining of a better light he saw the unworthiness of his former passionate hatred and desire for vengeance, and a nobler, but at the same time a sadder feeling lay upon his spirit. Nevertheless, he well knew that in the first place, and for the sake of others, he must deal sternly and indignantly with the evil-doer before him.

With folded arms, he advanced slowly over the thick matting which covered the floor, still unseen and unheard, till a board creaked beneath his feet, and caused Lord Eagleheart to turn his head.

He started to his feet and gazed like one appalled. Then, angry at betraying himself by such evident perturbation, he furiously exclaimed—

'What means this intrusion? How dare you steal upon my privacy in this fashion?'

'My lord, why should you feel so annoyed and nonplussed at seeing me?' said Philip, in a quiet tone, yet eyeing the other very steadily. 'Are we not cousins?'

'Why do you come upon me by stealth?'

From the Hub

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover from.—Boston Globe.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which are as real, and more useful than such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of AUGUST FLOWER will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of of several of the best [and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

Somebody's Child

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flush of hope on his young face and an indescribable yearning to live and take an honored place in the world beside the companions of his youth. And somebody's mother is thinking of the time when that dear face will be hidden, where no ray of hope can brighten it, when her heart and her home will be left desolate—because there was no cure for consumption. Reader, if the child be your neighbor's take this comforting word to the mother's heart before it is too late. Tell her that consumption is curable, that men are living to-day, aged, robust men, whom the physicians pronounced incurable at the age of twenty-five because one lung had been almost destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most efficient alterative for separating the scrofulous matter from the blood and lungs, and imparting strength to the system. It has cured hundreds of consumptives.

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent thing which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 113 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878,

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.

THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, Co.

GENTS.—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague, Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but long difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu tion for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

The License Case.

The Police Magistrate's Judgment

Below we give the full text of the Police Magistrate's judgment in the case tried before him on the information of William Sarsfield, charging Wm. D. Fuller and Samuel D. Farley, License Commissioners, and Michael J. Grainger, License Inspector for West Hastings, with having knowingly issued a greater number of tavern licenses for the City of Belleville than the law allows. The judgment, which was a written one, is as follows:

IN RE LICENSE COMMISSIONERS.

The information against the defendants Fuller and Farley, as amended at the trial, charges that they, being members of the Board of License Commissioners for the West Riding of Hastings, did on the third day of July, A.D., 1880, knowingly cause to be issued to one Edwards a tavern license for certain premises in Belleville, contrary to the provisions of the "Liquor License Act." The said license being in excess of the limit allowed by the provisions of said Act, and the defendant Grainger is charged with having knowingly issued the said license contrary to the provisions of the said Act.

It was agreed by the Counsel for all parties that the evidence taken should be read in each case, saving just exceptions.

It is not necessary to notice at length the various points urged by the respective Counsel in their able arguments addressed to me at the close of the evidence, and which have had my most careful consideration. I have reduced my opinion to writing, as it may be more satisfactory, under all the circumstances, that I should do so.

These prosecutions are under section 48 of the "Liquor License Act" of Ontario, which enacts that "Any member of any Board of License Commissioners, or any Inspector, officer or other person who contrary to the provisions of this Act knowingly issues or causes or procures to be issued a tavern or shop license or certificate therefor, shall upon conviction thereof for each offence pay a fine of not less than $40 nor more than $100, &c."

I think the evidence establishes that the defendants Fuller and Farley are, and were on the third day of July, 1880, members of the Board of License Commissioners for the West Riding of Hastings, within which district the City of Belleville is situate, and that the defendant Grainger is and was License Inspector for the same district.

That the defendants Fuller and Farley, together with one Vandewaters, the third Commissioner, had prior to the 3rd July issued or caused to be issued twenty-four tavern licenses for Belleville for the year commencing 1st May, 1880, and ending 30th April, 1881.

That after the issue of these twenty-four licenses and while they were in force, the defendents Fuller and Farley caused the twenty-fifth license to be issued, and the defendent Grainger, as Inspector, issued it to Edwards.

It is also established by the evidence and the admissions at the trial, that the population of Belleville by the last Dominion census was 7,305; that under the authority of the Municipal Council a census was taken in December 1876, by which the population of Belleville was shown to be 11,120.

Either one or other of these populations must be taken in determining the proper number of Tavern Licenses to be granted for Belleville, in so far as that number is determined by population. The Commissioners passed no resolution before the first of May, 1880, limiting the number of Tavern Licenses to be issued within the year from the 1st May, 1880, till the 30th April, 1881—sec. 4, sub-sec. 2. Neither is there any evidence of any By-law of the Belleville Municipal Council limiting the number, under sec. 17. The two important questions to be determined are—

1 Was the tavern license issued to Edwards caused to be issued by these Commissioners and issued by the Inspector, contrary to the provisions of the License Act or in other words was it contrary to the provisions of said Act within meaning of sec. 48 to issue a twenty-fifth tavern license for Belleville, there having been issued twenty-four which were then in force.

2. Assuming the correct answer to be in the affirmative, then did the defts. Fuller and Farley cause this license to be issued and did the defendant Grainger issue it contrary to the provisions of the Act "knowingly" in such a way as renders them liable to the penalties imposed by sec. 48, quoted above.

To determine the maximum limit for the number of tavern licenses allowable in cities reference must be had either to the last preceding Dominion Census, or

2. To a "New Census" taken under the conditions specified in sec. 16, or

3. To a census taken under the authority of the Council since the Dominion census, but not under the conditions prescribed by sec. 16. See sub-sec. 3 of sec. 16.

Considerable stress was laid by the defts. on sub-sec. 2 of sec. 16, which says:

"In case of the alteration or formation of any municipality subsequent to such census of the Dominion of Canada the population of such municipality for the purpose of this Act may be ascertained by the said Commissioners by reference to the enumeration on which such census took place, or by a new census taken under the provision of this section."

Prior to the words "or by a new census," no other census is referred to in this sub-section 2, than the Dominion census, and if a new census under the provision of this section 16 is not taken, then the population is to be ascertained by reference to the enumeration on which, not the alteration or formation of the municipality took place, but on which "such Census," that is, "such census of the Dominion of Canada," took place.

An argument favorable to the defendants was founded upon the use of the word "may" in sub. sec. 3. The reason of its use, I think is, that by sec. 16 upon a new census being taken as therein authorized, the use of such new census is imperative, but the use of the municipal census mentioned in sub.-sec 3 is not imperative. It is permissive, but if it is used in determining the limit, that limit in my judgment, must be as fixed by sec. 16. I do not think there is any authority in these sections under any circumstances to apply the limit prescribed by sec. 15 to any other than a Dominion census population, and if either a new census under sec. 16, or a Municipal census taken since the Dominion census is taken as the basis, the limit prescribed by sec. 16 must be used.

In this case the population of 11,120, ascertained by the Municipal census, was used by the defendants in fixing the limit of number of tavern licenses for the present year. The maximum limit of number allowed by the statute if that population is used. I find to be twenty-four. The limit must be either twenty-four or twenty-nine. It can only reach twenty-nine by giving one tavern license for each four hundred of population over the first thousand, but that is only permitted when the Dominion census is used. The directions of the Act, that the maximum limit of number shall not in any case be exceeded, are of the most positive and imperative character. I have not overlooked the provisions contained in sec. 18, giving in certain cases a discretion to grant further licenses, but "within the number of such licenses granted for the year ending 30th day of April 1877." Independently of the fact that the records of the Commissioners show only twenty-four tavern licenses granted for the year, it is not pretended that the defendants in issuing this license to Edwards were exercising the discretion there under certain specified conditions allowed them.

I have, then, no doubt that the defendants Farley and Fuller caused this License to be issued, and the defendant Grainger issued it, contrary to those provisions of the Act which fix the limit of number of Tavern Licenses to be issued, and which limit the Act repeatedly and distinctly declares shall not be exceeded.

The further question remains did the defendants do so "knowingly" so as to render themselves liable to the penalties of sec. 48.

The counsel for defts contend that the existence of some improper motive or some evil or fraudulent intent must be shown in connection with the act complained of, and that if it is shown, as they contend it is shown in this case, that the defendants acted in good faith and in a bona fide belief that the law permitted the issue of this license, no matter how mistaken their belief, the term "knowingly" as here employed does not apply to their Act. A good deal of the evidence was directed to this point.

Farley, it appears, held the same office in 1879, but the deft Fuller, the witness Vanderwaters, and the defendant Grainger were first appointed in 1880. When Fuller and Grainger commenced their duties they find that twenty six tavern licenses had been issued for the year 1879 under the same Act, and there is no evidence affecting them with knowledge of any prior dispute or decision as to 24 being the limit. Farley, however, was well acquainted with the dispute, and the conclusion arrived at by two of the Commissioners, as appears by the minute of September, 1879.

But the question as to the number of tavern licenses allowed by the law for Belleville was frequently discussed by the Board, when all members and the Inspector were present. It engaged their attention from the first, and the evidence is not altogether consistent as to the views the different members from time to time held as to the lawful limit, supposing their views or opinion on such a point to be material.

It appears there were 28 or 29 applicants, who all obtained favorable reports from the Inspector. The Board decided without any formal resolution to grant 24 tavern licenses, but there is no direct evidence as to the reason they had for stopping at that number. These twenty-four licenses were granted before the first of May, 1880, the statutory time.

Amongst the applicants refused a license was one Gibson, and amongst those accepted was one McCammon. There is no direct evidence that Gibson was rejected because in the opinion of the Commissioners, a limit had been already reached beyond which they could not lawfully go, but we find very shortly after the lapse of McCammon's license that a license is granted to Gibson. It must be assumed, I think, that in the first instance there was no objection to Gibson or his premises, apart from this question as to number. As soon as the number is reduced from 24 to 23, he obtains his license, making the number again 24.

The application of Edwards for a license was not made until the 19th of June, and before that date this question of lawful number engaged the earnest attention of the Board.

Grainger says that the defendants Fuller and Farley were under the impression from the start that 29 licenses could be issued lawfully. He says he himself so advised the Board at the outset. Mr. Vandewaters, on the other hand, says that Fuller told him before McCammon's license lapsed that in his, Fuller's, opinion 24 was the limit, but he says Fuller afterwards apparently changed his mind. Sarsfield says that Fuller, before Gibson obtained his license, told him the number was filled. Vandewaters from the first contended, and expressed his view to the Board, that 24 was the limit and refused his consent to any more. He explains why the letter hereafter referred to was obtained. He says: "The question of number was discussed on more than one occasion. It was spoken of that the opinion of the Provincial Secretary should be obtained as to the number. This was with view of setting at rest the difficulty about the question."

The opinion obtained with this view was as follows:

PROVINCIAL SECRETARY'S OFFICE, License Branch, Toronto, May 31st, 1880.

SIR,—In answer to your favor of the 27th inst. having reference to the population of the City of Belleville, I am directed by the Hon. the Provincial Secretary to say that the License Act provides that the number of licenses to be issued shall be in accordance with the population, taken under the authority of the Dominion of Canada, subject to certain exceptions, one of which is, in case of the alteration or formation of any municipality subsequent to such census, the population may be ascertained by reference to the enumeration then taken, and the limitation shall then be, one for each full two hundred and fifty, under one thousand and one for each five hundred over one thousand of this population. The Board would be confined to the census taken on the alteration of the municipality from a town to a city. If you have correctly stated the population at 11,120 the number to be issued would be as follows:

	24

If you have not correctly stated the figures you can make the calculation for yourself upon this basis.

Your obediant servant

HENRY TOTTEN, for the Secretary.

S. D. FARLEY, Commissioner, Belleville.

This letter was written and received several days before Edwards applied for his license. There is a difference of opinion as to whether this letter was formally placed before the Board, but each member and the Inspector well knew its contents, which were, it is quite clear, discussed at the Board, whether the letter itself was present or not.

This letter of course is not binding on any person in one sense. It's only importance is, that it is a plain direction from the Department under which these defendants were acting—given at their solicitation—that the number of Licenses to be issued should not not exceed twenty-four.

Then what use is made of the letter?

Sarsfield says, "Mr. S. D. Farley, the defendant, shewed me the letter. Mr. Farley told me there could not be more than twenty-four licenses issued." To Mr. Farley's counsel on cross-examination the same witness says: "He (Farley) stated that Vanderwaters and Fuller thought twenty-four was the limit. The letter (Farley's letter of 27th May,) was written with the view of producing a change in them. This letter was shown to me before Edwards' license was granted."

As opposed to this letter, a letter from the department of the Attorney General dated 12th Aug. 1879, was proven to have been before the Board, and it is put in and relied upon as justifying the defendants in the view that more than 24 licenses might lawfully issue. After a careful reading of this letter I fail to find in it authority for the contention of the defendants.

I find no evidence of any corrupt or dishonest purpose whatever on the part of these defendants in the issuing of this license to Edwards, and would willingly on that ground dismiss these complaints, were it not for the opinion I hold that the prosecutor is not obliged to give such evidence to sustain his complaint.

The defendants were bound to know the law which they were appointed to administer. As I interpret it they were bound to know that twenty-four was the limit of that twenty-four licenses. Besides, there is evidence admissible against the defendants of declarations on their part to the effect that twenty-four was the limit, and the opinion obtained to set at rest the question informed them to the same effect. They knew when they issued the license to Edwards that there were then in force twenty-four licenses, which they themselves had issued.

In addition to the references given by the defendants' counsel, I may refer to the case of Twy Cross ex. Grant, E. L. R. 2 C. P. Div. of Twy Cross ex. Grant, E. L. R. 2 C. P. Div. 469. It was an action founded upon sec. 38 of the Companies Act, 1867, which enacts that "every prospectus of a company shall specify the dates and the names of the parties to any contract entered into by the Company, or the promoters, directors, or trustees thereof, before the issue of such prospectus; and any prospectus or notice not specifying the same shall be deemed fraudulent on the part of the promoters, directors, and officers of the Company knowingly issuing the same as regards any person taking shares in the Company on the faith of such prospectus, unless he shall have had notice of such contract."

A prospectus was issued by defendants, omitting therefrom two contracts. One of the questions submitted to the jury at the trial was:—

"Were the statements of the contract withheld under a bona fide belief that by law those contracts need not have been set forth? The jury answered "Yes," and that this bona fide belief had some basis is proven the fact, that two eminent judges held that the two omitted contracts were not of that character, which brought them within the section. A verdict was rendered for the plaintiff. Lord Coleridge in giving judgment on the defendants application for a new trial, says: (page 488) "But then it is urged that this action will not lie against the defendant Grant, as he bona fide believed that the contracts in question need not by law have been set forth. This bona fide belief, however, is perfectly consistent with a full knowledge of all the facts and erroneous opinion respecting the law applicable to them. As he knew of the prospectus and of the contracts; and as he issued the prospectus knowing that it did not allude to those contracts, the statute applies to him, whether he did or did not take a correct view of the laws.

Subsequently in the Court of Appeal, Brainwell L. J. says (page 503): "Further knowingly does not mean fraudulently." Chief Justice Cockburn in his judgment says, page 541: "Next, was the prospectus issued by the defendant 'knowingly' within the meaning of the section. It was contended that the term 'knowingly' must be taken to mean with a knowledge that the contracts were such as the Statute required to be referred to; consequently that the jury having found that the mention of the contracts was omitted from the prospectus with a bona fide belief that such mention was unnecessary, the contracts had not been "knowingly" omitted. But that is to misconceive the meaning of the term. "Knowingly issuing" means neither more nor less than issuing with a knowledge of the existence of contracts within the section and the intentional omission of them from the prospectus. Ignorance or mistake of the law cannot be admitted as an excuse for disobeying an Act of Parliament."

Without stopping to give examples (which might be easily done) showing how the Commissioners might issue a tavern license in ignorance or mistake as to some question of fact, and in which case their act would not be a violation of the act committed knowingly; the conclusion at which I have arrived is that the defendants Fuller and Farley within the meaning of sec. 48 as I interpret it "knowingly" caused this license to be issued contrary to the provisions of the Act already referred to.

As to the defendant Grainger, after further careful consideration I do not see how his case differs from the others. It is true he in one way acted under their direction, but he also at the outset undertook to advise what the limit should be. I was inclined at the trial to think his acting under the Commissioners altered his position, but I do not think it does, provided he knew when he issued the license to Edwards, that the limit had already been reached.

Sarsfield says Grainger told him, before Edward's license was issued that "the Commissioners were not going to grant any more licenses, they had already granted all the law allowed."

Heas well as the other defendants was bound to know the law, and if there had been a doubt; the opinion obtained to set the doubt at rest from the Department, and under which he acted, plainly told him as it told the others, that twenty-four was the limit. He, as well as the others, knew that that limit had already been filled.

The conclusion at which I have arrived is one I would gladly have avoided, but with every desire to relieve these defendants, if it can lawfully be done—having arrived at that conclusion it is my plain and simple duty to give it effect by imposing on each of the defendants the penalties to which they have in my judgment rendered themselves liable.

A LOVER'S TRAGEDY.—On the 14th inst, at Bath, N. Y., K. E. Parkhurst, a young lawyer, shot and killed Fannie Howell, the daughter of a prominent merchant, and then blew his own brains out. Some years ago they were married at a pic-nic, but the parents interfered, and the courts declared the marriage null and void. Since arriving at age they attempted to live together, but the girl's parents objected, and ill-feeling was created. On the 14th inst Parkhurst again tried to persuade the girl to live with him, and, upon her refusal, perpetrated the shooting. It is thought he was under the influence of liquor. Parkhurst's age is 24, and Miss Howell's 22.

THE NORTH-WEST INDIANS.—Gov. Laird who is in Ottawa, says that the reports regarding the depredations committed by Indians at Duck Lake were exaggerated. Three oxen were taken by the Indians, but it was only in advance of treaty payment, as they would have got them two or three weeks later. Three arrests were made for this offence. He discredits the report about the plundering of the store. He says that the condition of the Indians who have settled in reserves is improved, but the buffalo hunting Indians are in a bad state, and there are few buffaloes now in Canadian territory. These Indians have returned from the South, whither they went in search of the buffalo, and are now receiving their treaty payments. It was found necessary in many instances to send provisions out to them in order to prevent them from starving before reaching their destinations. Those of the Indians who have horses will probably return south in search of game.

MR. HICKSON.—A recent number of the New York Graphic contains an excellent portrait of the General Manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, Mr. Joseph Hickson, and a sketch of his connection with this railway enterprise in Canada. The Grand Trunk, under the management of Mr. Hickson, is rapidly becoming one of the leading trunk lines of the continent, and this fact is recognized by our New York contemporary when it gives its readers a portrait of the gentleman who has done so much to place it in the prosperous condition in which it now is.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, AUG. 17.

The License Commissioners.

In other columns will be found the judgment of the Police Magistrate in the case of the charge brought by Mr. Sarsfield against two of the License Commissioners and the License Inspector for West Hastings, of having issued a greater number of tavern licenses for the City of Belleville than is allowed by the statute. That the decision has been in favor of the plaintiff will surprise no one who has given attention to the matter, as the law is clear on the subject, the clause which bears on the point being as follows:—

"The number of the population which is to determine the number of licenses at any time under this Act shall be according to the last preceding census taken under the authority of the Dominion of Canada, except when the License Commissioners are at any time of opinion that, owing to a large increase of population since such census, an increased number of licensed taverns is needed for the convenience and accommodation of travellers; and in that case, if the License Commissioners so certify, and the Council of the Municipality memorialize the Lieutenant Governor for an increase of the number of licensed taverns, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may authorize a new census to be taken under a by-law of the Municipality; and at the expense of the Municipality, and the limit for the number of licenses shall, thereafter upon each such new census, be one for each full two hundred and fifty of the population under one thousand, and one for each five hundred over one thousand of the population."

It is needless to comment on this portion of the case, as Mr. Holden's judgment deals with it fully, ably and conclusively, as well as the motive which the law appears to, but does not really, require, and we trust that the case in question will prove a warning to not only our local Commissioners, but to all who are inclined to put such interpretations on the law as suits themselves.

The evidence taken at the trial shows beyond question that the Commissioners were animated by political motives in granting licenses. When Mr. Sarsfield—a Conservative—asked why he had been passed over, the reply was that the limit had been reached—no more licenses could be issued; but when applications from sources less objectionable politically were made, they were favorably considered. The Commissioners sought to justify themselves by alleging that a letter from the Attorney General induced them to believe that they could legally issue 29 licenses, but the Police Magistrate finds nothing in the letter in question—which was written last year—to justify any such assumption. It is, in fact, shilly-shallying and non-committal, and is quite in keeping with Mr. Mowat's character. Opposed to this they had the letter from the Provincial Secretary's office, pointing out clearly that they could but issue 24 licenses. This letter was of recent date, and ought to have guided them, but as they have allowed their political zeal to outrun their discretion, there are few right thinking people who will have any sympathy to waste upon them.

That a change in the mode of granting licenses is a necessity is made clear by this case, and were the matter taken out of the hands of partizan Commissioners and Inspectors, and placed in those of the Inland Revenue officers, or relegated to the Municipal Councils, as of yore, the effect would be beneficial.

Political Notes.

WEST TORONTO.

The Globe professes to see, in the nomination of Mr. A. W. Wright for the Commons in West Toronto by some fellow-enthusiasts termed "Beaver-backers," a Tory trick to weaken the Reform nominee by drawing from him the support of the workingmen in the constituency. This is rather too attenuated to pass muster. That Mr. Wright is a Conservative and a Protectionist as well as a Beaver-backer, is well known, therefore his candidature will be damaging to the regular nominee of the Conservative party and correspondingly helpful to the Opposition standard-bearer. To talk of depriving a candidate of the starvation party of the support of mechanics is the greatest nonsense, as no workingman in his right senses would vote for a party who would, if they could, close up every factory in the country and import the manufactured articles our people require from the United States. The Ottawa Free Press is, however, more honest than its big brother of Toronto, as it tells the truth, probably inadvertently, when it says of Mr. Wright's appearance in the field:—"One good thing is to be said of his candidature—it will not injuriously affect the nominee of the Liberal party."

SOFTENING THE ASPERITIES.

This is the way in which the new management of the Globe is softening the asperities of political discussion, as promised after the death of the Hon. George Brown. The extract is taken from an article on the Pacific Railway Commission:—"The eagerness of Judge Clark to make a case against Mr. Mackenzie will entirely defeat the design of the Government. The animus of the Judge is too evident. He pursues each line of inquiry in a way to make it seem that the late Premier did something wrong, and as soon as it becomes clear that a satisfactory explanation is about to be given he drops the matter. Such conduct on the part of any commissioner would be scandalous; when indulged in by a judge who has descended from the bench to assume the work of a very mean partisan it is simply infamous. The contracts already dealt with were long ago made the subject of a Parliamentary inquiry, which showed that Mr. Mackenzie had done what was wise and honest in each case. It will be impossible for Judge Clark to falsify the record, and his attempt to do so will disgrace him and his employees." This is almost equal to the Globe's infamous attack made on Judge Wilson anent his judgment on the "Big Push" letter. Such scurrility and malignity will but defeat their object and eventually cover their authors with shame.

—Among the passengers by the steamer "Hibernian," from Liverpool, G. B., this afternoon, were the Rev. Mr. Armstrong and wife, who have been laboring in India of late years as missionaries.

—The Kingston News says the prop. Dominion sank yesterday opposite Morrisburg. Captain Donnely went down yesterday with wrecking apparatus to her rescue. We have not heard the cause of her sinking.

—A young lady, aged 21, named Ada Hunter, strayed from her parents' home, near Buttonville, last Friday night, being a little unsound in her mind. She was traced to near Toronto, where she was found.

—H. R. H. the Duke of Edinburgh, as admiral in command of the coast guard, has determined to send over to the Irish coast some four or five extra men-of-war, belonging to his squadron, to be ready for any emergency.

RAPE CASE.—The Kingston News of the 16th says: "A very bad case of rape is reported as having been committed at the village of Portsmouth on board the schooner Jessie McDonald, early on Sunday morning. From information given to the police we learn that two men, whose names are known, but at present are withheld in the interests of justice, went on board the schooner and broke open the cabin. They entered the room, and broke open the door of the cook's room, and while one of them held her, the other outraged her in a most shameful manner. It is said that two other men, whose names are at present unknown, held the door of the mate's bunk, so that he could not get out to the cook's assistance, and the men cleared after effecting their fiendish purpose. Constable Floody was notified of the affair as soon as possible, and in company with Miss Gordon, the cook, made a search through the village. She identified two men, but unfortunately there being no warrants, an arrest could not be made. It is supposed that their friends, have given them the hint, as up to the present writing no capture has been made. Miss Gordon, who is about 21 years of age, is a very respectable girl belonging to near Bath. She is very badly abused, her limbs being cut and her night dress torn. A trace of where the scoundrels who outraged her have gone has been found, and it is hoped they will be caught. At least one of them is well known to the police as a bad character, who has brought a respectable family to grief."

Marmora Correspondence

Farmers are now well advanced with their harvest work, bring a large portion of their grain undercover and in good condition.

Already we have remonitions of the approach so soon again of grim winter or frost at least, as the leaves of the maple begin to show their sautiful variegated autumn color, and the northern heaven are at times aglow wit the brilliant flashes of the Aurora Boreal.

Mr. R. Campion has been round endeavoring to buy up a number of hogs, as these unclean animals are now somewhat in demand.

Typhus fever still continues its work of death at Blairton, as to more victims, Mrs. McCarter and her son William whowere the sole inmates of one hose, as it is now vacant. A number of others are also low with the same fell destroyer, which is supposed to be caused by the miasma from the lake.

Rural schools will open after the present vacation on the 19th, and teachers will doubtless be able after their long and pleasant furlough to renew their arduous labors with vigor and enthusiasm.

The festival of the Methodist church will be held (D. V.) on the 15th of September. A number of speakers are expected to hold forth eloquently, as numerous celebrated amateurs in vocal and instrumental music to cheer the audience with sublime and appropriate melodies.

There is some prospect of a rise in the market of cheese, and a larger amount of milk than usual in consequence is now being sent to the factories, and vast quantities of cheese boxes are being forwarded to their different destinations.

The stores of Messrs. G. W. Bleecker and J. W. Pearce now are rapidly approaching completion, and with the house of the latter present fine appearance.

Bridgwater.

From our own Correspondent.

BRIDGWATER, 16 Aug. 1880.

We had a heavy rat last night, which has done considerable damage to corn, buckwheat, pumpkin, cucumbers and in some instances to potatoes. Some parts of the township were so affected at all, while in others some of the crops appear to have been killed.

Mining is steadily progressing; some are sanguine that they have found good shews of gold and other minerals.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

TUCSON, Arizona, Aug. 17.—Latest advices from Sonora say that Bigidis Reis, after taking Magdalena, attempted to force a loan, which was resisted by several leading citizens. In the course of controversies had, a gentleman named Rivera, probably the Judge, and a merchant named Calleio were shot, also another merchant, name not ascertained. Many people are leaving Sonora.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—The Northwestern Timber Association met yesterday, and generally expressed the belief that the lumbering interest was in a flourishing condition and the demand for lumber this year would be greater than ever before.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 17.—W. Billmire, sexton of Mt. Vernon Methodist Church, who disappeared last October with several thousand dollars of the church funds, returned yesterday, with a strange story declaring that he had been kidnapped and set adrift at sea in open boat.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 17.—At the inquest concerning the May's Landing disaster yesterday, engineer Aiken, whose engine crushed into the rear car of the first section of the train, said he had undertaken to use the automatic brakes for the 1st section, and as a consequence the brakes would not work at the critical moment. The admission fell like a thunderbolt, and for a moment there was a silence broken only by the engineer's sobs. He broke down completely, and had to be sent from the room.

AFGHAN AFFAIRS.

A despatch from the Marquis of Ripon to the War Office says that news has been received at Calcutta from Candahar dated the 11th, and at that time all was well. Ayoub Khan was then in front of the city and engaged in throwing up earth works, but had made no other demonstration. It was estimated that he had with him thirty-five pieces of artillery and 16,000 men, including cavalry, infantry, and his Ghilzai allies.

A despatch from Quettah says the wire was cut just after details of the repulse of the Afghans at Kuch was received. Although the defeat of the tribesmen appears to be complete, reinforcements have been sent in case further attacks are made. The messengers from Gen. Phayre to Candahar have returned, as they were unable to enter the city. The siege has now commenced in earnest. A heavy and continuous fire is kept up on both sides. Ayoub Khan is attacking on two faces of the city. A large number of men are pushing forward the trenches toward the walls. The messengers deny that the Heratis have deserted Ayoub Khan.

THE WHEAT TRADE.—The signs are that there will be a fall in wheat. The English crop, although below the average, is a better one than has been reaped for three years; while there is an unprecedented harvest in the States. In Russia, the wheat has suffered somewhat; still reckoning 100 as the average, it is believed the yield will reach 80. It will be a wise act for the Canadian farmers to market their crop as early as possible, and not to wait for a rise which, it is safe to say, will never come.

THE BUFFALO ABORTION CASE.—The coroner's inquest at Buffalo in the case of the late Cynthia VanAllen McCrae was concluded yesterday, and a verdict was returned finding that she had come to her death from the effects of an abortion procured by some person unknown, and that A. W. Browne, of Chatham, Ont., was an accessory to the fact; also censuring Dr. Pynchon for concealing the condition of the case from the relatives of the deceased and from the consulting physican.

The tickets have been placed at the low price of 25 cents for the round trip and children half price, and the Oddfellow's Band has been engaged to accompany the boat. As previously announced, the Mary Ethel will leave the wharf between 8 o'clock and 8.30 and start for home at 6 o'clock p. m

EXCURSION TO THOUSAND ISLAND PARK on Saturday, Aug. 21st, by steamer Varuna, returning on Monday afternoon, Aug. 23rd.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell Bt., and get your old suits done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE.—Three arrests were made last night.

DECLINED.—"A Trip to Toronto" is declined, for lack of space.

PUBLIC HOLIDAY.—To-morrow being the Civic Holiday, the INTELLIGENCER will not be issued.

ENGLISH MAIL.—Papers which arrived by the English mail were distributed here this morning.

THE RIFLE.—The next contest for the 49th battalion champion cup will take place on Friday next.

CRICKET.—The return match between the Belleville and Picton cricket clubs will be played at Picton to-morrow.

CANADIANS IN LONDON.—Amongst the Canadians registered at the London office, on the 5th of August we notice the name of Mr. R. E. Campion of Belleville.

GOING INTO CAMP.—The Fifteenth Battalion Argyle Light Infantry will go into camp for their annual drill at Massassaga Point on Thursday. The Battalion will be made up of five companies, all of which are expected to muster their full strength.

ELECTION.—The election in Coleman Ward of a successor in the City Council to the late Alderman A. E. Proctor took place yesterday, and resulted in the return of Mr. John G. Frost. The figures were Frost, 105; Hayne, 47; majority for Frost 58.

THE WEATHER.—Slight frosts occurred in some localities on Sunday night and again last night. Withal, the cold is not without precedent, as the Peterborough Review shows that on August 16th of last year, it was found necessary to turn on the steam in that establishment in order to warm the building so that the compositors could work.

THOUSAND ISLAND PARK.—Another excursion to this famous summer resort will take place on Saturday, under the auspices of the Building Committee of the M. E. Tabernacle. The steamer Varuna has been engaged, and will leave here on Saturday morning at 8 a. m. arriving at the camp ground at 5:30 p. m. Returning, will leave at 6 a. m, on Monday, arriving at Belleville at 4 p. m. Tickets for the round trip only $1. Further particulars are contained in the advertisement.

ST. JOHN DEL RAY MINE.—In our question of article on the above mine, from the N.Y. Engineering and Mining Journal, our compositor made a very serious mistake. In stating the average yield of the ore, the article read "and the yield has been 23 oitavas per ton," &c., it should read 2.3 oitavas per ton—equal to about $4.35 per ton, instead of such large average yield as given. The low yield, per ton, of this famous mine, shows to every one what can be done by working on a large scale, where labor and supplies are cheap. Here is a mine yielding only an average of $4.35 per ton, and with a capital stock of £253,000, paying 12½ per cent half-yearly dividends, and their £100 shares quoted in London at £2,309. The greatest question to be solved in a mine is, how much ore has it?

EXTRA STREET CARS.—Extra Street Cars will be run to-morrow to accomodate parties going to the early excursions.

TEMPERANCE.—The lecture on temperance delivered by Mr. McMurray, in Holloway Street Church last night, was largely attended, and was of a practical and interesting character.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. James R. Barber, formerly of Belleville, but now of Toronto, has been presented by a number of his friends here, with a handsome gold casket which was manufactured at Mr. Spangenberg's establishment.

PERSONAL.—Rev. Joseph Wild, of Brooklyn, N. Y. formerly of Belleville, was in the city to-day. His church was recently burned down and he lost his valuable library and MSS. which cannot be replaced. There is a probability that Mr. Wild may take a pastorate in Toronto.

ACCIDENT.—A painful accident occurred at Northcott & Alford's planing mill yesterday afternoon by which John Sutherland, an apprentice in that establishment and formerly an employee in this office, had one of his fingers severed from his right hand and two others badly cut. He was running a circular saw at the time, and making a slip, the saw caught his right hand, and cut his third finger so badly that it had to be amputated. He also had his second and fourth fingers badly cut.

THE POOR MAN'S MONTH.—An exchange says:—"A great many short vacations—poor people's vacations—are crammed into this month of August and for this it is to many of the poor the happiest month of the year, notwithstanding its sweltering heat. Every poor person in our city who can, should try to get out into the country for at least a day or two this month. It will be a pleasure to refer to all the rest of the year, and tend to lengthen life as well as increase of happiness. A little time and money thus spent by the poor are as well spent as they would be in procuring daily bread."

"CAMP HAPPY."—It will be remembered by many of our readers that a few weeks ago a number of gentlemen resident in Rochester and adjacent places, formed a camp at Camp Meeting Cove, which they christened "Camp Happy," and where they had excellent sport in fishing. The editor of the Spencerport Journal was one of the visitors, and in the last issue of his neatly printed journal he gives a column and a half account of the trip and camp life, dwelling forcibly on the pleasant location the bracing climate, the fine fishing and the genial visits of a number of prominent citizens of Belleville. Another welcome invasion of the same kind, but probably on a larger scale, will ensue next year.

HOTEL KEEPERS and other would do well to examine Jas. Hennessy's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offered at 25 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessy.

The Civic Holiday.

As to-morrow has been proclaimed the annual civic holiday, business of all kinds will be suspended in the city, and as no amusements have been provided in town, people will be compelled to go elsewhere for entertainment.

The congregation of Christ Church will have an excursion, per steamer Varuna, to Mill Point, where the corner stone of the new Church of England will be laid by the Bishop of Ontario, assisted by a number of the clergymen of the diocese. The steamer will leave Campbell's wharf at 9 o'clock punctually.

The congregations of St. Thomas' and St. John's churches and the Sunday School of the latter church also have an excursion to the same point, by the steamer Mary Ethel, which will start between 8 and 8:30 o'clock.

The return matches between the Prince Edward Rifle Association and the 49th Battalion, and the Belleville and Picton Cricket Clubs will take place at Picton. Arrangements have been made for the conveyance of these organizations and those who accompany them, on the steamer which will take the place of the Hastings, to and from Picton, at 50 cents for the round trip.

MESSRS. Downey & Preston shipped to day fifteen cars of hematite iron ore from the Soxsmith mine for Ashtabula, Ohio, and will ship a similar quantity to-morrow.

The Kingston News puts the blame of the delay of unloading at that port on Canadian captains, the majority of whom, it says, discharge their crews the mommeni they land, and thus have insufficient men to aid in the work. They also hang around the wharves light, if there is any prospect of a blow, while the Americans go out in any weather except a regular gale. This is hard on the captains.

FACTION FIGHT.—Catholics and Orangemen had a serious faction fight at Portadown, county Armagh, on Sunday. John Dillon, M. P., speaking at Kildare on Sunday, said that so soon as they had 300,000 men enrolled they could defy all the arms in England to collect rents in Ireland.

Death on the Water.

Mr. Robert Wilkes, of Toronto, and Two of his Children Drowned.

STURGEON POINT, Ont., August 15.—Mr. Robert Wilkes, merchant and ex-M. P. of Toronto, and two of his children were drowned here at noon to-day.

[Robert Wilkes, whose death is briefly recorded above, was born at Tullehan, near Bundoran, Leitram, Ireland, in 1832. In 1863 he married Martha, eldest daughter of the Rev. William Cook, D. D., of London, England. He was a wholesale merchant in Toronto since 1858, and in Montreal from 1864 till a few days ago, when he transferred his business to other hands. He has been a member of the Dominion Board of Trade and of the Council of the Toronto Board of Trade, a director of the Bank of Commerce, of the Confederation Life Assurance Association, of the Isolated Risk Insurance Association, of the Muskoka Junction Railway, and of the Upper Canada Bible and Tract Societies, and a trustee of the Toronto House of Industry. He was returned to Parliament for Centre Toronto at the general election of 1872, and was re-elected during the general election of 1874, but did not run during the election of 1878.

LATER PARTICULARS.

Sturgeon Point, August 10.—At noon to-day as Mr. Robert Wilkes, of Toronto, children, his son Bertie and daughter Florence were bathing off the Point, the boy got out of his depth. Mr. Wilkes was in a boat and jumped out to save him; the daughter went to the rescue also, and all three went down. The girl was only in the water ten minutes. Every effort was made to resuscitate her, but without avail. A doctor was telegraphed for at Fenton Falls, but none could be found at the Falls for more than an hour. Mr. Wilkes' body was not found for about an hour and Bertie for an hour. Every effort was made by Mr. Crandall and the guest, stopping at the hotel to revive them, but they were unsuccessful. The bodies of Mr. Wilkes and family came up this evening by train, arriving at Toronto at 10:30, accompanied by Mr. McWilliams. The ages of the deceased are as follows: Mr. Wilkes about 45; Florence 15; Bertie 11.

STILL FURTHER PARTICULARS.

The Mail has the following report of the sad accident:—"Mr. Wilkes had taken several of the members of his family to the shore to bathe. They entered the water near the boat-house on the sand-bar in front of the hotel. Mrs. Wilkes and one of the nurses, with an infant, sat upon the bank watching the children, while Mr. Wilkes had a row boat, and was rowing up and down in front of the bathing place. Bertie was trying to swim. Approaching him in the boat, Mr. Wilkes called upon him to take hold of the stern of the craft. The little fellow made an effort to do so, but as the bottom of the lake at this point makes a precipitous dip, he got beyond his depth and cried out. Mr. Wilkes tried to reach him with an oar, but could not, and then threw the oar towards him. The lad made an effort to grasp it, but before he could do so he sank. Upon seeing this, Mr. Wilkes sprang from the boat into the water and brought him to the surface, where he held him for several seconds. The exertion must have proved too great for him, as he sank with his burden and did not again appear. His daughter Florence, who was but a short distance away when the boy sank, waded out to assist him, but when she came to the sloping bank she too disappeared under the water and was drowned. All this time Mrs. Wilkes sat upon the bank, so terrified that she was unable to move. Shortly after the body of the girl had been recovered she rushed down the bank and threw herself into the water, crying wildly that she wished to be with her husband. Mr. McWilliams caught her as she was entering the deep water, and leading her back to the shore, assisted her to the hotel. As the men were searching for the bodies the steamer from Bobcaygeon arrived. Mr. McWilliams asked Capt. Crandall to take the bodies to Lindsay immediately, which he consented to do. A telegram was despatched to Lindsay asking delay of the Toronto train. The bodies having been placed upon the steamer, Mrs. Wilkes, who was prostrated with grief, was assisted aboard with her family, and the steamer started upon the melancholy journey homeward. Arriving at Lindsay coffins were procured and the three bodies were deposited in them. Mrs. Wilkes had with her seven children, two being infants in the arms of nurses. Upon arriving at Whitby they were met by Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMaster, Miss Wilkes, and Mr. Fletcher, who had gone down from the city. At the Union station Captain McMaster, Mr. Charles McMaster, and a number of friends were found waiting. As soon as the train stopped, Capt. McMaster entered the car and assisted Mrs. Wilkes to the platform, whence she was taken to a carriage in waiting. Following were five little children, too small to realize the great calamity which had overtaken them, and behind were the two nurses, each bearing an infant. As the living were driven away from the south entrance, the dead were taken quietly out of the western door, deposited in three hearses, and driven to the house of morning.

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—In consequence of the general bad harvest in Germany, there has been a renewal of the agitation for prohibiting the export of corn.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Nine hundred thousand would not much more than cover the instantaneous census to-day all along the line of procession. The decorations were most elaborate and almost continuous for miles. The profusion and variety of banners, flags, stars, crosses, crowns, shields, festoons, and an endless variety of Masonic mottoes, were bewildering. Hardly a house along the march but was graced with some sort of temporary grand stand, so that the procession moved through a continuous amphitheatre. Commanderies assembled for dress parade at 7:45, and from that hour until 9 there was a continuous movement of knightly bodies to stations assigned them in the column which consists of twenty divisions, divided into three grand divisions.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

'I have not come upon you by stealth. I entered in the usual way.'

'I am not to be disturbed—not to be intruded on by you,' exclaimed his lordship, his anger in nowise abating.

'And why should you deem my presence an intrusion?'

Lord Eaglehearst had now got himself thoroughly under command, and was cool, haughty, watchful, as he knew he needed to be with the man before him.

'Because of the terms in which we stand to each other,' he replied, 'the circumstances in which we parted when last we met.'

'Circumstances have changed since then,' remarked Ravensworth. 'Important discoveries have been made.'

'Nothing which affects you, I presume,' said his lordship haughtily.

'And yet, some time ago, you invited me to come here with Charles, to receive assurance of a certain fact from the lips of Lady Eaglehearst. We came, my lord, at the hour you appointed, but found that you and Lady Eaglehearst were both absent.'

'Yes,' rejoined the other. 'On reflection I resolved not to have a meeting which in its very nature cast a doubt upon my honour. If he and you did not choose to believe my word, I would not condescend to deceive myself and insult my wife by asking her to be a witness to my veracity.'

'You rather chose to strengthen suspicion by taking her ladyship out of the way!' observed Ravensworth.

'Silence, sir! I will not brook to have my actions construed before you. Be good enough to come at once to the purpose of your visit, if, indeed, you have a purpose. If you have come in the hope of seeing her ladyship, I tell you at once that you shall not see her.'

'And do you suppose that such an answer will suffice in a matter of this kind?' replied Philip. 'You are well aware of what importance it is to me to know whether or not you were married privately before our uncle's death. If you were, then this estate should never have been yours, but mine. You fraudulently possessed yourself of it, and have fraudulently held it all these years. Think you when I have such a stake as that in question I will not compel you to give me access to Lady Eaglehearst, in order to be fully assured that I have not been deprived of my rights? If have to remind you that I am not a child, a simpleton, neither am I your poor, helpless dependent as I once was. I am able to meet you, my lord, and to fight you on equal terms.'

'This was what I expected,' said his lordship, white with rage and agitation. 'From my knowledge of the malignity of your nature, I looked for such suspicions being produced in your mind by the discoveries which had been made.'

'Say, rather, the expectation arose from the knowledge of your own guilt,' said Philip, sternly and significantly.

His look was so terribly meaning that his lordship quailed, and grew visibly agitated. But in very desperation he grew wrathfully defiant.

'This to me!' he shouted. 'Do you dare—'

'Hold, my lord, I will spare you the necessity of further trying to brave out and conceal your perfidy. Well did I know the meaning of the agitation which my unexpected appearance caused you. Me you have to dread more than any man on earth, for in your soul you know how you have wronged me, and you also know the little room you have to look for mercy or forbearance from me. It was your conscience that made a coward of you, my lord—as well it might. No need for further fencing between us. I have discovered your Border Marriage.'

This climax Lord Eaglehearst was in a measure prepared for. Ravensworth's language had become so significant and pointed that his listener could not doubt that he had somehow or other gained a knowledge of the truth, and when he plainly declared he had, his heart grew cold and heavy as a stone, but by a tremendous effort he suppressed all outward signs of his dismay. His first thought was that they had discovered Lady Eaglehearst's place of sequestration, and had received the information from her.

'Oh!' he returned, in a tone of unnatural calmness, 'so you have put faith in the raging of a mad woman.'

'A mad woman! what mean you by that? Is—is—Lady Eaglehearst—'

'Mad?—yes, and in the wildness of her frenzy her turned brain is conjured by the baseless notion of this Border marriage.'

Ravensworth recoiled in horror. 'Oh' heaven!' he murmured, 'base and cruel in his selfishness to the last. It was not enough for him to sacrifice his child—he is ready to sacrifice his wife too! But,' he added turning vehemently towards him, 'thank heaven, your power of evil is terminated. The information of which we have become possessed we will not receive from Lady Eaglehearst. We have been at Lamberton Toll—the place where you were married. We have seen the fisherman who in passing along the road that moonlight night, was taken in to be a witness. We have seen the man who married you, and last of all, we obtained the register of marriage from his book, with your signature attached. Now, my lord, you must see that longer concealment is hopeless.'

Rigid as a stone Lord Eaglehearst stood as he received the intelligence which crushed him. There was a visible tightening of the muscles of his face, and a hardening of his frame, and his countenance settled into a terribly stony expression, which a human countenance seldom exhibits, but beyond this he gave no expression to the feelings within. He did not speak for some moments after Ravensworth was done, but stood gazing at him with fixed eyes, in which was a dull, filmy light. Then his firmly compressed lips parted for a moment and he uttered, in a voice strangely altered from his usual tone, the one word wait—

'Wait.'

And as he said it, he walked with slow steps to a narrow side door, opened it, and went through.

Ravensworth, from his knowledge of the mansion, knew that it led by a narrow stair to a small private room to which there was no other access, and he concluded that his lordship had retired thither to recover himself, out of the sight of his cousin, from the first effects of the terrible blow he had received, and that presently he would return and continue the interview.

Minutes passed, however, and as he did not reappear, Philip grew uneasy, and th uneasiness increased to alarm as he thought of the singular expression of his cousin's face. It struck him now that it indicated the formation of a desperate purpose—the resolution to do some dreadful deed, and as this idea flashed through his brain, he darted to the narrow door, opened it, and sped up the carpeted stair.

The door of the private chamber was close, and he stood close to it listening intently. In the unbroken silence he heard the rasping sound of a pen passing quickly over paper, and knew by this that his lordship was writing. He was hesitating whether or not to descend to the library, when the sound of writing ceased, and a deep groan sounded from the chamber. This startled and arrested him, and he bent his ear still closer to the door to listen. There was a slight rustle within, then came sharp and distinct the click of a pistol. Instantly Philip burst open the door, and saw Lord Eaglehearst standing at a table with a pistol in his hand, pointed at his heart.

The noise of Ravensworth's sudden entrance startled him, and made his hand swerve, and ere he had time to steady it to take fatal aim, Philip had sprung forward and dashed up his arm. The pistol went off at the moment, and the bullet lodged in the ceiling.

'My God, Charles, what would you do!' cried Ravensworth, in horror, as the two men gazed at each other through the stifling smoke.

'Away! leave me!' shouted Eaglehearst.

'Leave you, and in this sad state of mind! I certainly shall not. What dreadful folly is this you would commit! Rash, miserable man, but for my coming you would have been in the other world.

From the Hub

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover from.—Boston Globe.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. Hence's Sugar Coated Pills, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using Green's August Flower. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of August Flower will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

SUBSTITUTES!

BE The public are cautioned against a cuzon which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine peddlers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "out of it," but have another article just as good, if not better, which they will supply at the same price. The animus of this deception is transparent. These imitations are merely sold on the great reputation of Pain-Killer, and being concocted of the vilest poisonous drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him thereby to realize a few cents more profit on the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz., and 8 oz. bottles, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively—large bottles are therefore cheapest.

SOLD BY ALL MEDICINE DEALERS.

CONSUMPTION

CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

C. C. LOCKWOOD, M.D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of the throat. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed in which I was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and I realized, I thought, that I should not live long. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but he ablet did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing; with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not quite taken a dozen for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is feeling the effects of the medicine and is going up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine. D. WALTER OAKES.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SILCUM, Lowell, Mass.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time was prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am grateful for what your EMULSION has done for me. I am a poor man and cannot afford to pay for medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Holiday in the North.

For the Intelligencer.

The writer having decided to have a holiday in the northern parts of this County, wended his way by conveyance to Madoc, thence by stage to the north. The industrious farmers were (although we reached Madoc about 7 a. m.) hard at work all along the road, reaping, drawing in, and binding up the golden grain. Many appeared to have thrashed their first reaping, barley principally, so as to make room for their later crops—the crops yielding so well, that not one in twenty has sufficient barn room for his harvest. Madoc, although at this early hour, seemed to be alive and busy, numbers of men just preparing for work on the Moon and Wilson block, which is truly a magnificent block of buildings; perhaps there is nothing finer in Ontario for a place of similar pretensions. Leaving Madoc by the Thanet stage at 8 a. m., we were soon on our journey northward, not without some fear, as we were informed by the driver that in parts and places we would in all probability have to use our "pedal extremities," the road was in such a wretched condition. This being the writer's first trip in the north, and although prepared for a "rocky road to Jordan," he was somewhat frightened. However, we reached Millbridge about 11 a. m., and after partaking of dinner and "doing the village," we were again on our journey; and from this point north began the ordeal and bodily torture. "Bumpty-bump" over the corduroy road, —now in one part of the seat, now on our face; again at the next turn of the wheel whack we go with a backward motion with such force that we give out an involuntary scream that we have broken our vertebræ; then before we have time to see if any one has been lost overboard, we are thrown violently against the side of the seat with such force that your limb is benumbed. Lucky you are if it is only this much. So we go on at three to three and a half miles an hour, backwards, forwards, up and down, side to side, now in your own place, next moment in the lap of the one sitting next you. Not only is the road rough, but it is a rather dangerous in some of the log bridges. Perhaps a couple of large logs have rotted away, so that immense holes are left, which taxes the skill of the driver to get over, and certainly no danger as might would go plumpthrough to a depth of tenor more feet. These signs of decay are upon every crossway, and unless sharply looked after by the County authorities some large bills by way of damages have to be paid by some by the county, as there is no knowing what moment these bridges may not tumble en masse. Then I pity the unfortunate night traveller, known danger in front of him, and unknown each side of him, any attempt to turn about the conveyance would beautifully and quickly disclose it. After a drive of some hours through a country of desolate waste we arrive at Thanet about 5 p. m., thirty miles from Madoc, a distance of half way from Madoc to Maynooth, and we put up at "the stopping place" of Mr. Shaws'. North of the Jordan these public places are not called "taverns" but "stopping places". Liquor sold at these places I understand. Our old friend Mr. Nugent was called upon and seemed supremely happy with his lot in life, owing no one, and lots to eat and drink; what more can any one ask. Then is one of those who informed the writer that he had taken the INTELLIGENCER for many years and could not do without it. Next morning, after a six o'clock breakfast, we again entered the Maynooth stage for L'Amable distant about fifteen miles further north, where it is proposed remaining for a week, and from that point branch off to the various points, we reached L'Amable about 11 a. m. five hours, fifteen miles the road is fair, but extremely bad, and through a waste desolate in the extreme. Here and there you see remains of what were at one time farm homes, but now deserted and in various stages of decay and really would be difficult to find earth sufficient to bury a cot The former owners (at least many of them) have removed north of L'Amable, which may be called the gate way to better lands, and certainly the crop of wheat and oats on the front is far behind that of the north, their spring wheat would compare favorably with our fall wheat and their oats is a sight to see. Peas and hay are also excellent with them. I noticed a great difference in the date of their and our harvest, there it will be the last week of August before it may be called their harvest; in fact they are just finishing their hay cutting (12th) we visited York River (sometimes called Bancroft, which the people of that part object to) and called upon Mr. Cleak, who with his family made us supremely happy. It is expected that the post village will now be quite a place. Under the guiding influence of the Hon. Mr. Flint, who is the owner of large mills there, we enjoyed a ride on the waters of York River and was amazed at the depth, ranging I was informed from 8 to 15 feet, but it is a very crooked stream, for instance from this point to Bronson by road is 6 miles by water (both places being on the river) 20 miles. I also visited the farm and was most hospitably entertained by Mr. W. Riddle, who took great pains to show the writer the sights of the place and really there are very few farms on the front that will compare with it in state of cultivation or otherwise. The farm contains 1,000 acres with some 600 or 700 acres under cultivation, with all the modern improvements and machinery. This place is the depot for the great Ottawa lumbering firm of Bronson & Weston, all the produce of the place being used in their business. The people in that part have the "rag baby." The orders on or due bills of the "Farm" pass as cash among them. We had the pleasure of enjoying some pleasant boating on L'Amable lake—a most lovely sheet of water quite surrounded by hill or rock covered with cedar, pine, birch, &c., and the sides are precipitous to a degree for a couple of hundred feet. The water of this lake is said to be 200 feet in depth, and is about two miles in length and almost circular. This lake drains many smaller ones, the little stream connecting them being about half a mile in length, and in that distance descends some 200 feet over rock called Florence Falls, and a most charming and picturesque scene it is—the rushing, gurgling water dashing along with great velocity, seeming anxious to enter the quiet resting place of L'Amable Lake. Across this stream crosses what is called Deer Crossing or a deer runway; deer tracks of that day were plainly visible and the path quite beaten. These animals seem very plenty in those parts this season; they are to be seen mostly any time. While there Division Court was held, presided over by Judge Lazier. I understand it was not as large as usual. It is talked of there that a new Division is to be made with Court to be held at Maynooth, and with this change it is by some hoped that Court now held at L'Amable will be changed to York River. The rumor of this desired change causes quite a commotion at L'Amable. The writer thinks the latter a more favorable place than York River for that part. No doubt, however, a Court is required at Maynooth for the convenience of a very large number.

An excellent piece of road has been made from Umbraville to L'Amable under the superintendence of Mr. D. Kavanagh, from the latter place it diverges east from the old road, striking the old Hastings road at the former place, this change also shortens the road between the two points a mile, or more. This gentleman seems to understand his work well, and if the county would employ him to do a little work south, it would be a boon to the settlers, and the settlers don't want any one, but one of themselves to oversee the work, this reason being (and I certainly think an excellent one) that is they go over the road at all seasons, they know where it can be best expended, and hence husband the grants and use it for the places most needed, and as they have to travel over it are sure to do it better than a stranger. They say they have had enough money lost by strangers expending it.

We reached Madoc and the front in due time pleased with what we saw—but such a difference in the state of crops,—on the front harvested, in the rear quite green generally. I forgot to mention that the Presbyterians are erecting a very pretty frame place of worship, costing exclusive of the ground $1,000 and on the top of the hill as you enter L'Amable, and Mr. Jarman a neat residence. The place boasts of a cricket club and I understood were going to Halliburton to wrestle with the club of that place, which is one of the best off the front.

House Plants and Consumptives.

Since it is well known that certain maladies—especially those affecting the lungs and air passages—are benefitted by a moderately moist and warm atmosphere, and since plants furnish moisture to the warm air of a dwelling, these may properly be classed as therapeutic agents; and Dr. Anderson gives testimony to show that they have sometimes proved to be such agents.

He has made personal inquiries of 30 gardeners and florists of Philadelphia concerning the effects of their occupation upon their health, and found that in several instances consumptive tendencies had apparently been counteracted by working among plants. Some of the cases are described in detail, but we can quote only the following conclusions drawn from them:—

From the above cases it will be seen that what we had deduced from experimental results concerning the health-giving effect of plants (which is owing to transpiration increasing the humidity of the air,—the plants acting as natural and perfect "atomizers") is certainly in harmony with what is observed concerning the effect of sufficiently moist, warm air in many cases of phthisis; and if it is true, as we have attempted to show, that house-plant hygiene constitutes a valuable preventive measure where there is hereditary tendency to certain diseases, then it ought to be definitely and thoroughly understood; and it is of vital importance that it should be adopted in cases where there is a known predisposition to phthisis, for half of the cases are supposed to be preventable, whereas if the disease be allowed to develop complete recovery is not to be expected.

The plants should be well selected and kept in a thriving condition. The chief points to be borne in mind in the selection of the plants are, first, that they have soft, thin leaves; secondly, foliage plants, or those having extensive leaf surface, are to be preferred; thirdly, those which are highly scented (as the tuberose, etc.) should be avoided, because they often give rise to headache and other unpleasant symptoms.

In order to facilitate a practical application of the data gained by experiment, the following formula has been carefully prepared;—Given a room 20 feet long, 12 feet wide, and ceiling 12 feet high, warmed by the dry air, a dozen thrifty plants, with soft; thin leaves, and a leaf surface of six square feet each, would, if well watered, and so situated as to receive the direct rays of the sun (preferably the morning sun) for at least several hours, raise the proportion of aqueous vapour to about the health standard.

To obtain the best results, both the rooms occupied during the day and the sleeping apartment should contain plants. It was for a long time the opinion of scientific interpreters generally that plants in sleeping apartments were unwholesome because of their giving off carbonic acid gas at night; but it has been shown by experiment that it would require 20 thrifty plants to produce an amount of the gas equivalent to that exhaled by one baby-sleeper; so this is no valid objection to their admission, and not be compared with the benefit arising from their presence.—Journal of Chemistry.

Our Progress.

As stages and stage routes are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the huge, drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and bulky materials, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts and are warranted to cure all irregularties of stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by druggist.

Free Trade Fallacies and Misrepresentations.

The English Cobden Club is not happy. It was organized a good many years ago to encourage the spread of free trade doctrines, and for a time the idea of untrammeled commercial intercourse between the nations, which is as pretty in theory as it has been found to be unsatisfactory in practice, made quite a large amount of headway. Great Britain, with apparent generosity, led the way along the new path, and a few of the continental nations followed, the result being that treaties of commerce were entered into with our mother country, and the new system seemed to have entered upon a career of success which was to result in the abandonment of all other systems. For a short time all went well, but it did not take long for the foreign powers to discover that, in the partial giving up of their tariffs, they had placed themselves under a thralom of the most galling and unprofitable kind, namely that of being under the commercial domination of a power which was eating the oysters whilst leaving to them the shells for mastication. Thus it happened that the treaties were allowed to lapse when the time for which they were contracted had expired, and the original or higher tariffs were resorted to, with highly beneficial results in all cases. Hence we see France, Russia, Germany and other countries deserting the standard of free trade and imposing duties of a highly protective—in some cases of a very highly protective—character. Being thus deprived of a field of labor in Europe, the Cobden Club are now endeavoring to extend their propagandism to the United States, which country has steadily refused to have aught to do with their theories. The time is doubtless deemed opportune for the spread of their doctrines amongst our neighbors, as a Presidential election contest is going on, and the discussion of all sorts of issues will be in order. With the object of making converts to their theory, the Cobden club have issued a small pamphlet of 30 pages, written by one of their most eminent literary champions, Mr. Augustus Mongredrien, a copy of which they have obligingly sent us. This production is entitled "The Western Farmer of America," and contains some remarkable statements, the effect of which is that, because of protective duties, averaging 40 per cent, the western farmers pay $340,000,000 to support manufactures in the Eastern States, which the country would be much better without, as all their products could be imported from England. There is one great fallacy underlying this apparent fact, which the free trade apostle passes without notice, and that is that the articles manufactured in the United States are not dearer by the amount of the duty than are similar articles made in the British islands. Not a few articles are cheaper than in England, but they are not we venture to say, more than 10 per cent. dearer on the average, which would decrease Mr. Mongredien's calculations to a sum still enormously large, but very much below his absurd estimate, and this includes internal revenue taxes, which are imposed on many articles of manufacture which the customs tariff practically shuts out, for revenue purposes. Supposing, however, that the excise duties were taken off altogether and the customs tariff lowered to a revenue standard, which would be necessary in order to meet the expenses of Government, including interest on the war debt, at how much lower a figure than 25 per cent. could the tariff be placed? If it could not be fixed at less, then where would be the gain to the "Western farmers"? That would be difficult to discover, though their loss and the loss of the country as a whole would soon be found out. Their home market for the produce of their farms would be destroyed with the closing of the manufactories, and they would become the veritable slaves of the capitalists of Europe. Immigration would fall off largely, because farming would cease to be as profitable as it is now, employment at high wages could no longer be offered to the artizans of Europe, and an exodus of the manufacturing population would ensue. The whole subject has, the Cobden Club may be assured, been carefully debated and considered by the wisest and best men of the United States, and they are not likely at this late date to abandon a policy under which their country has prospered and grown in population as no other nation ever did, and to which the people of the northern half of the continent have given in their adhesion, after finding that a so-called revenue tariff did not work successfully.

It would be a fine thing for Great Britain no doubt to have the United States market opened to her manufactures, but this will not ensue during the next decade at least. It is quite likely there will be, during the pending Presidential contest amongst our neighbors, discussions upon many items of their extensive tariff, but further than that there will be nothing done—no great change of policy—no reversal of the system which has proved so satisfactory in the past and promises to be equally so in the future. Let them take as a sample of the feeling of the American people on this point, their repudiation of the Cobden Club and its doctrines by General Garfield, the Republican candidate for the Presidency, whom they had, without his consent, elected an honorary member of their organization.

The United States have found it convenient and profitable to reject the teachings of those political economists who, as the Bystander pithily remarks have gone the length of clothing economic laws in algebraic formulae, eliminating all human motives except the desire for wealth. Our neighbors had higher objects to gain and larger interests to serve, and neither they nor the people of Canada will follow the course which is desired by men whose theories have proved a complete failure wherever they were put in practice.

THE ST. LAWRENCE.—Really, says Dr. J. G. Holland, editor of Scribner's Magazine, there is not on the face of the globe such another river as the St. Lawrence. Imagine a broad river varying from three miles to ten miles in width, fed by the great American lakes, by water that in its passage has deposited all its filth and dust, and comes after its tumble over Niagara Falls as clear as crystal to its final passage to the sea. Imagine this superb stream finding its sinuous way through a labyrinth of 1,800 islands, among which a man may sail for days without ever crossing his track, with not a rod of dead water along its shores, and with not even a suspicion of malaria in the atmosphere above it. Imagine a summer climate in which the days are never hot and breezeless, and the nights are always cool and bracing, and the evenings are never so damp as to make it necessary to sit within doors, and you have the condition of summer life at the Thousand Islands.

THE CIVIC HOLIDAY.

How it Was Celebrated

Excursions to Various Points.

The civic holiday (Wednesday, 18th inst.) was a quiet day in town, so many of the residents of the city betook themselves to other places to enjoy the day in such manner as best suited them. The first party to leave was composed of the 49th battalion rifle team, the cricketers and a few of the friends of each, who were to have their return matches in Picton. In the absence of any passenger steamer to replace the Hastings, the tug S. Bonar was chartered to convey the party to their destination. The hour of her departure had been set at 6:30, but it was upwards of an hour and a half later before a start could be made, and then but seven or eight of the cricketers were on hand, and the rifle team was shorn of its original strength by the absence of four of the chosen members, three of whom who found it impossible to attend, the fourth arriving at Picton in time to take part in the match, per the steamer Varuna, as also did two of the missing cricketers. The trip to Picton was not altogether without incident, but space will not permit of more than the mention of the facts that rain, which had fallen for a time before the start, ceased just previous to leaving the harbor; that another cricketer was picked up at Ferry Point; that the boat left that point of departure at 8.10, arriving in Picton at 11.30, and that some eagles were seen in passing through the Reach.

Arrived at Picton, the riflemen and cricketers were taken in hand by their waiting friends, and conveyed to the respective places of contest—the cricketers, whose fortunes will first be followed, being driven in the Wilson House omnibus to the usual field of battle at the Agricultural Grounds, where play was commenced at 12:30.

THE GAME.

Picton having won the toss, sent their opponents to the bat, Rivers and Hodgson facing the bowling of Tait and Gilbert. Both batsmen played well, Rivers hitting in fine style, one of his hits lifting the ball over the agricultural hall, and resulting in six runs being made from the hit. Hodgson lifted one and was caught by Langmuir at long field, after contributing 6. One for 17. Thomas, who followed, at once let out at the bowling and the score went up rapidly. Twigg replaced Gilbert with the ball, but still the runs came, until Rivers retired, bowled by Twigg for 12. Two for 29. Clarke succeeded, and had made but 1 when he was run out. Three for 33. Some singles were added, and the field was again changed, Langmuir taking VanPatten's place at the wicket. After some uneventful but steady play, Maybee was bowled for 3, and shortly after Jenkins went in Thomas was caught by Lowe, after putting together 18—the score of the day. Five for 47. The remaining batsmen scored 17 amongst them, the innings yielding altogether 64 runs.

After lunch Picton sent in Chadd and Merrill to face the batteries of Thomas and W. Peden, both of whom were in fine form. Chadd was first out—one for 10. Horrigan was bowled by Thomas for 2, and Langmuir, the next man, hit freely for 12, leading the score on his side, finally giving a catch to Kemp. Merrill was caught by Corby; Lowe ditto by Clarke; Barker was bowled by Thomas; Gilbert ditto; Tait gave Maybee a chance which was taken, and eight wickets were down for 30 runs. Van Patten made a stand, but the others did but little and the side went out for 42 runs, leaving Picton 22 to the bad.

Belleville did but poorly in their second innings, which yielded but 31 runs, Corby leading the score with 6, the fielding generally being so sharp that but 21 runs were made off the bat, extras making up the other 10.

Picton, having 54 to get to win, and the game now looking very even, sent in Chadd and Van Patten, and W. Peden and Thomas were the bowlers. Chadd began with a 2 and a bye was run, Van Patten followed with a single, all off Peden. The latter hit Thomas' first ball up and was caught by that bowler; one for 4. Merrill, next man, made a single off Thomas, and Peden bowled a maiden. Fielding at this time was of the sharpest description and bowling excellent, only a single a leg bye being scored in the next two overs, but the batsmen were careful and the score was added to but slowly, Merrill being finally bowled by Thomas—two for 12. Langmuir, the heavy hitter of the club, went in next, and after making 3 was caught by Jenkins. Three for 16. Tait who was fourth in, made a 3 and was bowled by Peden. Four for 20. Lowe, the next man, made nothing, being caught by Reeves. Five for 21. Barker made 3, and Chadd, who made a long stand for 8, was bowled by Peden. Six for 28. Horrigan, the next man, was run out for 3. Seven for 32. Van Horn replaced him and was bowled by Thomas for 0. Barker made a 2 and a 3. Eight for 38. Twigg filled the gap and he and Barker each made 1, when the latter was bowled by Thomas for 11, got by good play. Gilbert, was next man in, and after Twigg had made another Gilbert was bowled by Thomas for 0.

Belleville thus wins by 12. The score was as follows:—

The sides, as will be seen, were very evenly matched, and the game was one of the most pleasant ever played between the Clubs. The bowling on both sides was well on the spot, and the fielding was sharp, Belleville excelling a little in both these particulars, whilst the batting strength was as nearly equal as possible. After the close of the game, short complimentary speeches were made by the captains of both teams, mutual cheers were given for each and for the Queen, and the visitors were driven back to their hotel. They left for home at 8 o'clock, and reached Belleville shortly before midnight.

THE RIFLE.

RETURN MATCH WITH PICTON.

The return match between teams of the 49th Rifle Association and the Picton Rifle Club, took place in the afternoon. As will be seen by the score below, victory this time rested with the Picton men. In this connection, however, it must be remembered that two of Belleville's best shots, Messrs. Hilton and Cunningham, who shot in the former match, were unable to be present. The Picton range is a very peculiar one, being in a gully, and it is difficult for strangers to follow the vagaries of the wind and changes in the elevation which occur.

Notwithstanding that the Belleville team was beaten, there is the satisfaction that a Belleville man, Lieut. J. W. Johnson, made the best individual score, viz., 75.

The 49th team thus exceeded their score in the first match by 9 points, whilst the Prince Edward men made 116 more over their own range than they did at Belleville.

The match was over at 5 o'clock. The Picton men entertained their opponents at dinner at the Victoria Hotel. About 35 gentlemen sat down. Lt.-Col Walter Ross being chairman.

The toast of the Queen was duly honored, after which the Belleville team was toasted, responses being made by Lt.-Col. Brown, M. P., Lt. Johnson and Private Marshall. The Picton team was the next toast, and was responded to by Lt.-Col. Bog, Sheriff Gillespie and other gentlemen. The health of the vice president of the Picton Association, Judge Jellett, was drunk and very humorously responded to by the Judge. The pleasant gathering broke up at 7:30.

The second highest individual score made was that of Mr. John Bedford, an old Belleville boy, now resident in Picton.

A most pleasant day was spent by the riflemen. Nothing occurred to mar the harmony of the match. The Picton team are good material and will make their mark abroad.

As was suggested at the dinner, it is likely that another match will take place between the teams again this year.

EXCURSIONS TO MILL POINT.

The steamers Varuna, Mary Ethel and Armenia all carried excursions to Mill Point, to witness the laying of the corner stone of a new Church of England edifice there by the Bishop of the Diocese. In all about eight hundred people from Belleville attended, and passed a very pleasant day. The ceremony was duly performed in the presence of a very numerous audience, and eighteen clergymen were present. The church is situated on the rise of the hill and will be a neat structure. Credit is due to the people of the village for the excellence of the spread provided. At an early hour in the evening the excursionists returned home.

THE ODDFELLOWS' EXCURSION.

The excursion to Massassaga Point under the auspices of Minpah Lodge of Oddfellows was patronized by from 200 to 300 people. It had been intended that sculling races should take place, but there were no entries, and other sports were difficult to get up on short notice. The Prince Edward and Annie Gilbert brought all back to town at an early hour.

A PLEASANT REUNION.

The ladies and gentlemen who made the long trip in the steamer Ruby as recently described in the columns, chartered the steamer Silver Spray and proceeded to the Carrying Place, accompanied by a number of their friends, the whole party comprising 54 individuals. Biggar's grove was the point of destination, and the day having been passed in games and amusements the party returned home at about 10 o'clock p. m.

Fighting in Ireland.

A Serious Riot and a Faction Row on Sunday.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—During a riot at Dungannon on Sunday, many of the police were wounded. Their rank were several times broken. They finally fired buckshot into the crowd. The firing was returned from revolvers, and showers of stones fell, many of the rioters almost rushing on the points of the bayonets in the eagerness of their attacks. Subsequently a volley of balls was fired, and many were wounded. One man had the side of his head riddled with buckshot and received a bullet in the abdomen. He soon died.

At Downpatrick, in a fight between Catholics and Orangemen, firearms were used incessantly from 11 on Sunday night until 3 on Monday morning. Several persons were severely wounded.

EXCURSION TO THOUSAND ISLAND PARK on Saturday, Aug. 21st, by steamer Varuna, returning on Monday afternoon, Aug. 23rd.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St., and get your old suits done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

PERSONAL.—Mr. A. L. E. Crouter, of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, who has been for some time visiting his friends in Sidney, returned to Philadelphia yesterday.

SPECIAL SERVICE.—The special meetings conducted by the Rev. H. S. Jenkinson in the Bleecker St. Church are increasing in interest, and the congregations have greatly improved.

CONSERVATIVE DEMONSTRATION.—We are informed that Sir Leonard Tilley has accepted an invitation to attend a Conservative pic-nic at Picton on Saturday, the 28th inst., when he will deliver an address. The hon. gentleman will pass some days in Prince Edward County, examining its agricultural resources.

MARINE FIREWORKS.—There is to be a grand display of marine fireworks on the Bay of Quinte on Wednesday, August 25th, on some point of the Bay which will hereafter be designated, under the superintendence of Prof. Hand of Hamilton. The Committee of management have engaged the steamers Mary Ethel, Deseronto, Armenia, Pilgrim, Flight, and the commodious barge Industry. The fleet will also be illuminated. Music will be furnished by the 15th Battalion Band. For particulars see advertisement.

THROUGH EXCURSIONS TO ST. LAWRENCE PARK.—This beautiful park is located on a fine eminence in one of nature's loveliest forests known to us, about 6 miles west of the town of Brockville, on the banks of the St. Lawrence. A grand pavillion is built of wood and iron for the public services, securing protection and comfort to the feeblest ones. A large number of fine cottages have been erected, in addition to which, canvas tents are reared, giving the appearance of a city in the forest, during the summer season. It is a most healthy location. Large excursions from the east and west flow into that port, and thousands gather there for pleasure and profit. Doubtless the greatest of the gatherings and most important of all the meetings yet held, will be the coming Sunday School Parliament commencing August 26th and closing September 2nd. Able men from the United States and Canada are to give the addresses and the music promises to be of the highest order. To accommodate everybody, Rev. Mr. Stratton has arranged for another of his mammoth excursions, this time going over the Prince Edward Railway from Trenton on the regular morning train to Picton, thence down the bay, passing all the groups of Islands and parks thereon by daylight, per steamer Hastings. This without doubt is the trip of the season. Will leave you at Island Park or take you clear through, as you prefer. Fare for the round trip only $1.25. Baggage transhipped at Picton free of charge. Remember the time August 28th, leaving Trenton at 7 a. m., returning leaves St. Lawrence Park at 7 p. m. Ten cents extra will convey you to the town of Brockville, 40 cents extra will allow you to remain during the following week and return September 3rd or 4th. This grand excursion steamer has berths reasonable, meals only 25 cents. A large two-story dining hall and dormitory having been erected this summer there will be plenty of accommodation on the ground cheap. Those who wish can board and lodge themselves and remain on the boat free.

VOTERS LISTS.—Court for the revision of the city voters' lists will sit to-morrow at 1d a. m. at the Shire Hall.

CHICAGO MARKETS.—Owing to an interruption of telegraphic communication with Chicago, we are to-day without the usual report of the markets of that city.

VISITORS.—The steamer Armenia brought the St. Mary Magdalene Sunday School of Napanee to Massassaga Point this morning. A few of the party came up to the city on the steamer.

CREDIT VALLEY RAILWAY.—The Globe of to-day says: "The position temporarily occupied by Mr. Massey Geddes, as Freight and Passenger Agent, has been abolished, and Mr. R. Luttrell, late General Superintendent Grand Junction and Belleville and North Hastings Railways, appointed General Traffic Agent." We congratulate Mr. Luttrell upon the appointment to this important position—a position which we are sure he will fill with credit and honor to himself and advantage to the road.

BARLEY.—Very little barley has yet been offered for sale in this market and prices are nominal in the absence of reliable quotations from Oswego. A considerable number of samples of this years growth of barley have been shown here, from which it is evident that about three-fourths of the barley this season will be slightly colored, very little badly colored. The remaining one-fourth will be bright. Buyers claim that the crop this season will be 25 per cent. in excess of last year. Seven samples from the 2nd and 3rd. concessions of Thurlow and four samples from the 2nd and 3rd concession of Sidney were mixed and weighed, making an average weight of 46lbs. to the bushel; against that a half bushel sample of bright barley from the 7th concession of Thurlow weighed 49 lbs. to the bushel whilst a colored sample from Prince Edward weighed only 45 lbs. to the bushel. The probable average weight will be about 47 lbs. to the bushel.

HOTEL KEEPERS and other would do well to examine Jas. Hennessy's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offered at 25 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessy.

Fire in West Belleville.

SUPPOSED INCENDIARISM.

Shortly after 4 o'clock on Wednesday morning fire was discovered in a frame stable in rear of Morden's boarding house, on Everett Street. The building and contents being of a highly inflammable character, the flames quickly spread to a stable in the rear of Mrs. Nelson's dwelling and thence communicated to several small kitchens behind other houses, then to Cox and Hanrahan's stables, and to Snider's hotel shed. The two fire engines made a prompt appearance, and two branches being worked from each, the fire was prevented from spreading further, though parts of the dwellings were badly damaged. The wind was fortunately light, otherwise a great deal of property must have been damaged seriously, if not destroyed. The loss is estimated at about $1,000, which is partly covered by insurance in various companies.

The building where the fire broke out is the property of the Trust and Loan Company. It is believed that the conflagration was the work of an incendiary, as early on Monday morning a fire was discovered in the same place and put out with pails of water, and there was no apparent cause for Wednesday morning's outbreak.

Trenton Correspondence.

The Pic-nic excursion under the auspices of the R. C. Congregation of Picton last Wednesday was quite a success, notwithstanding the threatening aspect of the weather. The P.E.Co. train arrived about eleven a. m. bringing about 300 with the 16th Battalion Band. In the afternoon parties from Trenton and neighborhood swelled the crowd to twice the number. Amusements were provided in shape of dancing and athletic games. The music for dancing was by the string band of the 16th Battalion. There were several refreshment booths and numerous young ladies with articles in shape of vases, pitchers, &c. to be raffled. The P. E. Ry. ran a train from the town to the grove which was quite an accommodation. The grove, which is about a mile from town, is well fitted up for pic-nics, having a platform for dancing, band stand and tables. There must have been a nice sum of money realized, which is to be applied on the debt on the church. Just after the arrival of the party the Picton Band played through the streets. The excursionists returned at seven o'clock well pleased with their trip.

FROM COLEBROOK.

COLEBROOK, Aug. 19.—This morning about 4 o'clock, the barn and contents belonging to Philip Huffman, of the township of Camden, near Moscow, and about five miles from this place, was struck by lightning and consumed. The barn contained 1,300 bushels of barley, just threshed, which laid in a pile on the barn floor, one fanning mill, and one lumber waggon. A stack of hay near the barn was also burned. Loss $1,200; insured in the Watertown Agricultural for $1,000.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—The remains of Miss Neilson are now on the way to England. There is no doubt she died from dropsy of the heart. Both doctors who attended her agree on this point. Dr. Mornear was led to believe that mental trouble was connected with her illness. He asked the patient if there was anything on her mind? she replied, Yes. While Mornier was attending her, a bat flew into the room. Miss Neilson was much alarmed. "Look at that great bird flying about me," she exclaimed, in a terrified tone. The intruder was not got rid of without difficulty. Miss Neilson's end was calm, but she suffered terribly for hours before it.

AMERICAN.

ST. PAUL, Minn., August 19.—The Pioneer press reports the wheat crop of Minnesota 45 millions of bushels; Oats, 27,600,000; Corn, 13,560,000; Barley, 3,186,000.

EUREKA, Nev., August 19.—A meeting of citizens organized a relief committee, but few cases of absolute destitution are reported thus far.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The Herald says:—It has been discovered for over thirty years that the productions of Great Britain have been admitted into our ports exempt from a discriminating duty of 10 per cent, in violation of the law. The Act of 1828 required the President to issue a proclamation discontinuing such duties in the case of any foreign nation which levies no discriminating duty on vessels belonging to American citizens, or upon the cargoes they carry. No trace of such proclamation in the case of Great Britain can be found. The only authority in existence for the exemption is a circular issued by the Secretary-Treasurer in 1849, which has no legal force whatever.

BUFFALO, Aug. 19.—Gen. Myer, chief of the signal service, is seriously ill at the Palace hotel, in this city.

FARGO, Dakota, Aug. 18.—The storm last evening was terrible south-west of Fargo,—houses were blown down, one man killed, and 8 severely wounded.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—An eruptive fever exists among cloven footed animals, both domestic and wild, in this country. Attention was called to the matter by complaints from England concerning imported cattle.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—The papers are again full of despanding reports of the harvest in Silesia and East and West Prussia. The crops in certain districts are wholly destroyed. Lives were lost, railway and river embankments swept away, bridges broken down, villages flooded, farms inundated, and a vast tract of grain growing land converted into lakes. A great famine is feared.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, moderate to fresh winds, cloudy to partly cloudy weather, with local showers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Indications: lower lakes, partly cloudy, rain, stationary or slightly higher temperature.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

'I know it—I mean it, and why do you presume to interfere with my intention? Think you I will survive the hour that brings me public disgrace and utter ruin? Think you I will live to see your triumph, and be humiliated by your vindictive revenge? No. Months ago I resolved on this should discovery come. Lady Eaglehurst knew my resolve, and this alone deterred her from proclaiming the truth, and openly owning and recognising Charles as our son. Go—leave me! You have triumphed against me so far, but I can save myself from further degradation, and I will—

—No, by heaven, you will not hinder me. I am as strong a man as you—I am nerved by a feeling which doubles my strength, and I swear that if you refuse to go I will hurl you to the bottom of that stair.'

'Hear me, Eaglehearf,' cried Philip. 'Why consummate the past by needless tragedy? You mistake my present feelings towards you. I have no desire for triumph I have no intention of dealing with you in a spirit of exaction. You will owe you little forbearance, but I have to understand that to return evil for evil would be a poor way of speaking satisfaction for past wrong. Justice to others, and consideration for others, is the extent of my exaction—the pledge of my generosity. For the sake of Lady Eagleheart, for the sake of Charles, who is my daughter's husband, I am as anxious as you can be to avoid public exposure, and all can be arranged privately and satisfactorily.'

The smoke had now floated slowly to the roof of the chamber, and in the clearer atmosphere his lordship, who had attentively listened to Philip's hurriedly spoken words silently laid the pistol on the table.

'What are your terms?' he asked in a low, passionless voice.'

They are easily named. The acknowledgment of Charles as your lawful son and heir to the title. This being made—as indeed it must be made, for Charles is in a position to force it—you will not be disturbed in your possession of the Grange sinee, if I insisted on taking it it would only be for my daughter, who is already the wife of Charles, and to whom it will any case revert.'

'What then is to become of Edgar?' inquired his lordship, 'for of course the family property goes with the title.'

'I would suggest a commission in the army and a second son's portion,' replied Ravensworth.

'One word more,' added his lordship. 'You have twice stated that Charles is the husband of your daughter. What am I to understand by that?'

Ravensworth answered by narrating the discovery which had been made regarding Mary Woodford.

'Ravensworth,' said Lord Eagleheart at length, 'you have behaved with generosity which I did not expect—which certainly had no right to expect. I scorn to talk of sorrow and repentance, but on the understanding that what you have proposed shall be done. I promise that the act which your entrance prevented shall not be repeated. I was firmly resolved to die rather than meet expected disgrace, but as you insure me against that, I have no other quarrel in life. There is what I had written, to be found when I was no more. Read it, then destroy it, and as you will on the clue which it gives you to the place where Lady Eagleheart is confined.'

He pointed to a sheet of writing paper which lay unfolded on the table, which Philip at once took up and perused, and which, the moment he had done so, he tore into fragments, and threw into the grate.

'The very first thing to do is to release her ladyship from this terrible confinement,' he said.

'Yes,' was his lordship's simple utterance of assent.

'Write a line authorizing this man Jaason to relinquish her to us,' said Philip, 'and I will depart for the place instantly.'

Lord Eagleheart wrote the line of authorization suggested, and no sooner had Philip received it than he hastened away to join Charles and Dora at the end of the Lime Walk.

He had reached almost to the spot, when he heard loud angry voices proceeding from the neighborhood of the summer-house, and on coming to within sight of the front of it, he was astonished to behold Charles and Edgar Eagleheart struggling violently with each other, and Dora frantically trying to separate them from each other's gripe.

This scene of violence needs explanation, and we must show how it came to pass.

CHAPTER XLI.

A HAUGHTY SPIRIT MEETS WITH A FALL—THE RELEASE OF THE PRISONER—JOY AND HAPPINESS GATHER INTO RADIENT LIGHT.

While Charles and Dora sat together in affectionate communion in the summer-house—he with his arm tenderly around her, and she with her head leaning on his shoulder, listening with breathless interest to the wonderful story he had to tell her concerning the discovery which proved Mary Woodford to be the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ravensworth—neither of them perceived the form of a youth, clad in a hunting dress, who came up the slope of the ravine, and was standing gazing at them in astonishment and indignation.

This was Edgar Eagleheart, a young man whose nature it was to comport himself according to his estimate of what became the heir of the Eaglehearf title—that is to say, he comported himself imperiously, haughtily, and insolently. He was, in the most offensive sense, an aristocrat—selfish, supercilious, unscrupulously conceited, possessed of no real manliness, and one who considered himself infinitely superior to "vulgar herd" of his fellow- mortals.

In this "herd" he had always counted Charles Ravensworth, or, as he styled him, "the base-born fellow who had got bestowed on him the name of Charles Ravensworth. He had never been able to get over the amazement produced by the astounding fact that Lord Eagleheart had consented to the insane proposition of Philip Ravensworth that Dora should become the wife of Charles. This was an arrangement which he could not overturn, but he took no pains to conceal his disgust, and, when he came in contact with Charles, never failed to treat him with sovereign contempt. This enmity and spite began long years ago, on the memorable morning when Charles, in the form of a climbing-boy, had descended the chimney of the nursery in London, and Edgar resented it as the highest disgrace that a low, vulgar wretch of his stamp should have been adopted by Ravensworth,—but above all, that it should be settled that he was to be the husband of his sister. His satisfaction was unbounded when the discovery was made that Charles was the son of Huffey White, and that, in consequence, the proposed marriage—so hateful and monstrous —was summarily annulled by Lord Eagleheart. And how his lordly lip curled with disdain when he learned—as somehow he did—that Charles had gone and married the poor schoolmistress, Mary Woodford.

TO BE CONTINUED.

From the Hub

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover from.—Boston Globe.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using GRAEF'S AUGUST FLOWER. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of AUGUST FLOWER will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of retail druggists, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "out of stock," but have another article just as good, if not better, which they will supply at the same price. The only object of this deception is transparent. These druggists are trying to sell on the great reputation of Pain-Killer's merits a compound of the vilest character, got by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize five cents more profit on it. He uses the imitation article then he can on the genuine.

FOR CHOLERA MORBUS, CRAMPS, AND ALL SUMMER OR BOWEL COMPLAINTS PERRY DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER IS UNEQUALLED. IT CURES ALMOST INSTANTLY.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz. and 5 oz. bottles; retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively—large bottles the cheapest

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the un, qualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine did, is truly marvelous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practice, extensively Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I cordially declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting disease, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly regulated and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed side. My life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoken word for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878,

About the 20th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am respectfully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, Mr. JAMES L. FELLOWS, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Anæmia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.

THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING, Co.

GENTS.—We have used your Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or any form of Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

DEAR SIR.—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine. I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I have tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery. When you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have died. I have not seen this now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.,

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me. I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

A Trip to the North-West.

III.

Winnipeg is a place (if the transient population can be counted) of about 11,000 souls—if not, subtract 1,000 from the original, and you have the correct size of the metropolitan city of the great North-West. It is situated at the confluence of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers. It is but a short time since the waters of these Rivers were considered useless, and the murmurings of these streams answered but one purpose, that of rocking into quiet sleep the innocent little papoose in the humble, unpretentious red man's wigwam. "Red" and "Assiniboine" were meaningless words on the map of British territory, and excited not even the smallest amount of interest; and even to-day some of our common school teachers possess not any too full a knowledge of their meaning. I will just say that the Assiniboine of to-day means a mighty stream of water, measuring its winding course of 600 miles in length, and passes through this territory a distance of 400 miles north-west of Winnipeg,—has already been navigated over 350 miles, and large flat-bottomed steamers are now making their regular trips as far west as Fort Ellice, the distance above stated, carrying large quantities of freight into the interior to supply the wants of the venturesome, energetic, and prosperous pioneer. The city being built on an eminence in the midst of a prairie country, gives it a somewhat imposing appearance, and can be seen for miles away. From the numberless descriptions that have already been written about Winnipeg, one would imagine that the place must be photographed in every reading mind, and an attempt on my part to describe the city would be altogether out of place, and so I will refrain.

Business here is very brisk; everything appears to be on the move; the whole city appears to be all activity and life. Although this is one of the dullest of summer months, yet Main St. of this city presents a lively appearance. Everybody appears to be satisfied with their lot. All who have settled in this country, either as farmers or business men or merchants, do not feel like trading off this country or climate for any other they have ever had any experience in.

One prominent merchant of this city told me to-day that he had written to some of his friends in England and encouraged them to come out to this country, and a few days ago he received word that one of them would be here in about four weeks with £35,000 in his possession, with which he intends to buy a large farm with and stock it. He intends farming on a large scale. It is the most astonishing thing in the world to see Canadians, professing to be truly patriotic, coming into this country and writing about the country in a most disparaging way, telling the most doleful tales that a lugubrious mind can conceive or pen can write. To a man with a spark of patriotism within him, no Canadian possessing any love for his country, however small the amount may be, can come into this new Province or the North-west Territory and send back to the older parts of our Dominion a dismal story and be within the limits of truth. What is still worse and more to be wondered at is that some of the papers of Canada, advertising their columns to be devoted chiefly and entirely to the developing of our young nation and propagating those principles which will tend to distinguish Canada in the circle of nations, will send correspondents into this country for the purpose of crying it down, whether it is from political opposition or not I will not attempt to say.

There is this much about it, that with the present Government policy this country has a sure warrant of success. The most unpolished correspondence that I have ever read was one published in the London Advertiser written in Winnipeg by the "special reporter" of the above named paper, and judging from the manner of his writing, he must have received orders from headquarters to write as he did, or else he wrote from a profound conviction and not wishing to change his tone, he spoke of the country as being the best place for any one to go to except bartenders and servant girls, and the climate was dealt with by the pen of their "special reporter" in a manner which would have done discredit to a Pennsylvania collier. He made a scathing attack upon Winnipeg particularly. Not even the places of worship received a word of praise from him. The business men of this city he dubbed as lunatics. I will give you a specimen of his writing:—

"While I was passing a Main St. lot upon which a building was being erected, a friend asked me to guess what the lot was worth, it had 30 feet frontage. I mentally calculated it worth about $25 a foot, and then proudly answered, allowing a good margin for the wear and tear in prices.

"Well I guess it ought to be worth about $1,000." "It was bought the other day for $1,500," coolly responded my friend.

"There was no lunatic asylum anywhere around or I would have placed my friend there without any further nonsense."

Such scribbling as this is simply absurd, and for the sake of the credit of the Press, for the credit of Canada, it should never have been published.

But then the London Tzar is known chiefly for its mistakes, and thank an overruling Providence, its influence is not widespread.

There is a marked change in the way of improvement in this city within a year, building is the order of the day. On every street pile drivers are at work preparing foundations for new buildings. The Roman Catholic body are putting up buildings this summer to the extent of $150,000. They are building a College 60 ft. by 120, and will require 600,000 brick; they are also building a new convent 100 ft. by 80 ft. on Notre Dame St., which will take 415,000 of brick to complete it. They are also building a large church and common school on St. Mary's St. All these buildings will be both useful and ornamental to the city. The Hudson Bay Company are putting up a large building for the use of Officer and stores; it is to be a very expensive structure, the contract price for the brickwork alone is over $6,400. What the building will cost when done I do not know, but we will let some contractor figure.

Notwithstanding all that has been written and said to the direct effect that Winnipeg has seen its best days, business continues to increase and property is daily enhancing in value. The great bulk of the trade of Manitoba and the Nor' West Territories is done in this city, and instead of this trade decreasing as other towns are started in the interior and railways are pushed through, we are of the opinion that it will increase; but its character will change to a certain extent. The bulk of the new trade of the future will be wholesale and less will be done each year in immigrants' outfits. There is a large and growing business being done in agricultural implements, one firm alone selling this year 320 mowers, 320 reapers, 300 farm waggons and 380 fanning mills; the latter are the "Honey" mill manufactured by W. T. Dingle, of Oshawa, Ont. Heretofore all the mills of this description landed in this market have been of American manufacture. This sale of Canadian mills is one of the evil (1) results of the N. P.

There is a brisk trade being done in Winnipeg and there are lots of men in business to do it, in fact too many. A good many lines are overdone, while all are fully represented. So reader, do not come out here to "start a store." There is another man here for that purpose already. If you are willing to work and have a little money, come out by all means and go farming.

Press Association Excursion.

It has been the habit of the Press Association to make annual excursions, generally to the eastward. This year the Association considered it desirable to take the advice of that sage journalist Horace Greeley and "go west." The route chosen was through the Georgian Bay, by way of the great north Manitoulin Channel to Lake Superior, and from thence to Prince Arthur's Landing, Fort William and the town plot, hallowed by the memory of the immense sum paid for that out of the way piece of property, together with the celebrated "Neebing Hotel" by the Mackenzie Administration. A number of the party met in Toronto on Wednesday, the 4th inst., in time to witness the boat race, but ere this reaches the eyes of your readers the boat race will have been through and the whirligig of time almost forgotten. We might here venture the remark that those who depend upon the press for a description of such events have a great advantage over the eye witness, as the reader is made aware of who are the successful competitors, whilst the spectators, stationed at long distances, require the aid of a powerful telescope to determine that point.

Thursday, the 5th inst., the members of the Association present, which was less than upon any previous occasion, started by special train on the Northern Railway for Collingwood. The train was in charge of General Passenger Agent Robert Kerr and Mr. Aymong conductor, who accompanied the party on the round trip, and to whose services to the party we will again refer. Mr. Barlow Cumberland also accompanied the party as far as Owen Sound, and did everything in his power to add to the comfort of the excursionists.

Whilst railroads usually run through the roughest part of the country, the northern road, (which is a fine neat road with stations, and beautiful grounds,) as far as Barrie, runs through as fine farming land as there is in Canada, with every evidence of a bountiful harvest as a reward to the husbandman for his toil. A run of 94 miles brought us to Collingwood, which is a thriving village with some fine stores and evidences of thrift on every side. There are two large sawmills in the village, and being the outlet for the Georgian Bay and Lake Superior grain trade, makes it a grain centre. Last year there were about four million bushels handled by the elevator. With the Canada Pacific built and navigation improved, Collingwood has the prospects of a bright commercial future.

Upon the arrival of the party at Collingwood all were soon hurried on board the steamer City of Winnipeg of the Collingwood and Lake Superior Transit Company, Capt. J. Kennedy, engineer J. Clark. The steamer had been tastefully decorated with evergreens. With the band playing we steamed out of the harbor for a run of 23 miles to Meaford. 32 miles farther brought us to Owen Sound, where a number of cattle were shipped for Prince Arthur's Landing. On rising on the morning we found ourselves steaming along through the Georgian Bay with time to examine with what our good ship is laden. Besides general freight there are a hundred tons of railroad iron for the Canada Pacific, and our passengers consist of over two hundred souls, a number of whom are emigrants, some sixty were Mennonites and a number of navvies on the way to work on the Canada Pacific road. Amongst the passengers was Mr. John Boyd, formerly of Marmora, with a staff of thirteen men, a team of horses and supplies on their way to Sault St. Marie, where they leave us to proceed to Goulais river, twenty one miles distant, where other men have already preceded them, and where Mr. Boyd is building a bridge that will take thirty men two months to construct and will cost $3,000, the local government bearing one half and the Indian Department the other half of the cost of construction.

Our passengers represent all classes, from the clergyman on his summer vacation to the newly married couple that have just started on the voyage of life together—the western farmer that tells such thrilling tales of bush fires and dangers incident to a new country—and the hardy yeoman and his little family bound to the far west with the laudable desire of endeavoring to better his condition in life—the wife on her way to join her husband in that western home which he has prepared for her—and last, but not least, the "thoughtful" mother with her little babe on her way to visit friends at their distant home. The run through the Georgian Bay was delightful; passing near to Lonely Island, occupied alone by the lighthouse keeper. In the evening we reached the opening between the Georgian Bay and the great north Manitoulin channel, 110 miles distant from Owen Sound. On the north are the lofty granite cliffs of the LaCloche mountains, reminding one very much of the range of high hills in the vicinity of the Gatling mine. The opening is narrow, but deep, and is a noted fishing point, thirty tons of whitefish being caught and shipped at that point weekly. A small fishing station is located at that point, called by a name dear to Irishmen, Killarney. Near the station are located a number of Indian wigwams, the redskin occupants being engaged in fishing. A stay of a few minutes allowed the passengers time to inspect an Indian church and grave yard in the vicinity. In the grave yard a few marble slabs mark the resting place of loved ones, but most of the head stones are but simple wooden crosses with a portion about three inches square, cut out where the wood crosses, the place being filled with a piece of common window glass, behind which is placed a little picture looking as if cut from some pictorial paper. Many of the graves had wreaths of artificial flowers hung on the crosses, testifying to the love of the red men for their deceased friends.

Passing the entrance the course widens into the great north Manitoulin Channel, reaching all the way from the Georgian Bay to the northern shore of the Great Manitoulin Island, which is ninety miles in length. The course through the channel is studded with thousands of islands, a run through which reminds one very much of the run through the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence.

Each evening was spent by a musical and literary entertainment, in which the members of the Association and passengers joined, and which added much to the enjoyment of the excursion. The entertainments were enlivened by selections by the Newmarket Band, which accompanied the excursion on the round trip, and earned the praises of the whole party, not only on account of their excellent musical ability, but the ready manner in which they at all times lent their musical assistance when desired.

A run of twenty-five miles brought us to Little Current, a hamlet on the north shore of the Great Manitoulin Islands. This spot is called Little Current because it is said that a tide sets in between the Islands with a four knot current, caused by the wind, and changing to whatever direction the wind is blowing. The navigation at this point is dangerous for large vessels, and we understand it is the intention of the Dominion Government to have the channel enlarged. The hamlet consists of a store and a few neat dwellings. In conversation with a settler we found that the crops on the island were good this year, and he gave it as his opinion that the Island would prove valuable for wheat growing. The Islands are shut in by the ice from the outside world the greater part of the year, the member for the district having to travel seven days by dog train to reach a public conveyance when proceeding to Parliament.

A number of Indians with their squaws and papooses located on the hills adjoining hearing the band came filing down the hill to the wharf, where some of them engaged in a spirited dance to the strains of music, proving the truth of the old adage that "music hath charms to soothe the savage breast."

Early morning found us at the Bruce Mines, situated 105 miles from Little Current and 307 miles from Collingwood. The mines are deserted, only the tall chimney, deserted buildings, mountains of debris, and a few dwellings, show where once was located a flourishing trade, and where a quarter of a million dollars was expended in mining for copper, but apparently without success.

Leaving the Bruce mines we soon reached St. Joseph Island, where we stopped to wood. The island is twenty miles in length and eleven miles in width. Residents on the island report crops good. There are two stores on the island which, like all other places in that region, is shut in from the outer world during the winter months. Mr. Campbell and staff are at present engaged building a colonization road across the island.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, AUG. 20.

The Grand Trunk Railway.

It must be a source of real gratification to every Canadian to witness the prosperous career upon which the Grand Trunk Railway Company has entered, and its bright prospects of future prosperity. No other corporation of such magnitude has seen so many dark days, or has passed through severer difficulties, or has had harder struggles for existence. It is only a few years since that it was looked upon as almost an utter ruin—its rolling stock was old and comparatively worthless, and it had not sufficient credit to purchase new—the rails were wearing out, and no money to replace them—and its stock was scarcely quoted on the London Exchange—the English stockholders were willing to sell out almost for a song, but there was no one to buy. It was in a helpless, almost hopeless condition, and there was scarcely a rift in the commercial cloud which settled over it. But the dark days have gone, thanks to the energy, ability, and careful and thorough management of Mr. Hickson, assisted by an efficient staff, to whom the present prosperous state of the road is largely due. The tide has turned, and the road has entered upon an era of prosperity, which in view of its recent almost hopeless condition, may be characterized as simply wonderful.

At the last annual meeting of the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway, it was stated by the President of the Company that a number of items of debt were outstanding, which he called pre-preferences, because the interest upon them had to be met before a dividend could be paid upon even the preference stocks. He stated that though the number of those items had been reduced by purchase or through redemption by the issue of debenture stock, yet a number still remained. He then said:

"We shall be able during the course of the next few years, under the Debenture Stock Act of 1874, to redeem nearly all these prior charges. Our securities have now arrived at that point that it will be highly beneficial to us to do so, and we shall lose no opportunity from time to time of redeeming these pre-preference securities, and you will be happy to hear that the result to the Company will be, when we have accomplished that object, a gain of £20,000 to £25,000 a year. (Cheers.) We shall thus simplify our accounts; we shall reduce the interest to that amount—say £25,000 a year—which is all practically net profit to us; and we shall avoid the risk which is incurred more or less by public companies in the same position, in having to redeem at some inconvenient moment the sums which fall due to be paid; for it almost always does happen when large sums are falling due at particular periods that those periods are inconvenient to the Company."

In accordance with the policy announced by the President for the payment of these scurities, the Company invited tenders for the issue of £1,000,000 sterling "perpetual "five per cent. stock in scrip or interim "certificate, to be exchanged on or after "the first of July next for stock certificates "of the perpetual debenture stock ranking "pari passu with the whole issue."

The issue was at five per cent. premium, that is one hundred and five pounds per one hundred pounds, so that the actual rate of interest which the investment will bear is £4 15s. per centum per annum. Only a million of pounds was asked for, but so popular have Grand Trunk five per cents become, and so rapid has been the progress of the Grand Trunk Railway in the public confidence, that applications were received for two million pounds sterling of the stock, that is, a million more than was asked for.

The securities which will be paid off with this loan, or rather the proceeds of the issue of debentures, bear interest at six per cent, a small proportion bearing seven per cent. interest, thus effecting the saving of £25,000 per annum, spoken of by the President, besides an immediate saving of £14,000 as claimed by the prospectus. In the circular accompanying the prospectus the advantages of this new issue are pointed out as follows:

"The basis of the debenture stock itself will be enlarged, and its market value increased. The prior charges referred to will be cancelled and their existing security will add to that of the debenture stock in future. The credit of the Company will be improved. The risk of renewing terminable securities at possibly inconvenient times will be avoided. The preference stocks of the Company will be benefited, and their relative value proportionately improved, by the reduction of the charges to be annually met in priority to their dividends."

The five per cent premium on the million pounds will show a profit not foreseen by the President of £50,000. And as an evidence of the rapid progress the Grand Trunk Railway Company has made, and its improved standing in the London Stock Exchange, it may be mentioned that this same stock in April, 1877, sold as low as 65½, while now it brings 105 at five per cent. premium, and while only one million was wanted by the Company, applications were made for two millions, so eager were English capitalists to get hold of them.

What a change in a few years! From a state of almost hopeless bankruptcy to brilliant financial success, with every possible indication of a still more prosperous future. It is certainly something of which Canadians may well be proud, and we might be pardoned for indulging in a little Yankee boasting in contemplating the wonderful changes and progress which a few years have accomplished. It is certainly in the highest degree encouraging to chronicle such a cheering record, in view of the persistent efforts of the Globe to decry Canadian credit and Canadian securities in the money market of Great Britain; and although that journal must be forced to acknowledge the great prosperity which has followed Mr. Hickson's management of the road, and to concede the wonderful financial success of the Company's loan, it is no doubt at the same time galling to be compelled to admit it.

We cannot do better than close this article with the following commendatory remarks of Mr. Hickson's management from the Montreal Gazette, which will be heartily endorsed by every one at all conversant with the history of this corporation:

"But it is largely, if not chiefly due to the careful management which characterizes the conduct of the affairs of the Company. No public company, we venture to say, is happier in the possession of a general manager than is the Grand Trunk. Mr. Hickson is an enthusiast in his work, and apparently has no ambition except that of identifying himself with the success of the enterprise with whose management he is charged. Day and night he labors for success, and it must be to him a matter of great satisfaction to see this result of his labors. A thorough railway man, he devotes himself exclusively to the business which he has in hand; and in this way he has made the Grand Trunk Railway a model of good management, and of rapid and punctual service. The public, we are sure, will agree with us in rejoicing that he is able to realize, in the transaction which we have just indicated, the confidence which he has been able by his carefulness and unremitting attention to the duties of his office, to inspire among the capitalists of the great monetary centre of the world, as well as to see, in the steadily increasing traffic receipts, a prospect of still further achievement towards that complete financial success which will be indicated by the payment of dividends even upon the share capital of the Company."

The Estimates.

Alderman Jellett, the Chairman of the Finance Committee, has followed the now customary course in having the estimated receipts and expenditure of the City for the year printed in sheet form for the information of all concerned. By this means the Aldermen are put in a position to discuss the "budget" intelligently, and such of the ratepayers as take sufficient interest in the matter can learn just how the municipal finances stand and how the taxes are applied.

The first item under the head of "Expenditure," is a statement of the liabilities of 1879 unpaid on the first of January, 1880, which foot up to the heavy aggregate of $77,963.72, of which $43,663.39 is for bills payable, whilst the amount to be paid under agreement to the County of Hastings is two years in arrear, namely $8,913.60; to the Public School Trustees $9,187.50 is due; to the Separate School Trustees $870, and so on. To meet this, assets of but $72,853.81 are shown, but as this includes uncollected taxes of the previous five years and other small but equally unreliable sources of revenue, it is quite apparent that the deficit on last year's transactions is in reality much larger than is shown on the face of the figures; for the creditors of the Corporation must be paid, whilst its debtors have always, and probably of necessity, been shown a greater degree of leniency.

Salaries	$ 6,200 00
Fire Department, including $1,150 for new hose	5,500 00
	5,000 00
Police
Poor and Sanitary including Hospital, grant to Home for Friendless and Railway passes	3,000 00
	800 00

County of Hastings	320 00
Election Expenses
Contingencies and Unforeseen expenses	1,500 00
Expenses of Collection, Losses and Remissions	4,243 89

This, with the liabilities of last year, leaves a total of $150,491.61 to be provided for.

	Surplus.	Deficit.
Salaries		553 31
Fire Department		754 63

	88,844 05
Rate 17½ mills on Revised Assessment 1880, $3,473,102.00	61,647 56
	$150 091 61

The School tax will be 4½ mills and the Separate School tax 7 mills, making the total rate for Municipal and Public School purposes 22½ mills on the dollar, against 19½ mills last year.

This showing is not, on the face of it, a flattering one; but when all the circumstances are considered, it will be seen that Mr. Jellett has had unusual difficulties to contend with and has discharged his duties with ability. In the first place he has had to provide for a deficit of $4,900 from last year and an entirely unlooked for and extraordinary expenditure of $1,500 on hospital account. Then the Court of Revision and the Assessors together reduced the amount of the assessment from $3,731,674 in 1879 to $3,473,102 in 1880, or a decrease of $258,572. So that, had last year's revenue and expenditure balanced, had not the assessment been reduced, and had not the hospital expenditure been incurred, the rate might have been struck at 14½ mills, or lower than last year, for municipal purposes.

Whilst there are but few items of expenditure which can be interfered with, we certainly are of opinion that some savings could be effected did the Council but address themselves earnestly to the task. Some of the salaries would bear judicious pruning, and the expenditure of the Police Department could be materially reduced. It certainly does seem that $5,000 per annum is too much to pay for the maintenance of a force, the members of which are seldom or never to be seen off Front Street, except when on their way to and from their homes. The Council can regulate this expenditure if they choose, but they have not seen fit to avail themselves of the provisions of the law in that regard. The Gas account is another drain upon the municipal purse, whilst the Fire expenses are also very large and will bear careful looking into. Kingston, with something more than twice the area of Belleville, spent but $1,946 in street lighting, whilst the expenditure in this city was upwards of $4,000.

In conclusion, we would advise the Council that they cannot too carefully study the subject of the revenues and expenditures under their direction. The taxes are high, taking the assessed value of property into consideration, and where reduction in expenditure or increase of revenue can be brought about, in order to lessen the burden which the ratepayers have to bear, the Aldermen ought to undertake it, without regard for any interest except that of the public whom they represent and of whose estate they have been entrusted with the administration. Let them deal with the public money as if it were their own, and we venture to say that an improvement in the financial condition of the municipality will soon manifest itself.

The Railway Negotiations.

(By Cable to the Mail.)

LONDON, Aug. 19.

The arrangements with the syndicate for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway out of the lands of the North-west are progressing very satisfactorily. It is almost unnecessary to say that the settlement of the details is a task involving considerable labour; But the British capitalists and the Ministers are working together most harmoniously; and the final and complete arrangements will probably be made within a few days. At this juncture, however, it would be manifestly imprudent to disclose the nature of the terms; but it is safe to say Canadian interests will not suffer in the Premier's hands, and that the members of the syndicate are acting liberally towards him.

ASSAULT ON CANDAHAR.

Ayoub Khan Attempts to Carry the City by Storm.

A WEAK POINT ASSAILED.

LONDON, Aug. 19.

A despatch just received at Bombay states that it is reported that Ayoub Khan endeavored to day to storm Candahar at the Shikapore gate. This gate is on the east side of the city, and opens upon the bazaar which leads directly to the centre of the city, and thence straight on to the citadel. Just in front of this face of the citadel are two walls twenty feet high and about eight feet thick. In this, however, there is a gap, and it is to this point that Ayoub Khan is directing his assault. Up to this time the fighting has been desperate on both sides, but the British have thus far been able to repulse every attempt of the Afghans to force their way through the gap. The British garrison consists of four guns of "C" battery, second brigade, the whole of the 5th battery, 110th brigade, Royal Artillery, the Poonah Horse, the 7th Royal Fusiliers, and the 19th and 20th Bombay native infantry. The officers besides General Primrose are Lieut. Colonel Alfred Danbery, Major Vandeleur, Capts. Keyser, Grange, W. Maqning, Connolly, and Adderly, Lieuts. Rodich, Thunder, Anderson, Galt, Porter, Graham, and Wolff; Major Grey, Captains Collingswood and Hornsby, Lieuts. Fawke, Bell, Irving, and Fox; Colonel Greagh, Majors Jacob and French, Lieuts. Stevenson, Melville and Stayner. The situation of the garrison is very critical. Ayoob Khan has a force of not less than 20,000 men and good artillery, directed by Russian and other officers.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 20.—During a heavy storm last evening, the lightning struck two 25,000 bbl. iron tanks at Dallas City, 6 miles north-east of Bradford. 50,000 bbls. are now burning. One tank belongs to the United Co. and the other to the Tidewater pipe line; both were consumed. A force to dig trenches prevented the spread of the fire. The village is not in danger. A telegram at midnight gives the opinion that the fire can be confined to the tanks now burning.

PUEBLA, Colorado, Aug. 20.—The Puebla Reduction works were struck by lightning, and totally destroyed by fire. Loss, $12,000.

THE FENIANS.—Cable despatches say that every day brings new evidences of the activity of the Fenians. On the night of the 18th inst. over 200 men were discovered drilling along the Spa canal, Munster County. Upon the constabulary's approach the pickets of the drilling party gave the alarm and the men fled. A Dublin despatch says twenty-two of the Belfast rioters have been sentenced to six months' imprisonment. The riots have been renewed. At Dungannon physicians are treating twenty-eight persons wounded by bayonets or ball.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM!—It has been reported from Washington that counterfeit one dollar greenbacks are in circulation. They are of the D edition, dated 1875, and signed A. U. Wyman, treasurer. The imitation is not good and may be easily detected.

EXCURSION TO THOUSAND ISLAND PARK on Saturday, Aug. 21st, by steamer Varuna, returning on Monday afternoon, Aug. 23rd.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St., and get your old suits done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity

LATE.—The mail from the west was one hour late to-day.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—A special meeting of the Board of Education will be held this evening at the usual hour.

DOGS POISONED.—Seven dogs were poisoned at Ferry Point yesterday—by whom or for what cause has not been learned.

GREAT YIELD.—Mr. N. S. Reid, of Thurlow, brought in some stubble of Rye, which apparently sprung from one seed. It has 92 stalks.

THE EXCURSION.—Remember the excursion to Thousand Island Park, per steamer Varuna, to-morrow. It will probably be the last of the season. The fair is low, the attractions unusually good and the weather all that can be desired. See advertisement.

THE ICE TRADE.—The Trenton Courier reports that Mr. Baker, of that town, has sold his stock of ice for $5 a ton. A handsome profit must have been realized.

GOING TO TORONTO.—Several of our local riflemen and some from Picton as well, will go to Toronto to take part in the matches of the Ontario Rifle Association, which will commence there on Monday.

LACROSSE.—The Belleville and Peterboro' Lacrosse Clubs have at last come to an understanding, and the return match between those organizations will be played at Peterboro' early in September.

LARGE SHIPMENT.—During the week ending on Wednesday night there was shipped from the Eagle Mill 1,553,000 feet of lumber, being the largest shipment ever made from that mill in one week.

NEW CULVERTS.—The Peterborough Review says: "The Grand Junction Railway Company are building new culverts all along the line of the Cobourg Railway as far as Downer's Corners, those at present built not being suitable."

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—The Young People's Aid Association of the Methodist Church, Trenton, will have a moonlight excursion per steamer Varuna on the evening of Tuesday, August 24th, leaving Belleville at 5 o'clock, and returning at half past nine. Particulars in advertisement to-morrow.

CHANGE OF BASE.—We understand that the Messrs Gilmour, of Trenton, contemplate removing their depot from Marmora to Madoc, being more convenient on account of railway communication. In connection with the depot they will have an extensive lumber yard. Suitable buildings are to be erected for their depot, supplies and lumber business.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—To-morrow afternoon and evening the splendid steamer Alexandra will give an excursion, leaving her wharfat 4.30 and 8 o'clock. After going to the head of the bay she will take the party down making a stop, but not landing passengers at Massassaga Point, where the 15th Battalion are now in camp. During these beautiful moonlight nights no more delightful trip could be desired.

REDUCED TELEGRAPH RATES.—The French cable Company in connection with the Dominion Telegraph Company of Canada, have reduced the rates to all points in France. The rate from Cape Breton, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick 10 words for $1, and ten cents each additional word, from Ontario and Quebec 10 words for $1.25 and twelve cents each additional word.

HEAVY STORM.—A very severe thunder storm passed over Western Ontario on the 19th inst, doing an immense amount of damage. At Fingal, houses were unroofed, trees blown down, and orchards stripped of fruit. Five barns in different localities were struck by lightning and destroyed.

MARINE FIREWORKS.—There is to be a grand display of marine fireworks on the Bay of Quinte on Wednesday, August 25th, on some point of the Bay which will hereafter be designated, under the superintendence of Prof. Hand of Hamilton. The Committee of management have engaged the steamers Mary Ethel, Desoronto, Armenia, Pilgrim, Flight, and the commodious barge Industry. The fleet will also be illuminated. Music will be furnished by the 15th Battalion Band. For particulars see advertisement.

HOTEL KEEPERS and other would do well to examine Jas. Hennessy's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offered at 25 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessy.

THE LIQUOR LAW.

The case of Grainger vs Sarsfield was dismissed.

Railway Notes.

Track laying on the Grand Junction, from Hastings westward, will be commenced just so soon as the rails can be got. A very large quantity of steel rails for this road have been delivered at Montreal, but so crowded is the Grand Trunk with freight for the west that flat cars cannot be spared for their transportation. Cars will have to be sent by the Grand Junction—though they can be but ill spared—and the first train of rails will arrive early next week, when track laying, which has been delayed for two weeks later than anticipated, because of the rush of freight on the Grand Trunk, will at once be commenced and carried on as rapidly as possible.

Eight flat cars, in addition to all others, have been delivered to the Grand Junction, and all are profitably employed, with a demand for more. Twenty additional cars of this class will be delivered probably to-night. All were made at the Cobourg works.

Business both on the main line and on the Madoc branch continues brisk. Eight cars of ore arrived yesterday and six cars to-day, all for shipment over the wharf.

Marine.

The schr. Pearl has arrived from Fair Haven with coal for Rathbun & Son.

The schr. Paragon has cleared for Asthtabula with iron ore.

Trenton Correspondence.

Allan Gilmour's steam yacht Cruiser arrived here on Thursday evening. It is the finest steam yacht in Canadian waters.

The P. E. County train last Wednesday evening that took home the Picton excursionists ran off the track about three miles south of Wellington. It appears that on returning to Trenton the engine struck a hand car, left on the track, throwing the whole train off. Nobody was hurt, though there was a car full of Trenton folks. Several cars were damaged and it took some hours to resume traffic. A former section man is supposed to be the guilty party.

Ameliasburgh Correspondence.

There has been very little stir during the past week. Perhaps owing to the dry weather and want of rain, farmers have commenced to plow but find it quite hard. No price as yet offered for barley.

The Ameliasburg circuit claim three hundred and seventy dollars, due them from the Rednerville circuit, the amount they paid towards building the parsonage at Rednerville.

The extending of the Montreal line of Telegraph from Ameliasburg to Rednerville which has been frequently talked of, will in all probability die out for some time. The general opinion is that chat news can be carried much cheaper and as quickly through the people if not so correctly. Of course people have the right to keep secrets the same as before if they choose.

Quite a number went on the excursion from this place per Alexandra on Saturday evening. Our people enjoy these Saturday night trips very much.

FAST TRAINS IN ENGLAND.—The "Flying Scotchman" is one of the four fastest trains run on the English railways. The distance from London to Edinburgh is 397 miles, and is made in 9 hours and 30 minuts, or at the rate of 42 miles per hour, including stops. Over the portion of the road between London and Peterborough the distance of 76½ miles is made in 1 hour 32 minutes, or at the rate of 50 miles an hour. Another well known fast train is the "Flying Dutchman" on the London and Southwestern Railway, which make the distance from London to Plymouth, 246¼ miles, in 6 hours and 15 minutes, or at the rate of 42 miles an hour, the same speed as that of the "Flying Scotchman." A faster train than either of these is the "Wild Irishman," which runs from London to Holyhead a distance of 298 miles, in 9 hours 35 minutes or at the rate of 43 miles an hour, including stops. These are the three longest routes over which fast trains are run in Great Britain. There are several shorter routes over which much better time is made, notably the route from London to Swindon, on the Great Western Railway, a distance of 77¼ miles, which is made in 1 hour and 27 minutes or at the rate of 53¼ miles an hour. This is the fastest time made on any of the English railways.

Sawn Lumber Furnishes Food for the Flames.

RATHBUN & SON THE LOSERS.

(Special to the Intelligencer.)

MILL POINT, Aug. 19.

Shortly after twelve o'clock to-day a fire broke out in one of the lumber piles stowed on the "long dock," and such was the force and spread of the flames that at three o'clock, 20 piles of lumber containing 300,000 feet were destroyed, and the wharf materially injured

The mills had shut down at twelve o'clock and the employees were enjoying their midday repast and rest when the fire was first noticed. The alarm was at once given, the steam fire engine owned by the firm was got out with commendable celerity and set to work, and two leads of hose were attached to the two large engines of the mill. Copious streams of water were poured upon the burning mass of pine, but owing to the inflammable nature of the lumber and the fanning effect of the wind which blew lightly from the west, the work of subduing the fiery element was not as progressive as could have been desired.

The men worked with a will, and at length their labors were rewarded by the stoppage of the flames.

The fire started at nearly the extreme end of the long dock—which runs in a westerly direction from the wharf upon which the storehouse is located—and is supposed to have originated from a cinder from the tug Sherwood or from a spark from a man's pipe.

A large barge and a number of schooners were tied up near by, but all were towed away by the tug without receiving injury of any kind.

The blaze was very bright and the atmosphere was filled with smoke and sparks from the burning mass, which could be seen at a long distance from the scene of the fire.

Still Booming.

The Grand Trunk Railway traffic receipts for the week ending August 14th show an increase of $5,298 over those of the week before and of $56,502 over those of the corresponding week of last year. The following are the receipts for the traffic week ending August 14th 1880, and of those of the same week in 1879:—

Year.	Miles Open.	Passengers, mails and express.	Freight and Live Stock.	Total.
1879	1,2901	33.315	102.895	161.210

Increase in 1880.....$56,502

The Riviere-du-Loup receipts are included in 1879, but not in 1880; adding them ($3,000), the week's increase would be $59,292. The aggregate increase for thirty-three weeks is $1,242,502

A FAMINE FEARED IN PRUSSIA.—A cable from Berlin says; The papers are again full of disheartening reports of the harvest in Silesia and East and West Prussia. The crops of certain districts are wholly destroyed, lives lost, railway and river embankments swept away, bridges broken down, villages flooded, farms inundated, and vast tracts of wheat-growing land converted into lakes. A great famine is feared.

A VERY STRANGE "MISTAKE".—A young man named Albert Arker was shot in mistake for a deer while crossing Trout Lake, Lanark County, in a canoe, a few evenings ago. Fred. Otter was the name of the person who fired the shot, and he is naturally sorely grieved at the mistake made, inasmuch as Arker may die from the wounds inflicted. The shot lodged in Arker's back.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The steamer Herder from Hamburg on Wednesday for New York took out $1,524,000 in specie.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 20.—Chung How, the Chinese ambassador who concluded the Kulja treaty with Russia and was imprisoned and threatened with death for it, has been released.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Yesterday all the New York managers of various coal corporations agreed to advance the price of coal for September delivery 10 cts. per ton large size, and 20 cts. for domestic grades.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Freycinet, president of the Ministry, in a recent speech at Montauban, declared that the recent elections completed the foundation of the Republic. He announced that the Government would include a bill to settle the condition of all the religious Associations, of this unauthorized congregations might take benefit, but never must be permitted to place themselves above law. The foreign political situation was never better France had emerged from isolation, to which events had condemned her, and resumed her place in general politics.

An American lady, formerly Miss Moulton, from whom for reasons of State her husband Count Von Halsell, of Germany, has been divorced, is the daughter of an Albany gentleman since deceased. She was educated in Paris, and there met the Count who she married in '69.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 20.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, moderate to fresh winds, partly cloudy to cloudy weather, with rain areas.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

Conceive, then, his state of amazement and rage when on coming to the brow of the slope his eye lighted on Charles and Dora seated so familiarly and affectionately together in the summer-house. At first he could not believe that what he saw was real, but as he stood and gazed, the horrible fact was placed beyond a doubt. Charles and Dora it was, seated there alone, in the most familiar attitude, and engaged in a conversation of apparently absorbing delight.

He was paralyzed. A rush of indignation nearly choked him, and, dashing the butt of his gun with force upon the gravel, he gave vent to a vehement oath.

They heard the sound and looked up, and as they looked up he strode forward to the entrance of the summer house.

Charles smiled and Dora laughed at sight of his flaming wrathful face. They knew how in his ignorance he must interpret the nature of the interview, and as they never had any sympathy with his high-toned notions, they rather enjoyed his present mystification.

The smile and laugh roused his fury to the utmost, and as Charles rose and emerged from the summer-house to meet him, Edgar, thinking he meant to decamp, threw himself before him.

'Stop!' he shouted. 'You don't leave here. You must answer to me for this.'

'I have no intention of leaving,' returned Charles, with the utmost composure, 'and I hope to be able satisfactorily to answer all that you demand.'

'Answer me satisfactorily!' roared Edgar. 'You well know that is what you can't do. But think not you will escape me. I will defend and save my sister's honor.'

'Your sister's honour is as dear to me as to you, rejoined Charles.

'Dear to you!' repeated Edgar, with a sneer. 'What should a fellow of your origin know about honour?'

'Edgar, Edgar, talk not so!' cried Dora. 'Charles is in all respects a gentlemen—and I am proud to say in thought and feeling more a gentleman than you!'

'Peace, shameless girl!' roared the irate youth. 'I have had sufficient evidence of the extent of his influence over you. But if you have forgot the family honor, it shall be my care to maintain it.'

'The family honor is quite as safe in my keeping as in yours,' retorted Dora, stung into momentary anger by the vile insinuation.

'You lie!' hissed Edgar; 'I have seen enough to show me that you have infamously disgraced it.'

'Hold!' cried Charles sternly. 'I cannot allow such words to be addressed to a lady—least of all to this lady.'

'You cannot allow it! And who are you?—the son of a thief, a robber, a convicted and executed felon. You a poor destitute beggar, who was get in your proper place, the gutter, and brought up on charity.'

'Ay,' answered Charles, stern and bitterly, 'There is some truth in what you say. I was deserted and abandoned, and I have not forgot that on the day I was rescued from my misery you did your best to hinder it. Spiteful even then, you wished me given back to the man who had doomed me to so cruel a fate.'

'I did!' roared Edgar. 'And nothing do I more regret at this moment than that you were not returned to your proper sphere—the sphere suited to your low and vulgar birth. As a mountebank or a chimney sweep you were in a suitable position, but the pampering you have had from the Ravensworths has made you insolent and presumptuous. This crowning act of your audacity, however, shall receive the chastisement it deserves.'

Besides the gun in his left hand, Edgar had a dog-whip in his right and laying down the gun, he brandished the latter in a manner in which dicated his intention to lay it on.

Dora called out loudly to him to forbear and a flash in the eye of Charles warned him to desist.

'Take care!' said the latter. 'If you persist in that sort of thing you will compel me to do what I have no wish to do. For your nontions of birth and breeding I have little more than contempt, but I have now to tell you that my birth is not inferior to your own, while my position may turn out to be something better.'

'You cursed, impudent liar!' shouted Edgar, 'take that for your——'

He raised the whip, but ere it could descend Charles had seized his arm in his vice like grasp.

Dora uttered a wildly agitated scream and rushing towards them, clung to the arm of both.

'Edgar, Edgar,' she cried, 'you do not know what you are doing. If you knew who Charles is, you would understand every thing. Be calm and patient and he will explain all.

'Dora speaks truly,' said Charles, I am——'

'A villian, a vagabond!' foamed Edgar, with glaring eyes.

'I tell you, Edgar Eagleheart, I am as well born as you are.'

'You!—the son of a wretch whom the hangman choked like a dog!'

'No, no,' exclaimed Dora, with passionate vehemence. 'What we have all believed is not the truth. Only be calm and hear it, and you will be sorry for this.'

'This lie cannot deceive me. You tell it but to save him from the chastisement I——'

A Great Enterprise.

The Greatest Remedy Known.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is certainly the greatest remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity. Thousands of once hopeless sufferers now loudly proclaim their praise for this wondgful Discovery, to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request that you call on your druggist, JAMES CLARKE & Co., and get a trial bottle free of charge, which will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what as regular one dollar size bottle will do.

From the Hub

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover from.—Boston Globe.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of AUGUST FLOWER will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

Our Progress.

As stages and stage routes are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the huge, drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and bulky medicines, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts and are warranted to cure all irregularities of stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by druggist.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a cusom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medical dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. In each of this deception is transparent. These statements are made entirely on the great reputation of "Pain-Killer," and to-day it is regarded of the vilest class of drugs, as it which PAIN-KILLER, which enables him (for the time) to realize more profit on the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA, will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virties of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOS PHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in all cctions of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

December 19th, 1878.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 113 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more on the strength of it and I feel and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 21, 1873,

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours.

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination, and in many cases from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle, the signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not got you working with me she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent; I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken almost every medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

OF SUCH IS THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN.

Little feet may find the pathway,
Leading upward unto God,
Little hands may learn to scatter
Seeds of precious truth abroad.
Youthful hearts may be the temple,
For the Spirit's dwelling place;
Childhood's lips declare the riches,
Of God's all-abounding grace.

Little ones, though frail and earth-born,
Heirs of blessedness may be,
For the Saviour whispered gently,
"Suffer such to come to Me,"
And in that eternal kingdom,
Mid the grand, triumphant throng,
Childish voices sweet may mingle,
In the glorious choral song.

INVISIBLE DROSS.

The sunshine streaming through the pane,
Athwart the gloom now throws a beam;
And o'er this light and myriad chain
A myriad atoms dart and gleam.

The room is full of finest dross,
Though pure as ether seems the air;
'Tis only when the sunbeams cross
We see the dust-specks dancing there.

Our lives are little else but dross;
And as we fondly deem them free,
Until, with dazzled gaze, we cross
Those rays, O God, that fall from Thee.

TWILIGHT'S HOUR.

The sunlight on a waveless sea
In softened radiance faded slowly;
The folded flower, the mist-crowned tree,
Proclaim the gathering twilight holy.

It is the hour when passion bows;
A solemn stillness round us lingers;
And on our wildly-throbbing brows
We feel the touch of angel's fingers.

It is the hour when lovers fond
(For love its native air is breathing)
Drape with fair hopes Life's drear beyond,
Gay garlands for the future weaving.

It is the hour when in far land,
The wanderer, tired of ceaseless roaming,
Longs for the clasp of kindred hand,
And the dear home enwrapt in gloaming.

It is the hour when mankind hears,
Amid Earth's mingled moans and laughter,
Chords which will swell when unborn years
Are buried in the great Hereafter.

Good Night, But Give Me Your Hand.

Such were the words of a dear little girl to her father as he sat by her couch one evening and had bidden her good night.

"Good night; but give me your hand." She wished to feel the clasp of that father's hand till she fell asleep.

How sweet to know that if an earthly father delights to take the hand of his little daughter as she is about dropping to sleep, much more does our Heavenly Father love to hold our hand in His as we go at night into the silent land of unconsciousness.

How blessed to feel that, in answer to the prayer, "Good night, Lord; but give me Thy hand," He will put many to sleep for us; that in the grasp of that Father's hand his children may sleep the sleep which God gives to his beloved. How taken ours that hand which was pierced for us on the cross, even the night of adversity will be to us a good night. And in the valley of the shadow of death we will fear no evil. "Even there shall thy hand lead me, and Thy right hand shall hold me." That hand will lead us in safety to that land of love, where the parting words "Good night" will be no longer spoken, for "there will be no night there," "for the Lamb is the light thereof."

Onward.

A PARABLE FROM NATURE.

Far away, amongst the grand hills, one fresh Spring morning, a tiny spring of water burst upward with its pleasant, bubbling noise.

Dark had been its underground passage, but it had known no advice over calling it upward, and now it was sparkling in the sunshine.

So small was it at first that it seemed in danger of being lost in the grass and earth around it; but gradually it began to form a little channel, and, of its own accord, set out on its journey down the hillside.

"I wonder where I am going to?" murmured the little stream.

"Ever onward, until you reach your end in the mighty ocean," replied the calm, strong Voice; "you shall not lose your way."

So the streamlet danced merrily along, making its pretty, tinkling music, and keeping up a continual undercurrent of song, which blended sweetly with the glad carols of the birds, and the fragrance of the flowers. Thus, each in their own way, they praised the Father on high.

Through the cool, shady wood it travelled onward, its banks fringed with delicate mosses and blossoms; the sunbeams making wonderful tracery on the waters, through the Spring foliage which shaded it.

Many a fall did it get, and much chatter and bustle did it make over every stone, or hindrance that came in its way.

On through the sunny meadows, a broader stream now, and reflecting the bright heaven above.

Many other rivulets owned into it; our stream refused them not, for they too had come originally from the same Father on high, and while widening and deepening its channel, they also helped it the better to journey onward.

And next the stream's course lay through a village. Gleefully the children ran in the summer evenings to float their tiny boats upon it, and merry were the faces that its waters reflected. Careworn men and women sometimes paused for brief moments of rest upon its cool banks, and sorrowful faces were imaged back.

Not that that the reflection of either joy or sorrow was perfect, the stream was in such haste to make its own way that its surface was often broken and uneven.

But was that is that dark object just ahead? The stream recoils, its waters are troubled as they have not been yet, its song of praise is lost in angry murmurs. It hears the voice again: "That seeming obstacle lies straight in your course to the ocean, you must not turn aside, Fear not."

So the stream went bravely on, and its waters turned the wheel of the village mill. From many a small home glad songs of thanks giving ascended to the Father on high, who caused the stream to flow that way.

While the stream learned that the obstacle had only been to it means of usefulness, and on its broadened channel it reflected still more of the clear heavens.

Oftentimes it went, as it seemed far out of its way; but always the Voice whispered to it some errand of love to do, if only to sing its softly murmured song of praise beside some lonely door.

But our stream could not always reflect the bright heaven above it, for in the evening a heavy mist hung over it. This rose from its own waters, and made everything very dark, hiding its friends the trees and flowers, shutting out all that was bright and beautiful; until the sun rose, absorbed the mist, and all was clear again.

Still onward went the river; and ever by night and day, flowed its service of silent praise. Various were the influences through which it passed. Now through pleasant villages and the peaceful country where the cattle stood lazily in its cool shallows, and the fresh breeze gently ruffled its surface; where the chief sounds heard were the laughter of children and songs of birds. Now through towns where all was bustle and turmoil; where instead of the quiet moon and stars, the flaring lamps of the quays and bridges were reflected, and sights and sounds of misery were on all sides.

Ever onward rolled the river deepening and widening, therefore reflecting more and more of the heaven above it. It loitered not, for the voice told it that stagnation would be death. Nor was it ever to be hurried, and instead of chating and murmuring at the difficulties in the way it silently overcame them in its steady, onward course.

Then the many different burdens that it bore upon its tide. Heavily laden barges, gay pleasure boats, and even children's tiny vessels still; and the river, in its consciousness, that river could not reflect on its calm surfaces of the toiling ones, or the merry hearted ones, or the trusting little ones.

Storms swept over it on its onward course, at times the wind lashed its surface into troubled confusion, dark clouds obscured the brightness of the heavens, and all appeared most dreary.

But the deep current of the river could not be troubled or hindered. Steadily it flowed onward, until it reached its appointed end in the mighty ocean, there to swell the eternal song of praise which is as "the sound of many waters,"

The Unchangeableness of Jesus.

Jesus cannot change. He is as constant as He is great. As when on earth he ever lives, so surely He ever lives the same. He is one expanse of never varying success. He sits on the calm throne of eternal serenity.

Change is the defect of things below; for things here are all defective. But immutability reigns above; for immutability is perfection's scheme. Our brightest morn oft ends in storm. Summer's radiance gives place to winter's gloom. The smiling flower soon lies a withered leaf. The babbling brook is soon a parched-up channel. The friend who smiled, smiles no more friendly we come. Bereavement weeps, where once each family seat beamed with domestic joy. Gardens wither into deserts. Babylons crumble into ruins. On all things a sad inscription writes, fleeting—transient—vanishing. Time flaps a ceaseless wing, and from the wings decay and death drop down. "I am that I am" sits high above all this. He is "the same yesterday, to-day, and forever."

The unchangeableness of Jesus is the unchangeableness of His attributes. Brightly each shines in this bright mirror. But a rapid glance at His love and power must suffice.

His love is a perpetual bloom. It is always in summer-tide. The roots are deeply buried in Himself; therefore the branches cannot fade. Believer, drink hourly of this cup of joy. Suffer not a single cloud or passing doubt. Christ loved you largely, when, in the councils of eternity, He received you into His heart. He loved you truly, when in the fulness of time He gave Himself for your curse, and drained your hell-deep dues. He loved you tenderly, when He showed you, by the Spirit, his hands and his feet, and whilehand which was pierced for us on the cross, even the night of adversity will be to us a good night. And in the valley of the shadow of death we will fear no evil. "Even there shall thy hand lead me, and Thy right hand shall hold me." That hand will lead us in safety to that land of love, where the parting words "Good night" will be no longer spoken, for "there will be no night there," "for the Lamb is the light thereof."

A Word on a Certain Subject.

Women often get a reputation for being jealous when they are not. We all know that women are each other's worst enemies, and we have all either felt in our own persons or see others feel the cyper sort of pain that a bad-hearted woman can imagine to give a wife by simply making a truly faithful and tender husband appear unfaithful and cruel.

A man loves his wife better than he could love any other woman perhaps, and she knows it in her very heart; but another woman comes between them, smiles, ogles, makes him appear to flirt with her, takes it for granted that a wife has no charm for a husband, and sets other people to pitying one who is really honored and loved beyond most wives.

The husband often laughs at this woman behind her back and speaks of her to his wife with genuine contempt; but he has not strength enough to resist being hauled into an apparent flirtation; and what a wife wants most of all vanities is that the world should think her her husband's idol—really being so doesn't satisfy her.

She is afraid of seeming jealous; she is afraid of gratifying the evil woman who wants to hurt her; and her husband is afraid of appearing to be ungallant, or being laughed at as soft and silly over his wife; and so, now and then, real trouble comes to two who love each other well.

Now, if I were a man I should know what to do; any woman would. One or two of those words and looks generally very properly kept for those hours when married people are alone, given to his wife before that woman would blot her out of the story effectually. I saw a man do it once, and the effect was glorious. The flirting dowager became an ordinary old serpent on the spot, and vanished from the scene.

A woman ought to be able to rid herself of an unpleasant consequence on some other plea than jealousy. She could quarrel with her on an abstract subject, for instance. At any cost an evil thing that keeps into error is to be banished, and both husband and wife ought to know that.

Young People Should Live Within Their Income.

Young people, if they wish to prosper in the world, should have improved rather than inborn minds that every pleasure in which they indulge themselves, without the reasonable prospect of paying for it, though it be but to the amount of one penny, is a step in the downward path, and apt to be the beginning of their destruction. They must have it impressed upon their minds that no man of good feelings can enjoy the least comfort, if he be not conscious of working for, or having honestly come into the possession of fully as much as he spends. To persist in living beyond our incomes is to live a life of dishonesty; and to subsist on the industry of relatives, as is sometimes the case with the idle and the dissolute, is worse still, for it involves an excessive meanness of spirit, ingratitude, and hard-heartedness; thus adding depth to the crime, and will be sure to be visited some day with anguish and remorse.

A predominating error among the junior classes of society, is a disinclination to wait for a short time till they be enabled to compete in the enjoyments of luxuries with others they see around them, and who it is more than probable have toiled long and painfully before they arrived at their present apparently prosperous condition. This impatience of reaching a certain height in the ladder of fortune, without taking deliberation to mount a number of preliminary and difficult steps, cannot, indeed, be sufficiently reprehended where it leads to debt, that fatal resource of incurring debts never to be paid, and that supposed harshness of creditors, which a disordered process of reasoning brings into view. We would here tenderly admonish the youthful part of the community to refrain from indulgences they cannot honestly command.

Gems of Thought.

Envy waits at virtue's elbow.

Loudest and courage lead to honor.

Kindness is the golden chain by which society is bound together.

Duty looks more repelling at a distance than when fairly faced and met.

Jealousy is the height of egotism, self-love and the irritation of false vanity.

Return equity and justice for evil done to you, and pay goodness by goodness.

There cannot be a greater treachery than first to raise a confidence, and then deceive it

He is not only idle who does nothing, but he is idle who might be better employed.

The necessities that exist are in general created by the superfluities that are enjoyed.

When a young man has learned to wait, he has mastered one of the greatest lessons in life.

Unhappy is the man for whom his own mother has not made all other mothers venerable.

There are few occasions when ceremony may not be easily dispensed with, kindness, never.

Find earth where grows no weed, and you may find a heart in which no error grows.

Wound no one's feelings unnecessarily; there are thorns enough in the path of human life.

Every man throws on to his surroundings the sunshine or the shadow that exists in his own soul.

Never think the worse of another on account of differing with you in religious or political opinions.

Let us all stop the progress of sin in our soul at the first stage, for the farther it goes the faster it will increase.

Affliction is a school or academy wherein the best scholars are prepared for the commencement day of the glory.

Educate the whole man—the head, the heart, the body, the head to think, the heart to feel, and the body to act.

Every man has in himself a continent of undiscovered character. Happy is he who acts the Columbus of his own soul.

Love never reasons, but profusely gives; gives, like a thoughtless prodigal, its all and trembles then lest it has done too little.

Wisdom and truth are immortal, but cunning and deception, the meteors of the earth, after glittering for a moment, must pass away.

Do not despise the opinion of the world; you might as well say that you care not for the light of the sun because you can use a candle.

Difficulty is the nurse of greatness—a harsh nurse, who roughly rocks her fostering children into strength and athletic proportions.

Write your name by kindness, love and mercy in the hearts of thousands you come in contact with year by year, and you will never be forgotten.

Busy men and women think that time taken from toil for sleep and recreation is time lost. It is really the cement put in to fill up the joints to keep out the weather and preserve the building.

He who travels with his eyes open cannot fail to see that others, as well as himself have their discomforts and drawbacks, and he will thus be all the more disposed to meet his own with a brave spirit.

We ought always to deal justly, not only with those who are just to us, but likewise with those who endeavor to injure us; and this, too, for fear lest, by rendering them evil, we should fall into the same vice.

There are two things that will make us happy in this life if we attend to them. The first is never to vex ourselves about what we cannot help; and the second never to vex ourselves about what we can help.

There are three kinds of praise—that which we yield, that which we lend, and that which we pay. We yield praise to the powerful from fear, we lend it to the weak from interest, and we pay to the deserving from gratitude.

Truth.

DANIEL OECUTT.

Truth gives character to youth more than all other qualities combined, and it is of greater worth than mountains of gold. "Better die for the truth than live to uphold error." To be thought truthful is not sufficient, for "truth alone will stand." If you obey the spirit of truth, it will lead you to perfect happiness. No one ever regretted being kind and pure in early life. A true life bears the best. The pure and true are ever attracted to those who live unsullied lives—"like gathers to like." Truth is the soul, love is the spirit, and health is to the body. "Stand for the truth whate'er betide." Truth is the basis of all manly character. It is the foundation of all goodness. A person may have faults, but confidence can be placed in him if he is truthful; but when veracity is gone, all is lost; virtue is fled, and the mind is a blank. Truth concealed will be very troublesome; it will set one's invention on the lack to add other faults thereto; even in point of prudence, an honest man's conscience is always better, always the best. All heaven is on the side of truth. Truth is beautiful, it is consistent, and wears at peace, and does not need untruth to bring out its beauty. Some youths vow to be true, and raise many pleasant expectations which they never seem to think of again; they practice a thousand deceits, when straightforward truth is just the thing required. Too often they are "chips of the old block." Be true. Truth and simplicity are beautiful ornaments of culture and refinement; it is a mistaken idea of refinement, or a false culture that ignores truth. Open your hearts to the sunlight of truth, and make room for that which is prized by the honest and pure. How beautiful is truth! Write it down on your memories, and let it stand as a title page of your whole lives. A fig for all your endeavors, if truth is wanting! Seek the ornament of truth, of purity; these will clothe you with unfading glory, they will last in eternity. "Buy the truth and sell it not." Be bold for truth, fear God, and you have nothing else to fear. If you would make your mark in life for all that is noble and good, have an unbending regard for truth, and my word for it you will succeed. Watch! gather to the stronghold of truth, and from it may you never depart.

The Customs Law.

The strict enforcement by the Customs Department of the provisions of the law regarding the valuation of goods for duty continues to agitate the Yankee slaughterers, whose operations it stops, and their sympathizers of the Grit press. The Montreal Gazette cites an additional case, regarding which it says:—"Evidence accumulates of the practice among American manufacturers to evade the customs laws by invoicing goods for Canada at prices lower than those prevailing in their own markets. We printed some time ago a letter from an American firm, complaining bitterly that the Canadian Government were putting a stop to this kind of thing; and since then other facts in the same direction have come to our knowledge. The following letter, for instance, from an American manufacturer to his Canadian customer is a case in point. It appears that this manufacturer, in order to show his contempt of American duties as a means of protection to Canadian industries, offered to pay the duty himself. But the enforcement of the law has rather bothered him, and hence this letter:—

"GENTLEMEN,—In replying to yours of the ——I would say that we do not purpose to pay duties on the prices we sell at in the United States, but at prices which goods are sold at in Canada, which are from $2 to $2.75 per dozen less than sold at in the United States. The price named you by the Customs officer is the combination price for a single dozen in the States. You will enter them at the prices you bought at without any reference to his letter, as we have had several lots entered, and no officers thought of claiming or asking duties above prices goods sold at in Canada. You must attend to the matter of entry at once, as we are too busy to send a man and we wrote to you long ago."

"We expect the Globe will call the interference of the Customs Department with this proceeding an embarrassment to importers, and will denounce the N. P. in its usual wild way. But the law happens to have nothing to do with the N. P.; happens, in fact, to have been passed in 1877, when the great financial authority of the Opposition, Mr. Cartwright, was Finance Minister, and Mr. Burpee was Minister of Customs."

Our contemporary then quotes the clause and closes as follows:—"That may be a good law or it may be a bad one. That is not a point which we are discussing at this moment. The material fact is that it is the law. The chief difference between Mr. Bowell and Mr. Burpee is that the former passed the law but did not enforce it, while the latter found the law in existence and did enforce it. We are quite sure that the public will esteem Mr. Bowell's conduct the more to be commended. The slaughtering process has been going on long enough, and the Minister of Customs is to be congratulated upon his efforts to stop it, so far as the law will allow, and upon the success which is evidently attending those efforts."

The Sugar Question.

The following from the Montreal Gazette of the 18th inst., shows that the Globe has been compelled to completely back down on its statement that the price of refined sugar under the present tariff is higher than that at which it could be imported from New York under the old tariff. It quotes the Gazette's figures as follows:

Cost in New York	$10 25
Less drawback	3 15
Export price	$7 10
Ad valorem duty 25 p. c.	7 17½
Specific duty 1 cent per lb.	1 00
Freight and charges	0 45
Net cost in Montreal	$10 32½

and continues: "These figures are all right except those relating to 'freight and 'charges.' If Montreal importers do not know any more of their business than to pay 45 cents for a service which Toronto importers could get done for 30 cents, it is time they took a lesson."

Upon which the Gazette comments as follows:—"It is not worth while disputing the question of freight and charges. We will assume that the Globe's figure is correct, and the result is while granulated sugar refined in Canada is selling here to-day at 10c net, it would cost 10 1-6c to import the same grade of sugar from New York under the tariff of the late Government. It is to be remembered that we are dealing in both cases with the refiners' wholesale prices, and that while a discount is allowed for cash purchases here, none is made in New York, where all sales are for cash. The charge that the quotations which we gave of the price of Porto Rico raw sugar in December and January last were garbled in order to prove our case is simply false. Our figures were taken from the Gazette, which we may be permitted to think as good an authority on commercial matters as the Journal of Commerce, and were obtained from reliable firms in the grocery trade in this city. The question of the difference between the price of granulated and of Porto Rico now, compared with what it was eight months ago, is, however, totally foreign to the main issue, that of the effect of the tariff upon the price of refined sugars, because the grade of Porto Rico sugar quoted is what is known as grocery grades, and is not used in refining, and it is quite possible that considerable fluctuation may occur in difference between the prices of grocery raw sugar and white refined either apparently in favor or against the refiners. It is something to have got from the Globe the admission that its oft-repeated assertion that consumers are being robbed by the sugar tariff is unfounded."

Coal and the N. P.

The Globe and its confreres have been particularly strong of late on the coal duty, which they have been denouncing as utterly useless for one of the purposes for which it was imposed, namely stimulating the production of the Nova Scotia coal mines by causing their product to take the place of the bituminous coal of the United States. The chief organ demonstrated to its own satisfaction that Nova Scotia coal could not be profitably used in Ontario, but as usual the facts are against it. To show how with what correctness the "free coal" organ speaks, we may mention that the Belleville Gas Company are now receiving 825 gross tons—equal to about 920 short tons—of Nova Scotia coal for use in their works. This coal is brought by water to Montreal and thence by railway to Belleville, and it is stated by Mr. S. H. Phippen, the President of the Company, and Mr. Robertson the Manager of the gas works to be a first class article for the production of gas, being superior to all but the very best grade of United States coal, than which it can be delivered here at a much lower rate. Were the Murray Canal built, the barges which would be employed in transhipping grain could carry the coal cheaper than it can be done by rail, as return freight from Montreal, and thus the freight would be cheapened and the trade extended. We oppose this fact to the theories of the Grit press as to the advantages or disadvantages of the much abused N. P.

The Murray Canal.

The St. Catharines Journal reproduces an editorial recently published in these columns on the subject of the Murray Canal, of which project it speaks as follows:

"As part of the great canal system of Canada it is an important link; for by its construction many miles of dangerous lake navigation could be avoided when adverse winds made a run to Kingston inexpedient, or when, as is now frequently the case, vessels are unable to clear from that port when the wind blows from certain quarters. We are in favor of the proposed work, and of all other public works which are necessary for the full development of Canada's commercial interests. In this matter there need be no feeling of jealousy as between Kingston and Belleville. With the opening of the enlarged Welland Canal, the vast and practically exhaustless volume of traffic of the great west and northwest falls to us, and there will be enough of it to tax all our resources and to fill every channel leading from Lake Ontario to the seaboard."

We are pleased to have the project endorsed by the Journal, and hope that its influence and that of vessel owners generally will be given in support of a project, the carrying into effect of which must prove of very considerable benefit to them.

Board of Education.

FRIDAY, Aug. 20, 1880.

PRESENT.—Mr. W. A. Shepard Chairman; and Messrs. Burke, Newbery, Macoun, Tracy, Hayne, McGinnis, VanAllan, Richards, Diamond, Tennant and Doctor.

The Chairman said he had received a communication from the Inspector notifying him that all the teachers employed by this Board who wrote for second class certificates had failed. As the teachers were appointed subject to their obta ning proper qualification, and as they had failed to obtain that qualification, it would be necessary for the Board to take action, either by asking the Minister of Education to extend their Certificates, or to fill their places with Teachers who were possessed of regular Certificates. He stated that it was quite competent for the Board to authorize the Inspector to ask the Minister of Education to extend Certificates, and in cases where Teachers had been more than ordinarily efficient, and had been in the service of the Board for a number of years, a permanent Third Class Certificate might be given; but there was a limit to these extensions or permits. He quoted several clauses from the School Act relating to the subject, and then read the following communication from the Inspector:

Belleville, Aug. 18, 1880.

GENTLEMEN,—I feel it my duty to notify you that all the teachers who wrote at the recent examinations have failed.

As Miss Urquhart and Miss Clark have been teaching up to the present time on legal Third Class Certificates, granted by the South Hastings Board and as they have never held extended thirds or permits of any kind, I will ask the Minister of Education for an extended third for each of them if you wish me to do so.

As Miss Brownlee has had only one extended Third, I will also ask the Minister of Education for one for her if you wish it.

All the others have held already two extended Thirds.

Miss Sangster has also failed, but as she has not held any qualifications but a Third Class Certificate, which expired when she left Belleville some two years ago, and as she has been attending school nearly the whole time since, I should have good reason to ask an extended Third for her if you desire me to do so.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant
JOHN JOHNSTON,
Inspector.

W. A. Shepard, Esq.,
Chairman of the Board of Education,
Belleville.

As the time for re-opening the schools was drawing near, it was important that the teachers affected should know as soon as possible whether they were to be confirmed in their appointment, or their places filled by others. He had therefore called this meeting as soon as he received the official letter of the Inspector, and he hoped the Board would take immediate action,

Dr. Tracy then moved, seconded by Mr. McGinnis, That the Inspector be authorized to ask the Minister of Education to grant Permanent Third Class Certificates to Miss Urquhart and Miss Clark, on account of long and efficient services.

The motion was carried.

Mr. Tennant moved, seconded by Mr. McGinnis, That the Inspector be authorized to ask the Minister of Education to extend the Certificate of Miss Brownlee.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Hayne, seconded by Dr. Tracy, that the Minister of Education be asked to grant Permits to Misses Chambers, McInnes, and Walton.—Carried.

Mr. Macoun moved, seconded by Dr. Tracy, that Miss Ida Jack be appointed Teacher of the Third Division of Octavia St. School, at a salary of $250, in place of Miss Sangster, who failed to obtain the necessary qualification.

After some discussion about the finances, the Board adjourned.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

CAMDEN, N. J., 21.—Small pox is increasing at an alarming rate. 154 cases were reported yesterday. The proportion of deaths is not greater than two to every fifteen attacked. Those who have been vaccinated or have used disinfectants in their homes, have not been stricken.

BRADFORD, Pa., August 21.—The lightning yesterday, besides firing the tanks in this city and Dallas, out queer freaks in the lower oil regions, striking wells and tanks at Parker city, Jefforson city, St. Petersburg, Edinburg and other points. The high wind levelled 99 derricks at St. Petersburg. People thought the day of judgment had come. Some sang, others prayed, others beca ne wild with fright, some ladies fainting. The storm was terrible. The lightning demorabized the telegraph station at Dallas, tearing out the instruments, melting the wires, and burning a small hole through the side of the building.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The Sun's Washington special says General Sherman starts with Hayes for California next week.

Arrived, the Zealand from Antwerp.

Kate Merhan was arrested yesterday for dosing her mistress, Mrs. Gould of Fourth Avenue, with morphine and then pillaging the house. Mrs. Gould is an invalid and was left in charge of Kate.

W. B. Curtis telegraphed Rowell, the English pedestrian, yesterday, naming Pegram, a Boston negro, as a contestant for the Astley belt. Hart will probably go to England and enter. Also the Times says, Henry Ward Beecher will take part in the Republican campaign this fall.

A BAD OUTLOOK IN PRUSSIA.—Cable despatches give further particulars of the disastrous floods in East and West Prussia. A correspondent who penetrated into the furthermost parts of Silesia estimates that in one potato district alone the damage amounts to 150,000 marks, while 2,000 acres of arable land and pasture ground were inundated by the overflow of the Oder. In the neighborhood of Oppeln, 3,000 acres of potato fields are covered with water. Whole clumps of villages are isolated. The rain was so violent that in a few hours the river Neisse rose six feet. In Posen an immense expanse of meadow is inundated, not only the grain destroyed, but the straw also. It is feared that in some places the wetness of the ground may disastrously delay or altogether prevent its preparation for next year's seed. In the district of Kulm, West Prussia, twenty-four hour's rain completely ruined the harvest, especially the wheat. In some parts of East and West Prussia the fields are so impassable that it is impossible to garner what remains of the grain. The potatoes are beginning to rot, the rye is almost wholly destroyed, and the wheat and barley have little surviving value. For the laboring portion of the community the potato crop is the most serious loss. Government aid is already being earnestly invoked.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

What the Fall of a "Gin" Did.

THE VICTIM BADLY HURT.

About 4:30 yesterday afternoon Alexander Smith, contractor with Messrs. Rathbun for the hoisting of their coal importations as they arrive, and who resides on Pinnacle Street a short distance north of its intersection with Front Street, was the victim of an accident which will incapacitate him from work for some time, if even it has not a fatal termination.

The particulars of the said affair, as gathered by one of our representatives, are as follows: "Sandy," as he is familiarly called by his acquaintances and associates, formed one of a quintette of men who were engaged in unloading a cargo of coal from the hold of the schooner Pearl, which arrived from Sodus, N. Y., yesterday morning and lay at Rathbun & Son's lower wharf. The men were divided into two sections, three of whom manipulated the shovel in the vessel's hold, whilst the remaining two dumped the black diamonds from a car which, running on an elevated track was pushed from the schooner's side where it was loaded to the sheds where it was emptied. Smith was one of the latter two and performed his part of the work on the north side of the track. He was standing near the edge of the elevated road with his face to the west when the halyards which held the "gin"—a large and very heavy iron pulley—and an additional release draught a wooden pulley, parted and the "gin" and pulley fell upon Smith, knocking him to the floor of the track bleeding and almost senseless. Willing hands at once went to his assistance and with the aid of two of his fellows, he was escorted to his home and medical aid sent for. On the appearance of the physician, Dr. Willson, the unfortunate man's wounds were dressed and the necessary attention paid him.

His injuries consist of a severe cut on the back of the head, caused by the "gin" a cut on the forehead inflicted by the pulley, a broken right shoulder blade and a serious bruise to the spine. Concerning the latter the doctor would not give a decided opinion last night, but expressed the belief that nothing dangerous would result. Smith was compelled to lie upon his right side, and suffered great pain, particularly complaining of the wound on the back of his head, which greatly distressed him. He is an Irishman, is 43 years of age, and has a wife and five children.

The captain of the schooner states that he had explained to the men that the tackle, which Smith furnishes as contractor, was defective, and therefore they should not fill the buckets. This was proved yesterday morning, when the "gin" fell, and John Joyce, who was engaged in work below it, narrowly escaped serious injury, if not death, as the heavy apparatus in falling just missed his head, cutting off as with a knife the broad brim of a hat which he wore. Instead of following his counsel they did the opposite, with the result above noted. In passing upwards from the hold the space in the deck between the centre-board box and the hatch combings was so narrow that the coal receptacle would almost invariably strike the left side of the latter. During the last stoppage the horse moved on with an extra effort and caused the breaking of the ropes which held the pulleys. There was enough room to work handily on the north end of the centre-board box and had the buckets been loaded there, as the captain desired, it is likely this mishap would not have occurred.

This morning the injured man was rather better, but complained much of his hurts, especially of that to his back.

RAILWAY FREIGHT.—The train from Madoc this morning brought in two cars of hematite ore and one car of lumber.

LORETTO CONVENT.—It will be seen by advertisement that this popular educational institution re opens on September first.

EXCURSION.—The Varuna started very shortly after the appointed hour this morning for the Thousand Islands, carrying a numerous party for that destination.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Rev. Dr. Jaques, being in town at present, has kindly consented to preach in the Congregational church to morrow morning.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—We are requested to state that Rev. Septimus Jones, of Toronto, will preach in St. John's Church on Sunday, officiating at both services.

"ROUGHING IT."—Belford & Co., publishers, Toronto, have just issued No. 8 of the 25 cent "Belford Library." Mark Twain's now celebrated "Roughing It" is the latest addition to the library. The reputation of the book as a work of humor is high. In the present cheap form it is within the reach of all.

RAILWAY NOTES.—The Madoc Review says: "A ballast train and a large gang of men have been engaged along the line of the B. & N. H. R. for several days past. The track has been put in first class running order. The Superintendent, E. H. Brennan, Esq., is overseeing the work."

STOPPED WORK.—A large iron wheel in Sutherland's steam saw mill, used for the purpose of "jacking" logs, had a piece broken out of it this morning shortly after beginning the work of the day. The machinery then had to be stopped, and the hands employed will have to remain idle until Tuesday, when, it is expected, work will be resumed.

THE LEAD MINES.—The Kingston News says: "The Hon. Peter Mitchell, accompanied by Mr. F. W. Stockwell, this morning went out to the Lougborough lead mines on a tour of inspection. THE IRON TRADE.—Mr. Robert Palen, of the firm of Palen & Burns, Buffalo, N.Y., has been in Madoc the past few days and has made some purchases of sample lots of hematite iron ore, to be shipped to two of the leading Bessemer furnaces in the United States. This firm is largely engaged in ore trade, and now that their attention has been directed to the mineral resources of North Hastings, they will lose no time in interesting their numerous customers in Canadian ore. So says the Review.

THE CAMP.—The 15th Battalion are comfortably encamped at Massassaga Point, their tents being pitched on a gentle slope a short distance west of Mr. Pretty's hotel. Drill goes on regularly, the fine band gives frequent performances, and all is in good order. One of the Sergeants of the Dominion Artillery, is in camp with the Battalion. Yesterday there were many visitors, to convey whom the capacity of the little steamers Annie Gilbert and Silver Spray was well taxed, and the grounds wore a lively appearance, particularly at afternoon parade.

TALL OATS.—Mr. T. H. Ketcheson, of lot 7, 12th con. Huntingdon, exhibited today fine specimen of Australian Oats, which measured four feet ten inches in height, and the heads measured eighteen inches.

COMING TO BELLEVILLE.—The Odessa correspondent of the Napanee Beaver states that Mr. N. F. Snider, of that village, is about removing to Belleville to open up business on a large scale.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.—The Finance Committee of the City Council did not meet last night, there being no quorum, consequently the Estimates will probably go over until the meeting which will succeed that of Monday night.

FIRE IN TRENTON.—About three o'clock this morning the new union schoolhouse was discovered to be on fire, and but for the timely arrival of a few citizens would have been totally destroyed. The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary, coal oil having been poured on the roof and lighted.

A MISSING POCKET-BOOK.—When on the market this morning, Mrs. Black missed her pocket-book. Looking around to see if she had dropped it, she saw a woman named Mrs. Youngs pick it up, when she at once demanded her property, which Mrs. Youngs denied having. Upon complaint being made to an officer, Mrs. Youngs ran through the back lane to Bridge Street, where she was captured. Notwithstanding her protestations that she had not the pocket-book, she was marched to the police office by Sergt. Snider, when the missing pocket-book was found on her person, with only two cents remaining in it. The woman was placed in the cells, and was to be tried at 2 o'clock.

HOTEL KEEPERS and other would do well to examine Jas. Hennessy's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offered at 25 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessy.

Marine.

The opinion is confirmed that the yacht Phœnix, of Charlotte, was stolen, and that the thieves have been drowned. The Rochester Express is not very consolatory when it says, "Peace be to their bones."

The grain rates on Lake Ontario are not improving as on the upper lakes. The rate on grain from Toronto to Kingston is 2c. for corn, and 3c. on wheat. Vessel men talk of three cents as what the rate should be.

The Rifle.

The eighth competition for the 49th Battalion champion cup took place yesterday afternoon, and resulted in a second win for Segeant Hagerman, whose score of 71, exclusive of his start, was the best of the day. There were twelve competitors, and the leading scores were as follows:

Serg. J. Hagerman,	with 12 start		83
Major P. H. Hambly	"	29	" 76
Private J. Kerr,	"	22	" 75

Stirling Correspondence.

The elevators may be said to be ready for the receiving of grain. Tulloch and Haggerty took in at theirs on Saturday the first of the season, being a couple of loads of barley grown in Huntingdon. The sample is light, not more probably than 45 lbs. per bushel and discolored. There will be little if any light color barley this season.

The G. J. R. authorities have brought in a number of telegraph poles sufficient to string a wire connecting the station with the village office. This will be a great convenience to the employees of the road as also travellers, as I understand the same is being done at the other stations on the road, and thus enable those wishing to know how the trains are moving.

Railway iron is expected up every day to lay the track from Hastings north, the road bed being ready to receive it.

Tweed Notes.

Farmers are busy threshing and numbers of young people picking long black berries; large quantities of this delicious fruit are picked back of Bridgewater and Bogart every day. Some is taken to your city and sold, and others gathered by parties from the front townships for their own use.

The young people of Tweed had a pic-nic on Hickory Point last Thursday, and enjoyed themselves to their heart's content.

Some party or parties the other night to amuse themselves undertook to throw off the cut stone caps from off the piers in front of the Town Hall, which they accomplished, but if they are found out they will become residents of our County house, under the management of Mr. Meyers.

There is some good sport on Stoco Lake in catching fish, principally bass and pickerel. We would like to see some of those salmon that your townsman Mr. C. Wilkins, put into the lake some two or three years ago. Maskalonge are not so plentiful as they have been, for some cause or other.

Incendiarism at Trenton.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS FIRED.

Reward Offered.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

TRENTON, Aug. 21.

This morning about 3 o'clock, an attempt was made to set on fire the Public and High School building of this town. It was fortunately discovered by J. N. Lee, Esq., who lives close by, and with the assistance of some neighbors extinguished the flames. It appears the incendiary got up on a ladder which some workmen had left on the west wing, and pushed an old stocking saturated with coal oil under the shingles. Quite a large portion of the roof was burned before it was extinguished. The Board of Education offer a reward to discover the guilty party.

Sporting Notes.

W. H. Scott, the champion pedestrian of the Pacific Coast, has accepted the challenge of Frank Edwards, who is at present in California, to walk six days for the Colton Diamond championship Belt. Scott recently won the belt from Edwards in the Mechanics Pavilion, San Francisco.

A match is on between Geo. Hooper, of Napanee, and G. F. Hancock of Mill Point, three miles, for $25 a side, on Mill Point bay on Friday evening next.

Capt. Cuthbert, the yacht-builder, is going to locate in Toronto.

Mr. N. S. Stone, of Oswego, has accepted a challenge from Mr. S. W. Beach, of Earl's Hotel, Sacket's Harbor, to race the Ella against the Bessie for a purse of $100, on Tuesday, August 31. The Bessie is a smart yacht and is owned by a Mr. Davidson of New York. The conditions of the race are as follows:—Standing ballast; no ballast to be shifted or thrown overboard; all sails carried to be on standing stays; one man allowed to every three feet of keel; a five-mile breeze to be blowing or no start, and each owner to put a scrutineer on the contesting boats and the course to be from the ship house around Stony and Calf Islands, (about 25 miles,) out the south and in the north passes to starting point; no time allowance.

Seasonable Topics.

The shades of night go about dewing good.

The market to-day was the largest of the season.

Where is the man who is going forty days without a drink?

Because an old man looks fine and sere that doesn't make him a financier.

The best church belles are those who make no noise during the service.

Long vacation ends to-day and the lawyers will resume their labors again.

The frolicsome oyster is getting himself in shape for the month with an R.

"Frozen kindness" is the latest device for inveigling you into an ice cream saloon.

Grapes are ripening rapidly, and the time is not far distant when they will be a drug on the market.

Advertise in the INTELLIGENCER. It has the largest circulation of any journal between Toronto and Kingston.

An exchange says:—"The best and most effective cure for the sting of a bee is to take a key and press the hollow of the same tightly over the spot which has been stung." None of our readers need get stung, however, to test the cure.

The Board of Health ought to be indicted. They don't appear to pay the slightest attention to the numerous complaints that are made. Nuisances of the foulest kind exist in various parts of the city, and no effort to remove them.

It is time the Market Committee made arrangements to utilize the basement of the market for the accommodation of the butter dealers and others. The room now used is altogether insufficient for the purpose.

The INTELLIGENCER Office has recently been furnished with several new fonts of beautiful job type and borders and new machinery, and are prepared to turn out any kind of work to the satisfaction of customers.

"Hark, I hear an angel sing" sang a young man in an outside township school exhibition. "No, 'taint," shouted an old farmer in one of the back seats; "it's only my old mule that's hitched up outside!" The young man broke down and quit.

WEST TORONTO.—Sir Leonard Tilley is to address the electors of West Toronto on Tuesday evening.

NORTH ONTARIO.—Sir Leonard Tilley is announced to address the electors of Uxbridge and vicinity at 2 p. m. on Thursday next at the park at that village; and those of Port Perry at 7:30 the same evening.

CATTLE SHIPMENTS.—The cattle shipments from Montreal to Great Britain for the past three months exhibits a favorable increase as compared with the corresponding period last year. The number of cattle shipped up to 1st August was 21,627; sheep, 48,353; Swine 576.

A ROCKING STONE.—On the farm of Mr. Duncan, in Masham Township, Gatineau District, is a monster rocking stone. They are very scarce, and considered a great curiosity. There is one in Ireland, and people travel many miles to see it. The one in Masham weighs six or seven tons, and is the only boulder around the locality. It sits in a sort of saucer rock, and has a swing of seven or eight inches.

THE IRISH TROUBLE.—Cable despatches say that a shopkeeper named Bellen, at Dublin, was stabbed by masked assailants for taking land from which a tenant had been recently ejected. A battalion of Guards is under orders to proceed to Ireland at a minute's notice.

THE LAST FINANCIAL YEAR.—The revenue returns for the last financial year appear in the Canada Gazette of to-day. They show the revenue to have been $24,768,585 and the expenditure $25,161,712, showing a deficit of $393,127, or $230,000 less than was estimated by the Finance Minister. We shall refer more fully to the subject in a future issue.

The main travelled road from Belleville to the northern townships and village runs through the premises, leaving three acres on the west side, embracing canal, excavated at a large outlay, 450 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 10 ft. deep, with water lime foundation; walls of mill 100 feet long, 56 feet wide and 4 ft. thick; foundation depth 6 feet, with necessary openings for six water wheels. Ten feet head of water, with the exclusive right to use the farther shore for damming, giving the sole right to this magnificent water power at any point in a space of 150 yards on the river. Any amount of water-power available nine months in the year, and from 30 to 40 horse-power the rest of the year. On the east side of the road are six and a half acres of land, capable of being laid out in building lots or being used in connection with extensive milling or manufacturing for yard purposes, or both. DON'T LET MOTHER DO IT.

Daughter, don't let Mother do it!
Do not let her slave and toil,
While you sit, a useless idler,
Fearing your soft hands to soil.
Don't you see the heavy burdens
Daily she is wont to bear,
Bring the lines upon her forehead,
Sprinkle silver in her hair?

Daughter, don't let mother do it!
Do not let her bake and broil
Through the long, bright Summer hours;
Share with her the heavy toil.
See! her eye has lost its brightness,
Faded from her cheek its glow,
And the step that once was buoyant
Now is feeble, weak, and slow.

Daughter, don't let Mother do it!
She has cared for you so long.
Is it right the weak and feeble
Should be toiling for the strong?
Waken from your listless languor,
Seek her side to cheer and bless;
And your grief will be less bitter
When the sods above her press.

Daughter, don't let Mother do it!
You will never, never know
What were Home without a Mother
Till that Mother lieth low—
Low beneath the budding daisies,
Free from earthly care or pain—
To the home, so sad without her,
Never to return again.

Ctesias, the Cnidian, who lived A. The real facts are that elephants often sleep standing and that the wilder ones seldom lie down. Yet tame elephants as often sleep lying as standing. Christophorus Costa declared that elephants have been known to speak, and this assertion is one which even Sir Thomas Browne never ventured to contradict. He thought it might be possible.—All the Year Round.

A lady with a very inharmonious voice insisted upon singing at a party. "What does she call that" inquired a guest. "The Tempest I think," answered another. 'Don't be alarmed," said a sea-captain present, "It is no tempest; it's merely a squall and will soon be over."

"Zion's Herald" quotes the amusing incident at the General Conference when on an occasion of considerable noise and confusion one of the colored brethren cried out, 'I rise to a pint of order." But it leaves out the quick response of the delegate, who declared that a "pint" of order would be of no perceptible value in such an uproar, which added largely to the merriment.

A curate of South London church has been snubbed for alluding to the heir-apparent as though his name was written "Awlbert" Edward. One of his parishioners asked him the other day why he so significantly excluded the Prince of Wales in his prayer for the royal family. "Exclude him?" the curate asked, quite surprised: "what do you mean?" "Why," she said, "you always pray for 'all but' Edward, Prince of Wales."

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Joan, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILL'S, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of AUGUST FLOWER will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

From the Hub

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover from.—Boston Globe.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," but have another article just as good. If not be sure which is as well as just the same as—if not better than—the old reputation of Pain-Killer; but in every case nine-tenths of the wise and cautious people, who have experience of the evil effects of drugs, are led to call the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him either to give a few cents more profit on the imitation article; than he can on the genuine.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; by which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already used it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia. Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite. Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & CO. blown in the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anæmia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

Epelptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
DEAR SIR.—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt but that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.
Northport, Wis., May 6, 1878.
WALTER LAKES.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.
I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.
Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu te for this under any circumstances.
Sold by all Druggists.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife ; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

The Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Complimentary Breakfast to Canadian Prohibitionists.

Upon the invitation of the United Kingdom Alliance, a large and influential company of gentlemen assembled in the Westminster Palace Hotel, London, on Thursday morning, July 29th, at the time mentioned in our despatches, to meet Sir Charles Tupper, C. B., K. C. M. G., member of the Dominion Cabinet, and Hon. Alexander Vidal, member of the Dominion Legislature, with other Canadian gentlemen. In the circular accompanying the invitation cards it was especially hoped "that the parliamentary supporters of Local Option may be able to avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing how that principle is applied to the Dominion." The large, intelligent, and respectable audience present, fully realized the great extent with which this request was complied with.

The chairman, Sir Wilfred Lawson, in introduction, stated that the object of the meeting was to welcome the Canadian guests, and to hear from them something generally as to the position of temperance legislation in the Dominion of Canada. The population of that Colony was the counterpart of Great Britain, and what interested the meeting most was the legislation regarding the liquor traffic. It was no light crusade in which they were engaged. They had to restrict the consumption of drink, and at the same time they had endeavored to make a good thing for the revenue out of the article sold. This was an unsatisfactory way of doing things. It had occurred to them that people could do without the sale of drink among them at all. Of course, as everybody knew, such ideas had been very much condemned. Everything that is new is very much condemned. (A laugh). For a long time it was said to arise out of the machinations of the teetotallers. We asked persons to join us in bringing about a law which would allow the people to say whether they would have those drink places or not. Whenever a measure was brought in to give the people this power, the practical men said it was badly drawn. However, I was so fortunate as to get the principle endorsed by the House of Commons. That is how we stand at last, after years of agitation—the House of Commons has endorsed the principle that licenses for the sale of drink ought to be granted, if they are granted at all, for the benefit of the public, and not of the publican.

The gentleman spoke eloquently throughout and concluded by thanking the Canadian gentlemen for being present, and by calling on Sir Charles Tupper to address the meeting.

Sir Charles Tupper, Minister of Railways and Canals in Canada, said he could find no words to express his pride and satisfaction at having received so great and so undeserved an honor as to be invited to meet the gentlemen present this morning. No person had witnessed with greater satisfaction the advance the worthy chairman and the gentlemen associated with him in the British Parliament had made than the friends of temperance in Canada. They had watched with the closest and deepest interest the steps he had taken, and it would be unworthy of him to say that the whole House of Commons in Canada, and one of the friends of temperance in that country, if he did not at once say that the valuable measure that was now on the statute book of Canada in relation to temperance was inspired by the efforts made by Sir Wilfred Lawson. (Cheers). He adopted that letter a great deal of discussion and difference of opinion even amongst the friends of temperance themselves as to the best and most effective means of promoting the work, the principle for which the chairman had so long contended, and he was now proud to find he had been so successful as to carry through the House of Commons—a principle that the people themselves had undoubted right to express their opinion and their will as to whether the sale of intoxicating liquors should be permitted in their respective districts. The suggestion taken from the course that was proposed here was embodied in an Act of Parliament by the late Government, and carried through the Senate, where it obtained no more able or successful support than that of his honorable friend Senator Vidal, who was with them today. If Sir Wilfred Lawson was surprised that while it was proposed by the Prime Minister on the one side, it was supported by the Leader of the Opposition on the other, and obtained the assent of the House of Commons, he could explain what appeared to be rather a remarkable coincidence by the statement that the Leader of the Government and the Leader of the Opposition then only gave expression to the matured public sentiment of the people of the country,—that in the interests of the whole country it was desirable that every section should have the right and opportunity of declaring whether they would or would not permit the sale of intoxicating liquor in their district. He might be allowed to say that his revered father more than fifty years ago founded the first temperance society in the Province of Nova Scotia and in the Province of New Brunswick, and at 86 years, having practised the principles which he advocated, he was now enjoying good health and an unclouded intellect, witnessing with the utmost satisfaction the great advance that the cause of temperance had made in that country. What was termed the "Scott Act" of 1878 enabled the people themselves to give the expression of public sentiment in the same manner as the reference to the electors of members of Parliament entirely to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in any constituency in the Dominion—an act which covers the whole of the Provinces, from Prince Edward Island, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, to Vancouver's Island on the shores of the Pacific—the whole country was brought under the operation of that Act, under which it was competent for 25 per cent. of the electors of any constituency in that wide Dominion to make an application to have this permissive bill submitted to the vote of the people. If a majority of the electors decided that they would not permit the sale of intoxicating liquors in a district, it became law by the sanction of the Government, and the severest penalties were imposed on any persons breaking that law. The country had come to the conclusion that a prohibitory bill placed on the Statute Book would fail in its object unless it obtained the support of the overwhelming public sentiment of the whole country, and that instead of accomplishing the end the friends of temperance had in view, it would only illustrate that a worse condition of things in which a law was habitually or largely disregarded by the people over whom it was intended to operate. They believed they were aiming in the most effective way at the ultimate total prohibition of the liquor traffic by placing it in the power of every constituency themselves independently of any other section of the country, to decide that intoxicating liquors should not be sold in that district, and they believe that the result of the operation of that law would be steadily to convince the whole country that these sections which had adopted that principle were in advance in everything relating to material progress. As that sentiment steadily permeated the whole country he hoped it would finally rise to a point when the Government would feel justified in asking the Legislature to decide that the liquor traffic throughout the Dominion of Canada should cease. The chairman had said that the law of 1878 had not yet borne fruit, and had partly stated the reason. The persons concerned in the liquor traffic obstructed it by every possible means, and they obtained a decision from the Supreme Court in New Brunswick that the law was ultra vires, and that the Dominion Parliament had no right to pass that law. The present Government, feeling it their duty to maintain the law, secured the services of the most eminent counsel and had the question argued before the Supreme Court of the Dominion of Canada. That court had established once and for ever that the law was perfectly constitutional, and the present Government was therefore prepared to maintain it in all its integrity. Some years ago (1872) he had the honor of proposing to Parliament the most stringent prohibitory law that ever was proposed in any country, applying it to a section of country 2,500,000 miles in extent, called the North-West Territory. It was a measure for entire prohibition. There, he (Sir) was presented an opportunity of dealing with the question upon its own merits, and without the difficulties involved by the consideration of vested interests that in this country and every other country where the liquor traffic had been established formed the great obstacle to success. It was quite true that great as the extent of that country was, the population was not so great at the time or the liquor traffic would have obtained some footing in it, but when he said that in that territory there was no less than 150,000,000 square miles of the most fertile land on the face of the globe they would not be surprised to find that it was rapidly filling up with an industrious and intelligent population, and that it would shortly be intersected by a railway. In two years 700 miles of railway would be completed, and a more inviting field for emigration it was impossible to conceive. It was the intention of the present Government, and their probable successors, to maintain the principle of prohibitory legislation throughout the territory. (Cheers.) To freshmen this part of the world offered the greatest inducement, for there was no need for them to be in conflict with any landlord. The government would give each person 100 acres of the land he had been describing free of cost, say about £22 for the papers, &c. necessary to secure it. It might be asked, Do the people in that North-west territory feel the absence of the privilege of being able to purchase intoxicating drinks? Not in the least ; but on the contrary, he was proud to know that when the proposition was made to annex a portion of this North-West Territory to Manitoba, where the liquor traffic existed, one of the strongest objections to the annexation, was that it would deprive them of the great blessing of a prohibitory liquor law. In conclusion, Sir Charles Tupper expressed the great pleasure it had given him to meet the friends of temperance in England round the breakfast table to-day, and he could assure them that no operations were looking with keener or deeper anxiety upon the efforts made in this country than the friends of temperance in Canada. (Loud cheers.)

A vote of thanks, proposed by Lord Claud Hamilton, seconded by Mr Hugh Mason, M. P., was then unanimously passed to Sir Charles Tupper, for the information given regarding the Temperance Legislation of Canada. After a few questions upon the prohibition in Canada, replied to by Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Vidal, the meeting adjourned prior to passing a vote of thanks to the chairman.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR, EDITOR,—My attention was directed to a paragraph in an article by the Hon. Billa Flint in your issue of 12th August, of which the following is a copy : "On Monday the 30th I drove over to Mr. Davitt's Mills, two miles from Doyle's Corners (which, by the way, is only 1½ miles, not two miles, as he states) and had a chat with the Reeve, who in my opinion leads a most miserable life, for the want of a lady to fill the place of wife and housekeeper." Now I am quite well aware that it is the license of critics and public writers to pry into and pass their opinion on the private lives of noted public or famous men, but why the Hon. Billa Flint, Senator, should deign to notice the private life of a poor Reeve of the most northern municipality of our County, is to me quite incomprehensible ; unless, indeed, the Hon. Billa is of the opinion that unmarried men, not being troubled with the cares of domestic life, have too much leisure time to suit the designs of men engineering projects for the advancement of their particular aggrandizement—and therefore, if married, would be easier dealt with, and more easily handled. In conclusion, I might state for the edification of the Hon. Billa, that no matter what his opinion may be about my state of existence, it suits my pleasure and convenience that it should remain so. I would also have the impertinence to give to Hon. Billa a piece of advice, and that is, that he, knowing the penchant old people have for gossiping, if he does not wish in the opinion of the younger portion of the community to be styled a mere gossip, will in the future allow young men the privilege of paddling their own canoe alone, without the world being told that they are leading a miserable existence. Excusing myself, Mr. Editor, for taking up so much space in your valuable paper, I remain,

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the cloning day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Monsalm conveyed his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe and Montcalm, in the Parade St., are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. HERNCK'S SOUR ORANGE PILLS, which are real, and more useful in such tarraits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

Our Progress.

As stages and stage routes are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the huge, drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and bulky medicines, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts and are warranted to cure all irregularities of stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by druggist.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, AUG. 23.

The First Year Under the N. P.

At last the correct results of the financial year which ended with the 30th of June last have been given to the public. These returns have been an object of the greatest apparent solicitude to the Grit press, which has alternately threatened and coaxed the Finance Minister because of their non-publication, and varied and amusing have been the comments indulged in. The Globe has asserted that the deficit on the year's transactions would amount to at least $2,500,000, whilst some of the lesser lights have named even a larger figure, and fiercely has Sir Leonard Tilley been denounced for not publishing a statement which, being necessarily incomplete, would have been incorrect and misleading. Little did the indicters of these attacks know that, had the Finance Minister yielded to their threats, taunts and entreaties, the statement would, before final returns from all sources had been received, have shown an apparent surplus of $493,234, instead of the eagerly expected large deficit, over which in imagination and anticipation they gloated as showing the total failure of the N. P. in its first year of trial, or they would have moderated their anger. With admirable self restraint, however, disregarding the hubbub raised by the Opposition and refusing to avail himself of the chance of confounding his opponents for the moment by the publication of an incomplete return, Sir Leonard has wisely bided his time. Sir Richard Cartwright would have shown the "silver side of the shield" under similar circumstances, but the present Finance Minister is a man of honor and of truth, and scorned to take advantage of a circumstance which would, whilst giving him a temporary triumph, have interfered with the completeness of the victory which he knew awaited him over his opponents. By so doing he has confirmed the character which he has always borne as an able statesman and a public man whose good faith can be relied upon under all circumstances. How completely his sagacity has been vindicated, how carefully and accurately his calculations were made, and how thoroughly well the tariff has worked in the direction of restoring the equilibrium between revenue and expenditure, let the official returns show for themselves.

ESTIMATES.	Estimates of 1879-80.
Source of Revenue.
Cash receipts from Customs	$14,000,000
Collected previous year on goods consumed in 1879-80	700,000
Cash receipts during the year from Excise	4,300,000
Collected in previous year on goods consumed in 1879-80	600,000
Post Office	1,200,000
Stamps	200,000
Public Works and Railways	2,000,000
Miscellaneous	1,450,000
Total estimate	$24,450,000

The actual revenue for the year was as under:

Actual Revenue of 1879 and 1880.
Customs receipts during the year	$14,151,565
Collected in previous year	700,000
Excise collected during the year	4,232,266
Received in previous year	600,000
Post Office	1,200,338
Stamps	175,910
Public Works, &c	2,153,367
Miscellaneous	1,455,880
Total revenue	$24,768,585

It will be seen that credit is taken for $700,000 for Customs and $600,000 for excise duties collected in the previous year. The Finance Minister's estimate was that the customs revenue would be anticipated to the extent of $500,000, but the rush of imports was so great that that sum was exceeded by $200,000. As the amount named is included in the estimates, it is perfectly clear that the Minister is entitled in all fairness to have it placed in the statement of revenue, just as was done by his predecessor when he increased the tariff from 15 to 17½ per cent.

The estimated results compare thus with the actual results as to revenue and expenditure:

ESTIMATED RESULTS.
Estimated expenditure	$24,978,000
Supplementary estimates	95,000
Total	25,073,000
Estimated revenue	24,450,000
Estimated deficit	$623,000
ACTUAL RESULTS.
Total expenditure	$25,161,712
Total revenue	24,768,585
Actual deficit	$393,127

The deficit, it will thus be seen, has fallen below the estimates by $250,000 nearly, a result upon which the country is to be congratulated, as showing that the business of the country has been a little better than was anticipated, and that the return to prosperity is taking place so much faster than had been looked for. The deficit, it may be said, has been owing to several extraordinary expenditures, such as about $200,000 on the Indians, $100,000 for the relief of the distress in Ireland, a large excess over the usual amount of interest on deposits in the Post Office Savings Bank, caused by a very large augmentation of the amount of deposits, and other items which, had they not had to be met, would have left revenue and expenditure almost equal, with a slight balance on the side of the former. The statement, therefore, is of the most satisfactory character, and will be received with feelings of jubilation by all except those irreconcilables who would rather the country should be ruined than that they and their friends should not rule.

A Great Convenience.

Montreal papers state that a few days ago Mr. W. J. Spicer, Superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway, made application to the Secretary of the United States Treasury asking that the then existing regulations regarding the examination of baggage intended for points in the United States, from the city of Montreal, might be altered for the convenience and benefit of the travelling public. The plan of alteration suggested by Mr. Spicer was readily adopted, and now tourists and other travellers, when leaving Montreal by the Grand Trunk Railway, will find themselves relieved of an almost intolerable nuisance. Mr. E. H. Twohey, United States Customs Officer in Montreal, has received instructions through General Wells, Collector of U. S. Customs at Burlington, Vt., from the Secretary of the Treasury to examine at Bonaventure Depot all baggage intended for points in the United States via Island Pond. The travelling public will at once understand the great benefit which this change will confer upon them. Hitherto the baggage went from Bonaventure Depot and intended for the "other side" has been examined at Island Pond, necessitating the awakening of passengers, who left Montreal by the evening train, at about five o'clock in the morning; but, by the new arrangement, the ceremony of inspection is gone through before the train leaves the station, and no further trouble is experienced until the traveller reaches his or her destination. To the popular Superintendent, Mr. W. J. Spicer, are the public indebted for the great boon conferred upon them by the abolition of the old system. Ever watchful of the interest and convenience of travellers by the Grand Trunk Railway, he had observed the nuisance unavoidably created by the United States Customs officials at Island Pond when overhauling the luggage of passengers, and, therefore, exerted himself to effect a change.

This piece of work on the part of Mr. Spicer is all the more creditable to him because the travelling public alone will enjoy a benefit in which the Grand Trunk Company cannot share.

At the Camp.

Massassaga Point is just now more than ever a favorite point of attraction, in consequence of the Camp of the 15th Battalion being located there. Every afternoon the little steamers that ply between the Point and the City carry large numbers thither, and as afternoon parade does not commence until about four o'clock, visitors have an opportunity of witnessing the evolutions performed by the Volunteers.

The Camp is prettily located a short distance west of Pratty's hotel, the forty-two bell tents forming lines along the front of the open space used for the parade ground, while the marquees for the Commanding Officer, Officers' mess, Staff, and Band, are half hidden amongst clusters of evergreen, which here give the Point a most picturesque and park-like appearance. Indeed, a more beautiful location for a camp ground could not be found, we venture to say, in Ontario. It has the benefit of the prevailing westerly winds, though the force of the wind is broken somewhat by the trees which extend on the westward nearly to the water's edge. To the south and west of the tents is a large open space, perfectly level, and enclosed on all sides by trees, which is used as the parade ground, large enough to parade a regiment of a thousand men.

The day's proceedings commence with reveille at 5 o'clock—then drill from 6 to 7.30, after which breakfast is served up. Guard is mounted at 8.30—drill again from 9 to 11, and dinner at 12. Drill is resumed at 4 which lasts until 6.30, then supper. First post is at 9, last post at 9.30, and lights are out at 10. The camp has thus far been most orderly, officers evidently taking extra pains to maintain a proper esprit de corps in the ranks, and the men anxious to perform their work, and promote the efficiency of the service. The commandant, Lt.-Col. S. S. Lazier, is a most able officer, gives his personal supervision to the carrying out of all the details of camp life, and is ably sustained by Col. Hulme, adjutant, and an active and efficient staff. The Battalion has been exceedingly fortunate in securing the service of Sergeant Major Hammon, who formerly belonged to the 60th Rifles, and is at present attached to B. Battery, Kingston. He is every inch a soldier, and is rapidly bringing the companies into a very serviceable state of drill.

Thus far the weather has been every thing that could be desired. Thursday has been put down as Inspection day, and judging from the improvement already made in drill, we have no doubt the Battalion will give a good account of themselves on that occasion.

We understand that Major-Gen. Luard, the new Commandant of the Canadian Militia, accompanied by Sir Alex ander Campbell, Minister of Militia, and Lt.-Col. Straubenzie and staff, will be present on the day of Inspection. Particulars of the hour etc., will be given hereafter.

SUNDAY, Aug. 22.

The Camp was visited to-day by a great many of the farmers in the vicinity, many of whom were, no doubt, looking anxiously for signs of missing fruit, poultry, and other things that tend to make a soldier happy. In the afternoon a large number came down from the City on the Silver Spray, which brought Rev. Mr. Maclean, Pastor of St. Andrew's Church, who preached one of the most able and practical discourses we ever listened to. The Battalion turned out in considerable numbers for the Church parade, accompanied by the band, whose music on this occasion was very fine. In addition to the Battalion there were about one hundred others present, who listened attentively to the earnest words and excellent counsel given by the Minister.

Voters' List Court.

The following is a summary of the judgments given by Judge Lazier in the complaints made against the voters' lists of the city for 1880:

Charles Elliott, to be changed to Charles Henry Elliott.

David Brennan, to be assessed for lot 11 south Water Street, instead of north Water Street, and Sidney Vandervoort's assessment to be similarly changed.

Daniel Blendiu, to be changed to Daniel Blondin.

George A. Foster to be changed to George A. Frost.

George Martin, to be assessed for lot No. 10, East James Street.

The other parties appealing not making their appearance, the remainder of the complaints were dismissed, and the Court closed.

PROSPERITY RETURNING. — The bank statement for June, 1880, shows that there was $69,742,277 of public deposits in the banks in Ontario and Quebec for that month against $58,658,617 in June, 1879, or an increase of $11,083,660. The revenue statement published in Saturday's Canada Gazette shows that the post-office savings banks deposits are $2,250,000 greater than was estimated. These increases, as well as the marked increases in the railway and telegraph companies traffic receipts, all indicate that the country is just entering upon an era of great prosperity.

A STRANGE ANIMAL.—William Walsh, chief constable of Pontiac County, while fishing in Neville's Bay, at the foot of the Calumet, brought to the shore a strange animal which he describes as follows: Its body was about two feet in length, its tail at the rump being of the thickness of his wrist and tapering off to a point. Its head was fully seven inches in length, set with sharp rows of teeth, while it had four short legs, terminating in long claws. Mr. Walsh left it to wrestle with the net. He says that the creature bore resemblance to an alligator.

KINGSTON BUDGET.—The Kingston papers print the budget of the Finance Committee, from which it appears the amount to be realized this year is $97,318, and the estimated expenditure $96,815. The rate proposed is 16 mills on the dollar for all purposes.

WEST TORONTO.—Four candidates were nominated for West Toronto on Saturday, viz., Messrs. Ryan, Beatty, Wright and Capreol, and it is said all will go to the polls. The election takes place on Saturday next.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—I wish through your valuable paper to convey to the very many kind friends my heartfelt thanks, for the deep sympathy, written and otherwise expressed, for myself and family in our very sad bereavement,—for the kind words of advice pointing me to the source of all consolation in the time of great sorrow. I hope and pray that the God of infinite love and mercy will spare those kind friends from having to pass through such a sea of trouble as I have been passing through, in the last few weeks.

I am, dear Sir,
Yours respectfully,
JOHN FRANCIS.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The Times says the new cable tariff will be two shillings per word. Such is always the conclusion of any effort to establish independent telegraphic communication with America, and should any such arrangement be ratified peace and high tariff will doubtless prevail till another company is started to make a raid on the monopoly.

AMERICAN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—While John Nopeske was passing a dance hall on Canal Street last night, Wensel Hermanak rushed out and plunged a butcher knife into Nopeske's breast, with a fatal result. No cause known. Hermanak was arrested.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The World's Washington special says the President will leave on Thursday for six weeks. He will first go home for a few days, and then to Canbako to attend the reunion of his old regiment, there to be joined on the 31st by Generals Sherman, McDowell and McCook accompanied by Mrs. Hayes. The party will then begin a trip of the Pacific States. California will be first visited and then Oregon. On their return the party will visit Arizona and New Mexico.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Eliza Monroe, a young woman employee of a hotel near New Rochelle, who was discharged last week, was found on Saturday with a wound on the head and will probably die. It is believed she was assaulted by ruffians.

AFGHAN AFFAIRS.

LONDON, Aug. 21.

It is reported that the Candahar garrison made a sortie, inflicting heavy losses on the Heratees. The number of British casualities is unknown. It is believed that the tribes north of the Khojak Pass have collected to attack the communications with Pishin.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The Times has the following from Jellalabad:—

One brigade of General Stewart's force left Gundamuk on the 21st, and another will leave on the 23rd, when Gundamuk will be abandoned. One brigade will probably remain to garrison the Khyber Pass for some time, as it is in an excited state. Gen. Stewart will leave Jellalabad on the 30th, and will remain for a few days at Lundi Khotal to arrange the location of the Khyber bridade. Fort Jellalabad will be made over to the native Governor on behalf of the Ameer. The last reports from Cabul show that the Ameer is still at Shirpur. He is raising considerable revenue from fees on a large accumulation of stores in Cabul warehouses.

A despatch from Quettah says:—The natives report that Ayoob Khan is not only raising works against Candahar, but is entrenching his own position and intends to give battle when the reinforcing column arrives.

The Grand Trunk Railway and The Canada Pacific.

The London correspondent of the Toronto Globe writes:—Mr. Abbott in his monthly circular still continues to ring the praises of the Grand Trunk. "No other railway" he says, "either in England or her colonies can show anything to compare with such an extraordinary development." He gives the following interesting figures to show the results that would be attained by net weekly increases of traffic during the current half year.

£2,338 will pay 2nd Preference interest in full.
£3,618 " " and ½ p.c. per an. on Third Pref
£4,898 " " and 1 " "
£5,688 " " and 2 " "
£6,378 " " and 3 " "
£7,068 " " and 3½ " "
£7,758 " " and 4 " "

In reference to the Canada Pacific, Mr. Abbott says: "There is every reason to expect that the Grand Trunk Railway will be intimately associated with the project. The 9,000 shareholders of that Company will probably be very large subscribers, it being manifestly to their interest to do so. Provided they are satisfied with the administration, they are quite wealthy enough to absorb the entire issue.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the watchword. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

City and Vicinity.

CITY COUNCIL.—A regular meeting of the Council will be held to-night.

126TH CHURCH.—The Mill Point church is the 126th erected in this diocese since Bishop Lewis was consecrated fifteen years ago.

LOW WATER.—The heavy westerly winds of Saturday and yesterday have had the effect of lowering the water in the bay by two feet or upwards.

THE FALL REGATTA.—The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club will meet at Hambly's on Monday evening next to make arrangements for the holding of the fall regatta.

TEMPERANCE IN CANADA.—The report of an able speech on this subject delivered in London, England, by Sir Charles Tupper will be found in other columns of today's issue.

LACROSSE.—The President, Captain and Secretary of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club know nothing as to the return match with the Belleville Club, which has been announced.

A LARGE CRANE.—A few days ago Mr. Thomas Nightingale shot one of the largest cranes ever seen in this part of the country. From tip to tip of the wings the measurement was 6ft. and the length from the feet to the head was 5ft 3 inches.

THE THOUSAND ISLANDS.—It will be seen by advertisement, that the steamer Hastings will make excursion trips from Belleville to the Thousand Islands on Tuesday and Thursday of this week. As the season at the Thousand Islands is drawing to a close, those who want to visit this famous place of resort would do well to go on one of these trips.

MARINE RAILWAY.—It is reported that Mr. Davis, of Wolfe Island, is contemplating the erection of a marine railway at Belleville next spring. Mr. Davis is a first-class ship builder, he having constructed the steamers Varuna, Utica, and many other staunch and speedy craft. The city authorities will doubtless offer all reasonable inducements in the matter.

LAW EXAMINATION.—At the law examination at Toronto on Thursday last, Mr. W. H. Biggar, of this city passed his examination for attorney without an oral, and had the high honor of standing first on the list. He was likewise entitled to the bar. Mr. N. Gilbert of Mr. Diamond's office, also passed a very creditable examination as attorney-at-law. We congratulate the gentlemen on their success.

RAILWAY NOTES.—The Peterborough Times says:—"The railway bridges over the River Trent and Ouse are finished and have been inspected and passed by the Chief Engineer. The bridge over the Indian River is finished but has not been inspected yet. The bridge over the Otonabee built by the C. P. & M. R. Co'y has been found to be in a better condition than was rumored about town some weeks ago. Several men have been employed for the last few days in overhauling and repairing it in preparation for the Grand Junction."

THE EXCURSION SEASON.—The excursion of the Bridge Street Sunday School on the Alexandra on Saturday night was very largely attended.—The Young People's Aid Association of the Methodist Church Trenton have engaged the Varuna for a moonlight excursion to-morrow night. The steamer will leave Belleville at 5 p. m, and return at 9:30. A concert will be given on the boat.—The grand display of inland fireworks will take place on Wednesday night, the steamers leaving Belleville at 9:30. The return will be by moonlight.

A JUMP IN CHEESE.—A cable to-day gives the price of cheese at 61s. being an advance of 2s since Saturday.

CRICKET.—The Onondaga cricket club of Syracuse will play the return match with the Belleville club here on the 6th or 8th of September.

REDUCED RATE ON INTEREST.—We are informed that the Banks in the City have reduced the rate of interest on deposits from five to four per cent.

WINNIPEG NEWS.—This is the title of a new daily paper published in Winnipeg, of which Mr. C. R. Tuttle is the editor. It is a spicy sheet, and is cleverly conducted.

NEW TELEGRAPH OFFICE.—The Dominion Telegraph Company of Canada have opened an office at Mount Clemens and Marine City, Michigan. The rate is 20 and 1c.

SHEEP EXPORT.—Messrs. Young and Caven, of Prince Edward, shipped about 300 sheep last week via Kingston for the European markets. They avaraged 140 lbs. each.

SENT UP.—The woman Young, who on Saturday picked up Mrs. Black's purse on the market and refused to return it, was tried before the Police Magistrate and was sent up for two weeks.

A VACANCY TO BE FILLED.—The City Council should to-night appoint a successor to the late Abraham Diamond, who was one of the appointed members of the Board of Education.

BUSH FIRE.—A fire is raging in some woods in the second concession of Sidney. The flames were plainly visible from the city last night, and a dense smoke hangs over the locality to-day.

ANOTHER EXCURSION.—A moonlight excursion, for the benefit of the 15th Battalion band, will take place to-morrow evening to Massassaga Point, per steamers Prince Edward, Annie Gilbert and Silver Spray.

EXCURSION TO MADOC.—Christ Church and St. George's Sunday Schools, intend having an excursion and picnic to Madoc and the mines on the 31st. Fifty cents for the round trip. Particulars in advertisement to-morrow.

FRIDAY'S ACCIDENT.—Alexander Smith, who was injured by accident on Friday, is now considered out of danger, though still suffering severely. The tackle which broke was not Mr. Smith's, but belonged to the schooner Pearl.

NEARLY AN UPSET.—As the Trenton stage was on its way homeward on Saturday the horses became uneasy on account of the flies, and the driver losing control of them they ran into the fence, nearly upsetting the stage and breaking the harness badly.

TELEGRAPH OFFICE.—The Dominion Telegraph Company have opened a branch for the transaction of business in the office of J. H. Robinson, corner of Front and Campbell Streets. The Company are to be congratulated on securing the services of Mr. Robinson, whose long residence in this city and business capabilities will make him a most efficient officer.

DUST AND DROUGHT.—The streets, owing to the long continued dry weather, have seldom, if ever, been more dusty than they are at present, and as high winds prevail daily, the discomfort to pedestrians on some of the streets is very great. Root crops and potatoes are suffering for want of rain; and the wells are beginning to give out, so that the water problem will soon attract the attention of the city fathers again.

MILITIA CHANGES.—The Canada Gazette of Saturday contained the following militia appointments:—15th Battalion, "Argyle Light Infantry."—No. 4 Company, Belleville.—To be Lieutenant, provisionally, David Charles Ferguson, vice Alexander Forin, whose resignation is accepted.—No. 5 Company, Belleville.—To be 2nd Lieutenant, provisionally, Francis Markell, vice Frank M. Clark, who is permitted to retire retaining rank. To be Quartermaster, Joseph W. Campion, vice Stephen Bourgeois, transferred to the command of No. 4 Company.

BRIDGE STREET CHURCH.—The congregation of Bridge St. Methodist Church were yesterday favored with a visit from their former organist, Prof. Whiam, who remained here over Sunday on his return from England, where he has been attending "The Handel Festival." The professor has certainly lost none of his skill, as was fully attested by his performances yesterday. After the evening service a sacred recital of about a half hour's length was given, for which a number of the congregation remained. We can assure Prof. Whiam, from the kindly remarks in regard to himself we have heard in so many quarters, that he can always anticipate a cordial reception and appreciative audience among his many friends in this city whenever he may come.

BAND CONCERT.—Our Tweed correspondent writes: The Madoc Brass Band gave a Concert in the Town Hall in Tweed on the evening of the 19th inst. The programme consisted of two parts, interspersed with vocal and instrumental music. Each piece was rendered to the entire satisfaction of the audience; indeed, Madoc need not be ashamed of the musical talent of her young ladies and gentlemen—they are a credit to the place. There was one piece not laid down in the printed programme enacted at the Hall, namely rowdyism, both inside of the hall and on the outside, which does not say much for the parties concerned; indeed the idle boys and young girls who congregated outside of the building, made themselves very conspicuous by their bad manners and ill behavior. It is likely some of them will be up before the Magistrates for their conduct on the occasion.

HOTEL KEEPERS and other would do well to examine Jas. Hennessy's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offered at 25 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessy.

No Hospitalneeded.

No palatial hospital needed for Hop Bitters patients, the large salaried talented putters to tell what Hop Bitters will do or cure, as they tell their own story by their certain and absolute cures at home.

DARING BURGLARY.

Ninety-four Dollars Stolen.

A daring burglary was committed last night on the premises of Mrs. Horne, by which she was victimized to the extent of $94.

It appears that she retired as usual between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock after having, as she supposed, secured the house. Sometime during the night she was awakened and thought she saw some one in her bedroom, which caused her to awake her niece, who was sleeping with her, when both ladies listened, but hearing nothing concluded it must have been a mistake.

This morning they were astonished to find that the house had been entered during the night, a cash box broken into and the contents, $94, stolen. The thief had taken out a pane of glass at the rear of the house, which enabled him to raise the window, when he passed through an empty bedroom and a sitting room into the hall, where Mrs. Horne had deposited her cash box upon a work basket. The cash box was found broken open and the contents as stated abstracted. The loss is a severe one, as Mrs. Horne lately suffered a heavy loss by fire.

Police Court.

(Before T. HOLDEN, Esq., P. M.)

MONDAY, Aug. 23.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

William Bickle was charged with being drunk and disorderly and assaulting Constable Hayes, who arrested him. Prisoner, the officer said was very violent, and he was obliged to get the assistance of officer Cook in order to get him to the police station. Prisoner was remanded till Friday, for further evidence.

Trenton Correspondence.

AUGUST 21, 1880.

To-day at noon, Mr. Henry Young, of the York Road, (having just cut down a large field of oats,) went in to dinner with his men, and on his return was surprised to find the whole field in a blaze, and nearly all the oats consumed. A spark from a passing locomotive on the G. T. R. is supposed to have been the cause.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

California has as many acres under wheat 3,227,000, as Great Britain, and produces half as many bushels, 56,000,000.

A DesMoines, Iowa, despatch says:—In all sections of the State the new wheat crop is reported as threshing out a greater yield than had been expected. Corn is safe from harm and the farmers are troubled to know what to do with their crop.

The army worm has made its appearance in the eastern part of Halifax, N. S. It has also appeared in Sherbrooke, doing much damage to the wheat, barley, and other grain crops.

It is estimated that on January 1st, 1880, there were 30,000,000 sheep in New South Wales, Australia, an increase of 5,000,000 over the previous year. During the past year 140,500,000 pounds of wool were forwarded for shipment.

A Glasgow despatch says the stock of iron now on hand in that city awaiting sales, is not less than 460,000 tons. This is the second time in the history of the iron trade in Scotland when so much iron has been on storage at once. There was considerable realizing yesterday, and iron closed at 55s 6d. The strikers have chosen a poor time to quit work, and the market will be overstocked for no one can say how long, as the principal demand is for consumption.

BEET ROOT SUGAR.—At the general meeting of the Pioneer Beet Root Sugar Company held recently, a report was read to the assembled shareholders, relating to the prospect of the beet crop now growing at Coaticooke and vicinity. The fact was pointed out that the experiment of raising beets for the Portland factory has proved immensely successful. While the prospects of the potato crop are doubtful, the beet crop has shown all the elements of a grand harvest. This offered the best possible guarantee for the success of the enterprise, for unquestionably this is the important point to be settled.

A Narrow Escape.

DUBLIN, Ont., Aug. 23.

On Saturday evening, Thos. Ryan's team, tied at Dorcey's Corners, a mile and a quarter west of here, broke loose and ran towards Hurley's Railway Crossing, over which a train was rapidly passing. The horses dashed wildly against the train and one of them was thrown down and instantly killed, but the other was unhurt. Some children standing on the steps of the baggage car had a narrow escape.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Arrived, Circassia from Glasgow.

BUCHAREST, Aug. 23.—The following are the details of the murder of Dr. Parsons, the American missionary. One of the assassians played the muzzle of a rifle close to Parsons' breast when initiating. Parsons sprang up, but before he could say or do anything, a bullet pierced his heart. The two Circassians threw the bodies over a precipice, from which they were found in after days. An American residing at Ismidi telegraphed the facts to the British ambassador, who communicated them immediately to the American consul at Vienna. A squad of soldiers was sent to the camp of the Circassians. They threatened to shoot the entire tribe unless the murderers were surrendered, whereupon the murderers were delivered to the authorities. The affair caused great consternation in Constantinople, and since its occurrence people have been armed, and if possible with an armed guard, when riding or driving in the suburbs.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, moderate to fresh winds, mostly easterly to south easterly fine weather to-day, local rains to-morrow, stationary or slightly lower temperature.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Indications: lower lakes, clearing or partly cloudy, stationary temperature.

Man's Noblest Work.

This is an age of great works and wonderful inventions. Steam, electricity, water, air, all are made to serve man, but unquestionably the greatest inventions are those which preserve man's health and prolong his life, and among the greatest of these is Dr. Wm.'s New Discovery for Consumption. Its effects are truly wonderful and hundreds are happy to day, who once looked forward to an early grave. For Coughs, Colds' Bronchitis, Asthma, loss of voice, Hay Fever, Hoarseness, Croup, or any affection whatever of the Throat, Chest or Lungs, Dr. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will positively cure. We can cheerfully recommend it to all, and can unhesitatingly say it is the only sure cure for Throat and Lung Affections. Trial bottles ten cents; regular size $1. For sale by Jas. Clarke & Co.

CAST ON THE WORLD:
OR,
The Border Marriage
A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

'Yonder comes one, then, who will tell you who I am,' said Charles, pointing to where Philip Ravensworth had just made his appearance at the end of the lime-tree walk.

Edgar looked round, and seeing Philip so near, let fall the raised arm which held the whip, and Charles relinquishing his hold at the same moment, the young man stood silent, awaiting Ravensworth's approach; Doris inwardly uttering a fervent thanksgiving for his opportune arrival.

'What does this mean?' asked Philip as soon as he had reached the spot.

'It means,' shouted Edgar, 'that I have caught this fellow in terms of familiarity with my sister, and I was about to bestow on him a well merited chastisement. This comes, sir, of your taking him from the gutter, and introducing him to our society. The honour of the family is irreparably injured, and you are the cause of it."

Philip looked at Charles and Dora and understood the state of matters at a glance. Then his eye reverted with stern gravity to the face of Edgar.

'Young man,' he said, 'you stand sorely in need of a severe lesson, and you are about to receive it for not taking from the gutter, and introducing him to our society. your elder brother, and heir to that title and estate which you have hitherto fancied would be your inheritance.'

Edgar stood for some moments motionless and dumb, then a smile of scornful incredulity came upon his face, and he instantly rejoined—

'This joke might pass with a child or a fool, sir, but I am neither, and I call it what it is—a most impudent and unpardonable falsehood, which the respect you owe to your family should have kept you from uttering.'

'The respect I owe to your family' replied Ravensworth, with a bitter mocking tone. 'But knowing the utter ignorance in which you speak I can pardon your folly. Your insolence and senseless pride, however, belong to yourself, and for these a most punishment is preparing. I repeat it, Charles is your brother, and both to all you fancied yours, and if you are presumptuous enough to doubt my word, go to Lord Eagleheart, and receive from him assurance of the truth of what I say. You will find him in the library, in such a mood as may itself convince you.'

Again was Edgar struck motionless and dumb,and he could only stare at the speaker in ghastly helplessness.

'This is indeed the truth, Edgar and you will find it so,' said Charles, speaking to him in a tone of softness, as if feeling towards you for what is past, and be sure you will always find me ready to act towards you the part of a brother.'

The wretched youth, beginning now to have a well dread of the possible truth of what he had heard, cast a hasty, scowling look on the three faces which were bent on him, then started off at a rapid pace along the lime-tree walk towards the mansion.

* * * * * * *

In less than an hour, Philip, Charles and Dora had started in a carriage on the journey to realess Lady Eaglehart from the Asylum in which her husband had placed her. Dora insisted on accompanying them, and they had not the heart to refuse her. Previous to their setting out, Charles wrote a letter and despatched it by a groom to Singleton Hall, apprising Lydia and Mary of their departure and its object, giving also an out line of their visit to the Grange and relieving their hearts of anxiety by assuring them that a harmonious arrangement of all those matters, which had been so fearfully disjointed, might confidently be looked for.

Ere this letter reached the hands of those to whom it was written, the carriage containing the travellers was several miles from the Grange, and proceeding at a pace dictated by the impatience of its inmates to reach the place of their destination. The thought of the poor sufferer so cruelly immured made them sad and anxious, and minutes seemed hours till they knew her state, and brought her the joy of deliverance.

Dora shuddered, and a sob escaped her at sight of the melancholy place: and terribly anxious were the hearts of all three as they drove up the avenue to the massive door of the building.

At their summons the porter opened the door and from behind him, Jason,the proprietor of the place, advanced to meet them.

'How is Lady Eagleheart?' demanded Charles quickly.

The man started, hesitated, and looked inquiringly. As his eyes lighted on Dora, he noticed the resemblance, and knew she must be her ladyship's daughter.

'For God's sake tell us how she is,' repeated Charles. 'We have come to take her away.'

'Ahem—this—this is very irregular,' returned Jason,

'Not more irregular than the way in which you received her,' said Ravensworth sternly. 'I trust for your sake she is well, for in that case she will go with us, and no further inquiry will be made, but if otherwise the matter will be brought at once before the Home Secretary.'

'I acted under his lordship's authority,' replied Jason, in a humble tone.

A Great Enterprise.

False Impression.

It is generally supposed by physicians and the people generally that Dyspepsia cannot invariably be cured, but we are pleased to say that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER has come never, to our knowledge, failed to cure Dyspepsia and Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, etc. Out of the 50,000 dozen bottles sold last year, not a single failure was reported, but thousands of complimentary letters received from Druggists of wonderful cures. Three doses will relieve any case Try it. Sample bottles 10cts.; regular size 75cts.

From the Hub

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season petizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover from.—Boston Globe.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, good health, by using GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart,Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of AUGUST FLOWER will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

The Greatest Remedy Known.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption is certainly the greatest remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity. Thousands of once hopeless sufferers now loudly proclaim their praise for this wonderful Discovery, to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request that you call on your druggist, JAMES CLARKE & CO., and get a trial bottle free of charge, which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what as regular one dollar size bottle will do.

Somebody's Child

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flush of hope on his young face and an indescribable yearning to live and take an honored place in the world beside the companions of his youth. And somebody's mother is thinking of the time when that dear face will be hidden, where no ray of hope can brighten it, when her heart and her home will be left desolate—because there was no cure for consumption. Reader, if the child be your neighbor's take this comforting word to the mother's heart before it is too late. Tell her that consumption is curable, that men are living to-day, aged, robust men, whom the physicians pronounced incurable at the age of twenty-five because lung had been almost destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most efficient alterative for separating the scrofulous matter from the blood and lungs, and imparting strength to the system. It has cured hundreds of consumptives.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," but have another article just as good, if not better, which they will supply at the same price. A moment's test of this assertion is transparent. These substitutes are made and sold on the great reputation of Pain-Killer, and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs can, in nine cases out of ten, afford a better profit to the dealer than the genuine. Don't be deceived by unprincipled dealers, but insist upon having what you call for. Don't allow them to impose a substitute upon you because it pays them a few cents more profit. Don't let the interest of the dealer prevail over your own interest. Don't buy the imitation article because he can on the genuine.

FOR CHOLERA MORBUS, CRAMPS, AND ALL SUMMER OR BOWEL COMPLAINTS
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER
IS UNEQUALLED.
IT CURES ALMOST INSTANTLY.
The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz. and 5 oz. bottles, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively—large bottles are therefore cheapest.
SOLD BY ALL MEDICINE DEALERS.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED
IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, for a reasonable length of time, will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed because one lung had been almost destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most efficient alterative for separating the scrofulous matter from the blood and lungs, and imparting strength to the system. It has cured hundreds of consumptives.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,
December 19th, 1873. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for some days. I had every symptom apparent; night and morning cough, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have used all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 113 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he can speak more than a whisper now. I shall continue to recommend medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am confident I shall entirely recover. I am grateful yours.

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption
IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF
Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the Inventor, Mancel L. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.
For Ague, Anæmia, Intermittten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, a can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt but that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that she was a bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh. I have a partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,
MRS. LUCIEN OAKES.
Northport, Wis., May 6, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me. I have been ailing over six years with a number of disease but my difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me, and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.
I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.
Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstance.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

—SIR JOHN MACDONALD'S REPLY.

The following report of the discussion between Sir John Macdonald and a deputation from the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, is condensed from the Manchester Courier of the 7th inst.:—An important deputation, consisting of several of the directors of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, waited upon Sir John Macdonald, the Prime Minister of Canada, at his hotel, Dover Street, Piccadilly, yesterday. Mr. Pope, the Canadian Minister of Agriculture and Emigration, and Sir Alexander Galt, Agent-General in London for Canada, accompanied Sir J. Macdonald. The deputation comprised Mr. B. Armitage, M. P., president; Mr. Hugh Birley, M.P., vice-president; Mr. Hugh Mason, M.P., and Mr. F. W. Grafton, M. P., directors. There were also Mr. R. Leake, M.P., Mr. W. Agnew, M.P. and Mr. Hugh Birley, M.P.

Mr. ARMITAGE, in introducing his colleague said that when he asked Sir John's permission for the deputation to wait upon him, they at that time only intended to address him concerning the bonding tariffs of Canada in relation to this country. Since then, however—really within the last two or three days—another question had arisen to which they wished his special attention, viz., the postage of sample parcels. Manchester merchants suffered great inconvenience in conducting their business with the Dominion of Canada in consequence of the restrictions which were placed on the size and weight of parcels of patterns passing through the post. It was at present the rule that parcels should measure only 8in. by 4in., and 2in in depth; and weigh only 8 ounces. A few days ago the English Postmaster-General was interrogated in the House of Commons to inquire whether some relief could not be afforded in the matter, and he replied that it entirely rested with the CANADIAN Government. Since then he (the speaker) had had an interview with Mr. Fawcett, who expressed his consent, on behalf of the English post office, to adopt a uniform rate of parcels in other countries, and he could be so arranged. The deputation desired to place before Sir John the position of manufacturers. They wished that the sizes and weight of packets should be made uniform with those they sent to the United States of America and to many continental countries—in fact all countries with which they traded. They felt sure that whatever objections might be made in the Canadian post office could be easily overruled. He had been told that there was a danger of patterns going by post to Canada so as to evade the customs. Mr. Fawcett had told him that that was one objection, but he hoped there was not much ground to fear that any such thing would occur. They were prepared to show Sir John the advantages of adopting a uniform system of size and weight of pattern parcels.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD.—I think that is very obvious. The packets there should be uniformity in all these sample parcels.

Mr. ARMITAGE said there were many occasions on which very serious inconvenience arose in consequence of the want of uniformity. They contended that what was to the interest of themselves as merchants was identical with the interests of their clients in Canada. If their clients in Canada wished to send sample parcels to this country, the conveniences selected would be of great service to them. Manufacturers and other merchants were in the habit of sending samples of their goods all over the world, but postal regulations of other countries would not suit Canada, and they had to treat the despatch of their specimens in a different way. In the preparations of patterns it very often happened that the dimensions showed to better effect, in a larger size, the designs on the goods, and therefore there was an inconvenience in not being able to present them in as tempting a manner and in as convenient a form to their customers in Canada as they did to their clients in other countries. One example would show the inconveniences. An order was recently given for a large quantity of two-bushel grain bags, but it was desired that a sample should accompany the reply by post. On presenting the sample at the post office, it weighed, these bags generally did, 12 ounces, and consequently it was refused, and the contract all fell through because the merchant on the other side was not able to inspect the sample which should represent the goods he was supposed to be purchasing. The deputation hoped that Sir John would not find any sufficient reason to refuse the prayer they made.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD.—What size is allowed by the post office of the United States for sample parcels?

Mr. ARMITAGE replied that the weight was 12 ounces instead of eight, as in Canada, with a relative increase in the dimensions—or about 50 per cent. more than the size at present in operation in Canada.

Sir J. MACDONALD.—I would say generally that I consider it very desirable there should be uniformity in small matters, and I think the Canada Post Office department will be disposed to act in the same liberal spirit as other nations. If the matter were only one for arrangement between England and Canada, there would be no difficulty; but we are close neighbors to the United States, and I presume that the Postmaster-General of Canada looks to the limitation complained of, has been induced to do so by an apprehension that the post office would be made a means by evading our Customs by America. I fancy the limitation arises more from that apprehension, than from any fear that there would be any smuggling or clandestine sending of goods by parcel post from England. I shall see the Postmaster-General on my return at the end of this month or the beginning of next, and I shall try to have your views met with as much as possible. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. BIRLEY—Of course the authorities always have the power to open parcels, and if there was any apprehension of smuggling they would have the means of detecting it.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD—That is so. With respect to the United States, if the practice was followed to any extent for the purpose of protecting our revenue, the American authorities might put an end to our postal convention.

Mr. BIRLEY—I should have thought that it would have cut both ways.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD.—We have few manufactories, and we do not export to the United States, but they export largely to us.

Mr. ARMITAGE then proceeded to refer to the object for which the deputation had invited the audience. They addressed Sir John, believing he was the author of, and strongly in favor of, the present system of high tariffs, and they were therefore somewhat bold in coming before him to dispute the propriety of such measures, and, if possible, to convert him. They wished to effect some reform in this matter. They came from a town where they had initiated many important reforms, and it was a great regret to them that their commerce with Canada, which was at one time considerable, should be so far diminished as it had been. They believed their interest in this country as producers were identical with the great consuming class of Canada, and therefore they desired to promote better commercial relations between the two countries. They had no sympathy whatever with protection in any form. They contended that the raising of the tariff of Canada had the effect of largely diminishing the trade between the two countries. This change had not been productive of revenue to Canada, and therefore it could not be justified on that ground. Now, if it were to be argued with the view of showing that it was necessary to protect Canadian industries, they said that that which was now demanded was altogether in excess of the requirements of the case, inasmuch as the British merchants had to bear the expenses of two shipments of the goods, in bringing the cotton from America to Manchester, and then again back. The margin between this cost and the charge for taking raw material from the States to Canada must be a very important one, and, as they thought, sufficient to cover any protection in Canada. They were told that the object of Sir John's visit to this country was for some financial purpose, and if he had in view the carrying out of a great project—for carrying up his country—they could only say that they wished such an enterprise every success, and they would be delighted to know that the advancement of Canada would be promoted by any measures on which he was at present engaged. Mr. Hugh Birley, M.P., (Mr. Armitage) knew of many persons who in the last few years had gone from this country to Canada to seek their fortune with the view of settling there, and these individuals belonged to the middle and working classes. The deputation knew that Canada presented very great attractions to those who lived in a country like England, where they were so crowded. They were speaking then on the part of Canada, and they said it was a pity that the Government of that country should impose any hindrances or drawbacks by making settlers in that country less attractive than it otherwise would be. The emigration of English people to Canada would, in various ways, increase the trade which would be developed, must mainly depend upon the temptations they offered, whether they went out to offer their own labour or to invest their capital. Their trade was placed very heavily upon such persons. As regarded the various necessaries of life, such as clothing suitable for domestic uses, the tariff as at present arranged was ad valorem duty of 15 per cent., and a charge by the specific system according to the length and width of the cloth, varying from 7½c. to 20c. in many instances 15 per cent. That made the duty upon the articles for domestic use about 30 per cent, and in very few instances less than 25 per cent. The present system applied to goods of a better as well as a poorer kind. In Canada during several months of the year, it was necessary to use much clothing. The tariff, therefore, pressed heavily hard upon the people, who would otherwise be much longer customers of England, and who, but for the tariff, would have their wants supplied at a much cheaper rate. They had had 30 years' experience in the Canada trade, and he was speaking from his own knowledge when he said that during that time the changes in the tariff had been very great, affecting the business between the two countries from year to year. At the time he spoke of there was a duty of 5 per cent. only, but it had reached 25 and 30 per cent. Such changes were a great country like Canada, which had, they hoped, a great future before it, this looked like going back instead of advancing. The duty upon a yard of linen, bonded, was 25 per cent ad valorem, and there were 2 cents charged for each one as specific duty, and as the price of the bag was from 10d to 1s., the duty increased the expense 50 per cent. They would show the disadvantage to which the agricultural classes were subjected. It had come under his notice during the past week that a Canadian farmer had given an order here and arranged for the purchase of a steam plough could not send it over the Atlantic unless he paid a duty of £500. The result was that he could not complete the purchase. The effect of such an excessive duty prevented the importation of an article which could not be made in Canada, and which, they considered, tended to the injury of the agriculturists of that country.

Mr. SLAGG said in Manchester they most strongly felt an impatience, if not almost a resentment, at the continuous restrictions that were put upon their trade with Canada. No one grudged the complete liberty that had been accorded to their colonial possessions in regard to self-government, but the public opinion was strong that they had not been given to such an extent as to admit of the possibility of the practical exclusion almost of their own goods, at a time when they were greatly in want of markets. Lancashire manufacturers were at the present time met by competition in every part of the world; and in addition to this severe check which the trade had received, they found themselves confronted in all directions by their own friends and fellow-citizens almost in the colonies with restrictive tariffs.

After some remarks to the same effect by Messrs. Mason, Leake, and others, the delegates put some questions to Sir John Macdonald.

Mr. BIRLEY—Is it possible we could have anything like a commercial treaty with Canada, something like that we have had with France up to the present time?

Sir JOHN MACDONALD—The chief difficulty in that respect is that you have nothing to give us in the way of reciprocity. You have given everything away.

Mr. BIRLEY—Is that the view Canada is going to take, though it must be to her own advantage.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD, in replying, said—I do not think it would be of any advantage for us to enter upon any elaborate discussion of the principles of free trade and protection. The subject has been exhausted; and I think most, if not all of us, have looked at both aspects of free trade as well as the protective system, which I may say is accepted as the policy of the greater part of the civilized world, England being almost an exception in adhering to a principle and in practice to free trade under all circumstances. As free traders you go farther than John Stuart Mill, because he used, the argument, in the last edition of his work on political economy, that it was justifiable for a young nation with infant industries, to resort to temporary protection until they arrive at some degree of maturity. He adhered to that opinion as long as he lived.

Mr. SLAGG—His friends say that he cancelled that monstrous doctrine. At all events it is recorded that he did. Certainly he did not die entertaining such a sentiment.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD—I rather think, on enquiry, you will find you are misinformed. He wrote a letter addressed, I think, to Horace Greeley, in New York, in which he stated that his opinion in that respect had been to some degree misapprehended, misrepresented, and misapplied, but I do not think he ever withdrew formally from that assertion in his celebrated work. The policy of Canada as now adopted has been adopted by the consent and enthusiastic action of the people, both agriculturists and manufacturers We have some manufacturers, and we hope to have more. For the last five or six years, ever since the United States overcame the depression caused by the long war, and from other causes which operated here as well as in Canada, we have had a series of bad years and a series of deficits; and as you will admit that is a bad state of affairs. Every nation should make income and expenditure meet if it wants to fulfil its obligations. The tariff adopted in the autumn of 1879 in Canada is essentially a revenue tariff, and the consequence is that this year we expect there will be a balance between revenue and expenditure. If there is a deficiency at the end of our next fiscal year which is the 30th of June, of which I am not very informed, it will be so small as to be of no great account. While the tariff which we adopted is a revenue tariff in substance, and for the purpose of enabling us to meet our obligations, it was thought, wisely or unwisely, that it could be so adjusted as to assist the infant manufactures of Canada, and as regards the farmers, to prevent the great occasional local disturbances in values of agricultural products in Canada by the interjection at particular times for particular purposes of the great American capitalists who form "rings" and "corners" of all kinds for the purpose of influencing the trade of their people. On re-adjusting the tariff we were not at all insensible to our obligations to the mother country, and our great aim was in the re-adjustment—I cannot speak about particular articles, because it is not my branch of the Government of the Country. I leave that to our Finance Minister, and those who are more intimately acquainted with the subject—but I know that the principle on which the tariff was adjusted was that—that we should put heavier duties, by classification upon the articles which the United States have under foreign countries produced, and which we ought to produce in our own country, and impose lighter duties upon those articles which we principally got from England. During the last six or seven years the proportion of imports into Canada from England and the United States has been very unfortunate for England. Our imports from England have been steadily decreasing, while the imports from the United States have been steadily increasing in proportion. Since the adoption of the new tariff that has been reversed. We have only been more than a year's experience of it, but that year's experience has shown us that the proportion is altered; that while the proportion of the goods from the United States are largely diminished, the importations from England are largely increased.

Mr. MASON—Is there not a very good and strong reason for that in the United States itself. We had a great cry raised in Manchester against the importation of American goods. It has all subsided, and it was all provoked to be simply a kind of development of their own distress, and we understood that that will soon be equally well to Canada.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD—Our tariff, of course in some degrees is an experimental one, but as yet we have no cause to complain of it. I think that the mistake, if it be a mistake, in England is to look at the relations of Canada and England from an exclusive point of view, and to disregard the relations between Canada and the United States; we must look at the question as a whole. We are dependent upon the United States for wants, and the same products. America is also in this position: It is an older country, and a wealthier country. By its productive system it has developed its resources to a very large degree. Besides, Canada is divided into municipalities, and after development of the county, such as roads, bridges and other matters, school rates, &c., they are met by direct taxation by the municipalities, and our power of direct taxation has been exhausted practically by our municipalities for local wants, and by the provinces for their wants. Consequently we are driven to impose duties on imports, and to levy excise duties for our revenue. An income tax, for instance, would be unproductive.

Mr. AGNEW—I suppose because there is nothing to levy it upon.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD—That is so.

Mr. LEAKE—I do not think we can recommend anything in the form of taxation which could weigh upon the working man.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD—The present Parliament of Canada was elected by the people in the autumn of 1878 by an overwhelming majority. We have 206 members, and, I think, only 15 Opposition members.

Mr. AGNEW—The Opposition being free-traders.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD—I think the majority are so. The Parliament was elected principally by the influence of the cry raised against the United States. The cry raised by the people was for a reciprocity of trade or a reciprocity of tariff. I do not think, in face of the present feeling in Canada, that there is any chance of the tariff being, as a whole, reduced. The Government of which I am a member will be glad, however, to receive any suggestions with respect to improper or undue pressure upon any given article of commerce, and upon any wrong being shown, or any injustice, such as, for instance—

Mr. BIRLEY—As steam plough.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD—We can make steam ploughs in Canada; but we will be ready to consider any suggestion of that kind with a desire to meet your views as much as possible.

Mr. ARMITAGE—We deal in cotton fabrics, and probably I was wrong in introducing other subjects.

Mr. LEAKE—In Lancashire we make everything except our food.

Sir ALEXANDER GALT—You made them long ago.

Mr. AGNEW—As I understand, your high tariff is imposed more on account of revenue than for the purpose of protecting your industries?

Sir JOHN MACDONALD—That is so. We were obliged to raise the tariff to meet our obligations, pay our debts, and develop our country, without direct reference to the question of protection, but, as I have already stated, we have deliberately adopted the principle of incidental protection.

The deputation thanked Sir John for the interview and then retired.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, AUG. 24.

The Customs Service.

For some years past the Hon Mr. Bowell has been one of the best-abused men on the Conservative side of the House. When in opposition he was a thorn in the side of the Grit party, his damaging exposures of their devious ways in connection with the Riel affair, the Argenteuil speech of Mr. Huntington, the giving of fat printing contracts to Speaker Anglin and others of their friends in Parliament, and other jobs, having earned for him the strong hatred of the "party of purity." Hence the strenuous efforts of the Grit press to discredit so able an adversary and to weaken his influence in the country, by grossly misrepresenting and slandering the member for North Hastings, which were from time to time exposed in the columns of the INTELLIGENCER and other Conservative journals. His opponents pursued their usual wily and unscrupulous course in the matter. To arouse the feelings of the Roman Catholic population against him he, as for so me years the head of the Orange order, was held up to the view of the people of that religious denomination as a stern and fierce-minded bigot, just waiting and watching for an opportunity to wade in their blood up to his knees, as all good Orangemen were sworn to do; whilst to shake the faith of Orangemen and Protestants in the Grand Master, he was said to be a traitor to their cause, the proof of the allegation being given in the fact that Mr. Bowell had actually sat down to dinner on a public occasion with that jesuitical chief of the Ultramontanes and upholder of the papacy, the Hon. Hector Louis Langevin, C. B., Knight Commander of the Roman Order of St. Gregory the Great.

Such were the contemptible means resorted to by the Grit press in order to crush, if possible, a prominent opponent who had done their cause much harm, assaults of the same character being continued long after the object of their spite had retired from the Grand Mastership, and even up to the time that he assumed office as Minister of Customs. Subsequent to this latter event the clamor took a slightly different direction—there being thus an opportunity for a variation of the old tune—it being alleged that all the Roman Catholics, in Ontario at least, would be dismissed as soon as possible, from the Customs Department, and Orangemen installed in the places thus vacated. This assertion may have had a trifling effect amongst those whom it was designed to influence, but as proof of its entire falsity is now at hand, the reaction which a statement of the facts cannot fail to create will probably leave the slanderers a little worse off than before. The facts are contained in the following official list of the appointments and promotions in the Customs service in Ontario since the 10th November, 1878, when the first changes under the present administration were made:

T. A. Hefferman	Guelph	Roman Catholic

Thus, it is made apparent that of the twenty-nine persons appointed, 10 are Roman Catholics, nine are Protestants, and the religion of the remaining ten officers is unknown. The return further shows that in Quebec there were appointed 10 Catholics and 4 Protestants; in Nova Scotia 9 Catholics and 10 Protestants; in New Brunswick 3 Catholics and 4 Protestants; and in Prince Edward Island 3 Catholics and 4 Protestants. So that of the seventy-six appointments this bigoted, fanatical, narrow-minded Minister actually gave 35 to Roman Catholics, 31 to Protestants and the remaining 10 to men whose religious belief is unknown. This statement of facts ought to be enough to confound the agitators whose assertions we have above given, but now they will probably turn about and abuse the Minister for appointing too many Roman Catholics to offices in his Department, whilst the truth is, we venture to assert, that the ability and fitness of the persons chosen to fill vacancies in the Customs Department are the points inquired into by the head of the Department, their religious belief neither forming a bar to nor an assistance in their securing a position in the service. This is the only proper course to pursue, and our knowledge of the Minister of Customs assures us that it is his method of dealing with such matters.

CITY COUNCIL.

MONDAY, Aug. 23.

The Council met at the usual hour.

PRESENT.—His Worship the Mayor, Messrs Jas. Smith, St Charles, Jellett, Lingham, McIntosh, Dickson, Holden, Geen, Costello, A. L. Smith, Niles, Hambly, Wallbridge, Petrie, Vandusen, Grant, Robertson, Brennan.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

PETITIONS, &c,

The following were presented:

The Clerk stated that the Collector had handed in his rolls for 1873 and 1874, showing $484.65 due the Collector on the first and $3,972.53 due the Collector on the last roll.

The Treasurer's statement was also handed in.

From John D. Macaulay, for the transfer to him of water lot leased to John B. Drewry.

From Shevlin and Marlow, offering to make the ferry slip at the foot of Dundas Street passable for the ferry at all times for the sum of $700 to be paid when the work is completed.

From Mrs. G. E. Small, regarding taxes of 1875-6 on a lot belonging to her, which had been occupied by Stephen Garratt and assessed to him, so that petitioner claims the taxes should have been collected from Garratt.

REPORTS.

Ald. Jellett stated that the Finance Committee had not met, in consequence of the lack of a quorum. He had had the estimates printed for consideration, and had hoped for their discussion by the Committee, but this, as he had said, had not been done. He therefore did not intend to discuss them to night, but would say that the position was a rather blue one. The estimates showed our true position, as it was his desire that the people should know just how we stood. The statement of indebtedness showed the position up to January 1st last, since which time our liabilities had been considerably added to by the deficit of last year, $4,881, the hospital account, $1,500, the purchase of hose, $1,150, the grant to the Home for the Friendless, $300, &c., which caused the necessity for a high rate, unless a scheme could be devised to lessen the rate by the issue of debentures or otherwise, as in his opinion the people could not pay 22½ mills this year. We could not compel holders of debentures not yet due to receive their money. There was, however, $19,000 overdue which could be taken up, and he had in his mind a scheme by which we could decrease the rate of interest to the bank on these debentures by issuing other debentures payable in twenty years, with interest at 6 per cent. This would largely decrease the rate but it would have to go to the people, who he believed would pass it by a large majority. Our interest account was so great that 1 or 2 per cent. on it was quite an item. These ideas he threw out for the consideration of the Finance Committee, from whom he hoped at the next meeting to present a satisfactory report. He had cut down the estimates, as compared with last year, and in no particular branch had they been increased. Were it not for the unforeseen expenses which he had particularized, the rate would this year have been lower than last year.

Ald. St. Charles said the too low rate of taxation of 1876 and 1877 was the cause of present difficulties, as large sums had been carried over which should have been provided for. Ald. Jellett included in his estimate these sums, showing the whole indebtedness, and he felt inclined to endorse the scheme which Ald. Jellett had spoken of, in order to decrease taxation, as it seemed to him to be too much to ask the people to pay 22½ mills this year.

The subject then dropped.

Ald. Hambly said he had called the Water and Gas Committee together, but could not get a quorum,

Ald. Brennan held that Ald. Hambly should exert himself to procure a supply of water for Foster Ward.

The special Committee on Manufactures reported a resolution passed at the public meeting asking the Council to grant $300 towards a preliminary survey of the river.

Ald. Frost took his seat for Coleman Ward.

INQUIRIES.

In reply to Ald. Brennan,

Ald. Hambly stated that he had called the Water and Gas Committee together, but did not get a quorum. It would require a great deal of money to supply the volume of water required for Foster Ward, and he thought it better to see what amount of money they would have to spare.

Ald. Petrie urged that the wants of Foster Ward should be attended to, but was called to order by Ald. Robertson, no discussion being allowed under this head.

NOTICES.

Ald. Jellett gave notice of a By-law for the appointment of a High School Trustee in place of the late Abraham Diamond.

Alderman Robertson gave notice of a By-law for the opening of William, Alexander, and Forin Streets.

Ald. Dickson gave notice of motion that the newly elected Aldermen take the places of their predecessors on the various Committees, and that the Court of Revision choose its own Chairman.

Also, notice of motion for local taxation for local improvements, saying he desired the subject discussed. The principle commended itself to him as the cheapest in practice.

BY-LAWS.

Ald. Jellett's By-law for the appointment of High School Trustee was read a first time, the rule being suspended for its passage. It was subsequently passed, W. J. Diamond being appointed.

MOTIONS.

The motion above given notice of by Ald. Dickson as to Committees was passed.

Ald. Jellett moved that the petition of John D. Macaulay be granted.

Ald. Dickson did not feel disposed to assist in the passage of any resolution to tie up any of these properties, as they were admirably situated for manufacturing purposes.

Ald. Brennan said Mr. Macaulay was about to come in and buy grain for one of the largest firms in Canada and ought to be encouraged.

The motion, after some further consideration, was ruled out of order for want of notice.

Ald. Robertson moved to suspend the rules for the purpose of granting the petition.

Ald. Dickson was in doubt whether the term of lease had been extended, and he held it to be their duty to see what the legal rights of the city really are, before passing upon the subject.

The motion secured a majority, but not the necessary two-thirds, and was consequently lost.

WAYS AND MEANS.

Council went into Committee on Ways and Means. Ald. Lingham in the chair.

Some accounts were passed.

The report of the Special Committee on Manufactures was referred to the Finance Committee.

Ald. Dickson remarked upon Mrs. Small's petition, that the case was one of hardship, as the taxes should have been collected from Garratt. There are hundreds of similar cases in the city.

The petition was referred to the Finance Committee.

Ald. Brennan moved, seconded by Ald. Petrie, for an appropriation of $300 for the procuring of a supply of water for Foster Ward.

Some discussion took place, when the motion was ruled out of order for lack of notice, but allowed to stand as a notice of motion.

Committee rose and reported, which report was adopted, and the Council adjourned.

—A St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs that competent authorities say that the Russian harvest is the worst since the famine of 1873.

—On the 22nd inst, the large paper mills of L W. Bird, Hollingsworth & Co Walpole, Maine, were burned. Loss $55,000, insured for $35,000.

—A fire in Kingston on Sunday, partially destroyed the house of Major Gould, and somewhat injured the house of Prof. Mowat adjoining.

—Another case of arms addressed to a fictitious person lies on the wharf at Cork unclaimed. The box arrived on the steamer from England.

—A notorious thief named Chaput, who stole $600 from the house of Mr. Cadieux, Montreal, and then fired the house, was captured on the 23rd inst.

—At Mississippi, a station on the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, David Tate was bitten in the hand by a dog a few days ago, from the effects of which he died.

—A serious cave is in progress near Wilkesbarre, Pa., over some coal mines. The ground has sunk from two inches to three feet, some buildings have been injured, and others are endangered.

—The electors of the county of Marquette, Manitoba, having petitioned for the submission of the second part of the Canada Temperance Act in that county, the 29th of September next has been fixed for the polling to take place.

A LIVELY ROW.—During an excursion on the Princess Louise from Kingston to the Thousand Islands on the 21st, a young fellow squirted tobacco juice in close proximity to some young ladies, whereupon the captain remonstrated, and the young fellow, who had been drinking freely, got his back up, and a row ensued. The captain removed him from the deck, and in turn was attacked by a number of persons, acquaintances of the offender; others came to the captain's assistance, and a lively row was the consequence. Hats and pipes went overboard, women screamed, and for a time the excitement was intense. The Kingston papers do not inform us that the instigators of the row were punished.

DROUGHT IN QUEBEC.—Many portions of Quebec have been suffering severely from a protracted drought. The Witness says: "The drought, which is giving the country an unusually brown and withered-looking appearance, still continues. After-grass and other vegetation is at a stand-still, and pasture lands have become so bare that farmers have to procure extra feed for their milch cows. A light sprinkling of rain fell several times on Saturday and some yesterday, but not sufficient to lay the dust. Cattle in some districts are suffering for want of water, which will partly account for the scarcity of fresh butter and the consequent rise in price."

SUSPENDED.—The Captain of the steamer Jeddah who, believing his vessel to be on the verge of sinking, made a hasty departure in a life-boat along with his wife and some of his officers of the same white-livered stamp, leaving one thousand helpless passengers to their fate, has to a certain extent met with the punishment he deserved. He has been tried by the Board of masters and mates, who suspended his certificate for three years. It should have been cancelled altogether, for no man guilty of such unparalleled cowardice should be permitted to hold any such position.

CABLE LAYING.—A despatch from Mr. Weaver, General Manager of the Anglo-American Cable Company says: the SS. "Scotia" and "Seine" started from Heart's Content on the 10th inst. and arrived off Valentia on the 21st, a period of twelve days, being the quickest Atlantic cable passage on record.

The Camp.

MONDAY, Aug. 23.

Last night was passed very quietly in the camp, the only occurrence worthy of note being the escapement of a prisoner from the guard tent, which necessitated the calling out of a detachment to re-arrest him. After a short search he was found in a tree and arrested by Sergeant Gerow of No. 2 Company.

To-day's parades were very well attended and that in the afternoon under the officer in command of the Battalion, was the best since the formation of the camp.

There were the usual number of visitors at the camp to-day, among whom were John Bell, Esq., and Dr. Stewart; there was also a party of ladies and gentlemen who came down by the yacht Dauntless this evening.

FRIENDLY VISIT.

TUESDAY, Aug. 24.

No. 4 Company of the 49th Hastings Rifles paid a friendly visit to No. 1 Company of the 15th at their camp at Massassaga Point last night.

No. 4 Company met at their armory at 7.30 p.m., and, preceded by the Oddfellows band, marched under the command of Major Crozier to the wharf, where the Annie Gilbert, with the yacht Kathleen in tow, was in waiting to convey the party to the camp. The band were conveyed by the Kathleen and during the trip performed several pieces of fine music, which, alternated with song and chorus, made the time pass pleasantly until their arrival at camp. On arriving at the point they were met by No. 1 Company, who were formed up on the end of the wharf, ranks turned inwards, six paces distance. After the formation of No. 4, they marched through the open ranks of No. 1 and halted. The right hal of No. 1 Company was placed on the right of No. 4, and the left half of No. 1 on the left of No. 4.

During this time the Band was playing appropriate music. Both Companies were then marched to the mess tent of No. 1 Company, where a splendid dinner was prepared by No. 1 for their visitors.

Major Crozier and Quarter-Master Hamilton, of the 49th, were entertained by the officers of the 15th at the Officers' mess, after which an hour was spent in looking around the Camp, when the Company was again assembled and marched to the Point, and amid rousing British cheers and strains of music the joyous party started for Belleville, well pleased with their visit.

It is pleasant to have to record this kindly spirit as existing between the two Regiments.

Sporting Notes.

The Mail is much pleased with the proposed removal of Cuthbert, the famous yacht builder, to Toronto, concerning which it says: "We heartily trust the rumor is true that Capt. Cuthbert intends moving his yacht-building establishment to Toronto. His fame as a designer and builder of fast yachts is very great, and the influence of his resi dence here on yachting will be widely felt. Not only will yachts be kept in better trim, but important additions, both in size and numbers, will accrue to the lake fleet year by year. We believe too, that the average speed will proportionately increase without diminishing from the seaworthiness. The cry is for greater speed. We can have it, and must have it, and that, too, combined with that first consideration, safety. We shall warmly welcome Cuthbert to Toronto, and yachting men generally will join us in this, and we trust he will allow nothing on his part to jeopardize the good opinion now generally entertained. Unless Capt. Cuthbert can succeed in inducing the Royal Canadian Yacht Club to return to their former wholesome rule of standing ballast for yachts of ten tons and under—and we know he is strongly in favor of it—even he, with all his ability, will find it impossible to combine speed with comfort and safety in yachts of ten tons and under, built to obtain the greatest speed under the shifting ballast rule. Just think of comfort and safety in one of those sand bag shifting machines which the R. C. Y. C. are doing their best to encourage the building of! Why a catarmaran is their superior in every possible respect.

Courtney, Riley, Hosmer, Lee, and other noted oarsmen are entered for the single scull race in the regatta which is to take place at Geneva, New York, on September 2nd.

The Montreal Lacrosse Club beat the champion Shamrocks on Saturday, they securing the first, third and fourth games in 1 m 5 sec. 5 m., and 6m. The second game was won by the Shamrocks in 9 m 20 sec. On the same day the Torontos won three games from the Dominions of that city, who won the third game.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

CONDENSED.

A despatch from Tucson, Arizona, says Rye's band was routed by the Federal troops. Eighteen were killed, and the whole will be captured.

Small pox has appeared in Philadelphia, and is extending in Camden, N. J.

The bogus Dr. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, is supposed to be in Canada.

A policeman committed an indecent assault on a little girl in the Senate room, Washington.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLES.—The London Advertiser says: "There is no section of the country where a vegetable and fruit canning establishment could work to better advantage than in London. In the country round about, all the goods that are usually put up are produced, and the city itself is by all odds the best distributing point in the West, if not in the Province. The consumption of canned goods is yearly increasing, and will continue to grow larger. The growers of the London section should unite, and have a company formed. It only requires an effort." There is not a word in the above which does not apply to Belleville just as well as London, except as to locality, and this city is as favorably situated as could be desired, as a distributing point. The industry is one which might be established here profitably.

Last of the Season.—The trip of the Varuna to the Thousand Islands, on Saturday, August 28, will be the last trip this steamer will make to that place this season. She will leave Belleville at the usual hour, 8 o'clock; returning, leave the Thousand Islands at 6 a. m. Monday. 4t

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St., and get your old suits done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity

Police.—The cells were vacant last night, neither tramps nor prisoners being lodged there.

Personal.—Councilman Brown, of Bowmanville, attended the meeting of the City Council last night.

Cricket.—It is probable that the return match between the Belleville and Napanee Clubs will be played here on Friday.

Good Music.—The Oddfellows band—always ably conducted—has improved very much of late, The music which they rendered last night was generally appreciated highly.

Dog Poisoning.—The canine population of the village at Ferry Point must be becoming very small, as no less that thirteen dogs have been killed by poison there within a few days.

A Novelty.—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will have a novelty tonight in the shape of a moonlight picnic and promenade concert in Bleecker's grove. The Oddfellow's band will furnish music and the grove will be nicely illuminated.

The Great War Correspondent.—Mr. D'Oyly Carte has made arrangements with Mr. Archibald Forbes, the famous correspondent, for a series of lectures through the United States and Canada, and it is not improbable that Belleville will be included in the circuit. Mr Forbes' lecture is on "Royal People I Have Met."

Select School.—The fall term of Mrs. and Miss Roles' Select School will, we are informed, commence on Monday, August 30th, at their new and more commodious premises on John Street. The programme of studies has been arranged after consultation with T. C. Emberson M. A. author of the Art of Teaching, and John Irwin Esq. Head master of the Model School for Teachers, Belleville.

A Fine Boat.—Messrs. Tisdale are now building for Mr. A. M. Foster, a shell bottomed lapstreak, which will be the finest craft of the kind they have yet turned out, and will equal if not surpass, any similar boat built in Toronto or elsewhere. The craft will be 18ft 9 inches long, with garboard streaks of the extreme width of 14 inches. The material used is cedar, three-sixteenths of an inch in thickness, and when completed the weight of the boat will be little if any more than 40 pounds.

Wharf Improvements.—Messrs. Rathbun & Son have made important improvements to the property which they lately acquired, south of their former location, and are preparing to make further improvements. They have repaired and put in first class condition the wharves on the northern part of the property, and have built a large coal shed, and are now preparing to extend the wharfage southward to the end of the wharf on which the lighthouse stood. There will be a large area of filling to be done, which, when completed, will give the firm a very large water frontage, with a good depth of water. Mr. J. D. Macaulay, who represents a large firm in Toronto, is about to commence buying grain for them on this market. He seeks a transfer to him of the water lot and storehouse leased to J. B. Drewry, and if the change be made, extensive alterations and improvements will be made to the storehouse and wharf.

Bridge Street Church.—Prof. Duval, of Wales, has been appointed organist of this church, and will shortly arrive to assume his duties. The Professor is preceded by an excellent reputation.

High School Trustee.—The City Council last night appointed Mr. W. J. Diamond as the successor of his late brother Abraham on the Board of Education. Mr. Diamond will make a useful member of the Board.

Deliberate Suicide.—On the 23rd inst., at Green's Crossing, near Colborne, the wife of Rev. Geo. Carr, while in a melancholy state of mind, placed her head upon the track as a train came along, severing the head from the body.

A Strike.—The wharf laborers employed by Messrs. Downey & Preston, who had been receiving 12½ cents per hour, yesterday struck for 20 cents per hour. A compromise was effected, the men getting 15 cents per hour.

Killed by the Street Cars.—A pet black and tan terrier, belonging to Mr. J. P. Reeves, was killed by the street cars yesterday. The animal is the same that was a few weeks ago saved from drowning by a friendly retriever.

Interim Sessions.—The prisoners now in gaol have elected to be tried before the County Judge as follows: James Gay, for wife beating, on Thursday: Albert Premo, for larceny, on Saturday; and George Litton, for the attempted murder of Anthony Golding, on Tuesday next.

Excursions.—The Hastings took an excursion to the Thousand Islands this morning and will repeat the trip on Thursday. There are two excursions this evening, namely those of Trenton Methodist Sunday School and that in aid of the band of the 15th Battalion. Next Saturday's excursion on the Alexandra will be for the benefit of the Home for the Friendless.

Ontario Rifle Association.—In the matches at Toronto on Monday, no local men won a prize in the first match, which was 7 shots at 200 yards. In the shooting for the Canada Company prize, 7 shots at 400 yards, Lieut Johnson stood thirteenth with a score of 29, and Sergt Hagerman, who scored 25, stood thirty-sixth. This match was open only to those who had never won a prize at the O. R. A. or D. R. A.

Heavy Trains.—Two heavy trains passed up the Pinnacle Street grade yesterday afternoon. One was composed of empties attached to the regular train for Madoc. The other, which consisted of a box car, a passenger car and eight cars of hematite iron ore, bothered the engineer not a little, as not until the third attempt did the locomotive succeed in hauling its load up the heavy grade.

Excursion To-Night.—Dont forget the excursion to-night by the Prince Edward and Silver Spray to Massassaga Point. It is got up for the benefit of the Battalion Band, and should be encouraged on this account. The grounds will be illuminated, and by the time the party returns there will be a grand illumination by the "Silvery orb of night" which will far outstrip anything in the shape of electric or other lights. The boats leave at 7:30.

The Iron Trade.—There is something of a "boom" in the iron trade in the United States, and that has given an impetus to operations in the Madoc iron region. At the Dominion and Seymour mines, Mr Pusey is pushing on operations as rapidly as possible; Mr. Munson has resumed work with a large gang of men at the Sexsmith Mine; and at the Hematite, Messrs. Coe & Mitchell are employing a large force. Shipments both by water and all through rail are consequently daily increasing, and it is probable an extra train will shortly have to be put on the road.

Marine Fire Works.—Remember the excursion to morrow night to witness the display of marine fire works which takes place on the Bay. An impression has gone about that the fire works will be set off from the passenger steamer. This is not so, a boat being specially engaged from which the display will be made. The Mary Ethel will leave her wharf at 5:30, and as the exhibition is to be an exceedingly novel one, and under the superintendence of Prof. Hand of Hamilton, it will be well worth seeing. See the advertisement.

Amusements.—Mr. I. B. Graham, who has been visiting some of the large cities in the United States, with the view of seeing some of the latest improvements in the principal places of amusements, has returned to town after gathering some valuable ideas, which will be introduced into the Metropolitan Hall, work upon the conversion of which into an Opera House will be commenced within a few days and pushed forward with vigor. Several first class companies are seeking dates, and a contract has been signed with the agent of Mrs. Scott Siddons, who, with a full dramatic company, will appear on the 11th of November.

Camp Meeting.—There was a large gathering at the camp meeting on Unger's Island on the 22nd inst. The services were conducted in the morning by the Rev. H. J. Allen, of Selby. Prof. E. I. Badgley, B. D., of Albert College, Belleville, preached an eloquent sermon in the afternoon to a large assembly, and the Rev. Amos Campbell preached the closing sermon in the evening. The steamer Flight made three trips from Napanee to the Island during the day and was loaded each trip. The meeting closed on the 23rd inst. and will open in Anderson's Grove, across the bay, in Fredericksburg, in about two weeks. There were about two thousand people on the ground, and the receipts amounted to a sum which will nearly or quite liquidate the debt against the church at Mill Point.

Marine.

The schr Pearl has cleared for Oswego, with lumber.

One of Messrs Gilmours bateaux, lumber laden got aground on the point of the bar this morning and was hauled off by the tug Bonar.

The schr Sea Bird has arrived from Oswego with coal.

The schr Belle of Hamilton arrived this morning from Oswego.

The steam barge Saxon has cleared for Oswego with lumber.

Trenton Items.

Trenton, Aug. 23rd.

The contractor for the new iron swing bridge has employed a couple of divers with their apparatus, who are levelling the bottom of the river, so as to sink the coffer dam. It is expected that the coffer dam will be in position in a couple of days.

Work is being pushed forward rapidly on the Molson's Bank building, it being altogether likely that it will be open for business by the first of October next.

Patrick Fenly. the man who caused the smash-up on the P. E. C. R. R. on Wednesday last by leaving a hand-car carelessly on the track, was arrested in Wellington to-day and is now in Picton awaiting his trial.

Fenly was not in the employ of the company, but was using the hand car for his own convenience, and when he saw the train coming left it on the track and took to the woods.

One hundred dollars ($100) reward has been offered by the Board of Education for any information that will lead to the conviction of the person who deliberately set fire to the Union School building, on the 21st inst.

Lumber Notes.

Advance in the Price of Timber.—The Almonte Gazette says, Messrs. Boyd, Caldwell & Son sold a raft of square timber recently at Quebec at an advance of fifty per cent. upon last year's prices. The great loss of lumber by fire in New York State will not reduce the timber rate.

Quebec Lumber Market.—The following sales of lumber are reported for the past week: One lot of five rafts, containing 500,000 feet square pine, common and fair average qualities, at 13c; one raft of 140,000 feet waney board pine, 20 in. average, at 36c; and 110,000 ft. square white pine, 52 ft. average, at 26½c, old and new timber mixed; one raft of 100,000 ft. waney board pine, 19 inches average, new timber, 36c.; one raft of about 150,000 feet, half white pine, 57 feet average, 24c; half red pine, 40 to 42 feet average, new timber, 20c; one raft of white pine, fair average quality, 48 feet average, 18c. with red pine, 13 feet average, at 16c.

Staves.—Pipe worth $300 per mile; W. O. W. I. $89 per mile.

The Block Trade.—Quite a large trade has sprung up in blocks at the Chaudiere this season. They are used for manufacturing matches.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

Cattle are dull in Montreal except for shipping stock. Inferior are quoted at 2½ to 3½c. Shipping cattle 4c to 5½c. Live hogs are firm at 5⅞ to 6c. Mr. Crysdale of Hastings sold a carload of cattle in Montreal on the 21st at about $25 per head.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Buffalo, Aug. 24.—Albert J. Myer, Chief of the Signal Service, died this morning.

London, Aug, 24.—The Radical Democratic Clubs of London and suburbs assembled in Westminster last night, and urged O'Connor, home rule, to press a motion adverse to the existence of the House of Lords to a division, and to present his address advocating the abolition of the House of Lords.

O'Connor replied, expressing sympathy with the object of the meeting.

At a meeting of Home Rulers yesterday, Parnell presided. He said: regarding the opposite on the constabulary vote, much would depend upon the manner in which the Irish people were met by the Government; if their proposals were rejected, it would be necessary to resist both to the last; but if the Government was disposed to listen to the protest of the Irish people against the manner in which the constabulary is now being used, extreme steps would be unnecessary.

New York, Aug. 24.—Arrived, the Avondale from England and the Mangerton from Liverpool.

Queenstown, Aug. 23.—Arrived, the City of Bristol.

Cario, Aug. 24.—It is believed the Egyptian cotton crop will be 22,500,000 bales less than that of '79, and about fifteen days later.

Paris, Aug. 24.—A republican journal, the Courier du Soir, says: A violent altercation occurred between the French representative at Constantinople and the British representative, after the last ambassadorial meeting at the residence of the German ambassador.

WEATHER REPORTS.

Toronto, Aug. 24.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, moderate to fresh winds, mostly south-easterly to south-westerly, partly to-day to cloudy weather, with local showers and thunder storms, stationary or higher temperature.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Indications: lower lakes, higher, followed by stationary or lower temperature, partly cloudy with local rains.

Our Progress.

As stages and stage routes are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the huge, drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and bulky medicines, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts and are warranted to cure all irregularties of stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by druggist

Barn Burned.—On the evening of the 22nd inst., the barn of Thos. J. Davidson, concession 7, West Wawanosh, township of Dungannon, was burnt, with its contents. Insured in the Hamilton Mutual for $1,200. The fire is supposed to have been an incendiary.

No Hospital needed.

No palatial hospital needed for Hop Bitters patients, nor large-salaried talented puffers to tell what Hop Bitters will do or cure, as they tell their own story by their certain and absolute cures at home.

Man's Noblest Work.

This is an age of great works and wonderful inventions. Steam, electricity, water, air, all are made to serve man, but unquestionably the greatest inventions are those which preserve man's health and prolong his life, and among the greatest of these is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Its effects are truly wonderful and hundreds are happy to day, who once looked forward to an early grave. For Coughs, Colds' Bronchitis, Asthma, loss of voice, Hay Fever, Hoarseness, Croup, or any affection whatever of the Throat, Chest or Lungs, Dr. King's New Discovery will positively cure. We can cheerfully recommend it to all, and can unhesitatingly say it is the only sure cure for Throat and Lung Affections. Trial bottles ten cents; regular size $1. For sale by Jas. Clarke & Co.

CAST ON THE WORLD:
OR,
The Border Marriage
A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.
'And here is his lordship's authority for her release,' returned Philip handing over the paper he had received from Lord Eagleheart.
Jason looked at it, and his face brightened.
'This is sufficient,' he remarked.
'Yes, I should think it is sufficient,' said Charles, sternly. 'Now will you answer our question. How is her ladyship?'
'Well in health,' he answered, 'though not perhaps in the most excellent spirits. I can assure you gentlemen, we have been kind to her, and my wife has done her utmost to make her comfortable.'
'Of that we will presently receive information from herself,' said Charles, as he leapt from the carriage, and helped Dora to alight.
'I will send my wife to prepare her lady ship to receive you.'
'You will do nothing of the kind, sir. Be good enough to show us to her ladyship's apartments at once.'
'Really sir, consider for yourself if that would not be injudicious. As she can not possibly expect you, your sudden appearance might—'
'I understand. Then this lady alone will first see her.'
To this proposal Jason made no objection. They ascended the stair together, but Philip and Charles remained in the wide corridor on the landing, while Dora followed the keeper to a locked door at the end of the passage.
Selecting one from the bunch of keys he held in his hand, the man opened the door and, standing aside, silently pointed to her to enter.
Dora obeyed,and with a throbbing heart, stood within the room.
The light was dim, for the window was high and narrow, but she saw a thin form reclining listlessly on a couch, and tremblingly she approached it.
At the rustle of the dress Lady Eagleheart slowly turned her head.
'Mamma !'
'Dora, oh, heaven, Dora !'
With a great cry of joy mother and daughter were locked together in a speechless embrace.
As pen cannot adequately depict such scenes of holy joy and sacred happiness—as the imagination of the reader can best realise and understand them, we shall not mar the effect by further words of ours. Little by little the story of Dora's flight,—the judicious course—communicated her transporting intelligence till her ladyship knew all, and lay at last, with a joy too great for utterance, on the bosom of her first-born son.
That very hour they carried her forth, from her gloomy prison house, where in reality she left behind her the sad suffering experiences of her life, to enter on a freedom and a happy love which was aptly symbolised by the light, the radiance, and the fragrance of that June day,which filled her grateful senses and thrilled her whole being with delight.
In due time they reached Singleton Hall where her ladyship received a warm and, tender welcome from other loving hearts, and there ministered to by the deep affection which surrounded her, she speedily recovered from the effects of her incarceration, and experienced a calmness of heart and mind which in the long years of the past she had never known.

CHAPTER XLII.
CONCLUSION.
Thus ends our story of the Border Marriage—ends not wholly in peace and joy, but surely in harmony with the moral conditions of this mortal life. End in perfect and undoubted happiness it could not, for, not to bear in mind the fact that its personages are, at the close, left beneath the sky which overhangs the vale of tears, we have to consider the elements of character and features of conduct which brought about the incidents we have narrated. These were, many of them, of a kind which must in the nature of things leave traces of pain and sorrow behind them. They sprang from the vicious indulgence of debased wishes and desires; they had their outcome in much terrible wrong doing, and though wrongs may in time come to be what we call righted,their effects cannot entirely be blotted out, but must remain a residuum of suffering still, and remembrances of past departures from rectitude which no effort and no regret can annihilate.
Therefore, our story at its completion leaves its characters not unscathed by the fierce fires through which they have passed. Yet are the happiness and peace to which they have come of large measure and great sweetness. And very wonderful are they as results when we think of the manifold evils out of which they have issued—evils beyond which we had no right to look for a happy deliverance, and from which such an amount of good would never have flowed if a good Providence did not rule over the doings of men, making their very wrath to praise Him, and saving as He does best the victims of oppression from the evils of the lot to which wicked men have wickedly doomed them.
We seldom in the course of our story-writing stop to moralise as we go along. We rather wish the reader to feel the good and the great, the right and the true, the pure and the holy, than to see that we are laboring to inculcate them. It is not amiss, however, at the conclusion, when we can see the beginning from the end—through all the intervening events—to take note of certain leading truths which conspicuously show themselves.

SUBSTITUTES!
☞ The Public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they say and oh! pay over that they have "just as good," and have another article just as good if not better, which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the good reputation of the Pain-Killer; and before commending one of the yellest cures of modern drugs are heard by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which explains how they can afford to make a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

CONSUMPTION
CAN BE CURED
IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.
A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the un, qualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.
SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.
MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M.D.
MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my practice prescribed very extensively Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.
MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.
MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; evident symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician directed me to take a pint of Cured Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was the subject of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your Emulsion and before it was all taken I was better; I continued its use, and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 113 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine with my recovery than your Emulsion and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, What cured you Mowry, Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then go a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago, but he is improving wonderfully. My business is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.
MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: Lynn, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878,
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your Emulsion and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days. I had taken nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, a can now safely say that it is entirely cured. It is now over tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind that when my child came to me I could retain nothing upon my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. SIR,—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me. I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine,and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.
I remain respectfully,

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife ; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

CONTINUED.

Leaving St. Joseph Island, the scenery is grand as the vessel passes amongst thousands of islands, until a small lake called Bear lake is reached, after which we pass through the Neebish Rapids, in the improvements of which the Mackenzie Government expended $47,000, but, strange to say, they purchased from the American Government five acres of land at this point, and built on it the Government station on the American side of the river, instead of the Canadian side opposite—a course of procedure that could only be followed by a Government so patriotic that it pretended great anxiety lest the national policy would discriminate against Great Britain. The channel requires a further outlay, and re-buoying, in order to make it safe for the large vessels now used in the carrying trade in that section. Presently we enter St. Mary's River, which resembles more a creek than a river. As we enter the river, we are shown the residence and extensive buildings belonging to a man named Church, who became wealthy from the manufacture of raspberry jam. The island on which he lives is called Sugar Island, on account of the large quantity of sugar used by him in the manufacture of jam. It is said he has used as much as 13 tons of sugar in a season in the manufacture of raspberries, which he hired Indians to gather ; but the Indians becoming scarce, Church finds his business curtailed.

The scenery on the river, with its many windings, is delightful. Here is located, on the bank of the river, an Indian reservation, a little patch of clearing,—a small piece of corn and a little hay constituting the red man's season's crop. There are many ponies kept by the Indians, but all the aborigines we saw were using cattle to "draw in," and as an evidence of their shiftlessness, it may be stated that three stalwart Indians were to be seen drawing in hay with one small ox and a jumper.

In the afternoon we reach

SAULT ST. MARIE.

Forty-nine miles distant from Bruce Mines ; here the waters from Lake Superior pour down the Sault St. Marie in continuous rapids of about three-quarters of a mile in length, the only break in the direct navigation from Collingwood to Prince Arthur's Landing. A canal on the American side admits into Lake Superior. To accommodate the increasing trade, a new canal is in course of construction on the American side with the largest lock in the world. On the Canadian side is a village of about 800 inhabitants, with a fine school and some good buildings. On the American side the village contains about 2,000 inhabitants, whose chief trade is in connection with shipping, the business of the locks and the fish trade. Here is situated Fort Grady, which was captured at the time of the rebellion by the Indians by strategy. The Indians played a game of Lacrosse outside the walls of the Fort, when pretending by accident to throw the ball inside the walls they were permitted to enter to recure their ball, upon which they fell upon and overthrew the garrison, thus capturing the Fort. The tourist visiting Sault St. Marie should not miss

RUNNING THE RAPIDS.

Indians with their canoes were in readiness—for a consideration—to pilot the party through the seething current, which to one who has never run a rapid, is a novel sensation. Its the personification of faith to see a party sit down in the bottom of one of the large canoes with an Indian at each end of the craft, and push out into the current. Soon the rapids are reached and the canoe bounds onward like the wind, leaving to the passenger no alternative but to clutch the side of the boat and wonder if he will be born to be hung or to experience the other sensation of being drowned. As you bound from one wave to another, missing by a hair's breadth a boulder on the right and then another on the left, you cannot but admire the agility with which the Indian in the bow handles his paddle. A misstroke of which would soon cause you to solve the great problem "does death end all."

Your correspondent selected the boat that held the clergyman, so that in the case of accident another Jonah might be at hand to sacrifice for the crew's safety, but happily that alternative was not presented, and the whole party were soon on board the steamer, passing the last lock and entering the largest fresh water lake in the world. Sunday morning found us steaming along through Lake Superior, with a temperature so cold that the heaviest of overcoats were necessary to keep comfortable out of doors. The day was spent quietly, as at home. Religious services were held on board, Rev. Mr. Williams of St. John's Church, Toronto, officiating. The rev. gentleman preached a highly instructive discourse upon "Christian responsibility," when, far from home and out of sight of land, all bowed in reverence to Him who created the sea and the things which are therein." As the sun was setting we steamed up to the wharf at Silver Islet with the band playing "Nearer my God to Thee," echoed and reechoed from Thunder Bay Cape, which towers 1350 feet above. The sights and sounds were such as will never be forgotten by the excursionists. The wharf is situated on the main land, whilst Silver Islet proper, where such successful mining is now being carried on, is situated about half a mile from the main land, and which we purpose visiting upon our return. After a short stay at the wharf we passed Thunder Bay Point, which has the perfect representation of a man's face, as if chisseled in gigantic proportions on the face of the rock. Entering

THUNDER BAY

We were met by a tug which brought Gov. McIntyre and a number of other gentlemen who came out to meet us. Thunder Bay is a beautiful sheet of water about eighteen miles in diameter, which has an accumulation of loud thunder that is always heard there when a thunder storm prevails. The Indians have a legend that it is there where thunder is manufactured.

The village of Prince Arthur's Landing is pleasantly situated on the shores of Thunder Bay, and contains nearly 2,000 inhabitants. It was the starting point of the Dawson route, and here are located the public buildings. Considerable business is done at the Landing. It was expected that the Landing would have become the terminus of the Canada Pacific Railway, but the Mackenzie Government had too many hungry followers which had to be fed at the public crib to locate the terminus in the public interest. Four miles above Prince Arthur's Landing is the mouth of the Kaministiquia river, an Indian name, meaning the river of many mouths, so called on account of its having three outlets into Thunder Bay. Five miles up the river and six in a direct line from Prince Arthur's Landing, Oliver & Co. owned a large tract of land, which they had purchased from the Government for a trifle, where they persuaded Mr. Mackenzie the terminus should be located, when the Government purchased the property together with a large shed styled the "Neebing Hotel" at a cost it is said of over $50,000. At that point which is called the Town Plot the Mackenzie Government placed the round house, which is a substantial structure. Since the present Government came into power they have improved the Neebing and converted it into a great offices for the railway, as its distance from the village precludes the possibility of its ever being intended for an hotel. The river is deep, but narrow and winding, and the stranger cannot but be convinced that if Prince Arthur's Landing was not desirable as a terminus it should have been placed near the mouth of the river at Fort William, as the river will require considerable dredging if the Town Plot is ever used as a port for the shipment of the vast quantity of grain expected to be exported from the far west. The residents of Prince Arthur's Landing, with commendable energy, were determined not to be left out in the cold for railway communication, so headed by the energetic Mr. Marks, formed a company and built a line of road to connect the landing with the Canada Pacific road, and which they expect the Government to take off their hands and form a part of that road.

The landing is well supplied with hotels the principal ones being the Queen's and the Pacific.

THE CANADA PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Section A extends from English River to Eagle Lake (where Section B commences a distance of 118 miles. Work was commenced on it in the spring of 1879, and under great difficulties, owing to the want of supplies, not withstanding which, 48 miles were graded by the 31st December and railed by May 1st of this year, the contractors are Messrs. Purcell, Ryan & Co., and the rapid progress made, is so short a time upon the work is doubtless due to their great energy and perseverance. P. Purcell and Hugh Ryan, are the prominent members of the firm, and are well and favorably known, having been largely interested in the construction of the Intercolonial and E. & N. A. Railways. They have now completed the line for 150 miles from Fort William, with a few hundred miles completed at the other end of the lines makes 250 miles completed of the 429 miles from Fort William to Winnipeg, but owing to the difficulty of construction it is not expected that the line will be completed before 1882. The party proceeded over the road a distance of about 60 miles, to the "height of land," which is the highest point of the road. Alighting from the train, where within a radius of twenty miles are the sources of rivers flowing in three directions.

The road, as far as we went, was smooth and well constructed, although at many places the contractors had great engineering difficulties to contend with. The agricultural capabilities of the country for 300 miles may be termed valueless, the soil for the most part being sand or muskeg, a species of bog.

Messrs. Purcell, Ryan & Co., have some thirteen hundred men in their employ, and are pushing along the work vigorously. The wages at present are $1.65 per day, deducting 57c for board. Those employed at section of 25 miles have to board. They get 15 cents per yard and can easily clear $2 per day. Payments are made promptly on the 15th of every month, 15 days being kept back from the day men, and 10 per cent. from the job men until the completion of their term.

About 10 miles up the road we came to the camp of our townsman, Mr. W. C. Nunn, who is in charge of the construction of the water tanks on the line for Mr. Wm. Gooderham, jr., of Toronto, who has secured the contract.

The tanks are similar to those used on the Grand Junction Railway, called the Haggas system of water supply. By the adoption of the Haggas system the Government has saved a large sum of money in both construction and maintenance over the old fashioned system. We were accompanied on the trip by Mr. Wm. Margach, formerly of the Prince Edward Railway, who is in charge of some government colonization roads in the neighborhood, and at whose house the party received many acts of kindness.

After partaking of a sumptuous repast at the "height of land" the whole party returned to the Town Plot in the evening, where they were hospitably entertained by mine host Knapp, of the Ontario House, who keeps a first class house and knows how to run a hotel. A "hop" in the evening brought together as pleasant a party as we have had the pleasure upon such an occasion. The tourist will find the best accommodation at the Ontario House, near which fine fishing is to be obtained as we were shown speckled trout caught in the neighborhood weighing from 4 to 6½ lbs.

THE KAMINISTIQUIA RIVER

is a fine river, navigable about fifteen miles from its mouth; on the river is found perhaps the highest fall in the world, called the Kakabeka Falls. A pleasant trip is afforded the tourist by going up the Railway a distance and returning by canoes. The following morning a number of the party ascended the McKay mountain on the opposite side of the river, from which an magnificent view can be obtained, whilst others in a tug steamed up and down the river, accompanied by Gov. McIntyre, F. T. Graffe of the Fort William Herald, and a number of other gentlemen residing in the neighborhood. A visit was made during the day to the Neebing Hotel, the Round House and the Indian Mission on the river, established in 1849, and now in charge of Father Specht, in whose garden we saw as fine specimens of vegetables as can be shown in any part of Ontario.

After lunch, toasts were given and parting regrets at leaving the friends at Fort William were expressed, when the party embarked for Prince Arthur's Landing and a sail around Welcome Islands, at the mouth of Thunder Bay, (called such on account of the welcome afforded by them to sailors from the storms on Lake Superior.) back to Prince Arthur's Landing, where in the evening a hop was given at the Queen's hotel, which was largely attended.

The following day the whole party visited Judge Laird and Mr. Marks at their residence, by invitation, where they were danced, by invitation, where they were hospitably entertained. A visit was also made to the Gaol, which is a substantial structure; and shortly after dinner the whole party embarked on the steamer City of Winnipeg, much pleased with the hospitality and entertainment received at the hands of the many friends of short acquaintance at both Prince Arthur's Landing and Fort William.

In the evening Silver Islet wharf was reached, when the party were taken to the Island which is producing such a fabulous mining results, where they inspected the works of the Company, and the rich samples of silver ore exhibited. The island, so well known now as Silver Islet, was, when first discovered, only a small rocky projection above the waters of Lake Superior, about half a mile from shore. Now the island is covered with orth work and buildings covering about seven acres. The islet was formerly owned by a Montreal Company, who sold it to an American Company for a song compared with its present value, which can scarcely be computed. The present company is under the management of Captain R. Trethewey, who has taken out already three million dollars worth of silver from the mine. The richness of the vein varies, but lately they have been mining in ore so rich that crushing is not necessary, as the ore is so rich that it is only necessary to smelt it. Samples were shown us valued at $37,000 per ton. From which it is evident that "there's millions in it."

The party again embarked for home by the way of the south side of the great Manitoulin Island, through Lake Huron to Collingwood, which was reached shortly after noon on Saturday, all well pleased with the excursion.

Before leaving the boat the Press Association presented Conductor Aymong with a silver camping set, as a slight appreciation of his services as conductor of the party, his jolly good nature having added much to the enjoyment of the trip.

The band at the same time presented the Steward, Robt. Burns, and Purser J. T. Crawford, with tokens of regard. The same regard expressed by the band was the feelings of the entire party.

A vote of thanks was tendered Capt. Kennedy, which was responded to by a number who had enjoyed the trip, in which the careful attention of Capt. Kennedy to the comforts of the passengers, and as well as his indefatigable attention to his duties, were referred to in the highest terms.

We cannot close this brief narrative of a two weeks excursion without highly commending the wisdom of the proprietors of the steamship line in their wise policy of not allowing any liquor to be sold on the boat, by which both the safety and comfort of the passengers of that popular line of steamers is secured.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 25.

The City's Finances.

In a recent issue we treated of the subject of the City's finances at a length sufficient to show that the prospect is not by any means a flattering one, the proposed rate of 22½ mills on the dollar for all purposes being so high that it could not fail to prove oppressive.

The exhibit is, however, an honest one, there having been no attempt on the part of the Chairman of the Finance Committee to conceal or gloss over anything in the financial condition of the city. It would, however, have been still more satisfactory had the Auditors' report, giving a statement in detail of the receipts and expenditure of last year, been laid before the public for examination and comparison. This job was given out upwards of a month ago, and although at the meeting of Council on the 28th of July an Alderman stated that the work was done at that date, not a copy had, up to Monday night, been placed before the Council or the ratepayers, and thus its value as a guide to the public in forming conclusions, is materially reduced. If the work had been given to a concern with proper facilities, it might have been published at least a fortnight ago.

Alderman Jellett, however, in his remarks in the Council on Monday night, broached a project which offers at all events temporary relief from a burdensome taxation, and that is, in brief, the consolidation of part of the city's debt by the borrowing of money at 6 per cent. interest, on debentures to run twenty years to pay off the indebtedness to the Merchants Bank, and $19,000 over due debentures, thereby effecting a saving of a considerable sum in interest. Besides this, there is the extraordinary expenditure of $1,500 for hospital, $1,150 for fire hose, $300 grant to Home for the Friendless, and $4,881 deficit from last year or a total of about $8,000, the saving on which—less expenses of submitting the necessary By-laws to the people—would amount to somewhere about $9,000. This would strike about 3¼ mills off the rate, leaving 19 mills as the rate for all purposes, and would afford a much needed relief to the tax payers, who have been pretty severely squeezed during the past six years of depression. We are opposed in principle to expedients of this kind, but necessity compels some measure of relief, and Alderman Jellett's project seems to be about as good a one as could be devised to meet the requirements of the situation.

It certainly is to be hoped that, should the City Council place the scheme before the people and they endorse it, strictness will in future be insisted upon in the collection of taxes, the laxity in that regard which the Councils of successive years have decried, having proved a source of much trouble and great expense. A considerable degree of firmness will be necessary, but a due regard for the public interest compels the resort to measures more stringent than have been prevalent in the past. Thus only can the credit of the municipality be maintained, and fair play secured to those who pay their taxes when due or within a reasonable time thereafter. It is neither reasonable nor just that people who can pay if they would, should be allowed to let their taxes run in arrears for six or seven years, whilst others probably less able pay regularly, and yet others should have their effects sold by the Collector, because of their inability to pay. We do not say that such a state of affairs is peculiar to Belleville, but that it exists here, in common with other places is undeniable, and its reform is imperatively demanded.

The Irish Disorders.

There is evidently serious trouble brewing in Ireland, and whether it will result in open rebellion and consequent civil war with all its attendant horrors, depends greatly upon the prompt and decisive action of the Government. That there is widespread disaffection is painfully evident,—that preparations for armed resistance to governmental authority have been going on for some time is every where apparent—that the Fenian element is as powerful as it was several years ago, and is as well organized, and has all the machinery for active and aggressive warfare against the Government, is beyond question. Dillon and Parnell, and other kindred spirits, openly advise resistance to existing laws, and preach rank treason in the Commons of Great Britain. Their advice is acted upon by the rank and file throughout unhappy Ireland, and barracks are robbed of arms, men are shot dead in their homes and on the streets, and outrages of the worst possible character are being perpetrated in various parts of the country. At the Land meetings on Sunday last, the most inflammatory speeches were made and the people were openly counselled to disobey the law. At a meeting at Killala on that day, 1,000 men marched to the ground four deep in military order, and maintained their ranks compact and unbroken throughout the day. It is understood that this demonstration had been arranged by the Land League, and was intended as a hint to the Government as to what sort of force the movement could muster if the occasion should arise. The men were not armed and made no threats. At Tuam inflammatory speeches were made and placards exhibited. An anti-eviction meeting was held at Doneen, at which 10,000 persons were present.

Four men raided the police barracks at Banaghar, gagged and bound an orderly, and stole a number of rifles.

In view of such a state of affairs there is but one course to pursue to prevent additional trouble, and that is for the Government to use all the force at its command to promptly and vigorously enforce the laws at whatever cost, and to arrest and punish the leaders who are organizing murderous terrorism.

Political Notes.

THE TARIFF.

Commenting on the deficit for the financial year 1879-80, the Monetary Times says:—"It remains to be seen whether the alterations made in the tariff last session will fill this gap and prevent another deficit. In submitting his first tariff to the House, Sir Leonard Tilley confidently predicted that we should see no more deficits. We had our doubts, at the time. This new deficit shows that no government could afford to reduce the customs duties, as a whole, whatever alterations it might be possible to make. The tariff is before everything else a revenue tariff, and the difficulty is that it does not produce revenue enough." Our contemporary is right in stating that the tariff is a revenue tariff as well as a protective tariff and cannot be reduced without causing another heavy deficit. If the Opposition, who growl at every duty, although their extravagance rendered additional duties necessary, can reduce the tariff, increase the revenue and at the same time add to the prosperity of the great body of the manufacturers—for they have the audacity to claim that manufactures generally were more prosperous in Canada under what they call "free trade," than now—we should like to see them demonstrate how the puzzle can be solved. Their failure, when they had the opportunity, was complete, disastrous, crushing, so they may now address themselves to the making of paper tariffs, the design of which shall be to accomplish impossibilities.

WEST TORONTO.

Mr. Mackenzie proved himself, by his speech in West Toronto on Thursday night last, to be as great a demagogue as ever. His whole address consisted of worn out and disproved assertions of the Globe, and was in parts, like that of the "eminent" financier of his party on the tariff last year, clearly self-contradictory, whilst abounding with appeals of a sectional character. It was the old story, namely, that the farmer is being robbed to enrich the manufacturer; the latter is being robbed to benefit the farmer; and so on, the attempt being made to set class against class, and Province against Province. He and his candidate will get their answer from the electors on the 28th inst.

FACT VERSUS THEORY.

In his speech at Toronto on Thursday last, Mr. Mackenzie said, speaking of the coal duty,

> The wonderful thing about this duty was that while it was intended as a protection to the Canadian coal interest, less coal had been taken out of the Nova Scotia coal mines than last year, so that it appeared that the tax really offered no protection. In order to bring the coal to Toronto an additional ten cents was put upon the imported article. But it would require at least $1.50 per ton to enable the Nova Scotia coal to be brought to Toronto, and he had no doubt that our reckless Government would be willing to consider even that.

Had Sir John Macdonald made such a statement and had the Globe been in favor of the coal duty, that journal would have called the statement a "gross falsehood," but we will not follow so bad an example. The fact that the Belleville Gas Company is receiving 900 tons of coal from Nova Scotia knocks Mr. Mackenzie's theory on this point "higher than a kite," to use a popular but forcible simile. Such, however, is the usual fate of Grit theories when brought face to face with facts.

INCONSISTENT.

The Globe abuses the Pacific Railway Commission in characteristic style, but asserts that through the evidence taken before that body, several alleged scandals charged against the Mackenzie Government have been disproved. This is ungrateful of the Opposition organ, which ought to praise rather than blame the Commission, if such results have been achieved as it claims. The Globe evidently fears what is to come, but let it possess its soul with patience, and comment upon the result of the labors of the Commissioners after their work has been closed.

Cheese.

The cheese market during the past week has been lively, with an upward tendency. On Saturday last, private cable marked 60s. 6d., whilst the public cable marked 59s. On Monday the public cable advanced to 61s., and cheese in Montreal was quoted firm at 12c., holders asking 12½ and 12¾c. Most of the factories in this section have placed themselves out of the way of taking any advantage of this rise by contracting, some at as low as 11c. per lb., but most of the cheese is contracted for at 11½, whilst a few, profiting slightly by the experience of last fall, held on a little longer and contracted at 12c. It is said that the Ashley factory has contracted at 12¼c.

The following is the corresponding cable Aug. 25, '80, and the previous three years:—

August 25, 1880	62s.
" " 1879	30s.
" " 1878	44s.
" " 1877	56s.

shewing the price to be more than double what it was last year at this time. No doubt this is owing in no slight degree to the falling off in imports at Liverpool this season, as the following statement will show:

The total imports of cheese into Liverpool from 1st Oct. 1879 to 5th August 1880, was 1,620,276 boxes, against 1,295,048 boxes the present year—a decrease of 324,278 boxes.

Following is the Cheese Notes.

Within the ten weeks preceding the 1st of August, there were delivered at the Tees-water Creamery 1,250,000 pounds of milk, and at the Walkerton Creamery 1,270,000 pounds; that out of this quantity was manufactured 965 packages of butter and 60,000 pounds of cheese; and that 300 hogs were fattened on the whey and exported. The amount paid out for milk in that time was $12,900.

An Ottawa despatch says:—Mr. Edward Kedd, proprietor of the cheese factory at North Gower, has sold to Mr. Warrington, of Montreal, the balance of the season's make at the advanced price of twelve cents per pound.

AFGHANISTAN

FIVE OFFICERS AND 180 MEN KILLED.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—An official despatch dated Candahar, Aug. 21, says:—The sortie of the 16th inst. against the village on the east face of the city secured us from further molestation on that side, but our loss was heavy. Several officers were killed and several severely wounded. Lt. McLaine, who has been missing since the battle of Kushk-i-Nakud, is a prisoner in Ayoob's hands. He is well treated. The enemy throw shells into the city occasionally, and keep up a fire against the ramparts with sharp-shooters, but do little harm. The investment is trusted to the Candahar troops, and the Ghazis and Cabulees are encamped around Ayoob Khan, three miles off on the Herat road. A letter of the 20th instant, from Tanner, commanding at Khelati-Ghilzai, received at Chaman this morning, says:—"We have heard from Roberts to-day. He is four marches off, and will be here on the 24th. We are all well, and are collecting supplies for Roberts. We are well off for supplies here. Roberts expects to be near Candahar on the 29th."

A despatch from Killa Abdoola says that from Candahar Brigade General Brooke, Colonel Newport, Major French, Captain Cruikshank, and three lieutenants were killed. Three officers were severly and two slightly wounded, and 180 men killed. The enemy's artillery and sharpshooters fire constantly.

A Simla despatch states that in the sortie large numbers of Ghazis are flocking down from the Khelat-i-Ghilzai road and other directions to join Ayoob Khan, who could not now retreat if he wished, as the Ghazis are determined to fight to the last.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—While the deplorable harvest reports continue from Silesia, Oxen and east and west Prussia, most favorable accounts come from South Germany. All the crops there show a yield such as the oldest people scarcely remember. Farmers hardly know where to garner them

BERNE, Aug. 24.—A conference of the Association for the reform of the law of nations has begun. Representatives from the United States, Japan, France, Great Britian, Germany, Austria, Holland and Belgium, are present.

MADRID, Aug. 25.—Queen Christiana has given much pleasure to the Catholics by visiting in succession nine popular chapels and churches dedicated to the Virgin, and leaving two hundred dollars for the poor at each shrine. At every chapel she knelt for more than an hour in prayer. The Queen and her mother constantly visit churches where mass is offered for the happy delivery of her majesty.

AMERICAN.

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 25.—A negro baby born last evening here has white curly hair resembling sheep's wool, eyes a pinkish, complexion snow white with a slight tinge of red on the cheeks. It very closely resembles a large wax doll which has been on exhibition in a shop window, and which the mother of the child frequently admired.

A Ball of Fire.

Caledonia, Marion County, Aug 19—About midnight of Saturday our place was visited by a terrific thunderstorm accompanied by hail and the most vivid lightning, flash following flash in quick succession. There had been a political meeting here that evening, and the people from the neighboring villages and surrounding country were detained by the storm. Suddenly the sky appeared as bright as noonday, in fact fine print could easily have been read, so great was the light been caused by lightning; a deafening roar was heard, continuing to become louder as the light became brighter. Gradually the roaring changed to a hissing, sparkling sound. It is needless to say the people were frightned, and upon running into the street a ball of seeming fire came moving through the air from the northeast. The ball seamed to be at least twenty-five feet in diameter. As it neared the earth the heat could be plainly felt. The body struck the earth just north of the village and buried over one-half of it self in the ground. Good judges estimate the weight at three to five tons, but the heat is yet so great that it is uncomfortable to go nearer than thirty or forty feet. It looks like a mass of pig iron. It was visited by hundreds yesterday. The gentleman who owns the land on which it fell has been offered $300 for it.

HANLAN AND TRICKETT.—The match between Hanlan and Trickett is causing intense interest in England. The London Times says: "Now that Hanlan is reported to have recovered from the recent illness which affected him there really seems no valid reason why the meeting of the two scullers should not be fixed for a much earlier and more suitable month. If it were fixed for September each man would have plenty of time for a thorough preparation, and the weather would be such as to suit them both and enable the public to view the race. In November the changes of fog and rain are very great and as tides are late at the end of the month it is very probable that darkness may interfere with the contest. Edward Trickett, the Australian sculler, has not seen Edward Hanlan yet, but he, no doubt, thinks he will have no difficulty in defeating him as he did Sadler in 1876. Trickett is reported to have made considerable boasting to this effect when in Sydney during the time of the exhibition there. He has heard that Hanlan is a small man in comparison to him, but he may find to his cost that the Little Canadian will give him a big job to beat him, and that Hanlan will be able to take the lead as he has done with all his competitors."

LAST OF THE SEASON.—The trip of the Victoria to the Thousand Islands, on Saturday, August 28, will be the last trip this steamer will make to that place this season. She will leave Belleville at the usual hour, 8 o'clock; returning, leave the Thousand Islands at 6 a. m Monday. 48

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St., and get your old suits done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity

POLICE COURT.—There was no business in the Court this morning.

EXCURSION.—The Hastings will make another trip to the Thousand Islands to-morrow.

EXCURSION.—The St. Vincent de Paul Society of Belleville intend having an excursion to Trenton on Monday, Aug. 30. Particulars hereafter.

INSPECTION.—The inspection of the 15th Battalion is to take place at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning, in order that the Major General and inspecting officers may leave town by the noon train.

RAILWAY SIDING.—A number of workmen were this morning engaged in putting in the siding from the Grand Junction track to Downey & Preston's elevator, as authorized by the City Council.

CHEAP EXCURSION.—The Prince Edward Railway will run excursion trains from Trenton to Picton on 31st Aug. and 1st of Sept., at the low fare of 60c. for the round trip. These are the days when the races come off at Picton.

PERSONAL.—Mr. R. P. Rothwell, of New York, editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal, who negotiated the sale of the Gatling Mining Company's property, was in town to-day on his way to the mines. Mr. Rothwell recently returned from England.

TEMPERATURE.—The highest temperature on Monday was 84°, and yesterday the thermometer marked 86° at 3 p. m. The heat of those two days was generally declared to be oppressive be as that of any part of the season when considerably higher figures were reached. A violent change took place during the night, the rain being followed by a strong breeze from the north east which has brought almost too much cold in its train for comfort.

CONCLUDED.—The conclusion of the continued story "Cast on the World," which has been passing through our columns for some months past, appears in to-day's issue. That it has been deeply interesting and that the purpose of the story has been excellent, we have the testimony of many readers. Another serial story of equal merit will shortly be commenced in the INTELLIGENCER.

PERSONAL.—Major General Laurie, the recently appointed Commander of the Forces, will arrive by this evening's train from the east, accompanied by Lieut.-Col. Straubenzie, D. A. G., and Paymaster King, and will be present at the inspection of the 15th Battalion to-morrow. It was expected that Sir Alexander Campbell, Minister of Militia, would be of the party, but it is doubtful if the hon. gentleman will come.

PROMENADE CONCERT.—The members of the Belleville Division of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers held a very successful promenade concert in Bleecker's Grove, last evening. This being out of the usual run of pic-nics, and a novelty in itself, was largely attended by pleasure seekers. The grove was brilliantly illuminated, and a large dancing platform was erected in the centre of the grove, which was continually crowded. The Oddfellows' band supplied the music for the dancers. Swings were also erected on the grounds, of which many of the ladies took advantage. A booth was situated on the ground, where all kind of refreshments in the shape of eatables and drinkables could be obtained. The gathering broke up at an early hour this morning after all having spent a very enjoyable evening.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE FOR SEPTEMBER.—A bright and cheerful number for the closing month of summer is that before us, and a perusal of its pages cannot fail to both please and interest the reader. A particulary interesting sketch is given of the family of George III., illustrated with twenty-one portraits, said to be exact facsimiles of paintings of that period. It is both gossipy and sketchy. The American Graces is a little tid bit which will please the lady readers. The Seven Sis sers' Paradise Beside the Lotre is a quaint sketch by the equally quaint preacher Moncure Conway. Sycathia in the Mountains is a pleasant description of some of the North Carolina mountains. Amid the Graves is the title of a lengthy poem, which has considerable literary merit, and is beautifully illustrated. Many other interesting articles on various topics, together with a well written story and two instalments of the serials White Wings and Washington Square, make up the main contents. The wide circulation of Harper's Magazine is a sure indication that the publishers know just exactly how to reach popular taste in light, pleasing and instructive reading.

THE DOG BY-LAW.—No registrations have taken place of late, and on Monday next the police will commence active proceedings against the delinquents.

LYNXES SHOT.—A few days ago, four lynxes of immense size were seen by the miners in the employ of Mr T. S. Miller, on lot 17, in the 9th concession of Madoc. They succeeded in killing two of them, but the others made their escape.

THE WORLD.—This is the title of a new evening paper published in Toronto by Horton & Maclean, graduates of the Globe office and both young men of considerable talent. It is a spicy, readable sheet, and its editorials are cleverly written. Its politics are "independent Liberal."

ODDFELLOWS' DEMONSTRATION.—A number of the Oddfellows of this city will take part in the grand demonstration at Toronto on the 17th inst., when the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Order will commence its annual session in the Parliament buildings in that city. They will be accompanied by their fine band.

RAIN.—The spell of drought has at last been broken, a shower of rain—the first in upwards of three weeks—having fallen between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning. It was barely enough to lay the dust, but that service is worth not a little, and further showers may now be expected.

BAND EXCURSION.—The excursion in aid of the 15th Battalion band, which took place last night, per steamers Prince Edward and Silver Spray, secured a good attendance. The party, which left the city about 8 o'clock, were entertained with a variety of pleasing selections by the band, and returned to town shortly before 11 o,clock having greatly enjoyed the trip to Massassaga Point.

THE CAPSIZED YACHT.—A telegram from St. Catharines says: A bottle was picked up on Sunday containing the following note:—"Aug 12th. Yacht Phœnix capsized off Long point. Boat smashed. We are struggling to hang to her side.'. The name appears to be 'James Burns.' The yacht was picked up by the schooner A. Muir off Long Point about the 17th, having been capsized with sail set.

A THREATENED ROW.—Yesterday a number of French Canadians contracted to load the schooner Belle with iron ore, at a rate below that asked by the regular wharf laborers. They were to have begun work this morning, but became afraid that they would be assaulted, and sought the protection of the police. Sergt. Snider sent down two officers, but their services were not required. A consultation was held between the French and other laborers, and all went to work together at an advanced rate.

RAILWAY NOTES.—Six cars of steel rails for the Grand Junction will arrive to-night. On their receipt at Hastings to-morrow, track laying will at once be commenced. The Peterborough Review of the 24th says: "About twenty men are busily engaged in straightening up and repairing the Grand Junction Railway bridge near Smith street. The timbers of the bridge with a few exceptions have been found to be in first class condition, the tar which was so liberally applied by Mr. J. R. Barber having kept the wood in a good state of preservation. Those timbers that are decayed in the slightest degree are being taken out, and replaced with new ones. A junction with the Midland Railway north of Smith street has been laid out, and work will be commenced on it in a few days."

ONTARIO RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—On Tuesday the first match was the Affiliated Association Match, teams of 5 men, 5 rounds each at 200 and 500 yards, which was won by the 13th Battalion, Hamilton, with a score of 219. Corporal Hilton was the only local man to win a prize for individual scoring, he standing forty-sixth with a score of 41 out of the possible 50. In the Gilmour match, 7 rounds at 500 yards, no local marksman succeeded in having his name placed on the prize list, but our former townsman, Dr. Oronhyatekha, now Lieutenant in the 26th Battalion, scored 28 and stood thirty-sixth. At the annual meeting of the Association, held in the afternoon, Capt. Harrison and Lieut. Johnson, of the 49th, were elected members of the Council for the ensuing year.

LACROSSE.—The Peterborough Review says:—"Mr. R. H. Fortye, the Secretary of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club, yesterday received word from the Secretary of the Belleville Club, challenging them to play a game here sometime during the first week in September, and asking the home club to name a day that would suit them. It is very probable that Monday, the 6th of September, will be the day of the match. The Secretary also apologizes to the Peterborough club for not answering their communications before. As he has been away from home for some time, the letters did not reach him until he got back, when he at once answered. Both clubs are in good trim, and from the closeness of the contest last year, one of the best games ever witnessed in Peterborough may be reasonably expected. If the home club want to uphold their present position, they will have to practice assiduously from now until the day of the match." This later advice will apply with equal or greater force to the Belleville Club, the members of which have not played a match with any other club this season, whilst the Peterborough men have played and won three matches, and have been in constant practice. A good deal of feeling has been evinced in regard to this matter by the Peterborough men, who claimed to have been defeated by unjust decisions of the umpire in the game here last season, but it is to be hoped that the game to be played in Peterborough will be conducted in a friendly manner.

HOTEL KEEPERS and other would do well to examine Jas. Hennessy's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offered at 20 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessy.

Fatal Accident.

Councillor Martin, of Stirling, Accidentally Shot.

(From our Stirling Correspondent.)

STIRLING, Aug. 25.

Yesterday afternoon a party from this village went up to King Fisher Point on the Trent, about six miles distant, for an evening's shooting and fishing. Among the number was one of our most respected residents, Councillor William Martin. The party had pitched camp, and Mr. Martin was, it appears, fixing the fire, when Wm. Reynolds went to place his gun away for the night. Seizing it by the muzzle and dragging it towards him, the weapon exploded, the whole charge entering Mr. Martin's chest, killing him instantly. The body was brought to his late home about midnight. Nothing since the death of the late Mr. McDougall has so upset the village, as he was a man who had a friend in every one he met.

Marmora Correspondence

There has been rain lately which has been refreshing, but has retarded the farmers in getting their grain stored away, but they are generally well advanced and in a week there will not be much out if the weather is not wet.

Division court was held in the Town Hall on the 18th ult., E. B. Fraleck on the bench. Some cases causing great interest to others and both weal and woe to those parties concerned were decided.

In that portion of the N.W.T. called now Minnedosa in 1877, 160 acres of land could have been purchased for an $80 scrip; at present this same land is being surveyed into city lots and is selling at from $30 to $40 each lot. Oxen there are selling at from $100 to $200 per yoke. Cows from $30 to $40 each. Ponies from $25 to $75 each. Butter from 30c to 40c per lb.

Trenton Items.

TRENTON, Aug. 23rd.

On the afternoon of the 24th, Mr. B. W. Billings left his team standing in front o Mr. John Reed's residence, and while Mr. Billings was in the house the horses became frightened and ran away, breaking the democrat and harness badly, and running into a pile of stone bruised themselves considerably.

Tuesday next will be the civic holiday in Trenton.

The Methodist S.S. excursion per steamer Varuna last night was well attended, and the net proceeds were above the average.

On account of the large increase of business in Trenton, Mr. J. H. Nulty has been compelled to extend his store 15 feet more on Water Street. The new building, when finished, will be quite an addition to the street.

The schr. Sea Bird left for Trenton this morning.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—A Dublin despatch says some additional alarm may perhaps be produced in regard to Ireland among people at a distance by the disclosure of Fenianism, made by the surreptitious news of the New York Herald. Very few, however, will be alarmed. The secret society of Irish Republicans does exist, but is comparatively harmless. The Parnellites organization is much more harmless.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—W. B. Thomas & Co.'s flour mill, Stuart & Peterson's foundry, and Gumpaw & Bros., large cigar factory, were burned to-day. Wm. Miller, foreman of the milling room, is missing. Total loss nearly $200,000.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Gladstone leaves tomorrow for a cruise around the British coast.

CANDAHAR, Aug. 25.—Gen. Brooke, whose death was previously reported, was shot during the late sortie while attempting to bring in Capt. Cruickshanks, who was wounded.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Boyd, the carsman, has accepted the challenge of William Elliott, of Blyth, to row in February over the Tyne course.

The Sporting Life has received a letter from W. B. Curtis covering a £100 deposit in the proposed International walking match. He also named Pegram, of Boston, as his choice. The match will probably open on Nov. 15th, the day fixed for the Hanlan-Trickett race.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, fresh to strong winds, mostly north-easterly and easterly winds, partly cloudy to cloudy cool weather, with rain areas in southern and fair weather in northern Ontario.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Indications: lower lakes, stationary or lower temperature, partly local rains.

No Hospitalneeded.

No patential hospital needed for Hop Bitters patients, nor large salaried patented puffers to tell what Hop Bitters will do or cure, as they tell their own story by their certain and absolute cures at home.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

Wonderful is the dependence of events! Out of one web, what a host of other webs flow! See how this Border Marriage, with all the train of occurrences which follow it, sprang from one deed of one man—a deed which was an interference with the ordinations of Heaven, and therefore sure to entail dire effects. The uncle of Philip Ravensworth and Lord Eaglehearst had an antipathy to matrimony, and carried his opposition to it so far as to desire that his nephews should in this matter be like himself. He even sought to force them to be so by bribery on the one hand and a threat of punishment on the other. He left a will which led Lord Eaglehearst into temptation; therefore he is justly to be considered the primary author of all the evil which followed. But this does not justify Lord Eaglehearst. His conduct was most foul, unnatural, and iniquitous.

Nor was Lady Eaglehearst blameless. Her error lay in consenting to the concealment of the Border Marriage, and thereby defrauding Philip Ravensworth of the estate. At all hazards she should have braved her husband's opposition and declared the truth. She weakly yielded to the pressure he put upon her, but, as the result, we cannot find in our hearts to be very hard upon her. Dearly—oh, very dearly!—did she pay for her complicity with his lordship's sin. Dreadful was the suffering which it brought upon her. If a human heart could expiate its errors, surely Lady Eaglehearst made expiation for this one she committed.

Above all, however, the story shows the working of an over ruling Providence. Her little Charlie was watched and tended and provided for. His earthly father having forsaken him the Lord had taken him up, delivered him from evil and surrounded him with good,and far more than made up for the wrong which in the years of his helpless infancy had been done to him. Who among us shall fail to obtain faith in the same good Providence guiding and guarding us all? Are not we, too—every one of us—"of more value than many sparrows?"

And now,do our readers wish any further information pronouncing on those whose actions and fortunes have for some time been interesting them? After the return of Lady Eaglehearst the current of their lives ran as smoothly and pleasantly as it possibly could do after such disturbance. The principal of them all was probably the cheery,warm-hearted James Woodford, who will be better remembered as Tobby Spratt. He lived with his friends at Singleton Hall till a good old age, and tended the children of Charles and Mary with as much love and devotion as he had shown to their parents when, as the helpless little things called forth all his care and love. He was their guardian and protector. He was upright and hopeful and cheerful to the last, and he strove to imitate his Divine Master in acts of Christian love and mercy.

Charles is now Lord Eaglehearst, his father having departed this life a few years after that last memorable interview with Philip Ravensworth at the Grange. We wish he could say that he repented and became a changed man, but chagrin and mortification made him gloomy and morose, and thus he continued to the end.

Of Edgar Eaglehearst a better report can be given. A commission having been purchased for him, he entered the army, and there finding his level, his heart grew wider and more generous,and he lived to deserve and win the esteem and affection of his family and his friends.

Of the rest we shall say nothing further than that Charles and Mary, as Lord and Lady Eaglehearst, did not, in their prosperity and elevation, forget the lessons of patience and humility which they had learned by the hardships of their youth. As they had been brave and upright in the midst of their trials, so they were able, through the same Divine strength, to carry their full cup up even, and to discharge with fidelity the duties of the high station to which they had been elevated.

Of Philip and Lydia, of Lady Eaglehearst and Dora, we have nothing particular to report except this, that they fully shared in the happiness which was flashed with such radiance over the Grange and Singleton Hall.

We must not lay down our pen forgetting that this is also a story of the great Glasgow Bank robbery, the perpetrators of which were so singularly mixed up with the experiences of our hero. We have, therefore, in conclusion, to mention the fate of Jim Mackoull.

Immediately after the civil trial the verdict of which was given against him, he was indicted to stand his trial before the High Court of Justiciary for the robbery of the bank; and of this capital offence he was convicted, and condemned to be executed. The sentence, however, was not carried into effect. He was reprieved, first for a month, then during his Majesty's pleasure, for what reason it would be rather difficult to say. We have also no means of knowing whether it was intended that the sentence should ultimately be carried out, for the authorities were saved all practical decision on the matter by the death of Mackoull, which took place in prison at the close of the year. Few men better deserved the gallows. He was, there is every reason to believe, the murderer of Begbie, the bank porter,whose foul and unexpected assassination made such a profound sensation in Edinburgh in 1803; and, besides the gigantic robbery of the Glasgow Bank, he was principal and accessory to many other burglaries, both in England and Ireland.

He died a natural death, however,in one of the prison cells, and was interred in the Calton burying ground.

Mrs. Reynolds clung to him to the last, visiting him as frequently as she was allowed, and defraying at length the expenses of his funeral. Some time after his death, a parcel was mysteriously transmitted to the authorities of the Bank which when opened was found to contain the entire residue of the stolen notes which had not been recovered. No evidence was afforded of the author of this unexpected restitution, but it was generally conjectured that it was Mrs. Reynolds, the only name by which she was known to the outside world.

Poor, lost, wayward, wilful and abandoned creature, she was not without a kind of faithfulness in her nature; but oh! what a woeful mis-spent life was hers. Of her end no one knows. She retired into the murky gloom of her dismal London life, and was lost to earthly view for ever.

Very true are the words of the Wise Man: "The wicked worketh a deceitful work, but to him that soweth righteousness shall be a sure reward."

THE END.

A Great Enterprise.

The Hop Bitters Manufacturing Company is one of Rochester's greatest business enterprises. Their Hop Bitters have reached a sale beyond all precedent, having from their intrinsic value found their way into almost every household in the land.—Graphic.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the cloudy day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, Arnold's soldiers rallied when they began their military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Ports St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. HERVEY'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which are as real, and more useful in such ailments, than any of our monumental celebrities.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using GRAEF'S ANGUET FLOWER. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart,Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of ANGUET FLOWER will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they tell'denly discover that they are "sold out," "that have another article just as good, if not better," which they well aundyat the same time, and a part of this declaration is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of Pain-Killer; and being commended by the wiles of the cunning dealer, are bought by this dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him the more to realize a few cents more profit on it, to answer the imitation article; then he can on the genuine.

CONSUMPTION
CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health,and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish the result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients im prove on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the taste, but delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation offthe kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs or any other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elgaut and agreeable form. Yours truly

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician announced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many days; night sweats, hectic symptoms appeared, night and morning cough, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and friends spoke of pity to all my friends. Early in September I was purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 115 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what is raising in flesh? and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL. I feel that I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago, but he is improving rapidly. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878,

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia. Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite. Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. For the benefit of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with each ink screw on each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have suffered writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, i can now safely say that it has done me more good than all I have purchased, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case, and I'll assure truly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this;now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh, and is very partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

JAMES D. LAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR,—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used FIVE bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, and I have been selling over six years with a number of diseases but the difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Dr's, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker, until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine,and I found its effects were almost magical upon me and a source of surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu te for this under any circumstances.

Sold by all Druggists.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

OVER THE SEA.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

We set out from London to Paris at 7.10, on the same train now we forwarded to you our last communication. We can say little of the country for shortly after getting away from the noise and smoky atmosphere of the metropolis, it grew so dark that we could no longer see the fine hedge fences and pretty cottages by the way. To-morrow, we observed, and we shall see strange faces and strange costumes and listen to a strange language—for by seven o'clock we shall be in Paris. A listening passenger grinned expressively as he replied: "Its so on the bills, but I've known it to take ten hours to cross from her to Calais. It all depends on the weather."

BETWEEN LONDON AND PARIS,

"Oh, ye who love to picture in romance the gay life on the ocean wave," I wish you could have had my place on the Dover steam packet on that fearful night. How long I remained in the cabin I know not—many hours it seemed—but I at last scrambled on deck. Anywhere to escape from horrid sights and noise proceeding from the sufferers. We remained on deck notwithstanding the unpleasantness occasioned by a heavy rain storm and an occasional deluge of salt spray. Just as day began to dawn, we shot in around the troubled waves between the piers of the harbor of Calais and in a few minutes after were on terra firma.

If ever we cross the English Channel again, may we——well, never have such unpropitious weather! Ugh! The thought of such a night makes one shudder.

We passed immediately from the boat to a waiting train, then off to Paris. A pleasant run of five or six hours, through beautiful Norman plains and valleys, through bellowing tunnels, past chateaux perched on heights, now skirting a piece of woodland, then crossing streams and at last where the Seine winds and twists like a serpent, we perceive interlaced in its fold the city of cities—the belle ville—Paris. We have now been here a week and have devoted all our time both day and evening to sight seeing, and although we have not found time to write you sooner, we have jotted down notes for descriptions in a future communication. Having secured apartments at the home of a college professor, who speaks English, and has lived in Paris for the last forty years, we have excellent facilities for gaining desired information.

A concise description of the

may be of interest to those of your readers not already familiar with it before our experience in the capital is related.

A law passed on the 25th of February, 1875, by the late National Assembly, declared the Government of France to be a Republic, represented by a President, a Senate and a Chamber of Deputies. The seat of Government is in Paris. The President for the Republic is named for seven years by the above mentioned bodies, sitting jointly as a National Assembly. He may be re-elected. He closes the sessions of the chambers, which must sit at least five months every year; he may convoke them extraordinarily, and may dissolve the Chamber of Deputies with the consent of the Senate. He has power also to adjourn the Chambers at any time for a month at once. He is bound to convoke them extraordinarily at the request of the majority of either Chamber, and is only responsible in case of high treason. He disposes of the army, promulgates the laws, negotiates and ratifies treaties, and appoints the ministers and all high functionaries throughout France. M. Jules Grevy is now the President of the Republic. His salary is 1,200,000 francs, or about $235,000 per annum.

THE FRENCH SENATE

consists of 300 members, of whom 75 are chosen for life by the Senate itself, which fills up any vacancies that may occur; the other 225 are elected by majorities in assemblies consisting in each Department of France of its Deputies of the Central Government, its Councillors-General, the Councillors of Arrondissements, and a delegate from each municipal council of the same Department. It proposes nonfinancial laws and adopts or rejects those voted by the Chamber of Deputies. It may also sit as a court of justice to judge Ministers or the President, and all cases of offence against the State.

THE FRENCH CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES

is named by universal suffrage. For this purpose the 359 arrondissements (districts) of France are divided into electoral wards, which, with Algeria and the Colonies, return 530 Deputies. All French Colonies have the right of representation. The city of Paris sends 20 of these Deputies. All financial bills must first be presented to this body before they can pass to the Senate; in other respects it has the same legislative powers as the latter. The members of both Assemblies are paid at the rate of $1,800 per annum.

THE COUNCIL OF MINISTERS

is composed of the heads of the different State departments, who need not necessarily be either Senators or Deputies. Each Minister is responsible both to the Chambers and to the President, and his salary is $10,000 per annum. The Government Departments are: Foreign Affairs, War, Marine and Colonies, Finance, Interior and Public Works, Justice, Posts and Telegraphs (all telegraph lines are controlled by Government), Public Instruction and Fine Arts, Public Works, and Agriculture and Commerce. In order to direct cabdrivers to the many places of interest, and to see the sights of properly, it is necessary to understand sufficient French to make yourself understood and to translate notices at theatres, public buildings, &c. A friend in London gave us the address of a hotel before starting, in order that we might have no inquiries to make at the depot on our arrival. As we gave up our tickets at the barrier we were directed to the salle d'attente, to have our portmanteaus examined. The douanier sang out "Avez-vous quelque chose a declarer, monsier"? We ran over our memoranda and found the hotel address, which our friend said would be sufficient answer to all inquiries. The officer repeated the formula. We answer, Hotel de Lille. The examiner turned his back with a smile, He then asked if we were Anglais, and as Englishmen we allowed to pass without an examination of baggage, we proceed to the cabstand and repeat Hotel de Lille, when a porter, putting our portmanteau in, shows us a seat, and pulls off his hat. Le commissionare, monier, il sonne, gaid!

Hotel de Lille—we repeated; the driver cracks his whip, and we are off. The porter jumped up behind and repeated his former expression. The thought occurred to us that he might not understand our pronunciation, and we wrote the hotel address plainly on a leaf of our note book, and handed it to him. The poor fellow looked at it, and uttering something which we did not comprehend, despondently turned as the vehicle drove off, and he found himself done out of the few sous to which he was entitled.

Baroness Burdett-Coutts.

How She Became Possessed of her Immense Fortune.

A Curious Estimate of What a Store of Gold it Would be Piled up in Bulk.

The Baroness Burdett-Coutts, who is believed to be the richest subject in England, is honored wherever her name is known for her widespread and judicious benefactions, both in public and in private. It has been estimated that her capital amounts to about £5,000,000. In addition she is principal in Coutts' Bank, 59 Strand, London, and her yearly income in that long established and most successful business must be considerable. The whole of her property has come to her by bequest from Harriott Mellon, who inherited it from the late Mr. Thomas Coutts, whose wife she became in 1815. At the time the lady was on the sunny side of 40, and the banker bridegroom was 84. He died in 1822; leaving his immense fortune to the widow. In 1827 she married the ninth Duke of St. Albans, born in 1801. This union terminated ten years later by her death. There are two ill-assorted but happy marriages, as estimated by the ages of the parties, and there will be a third (with the late Duke's son and the gentleman 30) should Lady Burdett-Coutts be united to Mr. Bartlett.

The will of the Duchess of St. Albans deposited and registered in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, was executed on the 13th of March, 1837. The testator died in the following August. The sum of £20,000 was left to Lady Burdett, the late Thomas Coutts' youngest daughter, and mother of Miss Angela Georgina Burdett, to whom the Duchess bequeathed all her watches, jewels, trinkets and ornaments of the person. The rest of her estate, personal and real, including the banking house in the Strand, was left to Angela Georgina Burdett "until she shall marry or die, which shall first happen," for her separate use, with a life interest in the bank "to such one son" of the said Angela "in the event of his attaining or having attained the age of 21 years, but not otherwise," and, if she should be no such son, then in succession to Johanna Frances and Clara Maria, other grand-daughters of Thomas Coutts and children of Sir Francis and Lady Burdett, and in default of either of these leaving an heir of her body, to two godsons of Mr. Coutts, each of whom was to take his surname.

Next came the important provisos that, in case any of the females and males named as inheriters "shall intermarry with any person being by birth an alien, and whether such person shall or shall not have obtained letters of denization, or have been naturalized" then the bequests, including the shares in the banking business, should pass to the person or persons for the time being next or entitled in remainder or expectancy.

Hence, as Mr. Bartlett comes under this designation "an alien or naturalized subject," it is clear that, by her marriage with him, Lady Burdett-Coutts must certainly forfeit her interest in the bank, and probably in the real estate also. The personal property left by the testator amounted to under £800,000. To this, of course, large additions have been made year after year since 1837.

Thomas Coutts, from whom all this wealth came, was one of four sons of a merchant in Edinburgh. His brother James, a banker in London, admitted him into partnership at 50 Strand, and soon after Thomas married a respectable and handsome young woman who had charge of the counting house. She died early in 1815, in a lunatic condition, and soon after Mr. Coutts took to wife Harriott Mellon, an actress, to whom, on his death, seven years later, he bequeathed everything he had in the world. In 1827 she became Duchess of St. Albans by marriage, and died in 1837.

Miss Mellon, born in 1777, was put on the stage at the early age of 15. In a few months she became self-educated, and gifted with intelligence, high spirits, great imitative power, and a memory which truly was "a way to receive and how to retain," she so rapidly advanced that at the age of 18 she had an engagement at Drury Lane, where Miss Farren and Mrs. Jordan were the leading ladies. At last, in 1805, her performance of Violante, in Tobin's comedy of "The Honeymoon," was so good that she was placed in the first rank. She retired from the stage just before the long expected death of the first Mrs. Coutts, and after Miss Farren, under like circumstances, had long waited for a death vacancy, became a countess by marriage with the twelfth Earl of Derby.

The fortune to which Miss Angela Georgina Burdett succeeded, by the liberal bequests of the Duchess of St. Albans, was estimated at that time (August 1837) as amounting to £1,800,000. The weight of this enormous sum, in gold, it was carefully calculated, was 13 tons, 5 cwt., 3 quarters, 3 quarters, and 12 pounds. It would require 107 able men to carry it, supposing that the burden of each was 280 pounds, which would be equal to the weight of a sack of flour, according to custom of England at that time. Some approximating idea of the vastness of this sum may be obtained by taking it according to the method, running at the rate of sixty sovereigns in a minute, for eight hours a day and six days in a week, it would take about two weeks, two days and four hours to accomplish this task. In sovereigns, by the exact computation, each measuring in diameter seventeen-twentieths of an inch and placed so touch each other, it would extend to the length of twenty-four miles, 260 yards, and in silver crown pieces, to 113½ miles and 240 yards. It is a singular fact that James Wood, sole proprietor of the old Gloucester Bank, in England, which had been established by his grandfather in 1716, left precisely the same sum in coin on his death in April, 1836. He was a miser, this "Jemmy Wood" as he was usually designated, which neither Thomas Coutts nor his widow ever was, their use of money being liberal and even generous. Wood, being afraid of the expenses of employing a lawyer, made his own will, and, as the old saying is, "had a fool for his client." He made several wills of a conflicting character, out of which arose a deal of litigation and cost. Finally what was left of the miser's wealth went to Sir Matthew Wood, the staunch advocate of Caroline of Brunswick, the unfortunate wife of George IV., and so much the friend of the Duke and Duchess of Kent in their pecuniary troubles, that in 1837, shortly after the accession of Queen Victoria, she created him a baronet.

It is to be borne in mind, in estimating the wealth of Baroness Burdett-Coutts, that from 1837, nearly 43 years ago, it has been accumulating; for, with all her bountiful liberality, she has not been able to spend more than a portion of her immense income, her capital remaining intact and yearly increasing. Her fortune estimated at over £5,000,000, is believed to exceed even that which Queen Victoria is said to have piled up also since 1873.

Mr. Coutts' three daughters—Susan, Frances and Sophia—marrying well respectively be came Countess of Guilford, Marchioness of Bute and Lady Burdett. From the time of their father's death his new widow allowed among them £30,000 a year until the death of Lady Guilford, the eldest, in 1832, when the sum was reduced to £20,000 a year. In 1836 a statement was shown to one of her confidential friends to the effect that, since Mr. Coutts died, in 1822, his widow's largess to his daughters amounted to £381,000 in the fourteen years, the interest upon which would be nearly £12,000 a year, and upward of £20,000 a year if "improved" at compound interest. Mr. Coutts considering that after his second marriage, his daughters had turned "the cold shoulder" on his wife, left nothing to them, but as a testator did not put a veto upon her generosity to them she regarded this as an act of pure justice. Lady Burdett, the youngest, was the survivor of the three daughters, and died in 1844. In June, 1871, Queen Victoria, of her own accord offered her a peerage. Thus the youngest of Sir F. Burdett's daughters became Baroness Burdett-Coutts.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, AUG. 26.

The Pending Elections.

West Toronto and North Ontario will on Saturday elect representatives to the House of Commons. A sharp contest is being carried on in each of these constituencies, but public attention has been almost wholly diverted to the former.

Four candidates have presented themselves for election in the Provincial capital, namely Messrs. James Beaty, Mayor of the city, who is the regular nominee of the Conservative party; Peter Ryan, the Reform candidate; A. W. Wright, a Conservative and Protectionist, but who runs on the platform of rag-babyism; and F. C. Capreol, another Conservative, whose hobby is the projected Huron and Ontario Ship Canal. The presence of so many candidates in the field has of course caused the contest to assume a very lively aspect, in which both parties are exerting themselves to the utmost to win. The Grits having everything to gain and nothing to lose, are resorting to their usual tactics of abuse, misrepresentation and untruth. Their main object is, evidently, to avoid the true issue, namely the policy of the Government, and by arousing local feeling against Mr. Beaty, to secure a verdict in their favor. This they have sought to do by charging the Conservative candidate with having declared in favor of the abolition of Provincial Legislatures, and consequently against the erection of the new Legislative buildings, which are to be built in Toronto. The N. P. is also discussed, the coal tax, as being more felt in the city than elsewhere, being the main point of attack. Mr. Ryan, their candidate, has been chosen largely because he is a Roman Catholic, with the object of securing the votes of his co-religionists irrespective of party, and of aiding their standard bearer in North Ontario. In spite, however, of all the misrepresentation he is meeting with—despite the fact that he will be seriously weakened by the candidature of Messrs. Wright and Capreol, neither of whom has the ghost of a chance of election—we believe that Mr. Beaty will be returned by a good majority.

In North Ontario the contest is between Messrs. George Wheler (Grit) and Wm. H. Gibbs, who contested the riding in 1878, when the former was elected by 54 majority, but was subsequently unseated and disqualified, his disqualification being removed by the Supreme Court. The contest is likely to be a close one, but as the constituency is one of the most unreliable in the country, it would be unwise to make a prediction as to the probable result.

TOO MANY SALMON IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.—The Victoria, B. C., Standard of August 11th says; "Salmon continue to run in such quantities, says the Astorian, that the cannerymen are compelled to limit their fishermen to from 30 to 50 to the boat. The Astoria factory (known as the big Kinney cannery) were compelled to call in their boats in consequence of the number of fish they obtained from their seining grounk off Chinook point, where, we are informed, 700 salmon were brought to land in two hauls of the seine. This prolonged July run must increase the number of cases put up this year so largely there is now no doubt this season's work will exceed that of last year. It seems rather strange that salmon should abound so much on the Pacific coast the present season, when there has been such an unusual scarcity of these fish on the Atlantic coast."

Strange Criticism.

"The national debt of the United States is an enormous one, mostly incurred through the civil war. The country has been paying it off at a rate which is astonishing the world and at a rate which is astonishing the world and is placing her credit very high indeed. This vigorous reduction of the national debt is criticism," to which the Montreal Witness replies:

"The United States are just awaking to the folly of a system which Canada has been foolish enough to adopt, because we measured its wisdom by the prosperity which was achieved in spite of it."

We would say that there seems some system in the "folly," as the Witness styles it, of the United States, by which they are enabled to make such sweeping strides towards liquidating their national debt, whilst increasing their national prosperity; yet there are croakers amongst the press of the United States, like the Witness in Canada, which would glory in a government deficit and grieve at a surplus. Notwithstanding this, after years of trial, the people of the United States are a unit for protection, as is proved by the fact that the Democratic party, who are supposed to favor free trade, have never, although for the past two years they have had a majority in Congress, dared to make any material alteration in the tariff. Another significant fact is that General Garfield, the Republican candidate for the Presidency, who had been elected without his consent an honorary member of the Cobden Club of England, on being charged by his opponents with being a free trader, at once repudiated the Club and its opinions in the most emphatic manner, he knowing that no holder of free trade theories can be elected President of the United States.

Sporting Notes.

Some of the closest finishes ever recorded took place at the recent regatta of the Tweed Amateur Rowing Club at Berwick on-Tweed, England. One race was won by a foot and a half, another by a foot only, but the climax was reached when two four oared crews rowed a dead heat. They were sent off again and a second dead heat resulted; and a third trial ended in a third dead heat—a result which we believe to be without precedent. As a fourth race on the same afternoon would have been asking too much of the young men, further contest between the crews was postponed until a future day. The course was about one mile in length, namely from the Ballast Quay to Castle Vale.

Messrs. R. J. Killeck, McNaughton and Mandeville, rowed a single scull race at Kingston on Tuesday night. The first named won, after a desperate struggle, by two feet.

Teams of eight men each, representing B battery and the 14th Battalion respectively, shot a match at Kingston on the 24th. Conditions—seven shots each at 200, 400 and 500 yards. The Battery men won, scoring 565 to 486 for their opponents. The highest individual score was 75, by Major Taschereau, of the Battery.

A three mile race, with turn, came off at Mill Point on Tuesday night, for $30 a side, between G. T. Hancock and C. E. Hubbs. Hancock was allowed 100 feet of a start. Hubbs passed Hancock, and rounded the turning buoy first by about two lengths, after a mile had been traversed. Immediately afterwards he broke his foot board, and in consequence had to run the remainder of the course without using it or his slide. Hancock came in the winner by two lengths.

Visit of General Luard

INSPECTION OF AN ARMORY.

The 15th Battalion Inspected.

GENERAL LUARD'S REMARKS.

Major General Luard, Commander of the British forces in Canada, accompanied by Captain Holbeck, Aide de Camp, Lieut Colonel Straubenzie, D. A. G., and Major King, District Paymaster, arrived by the evening train from the east yesterday.

They were met at the Dafoe House by Lieut. Colonel Lazier of the 15th, and Lieut. Colonel Brown of the 49th.

After dinner the Major General and staff visited the armory of No. 1 company of the 49th, in company with Lieut. Col. Brown, Major Hambly and Quartermaster Hamilton.

The Major General and suite expressed themselves as delighted with the admirable condition in which the arms and everything in connection with the armory was found. Considering the inspection was unlooked for Captain Harrison may justly feel proud of having secured such favorable notice from the Commander in Chief.

It is to be regretted that Captain Harrison was absent at Toronto attending the Ontario Rifle Association match.

AT THE CAMP.

The Inspection of the 15th Battalion took place at the Camp this morning, commencing shortly after 8 o'clock. Major-General Luard, Lt. Col. Von Straubenzie, D.A.G., Capt. Holbeck, A.D.C., of the 60th Rifles, and Major King, Paymaster, left by boat this morning, accompanied by Lt. Col. Lazier, and some of the Staff officers. Arriving at the ground selected for the parade, the Companies were marched out in open space and received the General and staff with a general salute. After an inspection of the tents and grounds, the officers then rode down the line, which broke into column by the right, and the arms and accoutrements were inspected by Col. Straubenzie. The Companies were then put through Company drill, commencing with No. 1, the General carefully inspecting the movements of each Company. The Battalion then formed quarter column on No. 1, and marched past in columns, and then changed ranks and marched past at the trail. The troops then countermarched and deployed to the left of No. 1, and advanced in line. They were then put through the manual and firing exercise by Major Henderson, followed by battalion movements, moving into column and wheeling into line. The battalion were then extended for attack. Nos. 1 and 3 extended and Nos. 2 and 4 formed the support, No. 5 forming the reserve. The supports were then extended and the fighting line retiring in rear of them in turn became their support. The whole line then retired on the reserve, forming quarter column on No. 1, which had in the meantime exchanged places with No. 5. These constituted the movements of the Battalion, and considering the fact that a large number of the men were new recruits, the drill was very creditable.

The Battalion was then formed into quarter column, and turned to the left, when Major Gen. Luard, being obliged to leave to take the noon train for Montreal, briefly addressed the troops. He said he understood most of them were raw recruits and was prepared to make great allowances. It was evident that they did not know a great deal, but then they could not expect to do much, as they had not sufficient opportunity to perfect themselves in drill. There were many things which catch the eye of an officer, small things which might not be considered of great importance, but which nevertheless are matters which go very far to make up the efficiency of a corps, and which if captains of companies would attend to, would relieve commanding officers of a great deal of responsibility. As to the advanced part of the drill he could not say much in commendation from the fact that he did not expect much. Their physique was fair, and with more drill they would make efficient soldiers.

The General then left the ground, and the Battalion marched to the Camp for roll call, &c.

It is the intention of the Camp to break up to-morrow at seven o'clock.

During the inspection we noticed on the ground Lt. Col. Brown, Major Hambly and Quartermaster Hamilton, of the 49th; Lt. Col. Ketcheson, Alex. Robertson, M.P.P., D.B. Robertson, R. C. Clute, J.J.B. Flint, U. E. Thompson, Benj. Gilbert, Dr. Stewart, and other prominent gentlemen.

MURDER AT MONTREAL.—The young man Vaillancourt, who was thought to have been accidentally drowned at Montreal on the 24th, proves to have been murdered. The Star states that at the inquest the evidence of a Doctor, Lortie Vaillancourt's companion, and Mr. Clarke, foremen of the SS. Company, throw an entirely different light on the subject. Lortie stated that he was standing near the wharf with Vaillancourt, when an unknown person stepped up beside him. Lortie requested him to be careful or he would fall in, whereupon the stranger said: "Look out, you'll go in yourself," and suiting the action to the word he pushed him rudely over the edge. As was stated last night Lortie seized Vaillancourt to save himself, which was attended with the sad result. Mr. Clarke's evidence was next taken, which corroborated that of Lortie's in regard to the words spoken between Lortie and the stranger, but he, Clarke, did not see the subsequent result. The doctor's evidence proved that death was not caused by drowning, as there was a severe wound in the body of the deceased. He must have fallen against something in the water. Lortie stated that he would not be able to recognize the stranger, as he had left immediately. The jury returned a verdict of wilful murder against some person unknown.

THE INDIAN ESTIMATES.—The Marquis of Hartington, Secretary of India, has submitted to the House of Commons the Indian estimates for the year 1880-81. The receipts are placed at £66,750,000, and the expenditure, £66,329,000, a decrease of £1,000,000 on each side of the account. £18,000,000 is placed as the probable amount of the future war expenditure in Afghanistan.

Report of Consolidated Bank Committee.

The report of the committee appointed by the Shareholders at the adjourned annual general meeting, held on the 23rd of June, has been published, and the following is the conclusion:—

We may here recapitulate the chief amounts for which we consider the late Directors are legally responsible:—Dividend paid 1st December, 1877, $121,315.18; Dividend paid 1st June, 1878, $104,020.60; Dividend paid 2nd December, 1878, $104,-145.30; Misappropriation of funds in stock speculations, $65,091.79. Total, $394,-572.87.

In addition to these amounts we consider that the late directors are liable to the Bank for a very large amount of losses caused by their gross mismanagement of the affairs of the Bank. It is not, of course, possible for us to state the sum which such liability may amount to, but our investigations furnish abundant proof of the validness of such a claim.

We may add that we have been informed by some of the officers of the Bank, that no inspection of the affairs of the Bank at Montreal, since the amalgamation of the two Banks in May, 1876, ever took place.

It is a painful record of neglect, incapacity and reckless daring by which upwards of

have been lost to the unfortunate shareholders, many of them widows and orphans.

Their wrongs should stimulate the shareholders to adopt such measures as will enable the Liquidators of the Bank to recover a portion at least of the money so recklessly squandered and illegally used, as will to some extent modify the sufferings and losses those unfortunate persons will otherwise have to endure.

All most respectfully submitted,

ROBERT CASSELS,
A. B. STEWART,
WILLIAM ALLAN.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

MADRID, Aug. 26.—The Government, finding that Blanco was sending over more rebel chiefs who have lately surrendered than can conveniently be received in the penal settlement of North Africa, have determined to embark several hundred men for the Mained islands, near the Phillipines. These islands are half deserted and desolate, and are inhabited by savages, and overrun by rats. Their climate is tropical, and most unhealthy.

The Cuban members contend that they surrendered under the express understanding that they would be set free when they had once reached Spain.

The army in Cuba is to be reduced by the homeward return of 14,000 men whose term has expired. 8,000 recruits are to be sent out in October.

AMERICAN.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 26.—The creditors of Archbishop Purcell have called a meeting to prepare a statement of their grievances to send to Rome, with the hope of interesting the Pope in behalf of the Diocesan debt of $3,500,000.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Wm. F. Dehas, the well-known painter of marine pictures, died on board a steamer from the Azores to Rotterdam.

An insane man was discovered naked in the outskirts of Tremont yesterday and when pursued he cut his throat with a razor and jumped into the river. He was taken to the hospital and will probably die.

ELKHORN, Wis., Aug. 26.—Jacob Black well, of Walworth, on Tuesday evening was called from his house by the barking of dogs. When a few steps from his door, he was shot dead by an unknown party.

TUCSON, Arizona, Aug. 26.—The Deputy Marshal has arrived from Arivacca with Capt. Rgeccastigna and eight men of Reve's band. The Captain claims that the motive of the raid was not plunder, but the support of Gen. Ramereiz and the overthrow of the Diaz Government.

DENVER, Aug. 26.—Information received from the Ute agency states that the commissioners who have arrived are delayed by the tardiness of the southern Indians. It is believed the Southern Indians will sign the treaty, but will be very slow about it.

BOOMING.—The West India trade is indeed "booming." In 1878 only half a dozen vessels were employed in carrying sugar to Montreal. In 1879 no fewer than forty-five vessels of 20,731 tons entered that port with cargoes of sugar, and this season from the opening of navigation to August 12th, forty-two vessels of 17,184 tons had arrived, and before the close of navigation these figures will probably be doubled.

Local Notices.

Notices under this head 10cts. a line each insertion. After six insertions 5 cts. a line.

LA THE SEASON.—The trip of the Varuna to the Thousand Islands, on Saturday, August 28, will be the last trip this steamer will make to that place this season. She will leave Belleville at the usual hour, 8 o'clock; returning, leave the Thousand Islands at 6 a. m. Monday.

We are glad to see the people of Belleville with smiling faces again. They have learned now how to save money, as economy is the step to wealth. Just step to Smith, Campbell St., and get your old suits done over to look like a new one. Now is the time, while money is scarce and times are hard to save yourself from buying a new suit if you can.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

LECTURE.—Mr. J. B. Watson, the eloquent lecturer, is to deliver a lecture in this city at an early date.

ERRATUM.—In our report of Belleville market yesterday, wheat was quoted at $1.50; it should have been $1.10.

A FINE SIGHT.—Those who witnessed the display of fireworks on the bay last night say the sight was a fine one.

THE IRON TRADE.—The Madoc iron mines are now being worked to some purpose, as there are large arrivals of ore daily, for shipment to Sodus by water and through to Buffalo by rail.

RAILWAY NOTES.—The Hastings Star says:—"Collins and Clydesdale shipped a car load of cattle Friday last for the Montreal market. A car load of bolts and spikes, for the construction gang, arrived on Saturday. Jas. H. Fife shipped a car load of cattle this morning. Preparations are being made to put in a main battery at the station, probably with the intention of running a loop line to Peterborough for the use of the railroad."

FIRE.—Shortly before 8 o'clock this morning the kitchen in rear of the frame house on Parker Street, West Belleville, owned and occupied by Thomas McGarry, took fire. The flames spread quickly, and although an alarm was given and the engines turned out as soon as possible, the fire rapidly gained control and destroyed the whole building, from which the contents were removed. There was difficulty in procuring water, but a supply was got from the bay by No. 1 steamer feeding to No. 2. The stream was, however, not a powerful one, and was insufficient to to save the building. Mr. McGarry's loss was about $800 on which there is no insurance.

GOOD FISHING.—Messrs. W. H. Campbell, James Clarke and Joseph Clarke, who left town on the Katie Gray on Tuesday night for a day's fishing, had fine sport yesterday. They trolled in Carnahan's Bay, at the far end of the Reach, and caught three large mascalonge, two of which—weighing 25 pounds and 18 pounds respectively—they brought home and exhibited to-day in Messrs. Wallbridge & Clarke's store. The third fish was given to the keeper of the hotel at the fishing ground, who provided them with suitable tackle and was very attentive.

THE MURCHISON CLUB.—At the meeting of the Murchison Club on the 25th inst., Dr. James was elected President, and the Rev. Dr. Clarke Vice President. It is intended during the winter meetings to have papers upon various subjects connected with science read and discussed, and endeavors will be otherwise made to increase the attractiveness of the proceedings. It was also resolved that the members of the Club should take advantage of the cheap excursion to Madoc and the mines, as it is expected that a very pleasant and instructive trip will be made.

PICTON YACHT CLUB.—A club has been organized in Picton under the above title. At the organization meeting the following officers were appointed:—Geo. P. Reid, Commodore; H. Stanton, Captain; E. Merrill, Sec, and Tres. Committee of Management:—His Honor Judge Jellett, Sheriff Gillespie, J. H. Bedford, Geo. McKenzie, W. P. Reynolds, Peter McKenzie, Hugh McGregor. A number of regattas are in contemplation before the close of navigation. For the present the sailing craft in the harbor have been divided into classes; the Iris, Aleen and Mocking Bird, in the first class, and all the others in the second class. We wish success to the new organization. Commodore Reid is a member of the Bay of Quinte Yacht club of this city.

ONTARIO RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—At the annual meeting of the Ontario Rifle Association held in Toronto on the 25th inst., the following members were appointed at the Council for the ensuing year:—Lieut.-Col. Walker, 7th Battalion, London; Lieut.-Col. Lewis, London; Lieut.-Col. Caswell, 25th Battalion, St. Thomas; W. H. Marcon, Guelph R. A., Guelph; Capt. D. Gibson, Toronto G. A., Toronto; Capt. Mason, 13th Battalion, Hamilton; Capt. Fothergill, 34th Battalion, Oshawa; Lieut. Flynn, 10th Royals, Toronto; Capt. Harrison, 49th Battalion, Belleville; Capt. Baillie, 47th Battalion, Kingston; Lieut. Macnachtan, Cobourg G. A., Cobourg; Lieut. Johnson, 49th Battalion, Belleville; Maj. Bennett, Ottawa; Capt. Perley, Ottawa; Lieut.-Col. McPherson, Militia Department, Ottawa; Maj. McPherson, Foot Guards, Ottawa.

ONTARIO RIFLE MATCHES.—In the Gordon match—seven rounds at 600 yards—Corporal Hilton stood twenty second with a score of 26, and Private Marshall fortyfirst with 23. Corporal Hilton also stood forty-third among the winners of individual prizes in the Battalion match, having scored 78. This match was won by the 13th Battalion of Hamilton.

PASSED.—In our report of those from Belleville who passed successful law examinations at Toronto we omitted the name of Mr. J. Stanly Hough, formerly a law student here in the office of Messrs. Fralick & Blair, but for the past two years managing clerk in the law office of Morphy & Winchester, Toronto, who passed without an oral for Barrister. We understand he is going into partnership here. Mr. H. A. Rowe, of this city, also passed his first intermediate examination.

MADOC SLATE QUARRY.—Work in this quarry is now being carried on energetically and with highly favorable results. The quarry was opened on the north side of the ledge, and since its opening labor has been expended in taking out what proved to be a wedge, from which a large quantity of fine flagging and some good roofing slate, samples of which have been on view at various places in town, were procured. On Thursday last work was commenced on the true slate ledge, and now slate equal to the best Welsh or Pennsylvania, and superior to any slate ever before produced in Canada, is being taken. It resembles in color, texture and toughness the famous Peach Blossom slate of Pennsylvania. We have been favored with samples of this latest product of the quarry, which can be seen in the windows of the business office of the INTELLIGENCER, and at Mr. E. B. Fralick's law office.

A FATAL QUARREL.—The Napanee Standard says: "A few days ago James Pearson, who was employed at Detlor's ashery, met with an accident which terminated in his death. Pearson and a young man named Philip Hearns were engaged in loading a barge with ashes, and had some words. The discussion became animated, when Hearns, taking advantage of Pearson's back being turned, rushed upon him and pushed him into the river. Pearson's blood was overheated, and the sudden contact with the water gave him a chill, and being unable to swim, he sank to the bottom. Joseph Abrams jumped in and pulled him out just as he had gone down the third time. Being very weak he was taken home, when it was ascertained that his brain was affected. He remained in a delirious state until Saturday, when death put an end to his sufferings. Hearns was immediately placed under arrest, and will probably be sent up to the Assizes. The deceased was about 25 years of age, and leaves a wife and family."

IMPORTANT WILL CASE.—The News says that the hum drum monotony of legal business in Kingston is shortly to be varied by the trial of an important chancery suit concerning the will of the late Patrick Conroy, and involving property worth about $120,000. Deceased was in his lifetime a merchant in Kingston and after saving from $120,000 to $200.000, became insane. He was placed in the Toronto Asylum in 1878 and was brought home again somewhat improved, and one of the main questions in dispute is whether he fully recovered his reason between the time of his return to Kingston and his death. In fact insanity is the leading argument of those who contest the will. The will was drawn by Mr. W. H. Sullivan, barrister, on the 5th of September, or about two months and a half before the death of the testator. It devises $18,500 to various persons, and the balance of his estate to his sister Ellen Ward. The will is resisted on the ground of the alleged mental incapacity of the testator, and that it was made under undue influence. Hence the will is asked to be set aside and a partition of the estate made.

HOTEL KEEPERS and other would do well to examine Jas. Hennessay's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offering at 25 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessay.

Police Court.

(Before the P. M. and Ald. A. L. Smith.)

THURSDAY, Aug. 26.

VAGRANCY.

John Autis, an importation] from Kingston, was ordered to be returned to that place.

THE LIQUOR LAW.

William Jamieson, of Mill Point, was charged with selling liquor to Indians. The case, after some evidence had been taken, was enlarged for a week.

Marine.

The Oswego Palladium of Monday says: The schr. Picton was in Gobie & Macfarlane's dry dock yesterday for repairs. The sloop Bloodhound got a new spar from Gobie & Macfarlane's.

The schooner St. Clair has arrived from Oswego, light.

ABORTION IN CHICAGO.—A professional abortionist named Earle has been arrested in Chicago for the murder of a girl named Nettie A. Carroll, upon whom he had operated, and who had died in his office.

TROUBLE IN THE EAST.—A Bucharest despatch says there has been more severe fighting in the Dobrudscha, between the Roumanians and the Bulgarian insurgents. Many of the latter were killed or captured while pillaging the villages. Many rifles, the same as those used in the Bulgarian army, were captured, which the Government considers direct proof of the support of the Bulgarian Government.

OUTBREAK IN AFRICA.—A despatch received from Madeira states that an outbreak has taken place at Lagos, and all along the west coast of Africa. The natives are all on the eve of breaking out into open revolt. H. M. ship Charybdis, on her passage home to be paid off at the Cape, was to be sent up the coast and detained there until affairs assumed a more peaceful attitude. H. M. ships Decoy, Dwarf, and Alert, were off Cape Coast Castle looking after British interests, and were to remain until quiet was restored.

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE IRISH QUESTION.—While the Government is disposed to act with every degree of consideration towards the Irish peasantry, it apprehends more disturbances, which is mainly attributable to hot mad-headed agitators. However, they are firmly determined to maintain order in Ireland at any sacrifice, and should it be necessary to compel it by soldiery.

Trenton Items.

Several new buildings are about to be erected on Front St. Messrs. Gilmour & Co. are about building a tenement house for their employees.

The grain market is opened this season with three buyers. Messrs. W. F. Baker, J. D. Macaulay and H. Coons. A number of loads of grain have been purchased already.

On Wednesday afternoon the laborers at work on the basement of the new Presbyterian Church here dug up a portion of a skeleton, which is no doubt Indian remains, as a pipe bowl and a bear's claw were also found near by.

On Saturday morning Sir L. Tilley is expected to pay Trenton a visit on his way to Picton. He will arrive by 11.15 a. m. express from Toronto. An address will be presented to him during his stay here, which will be only an hour and a half.

A man named Windon was struck in the forehead by a piece of edging this afternoon, and seriously injured; he is not expected to recover.

This morning, as Mr. W. D. Auger was attending an edger in Gilmour's mill, a man named Bougie, who was in front of the edger, sprang forward and struck him on the arm with an iron crowbar, breaking his wrist, and then struck him on the head and knocked him down, and would have struck him again, had not another man interfered. Bougie was arrested to-day, but will not be tried, as the affair has been settled between the parties.

Amelasburg Notes.

There is nothing that will give a reporter or correspondent more pain than have to report a disrespectful act or action that has taken place in the district from which he writes. He feels that he would gladly shun it, if he could only deal with such matters as they should be, without calling the attention of the public. But when such an affair takes place like that which happened out at Redcherville on Wednesday night of last week, it needs to be reported through the public press in the strongest terms. On Wednesday evening, after prayer meeting, some young men (whose names are withheld for the present) took a plow out of an adjoining shed near Mr. E. C. Ketcheson's dry goods store and placed it upon the stoop in front of the store and committed a "nuisance" on and thereby. The cause of this act Mr. Ketcheson says he is unable to account for. He says he has always used the "boys" about him in the most friendly manner, and never thought for one moment he had an enemy who would do the like. It is to be hoped the guilty will be taught a lesson not soon to be forgotten.

Quite a large shipment of apples and eggs were made by Mr. Ketcheson on Monday per Alexandra. Sixty cents is offered for barley.

The Grangers met on Friday evening, no doubt to consider the best way of handling their barley. They did well last year, and they have only stick together and a fair price will be realized this year.

A farmer's wife has lately found some fault with the high price of salt, if salt has taken a sudden rise she has no right to lay it on the N. P. It may be some fault of her store keepers.

Lovers of melons are paying their annual visits to patches already but not in the day time. They prefer night, when the moon is behind a cloud. It's hard enough for people to lose their melons after tending to them. Put it is still meaner of the thief to destroy the vines.

The corn crop this year is the best the farmers have had in some time.

A good many purpose sowing fall wheat again this fall.

W. F. Weese, Esq., well known throughout this township, is very ill with inflammation in the eyes. At present he is totally blind.

People in the lower part of the township are finding a good deal of fault with visits received from, it is supposed, members of the 15th camp.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Durham & Co., merchants, have failed. They were largely interested in the South American and East India trade.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Arrived, the Tarifa from Liverpool.

Information received by some of the members of the Produce Exchange says that Asa Dows, one of the largest operators of the Chicago board of trade, and who recently refused to respond to a call for more margin on pork, has been suspended. Dows is said to have lost a quarter of a million in pork.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 27.—The Sultan is somewhat alarmed. His conviction that the European concert has broken down and the naval demonstration been abandoned, has been shaken by the intelligence of the last few days. He still hopes that danger may somehow be averted, and he is very reluctant to take any decisive step until quite certain that the powers will employ coercion. Some naval authorities declare confidently that danger is already past, for the United Squadron can hardly be got ready before the time of the equinoctial gales, when it would be very hazardous for large men of war to visit the Albanian coast.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, fresh to strong easterly and south-easterly winds, fair weather followed by rain to-night in western Ontario; take every slightly higher temperature.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Indications: lower lakes, warm winds, occasional rains.

Man's Noblest Work.

This is an age of great works and wonderful inventions. Steam, electricity, water, air, all are made to serve man, but unquestionably the greatest inventions are those which preserve man's health and prolong his life, and among the greatest of these is Dr. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption. Its effects are truly wonderful and hundreds are happy to day, who once looked forward to an early grave. For Coughs, Colds' Bronchitis, Asthma, loss of voice, Hay Fever, Hoarseness, Croup, or any affection whatever of the Throat, Chest or Lungs, Dr. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will positively cure. Our Progress.

As stages and stage routes are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the huge, drastic, cathartic pills composed of crude and bulky medicines, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts and are warranted to cure all irregularities of stomach, liver and bowels. A Milk Sink or Cooler.

Mr. "W. H. B." Cecil Co., Md., sends a description of a "milk-sink" or "Milk Sink," as he calls it, which he holds as superior to any other he has seen. As it is not to be secured by a patent, he grants it to our readers. A brick box is built 6 feet long, 8 feet wide, 24 inches high inside, and the walls the length of one brick (8½ inches) in thickness. There are pieces of wood the size of the brick placed in the top layer of bricks, in the four corners and in the middle of each side, for the purpose of fastening a wooden capping, thus making the walls secure. A lid is then made of thin boards, and fastened on one side by stout leather hinges, with a handle on the middle or front side to raise it by. It is necessary to have that the brick work is laid up in hydraulic cement, and to insure from any danger from leakage, two coats of cement are put on the inside of the Sink. Two small water pipes are put in one end of the Sink, one near the bottom and the other near the top. They may be of iron 1¼ inch in diameter, and are closed by simple plugs at the outer ends. It would be well in the construction of the Sink to have one end a little higher than the other, that the water may all flow out of the lower pipe when desired. The cans that Mr. B. uses are made of "3x" tin, 18 inches deep and 15 inches in diameter, holding 20 quarts. Two strips of thin iron are soldered across each other on the bottom of the cans, to keep them from wearing out; they are provided with covers, and bails to lift them by. When all is ready, fill the Sink with water until the cans will nearly float. If possible have the Sink near the pump, or so that the water may be conveyed in a pipe. The lid of the sink should not be put down tight until the new milk is perfectly cold. A large button fastened on the edge of the wooden cap will serve to keep the cover up sufficient to allow the air to circulate freely. When the milk is cold the cover is closed, and the Sink is left to itself for quite a time for skimming or putting in new milk. The Sink described is large enough for 15 to 20 cows. With a large dairy it might be an improvement to have a partition in the middle of the way from one end for new milk, as the cans containing it should have more room than those containing cold milk. "When straining the new milk into the cans always do it outside of the Sink, as there is otherwise more or less splashing of water into the Sink, and in the warm weather it might cause the Sink to become sour and smell. Cleanliness is about half the battle in first-class butter making."—American Agriculturist.

Garget.

Inflammation of a very serious character too often attacks the internal substance of the udder of milch cows—one of the teats or the quarters becomes tumefied and enlarged, hot and tender and soon develops to the hard and knotty lumps which are met with the udder in little distinct hardened kernels. In a very short space of time another teat and quarter are involved and assume the same developed character. The milk secreted and drained in the udder or "bag" coagulates to that degree that it causes local inflammation. The disease of the udder occurs particularly in young heifers at or stopping their first calf, and especially when they are in too high condition in flesh the attack is usually attended by a greater or less degree of fever. The most effectual remedy for this in every case in Chief, Ottawa, and at the Station Masters' Offices in St. John and Halifax, on and after MONDAY, the Twenty-third instant.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Ports St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which are as real, and more useful in such traits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to get rich; the second, how to secure good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health), by using GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effect of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of AUGUST FLOWER will relieve you at once. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of hardware dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," but have another article just as good, if not better, which they will supply at the same price, and of which their cautionis transparent. These unprincipled dealers seem to sell on the great reputation of Pain-Killer; and their ace consequently is the sale of the worst and most dangerous drugs ever heard of by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit on it; upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

CONSUMPTION
CAN BE CURED
IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result in most cases. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and extensively and properly by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

Yours truly, EDWARD C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains left me, health and strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and I frequently meet some friend who has been given up to die, gradually increasing in flesh and health and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago and he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.
Very truly yours,

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach. I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure it will certainly recover. I am greatly yours,

Epileptic Fits"
ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your remedy. I can now gladly say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery. When you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have died from the effects of fits. She eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, &c., yours very truly,
D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.,
SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used all over a bottle of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most troublesome. I commenced using your Emulsion under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but since using your remedy, growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

OVER THE SEA.

XXIV.

The first impression we got of the magnitude and beauty of

THE CITY OF PARIS

was from the Vendome Column at a height of 135 feet, on a bright clear morning. There was the great city, the pride of the French people, lying in the clear sunshine stretched upon the plain all around us; no dark mist hangs over it, no folds of smoke rest on it, no cloud or shadow—a glittering heap, the Seine glittering in its midst. Yonder are two towers of Notre-Dame. See the spires and domes in every direction; that one, high above all others, is the dome of the Invalides. That pillar, in the furthest cluster of houses, where they are rising in the horizon with something glittering on its top, is the column of the bastile. That apparent shaft near by, a single stone tapering and pointed, with an open space around it, where the sun shines on the flag-pavement and glittens on the great columns of spray projecting from the fountains, is the Obelisk of Luxor, and those beautiful trees on each side are the boulevard of the Tuileries and the Champs Elysee. As you trace the magnificent streets extending in every direction, lined with massive buildings, you cannot help contemplating the scenes of conflagration, rapine and blood that were enacted here in 1871, when it was captured by the Prussians, and still worse during the terrorism of the reign of the Commune, which commenced a few days after. For nearly two months the city was in the hands of a mob of 100,000 miscreants, well armed with artillery, rifles and ammunition, at a time when the Government was too weak to resist them. The very column on which we stand, which was erected by Napoleon, to commemorate the success of his arms in the German campaign of 1805, was brutally thrown down, but as it is constructed of iron, made from the guns captured in different engagements, it could not be destroyed and has since been restored.

After this, what we might call birds-eye view of Paris, we spent a day driving through the streets in order to get and locate streets, squares, &c., before commencing our sight seeing in detail. Paris is situated a little south of 49° north latitude; its area is 19,077 acres, and its population, when the census was last taken (1876), was 1,986,806. The River Seine, upon which it is built, traverses it from south-east to north-west for [illegible] miles. It is proper for me to say much to say that Paris, at this day, is the most beautiful city the world ever saw. The European events of which it has been the stage, the development of civilization to which it has conduced, the wonders of art and industry which it contains, and the peculiarities of life which it presents, all combine to make it the most interesting city on the face of the whole world continually turns.

Every great capital has a centre, a heart, the focus of life, of character, and movement. In New York, Broadway; in London, Regent Street; and in Paris, which eclipse all other centres of attraction and represent the very essence of Paris life in all its originality and piquancy. The most attractive of these Boulevards are Boulevard de la Madeline, Boulevard des Capucines, Boulevard des Italiens, Boulevard Montmartre, Boulevard Poissonniere, and Boulevard Bon Nouvelle. An afternoon and evening on one of the principal of these great streets gives a person an excellent idea of Paris and the French people. Let us stroll down the Boulevard des Italiens, and take a seat on the outside of one of the grand cafes, and watch the passing throng.

Our attention is directed to a sergent-de-ville close by, with light sword and military cap, glancing cautiously around—an eye now and then on the row of cabmen, then upon the window of the restaurant, a glance at that elegant woman in the cashmere dashing her way through the crowd, and a quick eye upon those suspicious looking individuals conversing at the corner of the street; so, with his hands carelessly fumbling his sword belt and his glances everywhere, he saunters on.

See those soldiers, in their red pantaloons, winding their way through the crowd, and as the sauntering throng, staring at everything, reading the theatre and show bills, and, no doubt, wishing they had a few francs to spend. They are new arrivals from the provinces and know little of Paris yet. A mounted guard catches their eye, and they turn short to admire his long plume of waving horse hair and his brazen helmet, as he gallops past. Fancy the stories they will have to relate when they return to the vineyards of Gascoigne.

Here comes a puffing old lady of fifty, jerking violently at a string with which she is leading a small white dog. The very red her exertions have made her face. She attracts the attention of a few roguish looking boys, and as she tries to pass through a crowd the string is cut and she has considerable trouble with her hat. Next comes a short, stout man of forty-five with a wife on one arm and a daughter on the other; he wears a beard all around his face and is rather slovenly dressed. On one side of his collar is a pin and the other down. They all three talk very loudly and we hear plentifully sprinkled the words, jolie! magnifique! un miracle! They are from the country, it being their first visit to Paris, they wonder at everything.

Following so closely that he almost raps their shoulders with his tray of images, is an Italian boy, whose face probably ripened to its pleasing brownness on the rich banks of Como. Next come three Turks with their red tasseled turbans and peculiar Oriental dress.

Sauntering past, here and there, with the easiest air in the world, and face that could not express more fierce, if felt, or show earnestness of thought or endeavor—who look as if the most trying of vexations would be eclipsed by the loss of a glove button, and the most weighty afflictions forgotten in the irremediable grief of wearing a collar out of mode, are the true Parisians; no matter whether rich or poor, the gens is the same. The dress is perfection—not extravagant or outre, but so adjusted that it seems made on them piece by piece, and they walk as if locomotion was a mere secondary purpose and the great aim to give propriety of action to the dress. So they pass the daily rounds of their lives on the Boulevards.

Occasionally another stamp is seen, who apes the last, smoking and flourishing a gold-headed cane; his coat is very well, and his boots are O. K.; but alas! his hat, poor fellow, is a month behind the mode. He must live longer in Paris; he will perfect himself in time; he is only a year from the Provinces.

The honest laborer, in a blouse, old and dirty, disturning from his daily toil, crowds past the elegantly dressed Madam who copies the dress, imitates the manners, and vies in the reckless extravagance of her rivals.

The priests glide softly by, in their long, black robes; porters jostle along with burdens on their heads; old men in threadbare coats but with gold-headed canes, pick their way slowly along; little barefooted newsboys and girls go pattering by, singing out the names of their papers, and the attractive news recorded therein—all of which is French to us.

On some of the other Boulevards a different class of people may be seen; but everywhere the same animation reigns. No place in the world can vie in gaiety with the Boulevards of Paris.

In my next letter I will ask your readers to accompany me on a night stroll through one of the principal Boulevards.

Shocking Suicide.

How Mrs. Carr Met her Death.

(From the Colborne Express.)

Again, for the third time during this summer, the fearful news of a sad and shocking suicide in our midst has flashed like electric fire through every nerve and fibre of this community. The victim is again a woman, and the deed was undoubtedly done during a temporary state of insanity. At 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon, a freight train arrived from the east, and the officers stated that, when about a mile from the station, the engine had struck and killed a woman. The fireman had seen her sitting a few feet from the track, but considering her out of harm's way, he had taken no notice of her. But, when the train was within a few feet of her, the engineer and fireman were horrified to see the lady leap up and suddenly throw herself in front of the engine. Of course it was impossible to stop, and in an instant more the iron wheels had crushed out a human life. As soon as possible the matter was reported, and the locomotive returned to the scene with Coroner Gould, and a few others, and the remains were brought back to the station. Why the top and back of it. The face and body were comparatively uninjured. Those present were unable to identify the body, but in the pocket was found a bible, on the fly leaf of which was inscribed the name of the Rev. Geo. Carr, a superannuated Methodist minister residing in East Colborne. Mr. Carr chanced to be in town, and the book was shown to him. Unable to account for the coming into the possession of the unfortunate woman, he went to the station to see the remains. Imagination itself is unable to picture the terrible horror that seized the old gentleman, when he gazed upon the ghastly sight and saw that it was none other than the wife of his bosom. Two ago Mrs. Carr was the victim of mental derangement, and for a few days previous to her death she had shown symptoms of a return of the malady. She was tenderly watched and cared for, and on Monday afternoon she was left quietly sleeping while Mr. Carr and a daughter went up town to do some business. During their absence she slipped unnoticed from the house and started for the railway, which was not far distant, and there she met her death in the manner described. Whether she made her way to the track with the deliberate intention of destroying her life, or whether the fatal act was the result of a sudden impulse conceived at the moment of the train's approach, will probably never be known, but the latter seems the more probable. Of the unfortunate lady—intellectual, acter of the deceased lady—intellectual, social and religious—it is impossible to speak too highly. All of her large circle of acquaintances respected and loved her; and, mingled with the feeling of profound grief for her loss, that pervades the entire community, is a sense of the deepest sympathy for the bereaved family in their overwhelming trouble.

The North-West.

(From the Saskatchewan Herald, Aug. 21).

Ninety-nine in the shade is what the thermometer recorded last week.

The work of putting stone foundations under the Government buildings is being rapidly pushed forward.

Notwithstanding the extreme backwardness of the spring of 1880, the damage done by the hail storm in June, the crops promise remarkably well, and harvesting operations will be but little if any later than in ordinary years. From other sections of the Territory the reports are equally encouraging.

The experiment of Mr. Levallier, who was the first to try farming at the Forks of Red Deer River, was in every way most successful. The oats, barley, and potatoes and the ordinary kinds of garden vegetables all did remarkably well, suffering neither from the effects of summer frosts nor protracted droughts, as it was generally feared they would.

The latest news from the south is that brought by Mr. Levallier, who arrived here ten days ago with a band of horses. Just before he left Cypress the mail from Wood Mountain brought word that a party of Crees and Blackfeet had slain five Sioux in retaliation for that tribe having killed some Crees early in the spring. Most of the Sioux who went south some time ago returned to Wood Mountain as soon as they had secured some meat. They are pursuing the same tactics as were followed last year, in driving the buffalo back as soon as they approach the boundary line, thus preventing them from reaching the northern plains at all. Horse-stealing is being actively practised by the Indians on both sides of the line, the raids being chiefly confined to the horses of the Indians themselves—the American Indians making a dash over to this side of the line, to be immediately followed by a retaliatory movement from this side; and this course will probably be followed all summer.

Mr. Randall Roberts, an old and experienced railway engineer in India, will make a preliminary survey of the Rapid City Souris and Rocky mountain Railway, in the interest of some English capitalists who feel disposed to take stock in the enterprise if a favorable report of it is received from Mr. Roberts.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, AUG. 27.

Free Trade in England.

The Cobden Club, in pursuance of their idea of propagating their views on this continent, as the continental nations of Europe have discarded free trade ideas, have sent a large number of copies of the Rochdale Observer of July 17th, which contains a full report of the speeches made at the annual dinner of their organization, to prominent public men and influential newspapers in the United States and Canada. The INTELLIGENCER has been favored with a copy of the journal in question, and thanks are hereby returned for the attention. According to the speeches made by the Earl of Spencer, Mr. Baxter, M. P., and other prominent gentlemen at the free trade festival, the reader might be led to imagine that all was well in England, and that only such nations as had rejected the delectable theory presented by the disciples of Mr. Cobden were otherwise than prosperous. Such a belief, every one knows, would be erroneous in the extreme, as France was never so prosperous as now, [illegible] whilst other nations are following her example, and with similarly beneficial results. But the same issue of the Rochdale paper which glorifies the memory of the late Mr. Cobden by fully reporting the annual gathering of the Club which has been formed to carry out his ideas, contains in its editorial columns a complete refutation of the ideas which found expression at the meeting. It says:

"Heigho, poor Rachdale!" sighs an old weaver, mourning for the good old times. And in truth a sad contrast would strike any one now who had left Rochdale some twenty [illegible] and that at an almost fabulous rate. Over-production was not invented, depression was unheard of, and short time would have been thought a joke. There was then no doubt about margin, for profits were evidently only limited by the rate of production. Men who began with nothing soon made a competency; those who had moderate means quickly amassed great wealth. Within a short lifetime the town had altered wonderfully; mills and works were quickly built, extended and multiplied—not by "company money," for in those days limiteds were unknown, but by money made in the business. And with what fulness and vigor the pulse of business beat then. Every factory seemed in fear of not turning work out as fast as it was wanted. There was an eager, earnest energy in our very streets, a steady thriving among all classes of our townspeople. What a change now! How these lean years have eaten up those fat years. There has been little factory building or extending in our town lately; in place of increasing we see mills standing altogether or running short time, or "slack set-up," "waiting for weft," part of the machinery idle, and production crippled as much as possible. The downfall of old Rochdale firms, the decline in wages, the increase of pauperism, the failures, among tradesmen of all classes, the great quantity of property standing empty—all point one way. "The times are out of joint" with a vengeance, and the wage disputes do not mend matters. In trades like cotton and iron one might expect this, but even the old fashioned, steady woollen industry is upset, and out-of-the-way, quiet Wardle is the scene of a struggle for which levies are made from Newbury Bank worth Moor, from Blackstone Edge to Cateleton. What will be the end of these things? So far there seems little chance of the good weather for harvest, without which there can be no good home trade. In woollen, which depends principally on the home demand, and which ought now to be at its busiest, it is agreed that so dull a June and July have scarcely ever been known. Within the last few weeks a firm sold out the machinery from their mills, giving up carding and spinning in order to buy continental yarns; and now the largest of our flannel mills are being put on short time.

We leave it to the Cobden Club and their friends in Canada, to explain the benefit of a policy under which such a condition of things as is above candidly stated and which is shared in by numerous other trades besides the cotton and woollen trade of Rochdale and neighborhood has arisen. We have had enough of it in Canada at all events, and our people do not desire to repeat the bitter experience of the past.

THE TORONTO SCANDAL.—A Toronto despatch says:—"There is still a great deal of talk about the M. P. resident in Toronto who is trying to provoke his wife to apply for a divorce, in order that he may marry the fascinating widow of a legal gentleman, at one time resident of Woodstock, with whom he is, and has been for some time infatuated. It seems that the too fascinating widow was even taken down to Ottawa during last session by the too fascinated M. P. There is great indignation in the M. P. constituency, and many declare that he should be asked to resign the position he has just disgraced. Who is the M. P.?

Political Notes.

THE ALLEGED TARIFF "ROBBERY."

The Toronto Sentinel hits the nail squarely on the head when it says:—"Mr. Blake raises his hands in holy horror at the tariff, and tells the people that they are being robbed, when the facts go to show that it is barely proving a revenue tariff. If he were in power to-morrow, his Government would have to raise every dollar the present Government has raised, and more. And how would he do it? The people would like to know. We are aware that the mode of obtaining the revenue may be materially changed. A tariff could be made that would operate against home interests, and yet supply the desired funds, so long as the people's power to pay did not become altogether impaired. Or, to make things freer and simpler still, the Government might put its hand in the people's pockets and take what it required by direct taxation. But we believe that the good sense of our people will insist that the revenue be raised—not with a view to revenue only, but that it be levied in such a way as to encourage and build up the industries of Canada."

CHARLATANISM.

Messrs. Blake and Mackenzie and their organs have a rather difficult and delicate task on hand just now. They are fighting against the N. P. in West Toronto and North Ontario, and in the one they find it necessary to endeavour to convince the workingman that he is ruined by the alleged increased price of bread, meats, and other farm produce caused by the N. P.; whilst in the other case they have to tell the farmer that the prices of his grain, cattle, everything in fact that he has to sell, have been ruinously lowered by the same agency which increased the cost of those articles to the workingman. Truly demagogism was never better exemplified than by the leaders of the Opposition and their journalistic supporters, who are rapidly making themselves ridiculous in the estimation of all people outside of the lunatic asylums.

A GOOD POINT.

Sir Leonard Tilley made a good point against the Grits in his speech in Toronto on Tuesday night. He pointed out that in the Cape Breton election last year the Opposition favored the election of a candidate whose platform was the increase of the duty on coal to 75 cents per ton, it being then 50 cts. per ton on soft coal; but that was in Nova Scotia, in the very heart of the coal country. Now, in Ontario, they support the men who demand the total abolition of the coal duty, which they rail against as a robbery of the poor man. Such consistency is admirably characteristic of the party, which is determined to be "again the Government any way."

The demand is already great, and it is expected that a number will shortly leave for their new homes.

THE U. S. COTTON CROP.—Edward Atkinson, a leading American economical writer and statistician, states that this season's cotton crop will exceed 6,000,000 bales, being 25 per cent, larger than the largest crop ever raised in the days of slavery. In addition to the supply of this staple afforded the manufacturers, 3,000,000 tons of cotton seed will be produced, which will yield 90,000,000 gallons of oil, 1,300,000 tons of oil-cake, and 1,500,000 tons of hulls for paper-making. As each ton of oil-seed meal will keep five sheep six months the success of the cotton crop gives a stimulus to the corresponding industry of wool-growing. These figures go to show that the social condition of the South is by no means so unsatisfactory as some of the stalwart Republican journals wish to make out.

Camp Notes.

After the inspection was concluded, the Companies were mustered by the Deputy Adjutant General, tents were struck, and the regiment proceeded home by steamer.

The staff and visitors from the city were entertained at lunch in the officers' mess tent. At the conclusion of the lunch Col. Lazier proposed the health of the Deputy Adjutant General Col. Straubenzie, and staff of the District, with a few complimentary remarks.

Lt. Col. Straubenzie replied in appropriate terms.

Major Henderson proposed the health of Lt. Col. Ketcheson, paying a high compliment to the old veterans who did duty in the perilous times of 1812 and 1837.

Col. Ketcheson responded, giving an account of the hardships endured by the Volunteers of 1812.

Major General Luard, after inspecting the Companies at Company drill, called Capt Simpson one side, and spoke in highly complimentary terms of the cleanliness and fine appearance of his men.

While some of the officers were referring to the remarks made by Major Gen. Luard, Col. Straubenzie took occasion to say that the 15th Battalion presented a much better appearance on parade, and was far more efficient in drill than last year.

HOME FROM CAMP.

The intention that the 15th Battalion should remain in camp until this morning was not carried out, the battalion returning to town yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The regiment proceeded up Front Street to and around Brown's foundry, and down street again to their armory on Bridge Street. The band played finely, the marching of the men was highly creditable, considering the short time they had been under instruction, and the general appearance of the battalion was favorably commented upon by the spectators. Before separating, Lieut.-Col. Lazier addressed a few words to his command, complimenting them on their conduct in camp. After cheers had been given for the Queen, and for the officers, the men filed into the armory and returned their arms and accoutrements, and the annual drill for 1880 was at an end.

Tweed Correspondence.

On Wednesday, the 25th inst.. the barn and sheds belonging to Denis Bergoin were burned. Mr. Bergoin had a thrashing machine, and it is supposed some of the men employed at the work had been smoking, and a spark from a pipe caused the fire. He has lost everything around the barn, a democrat, waggon, sleighs, grain and hay. Mr. Xavier Ocain has sustained a great loss by the burning up of his machine and waggon. The hands employed did all in their power to save the property but the stuff was of such an inflammable nature that nothing was saved. No insurance.

The country north and east of Tweed seems to be all in flames, as we are completely enveloped in smoke. Everything in the county is powder dry. People should be very cautious about putting out fire just now or at any time during a drought, as the penalty is heavy if any damage is done to their neighbor's property.

It is reported that Sarah Grand, daughter of John [illegible] dead near Marmora. She was married some two or three years ago, but did not live with her husband and has been wandering about from place to place.

Sporting Notes.

Some of the Kingston amateur scullers are talking of rowing matches for money stakes. If they wish to remain amateurs they must forego any such idea, as the moment a man rows for money he becomes a professional, or should any one row against a professional he thereby loses his status as an amateur, according to the laws of the Amateur Rowing Association. If we are credibly informed Mr. Coulson, the Kingston oarsman, is a professional, having at various times rowed for money. Mr. Eilbeck and others who have contested with him have already thoughtlessly forfeited the right to row as amateurs.

The chief event at the Providence Caledonian games was the wrestling match between Ross, the Scottish champion, and Daly, the Irish champion of Boston. The contest was held on the lake on board a craft used in the presentation of "Pinafore." Each contestant had won a fall. The third contest was catch as catch can, Scotch style, and after brief skirmishing both men struggled over the edge of the boat, and sank beneath the surface of the water. Both appeared in a few seconds, and as Ross reached the plank thrust out to save him, Daly caught him by the foot. Ross struck him violently in the face, and Daly retaliated with vigor. Daly sustained an injury to his leg which prevented his return to the carpet. The referee refused to make any decision, and the contest was postponed.

The yacht Emma, of Kingston, is being fitted out for the Toronto and Charlotte Regatta. It is not settled as yet whether or not any of the local fleet will take part in the races at lake ports.

The smart little five ton yacht Magic of Oswego, built by Mr. W. S. Drewry, of this city, was sold by auction on Tuesday for $55. Mr. Charles Wardell was the purchaser.

In the cricket match at Picton on Wednesday, the Napanee Club scored 55 and 56, whilst the Picton Club made 70 and 42, the latter for six wickets.

A CHOLERA-STRICKEN DISTRICT.—A despatch from St. Petersburg states that the hospitals at Saratoff, the capital and principal town of the Russian Government of the same name situated on the Volga, are crowded with cholera patients. The disease is raging fearfully among both the garrison and the people.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES IN IRELAND.—Precautions are being taken against expected resistance to evictions in the west of Ireland. Iron huts for the police are in course of construction near Glarenorris, in the county of Mayo, and other places where trouble is thought likely to occur.

AFGHANISTAN.

Large Accessions to Ayoob Khan's Forces.

100,000 Men Round Candahar

The Lincof General Roberts' Advance Devastated.

LONDON, Aug. 26.

The news from Afghanistan is creating a fresh and profound sensation. Private telegrams received from Quettah and Bombay bring intelligence which more than justifies the worst interpretations put upon the mixed and contradictory despatches received through official sources. It appears that Ayoub Khan's forces have been tremendously strengthened, and the valleys around the besieged City of Candahar are teeming with warriors. It is estimated that Ayub has assembled not less than 100,000 followers, most of whom are well armed. The appearance of this host is as though the whole country had risen at a signal and gathered to make certain the overthrow of Candahar and the annihilation of the English garrison and its native allies.

HARASSING GEN. ROBERTS' ADVANCE.

Friendly runners and spies have brought news to Quettah that Ayoub's cavalry has desolated the line of Gen. Roberts' advance by burning the grass, which offered the only provender for his animals,—while another body is continually worrying his flank by making attacks from wayside positions, where the advantage is wholly with the Afghans, and where they can inflict serious loss while not suffering themselves. These continual harassments have weakened the relieving column to a considerable degree, and greatly demoralized and discouraged the troops. It is doubtful whether Gen. Roberts will reach Candahar at all in condition to aid in its defence. With the best of fortune he has at least three or four weeks additional marching before him, and it can scarcely be successfully made in the face of the difficulties and opposition which are now thickening about him.

THE RELIEVING COLUMN ENGAGED WITH THE ENEMY.

A later despatch from Simla states that a pitched battle had taken place between Gen. Roberts' column and a large Afghan detachment at Gunjigar, a point between Khelat-i-Ghilzai and Candahar. Ayoub Khan's action in interrupting General Roberts' approach is said to have been most energetic, displaying much skill and a perfect knowledge of the topography of the country. In Government circles little is thought of this news, but it has received intelligence of a depressing nature the details are held back, awaiting confirmation. At Candahar the Afghan artillery is said to be more effectively served than at the beginning of the siege, and Russian officers are declared to have been detected incog directing the operations.

NANA SAHIB CAPTURED.

A despatch from Candahar states that Nana Sahib has been captured by native cavalry. As far as is ascertainable he has been identified by some old Cawnporers, who were well acquainted with him.

Abram VonSlaricom, while sleeping with a friend at Patterson on Wednesday night, arose in a somnambulistic state and went to the roof, where he fell to the ground and was fatally injured.

A young lady, who registered on the steamship Arizona under the assumed name of Kate B. Caulfield, and who jumped overboard and was drowned in the Irish Channel, proves to be Miss Addie Clark, a daughter of a wealthy New York merchant. She has been suffering from religious mania, and Aug. 17th, sailed for Europe without the family knowledge.

POLICE.—One arrest was made last night and one tramp was lodged in the cells.

LAID UP.—The steamer Annie Gilbert has been laid up for the season.

STREET PREACHING.—Religious services, which were largely attended, were held on the market square last night.

RAIN.—Bountiful showers, which will be of great benefit to the country, fell this morning. The volunteers were lucky in getting home as they did last night.

THE THOUSAND ISLANDS.—The steamer Varuna will leave here at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, on her last trip of the season to the Thousand Islands.

TO-MORROW'S EXCURSION.—The excursion on the Alexandra is for the benefit of the Home for the Friendless. All who are well-wishers of this excellent institution ought to patronize the excursion.

THE SANDBANKS.—The Picton Times says:—"Owing to financial difficulties the Lake Shore House at the Sandbanks has been closed and the furniture sold. This is to be regretted as it was rapidly coming into fame as a summer resort. We hope to see it re-opened next season."

BUSH FIRE.—The western sky was partly reddened by the reflection of the bush fire in Sidney last night. So far, but little damage has been done by the fire, which was largely fed by rubbish which accumulated during the cutting of the large drain two years ago. It is to be hoped, however, that this morning's rain extinguished the flames.

THE DOMINION EXHIBITION.—The reader's attention is called to the advertisement of the Dominion Exhibition, which takes place at Montreal next month. Evidently the Montrealers are going to have a big time, and are determined to outstrip anything of the kind that has been held in Canada. There will be cheap trips by railway and steamer during the holding of the exhibition, and no doubt hundreds will go from this section of the country.

THE FINANCE MINISTER'S VISIT.—The programme for the visit of Sir Leonard Tilley to the County of Prince Edward is thus sketched by the Picton Gazette:—"Will arrive at Picton on Saturday, Aug. 28th, at 3 p. m., by the P. E. Railroad, be met there by a deputation, and escorted to the Town Hall, where addresses of welcome will be delivered. In the evening, at 8 o'clock, Sir Leonard will deliver an address in the town hall. On Monday forenoon, Aug. 30th, will visit the extensive manufacturing establishment and flouring mills of J. C. Wilson, Esq., and the manufacturing industries of Picton, leaving the latter place for Milford at 1 p. m., arriving there at 2 o'clock, when he will deliver an address. On Tuesday, August 31st, will leave Picton at 10 a.m. to attend a harvest home pic-nic at the Sandbanks, calling at Bloomfield for the purpose of examining the manufacturing establishments there, where he will receive an address. The contemplated trip to North Marysburg, Sophiasburg, Wellington and Consecon, is unavoidably postponed in consequence of important public business requiring Sir Leonard's presence at the Capital on Wednesday morning."

CRICKET.—The return match between the Napanee and Belleville clubs will probably be played here on Monday.

RAILWAY SIDING.—The rails for the siding to Downey & Preston's elevator have been laid down and ballasting was going on to-day.

VISITORS.—The Armenia brought an excursion from Picton for Massassaga Point this morning, but as the rain had rendered the grounds too damp, the excursionists did not land there. Some of them came to Belleville and the rest proceeded to Trenton.

CHEESE SALE.—The Hungerford cheese factory has made sale of their July, and balance of this season's make of cheese to Thos. Watkins at 12½c per lb., less 112 boxes July make already sold. The factory is making on an average over twelve cheeses per day, and have on hand over 500 boxes. The shrinkage of milk at the factory amounts to about 25 per cent.

COLLISION.—Whilst Mr. John Rowe's phaeton, was standing at the corner of Front and Bridge Street, yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, a waggon driven by a young man whose attention was absorbed by the passage of the military up street, collided with Mr. Rowe's vehicle one wheel of which collapsed.

RAILWAY MISHAP.—The train from Hastings did not arrive until after 7 o'clock yesterday evening, the engine which hauled it having broken down at Campbellford, although it came out of the shop after being repaired but the day before. There being no other locomotive to be had, that which runs the Madoc train was sent out and arrived here as stated. The train for Madoc was despatched at about 8 o'clock.

HOTEL KEEPERS and other would do well to examine Jas. Hennessy's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offered at 25 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessy.

The Kingston News says: "The prop. Indian went ashore at Hay Bay on Saturday night, and was pulled off by Captain Donnelly with the Chieftain on Monday morning without trouble or damage. It is said that the wheelsman was asleep at the time of the accident, and knew nothing about being aground until he was awakened by one of the hands after the shock."

Trenton Notes.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Mr. James Allen is building a fine residence on the Belleville road, East Trenton, which, when finished, will be quite an ornament to the locality.

The Presbyterian excursion per steamer Varuna this morning was well patronized, and the proceeds which will be devoted to the building fund, were quite large, considering the size of the boat.

The man Winden who was severely hurt at Gilmore's mill yesterday, is said to be out of danger.

This afternoon Gilmour & Co's. extensive pasture field near the G. T. R. station was fired by a spark from a passing engine, and the grass being very dry and long, the whole pasture was entirely consumed.

A NEW FUEL.—A new kind of fuel is being used for steamships and locomotives in Russia It consists of the fluid refuse of petroleum, which after being blown into a spray by means of a jet of steam from the boiler is ignited inside the furnace and burns with a roaring sheet of flame. It is claimed that this mode of combustion has advantges over a coal fire, as it requires no stoking, and the flame can be regulated like a gas jet and the steam pressure easily kept up to the degree required. This fuel has been tried with great success on the swift Russian steamer Gazrewitch, on the Caspian sea, and will be adopted on the Tiflis, Baku railway and other Central Asian lines. The immense quantity of petroleum wasteon this continent might be profitably utilized in the same manner.

GRAND TRUNK RECEIPTS.—The total traffic receipts for the week ended August 21st were $201,626, as compared with $165,016 for the corresponding week in 1879. Increase in 1880, $36,610. Aggregate increase for 34 weeks, $1,279,112.

SELKIRK.—The recent dissensions in the Liberal conservative party in Selkirk have been removed, and it now presents a united front with Captain Scott, M. P. P., as its standard-bearer.

THE LATE JAMES ALLAN.—A cable despatch of the 27th inst., announced the death, on the 25th inst., at the age of 73 years, of Mr. James Allan, senior member of the shipping firm of Messrs. H. and A. Allan of Montreal. The Witness says: The deceased was the eldest son of the late Alexander Allan, founder of the line of mail steamers and ships whose name is so familiar wherever ocean traffic is known. He was the eldest brother of Sir Hugh Allan who is the second son. Born in Glasgow, he went to sea at the age of fourteen on one of his father's ships sailing between Greenock and this port. He made his last voyage in 1839, his father having by that time built up a business which promised to increase very extensively and which required him to leave the sea. In 1849 Mr. Allan established the firm of James and Alexander Allan, which continued till his death. Although for convenience carried on in Glasgow, London, Liverpool, Montreal, and other cities under different names they were always understood to be associated. Mr. Allan was one of the original promoters of the deepening of the River Clyde, to admit vessels of large tonnage up to Glasgow. He was many years a member of the Board of Clyde Trustees and in that capacity did much for the shipping commerce of his native city and by that means indirectly of Montreal. The deceased gentleman confined himself through life strictly to shipping matters, avoiding politics and anything that might draw his attention from the one object of his life. It is needless to say he amassed an immense fortune. He was a member of the United Presbyterian Church. His death is supposed to have been rather sudden. Some two years since he had an attack of paralysis, but no fatal result was anticipated. He died at his summer residence, "Skermorlie," thirty-five miles from Glasgow. The deceased had been eight years a widower; he leaves eight children, four sons and four daughters.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

CHEESE.—Cheese cable is still rising. Holders in Montreal are asking 13c.

Hogs are scarce in Montreal and have advanced to 6c to 6¼c per lb.

THE LUMBER TRADE.—The Pembroke Standard says;—"A cable.cam just received in town from Scotland states that the joint stock company which has been forming in Great Britain for the purpose of purchasing limits and controlling the lumber market has just been formed, and that it has now the control of Messrs. Cook & Grant's limits. This is the beginning of a gigantic scheme which will throw a large amount of British capital into this country."

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Aug 27.—A deputation of the Land League, composed of Brennan, Redpath and Boynton, had an interview with Parnell and other Irish members of the Commons last evening on the subject of the conduct of the land agitation in Ireland during the Parliamentary sitting.

The House remained in continuous session all night until 1 o'clock this morning.

The Marquis of Hartington repeatedly urged that the Irish members proceed to consideration on the vote of supply, assuring them that they much mistake if they have thought to wring pledges from the Government by obstructing supply, but the discussion was kept up.

A motion to report progress was negatived 142 to 99.

O'Donohue moved an adjournment, which was also negatived.

At 4:16 Parnell renewed the motion. The Marquis of Harbington objected. He said the vote for the Irish constabulary had been down for three nights. The Irish members, instead of proceeding with it, had raised a discussion on other matters.

At five a. m. Sullivan spoke in justification of the procedure of the Irish members for nearly an hour.

Parnell again suggested an adjournment and absolved himself from all blame for the present state of affairs which, he said, is the result of Lord Harkington's headstrong course.

At 12:30 p. m. Hartington accepted the proposal of Parnell, that the other Irish estimates should be voted to-night, and the constabulary estimates on Monday.

The House adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

BOMBAY, Aug. 27.—Despatches discussing news of a dangerous state of affairs at Cabul, says this is an early but striking proof of the impolicy of the hasty withdrawal of our force from Cabul. The step is most strongly denounced by nearly every military man in India and has created great excitement. The cholera raging at Peshawur daily increases. The certainty of severe losses among the retiring troops was one of the reasons most strongly urged against the withdrawal during the hottest and most unhealthy portion of the year.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: Lakes, south-easterly to south-westerly winds, partly cloudy to cloudy warmer weather, with local rains.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Indications: lower lakes, stationary or higher temperature, partly cloudy, with local rains in eastern portion.

Facts and Figures.

The present is the twenty-fourth Presidential election since the organization of the government.

The wheat acreage along the Northern Pacific Railroad is about 10,000,000, against 6,000,000 last year.

There are 6,000 fugitives from justice in Texas, 1,000 of whom have had the misfortune to commit murder.

The French revenue of $600,000,000 is asserted to be the largest ever received from a population of thirty-six millions.

Although paper collars have to a great extent gone out of use within the last ten years, 200,000,000 of them are now manufactured annually.

A well-informed gentleman estimates that the consmption of beans in Boston is about 200 barrels per week, or about 10,000 barrels per year.

The annual potato crop of the United States is estimated at nearly 200,0000,000 bushels, of which New York State alone furnishes 25,000,000 bushels.

Fifteen years ago Chicago merchants obtained their supplies of cheese from the East; now 100,000,000 pounds pass through that city from the West for New York.

There are in France 35,337,903 Roman Catholics, 467,531 Calvinists, 80,117 Lutherans, 33,119 other Protestants, 50,000 Jews, and 90,000 persons who cannot be religiously classed.

There are now eighty-five Episcopal churches and chapels in New York city, and the number has doubled in the last twenty-five years. There are 24,000 children in Sunday schools.

It is stated that the inhabitants of London consume annually 16,000,000 bushels of wheat, 400,000, oxen, 1,500,000 sheep, 130,000 calves, 250,000 pigs, 8,000,000 head of poultry and game, and 40,000,000 pounds fish.

During the last eighteen years there were 885 marriages of divorced persons in England. In 404 cases the man was a divorced man; in 405 the woman a divorced woman; and in the remaining 16 marriages divorced men married divorced women.

The official reports furnished to the Italian Minister of War show that on the 1st of April this year the Italian army consisted of 218,210 men, of whom 183,210 were infantry of the line, 29,290 mountain corps and Bersaglieri, 22,177 cavalry, and 22,530 infantry.

There are seventeen persons, living within a few squares of each other, on Fifth avenue in New York, who are worth jointly $348,000,000. Vanderbilt, with $100,000,000, heads the list, and some unknown fellows not worth more than $5,000,000 each, close it.

The province of Buenos Ayres counts 4,000,000 sheep, of which 13,000,000 belong to Irish settlers, within a day's ride of the city. These flocks will suffice if necessary to feed the national Government army for many years, without counting 6,000,000 cows, which belong mostly to natives.

The increase of crops in the United States, in 1879, over those of the preceding year, is reported by the Agricultural Department to have amounted to 415,000,000, owing to the unusually heavy crops and the great increase of the area cultivated. A greater area than that of 1879 is now under cultivation, and the promise for heavy crops is so far good.

Statistics relating to emigration from Germany have been recently submitted to the German Parliament. The numbers of emigrants during the past eight years are given as follows: 1872, 125,650; 1873, 103,638; 1874, 45,112; 1875, 30,773; 1876, 28,368; 1877, 11,864; 1878, 14,217; 1879, 22,327. Important as was the increase marked by last year, as compared with the years immediately preceding, the numbers given for the two years following the Franco-German war have never since been anything like reached. The 33,327 registered for 1879 consisted of 20,106 males and 13,221 females. No less than 21,150 were from Prussia. North America was the goal of 30,808, Brazil of 1,830, and Australia of 274.

It may not be fair to tell tales out of school, but it is a fact nevertheless, that the young ladies of Vassar College consumed, the past year, 80,354 pounds of fresh meat, 5672 pounds of smoked meat, 4032 pounds of poultry, 6132 pounds of fresh fish, 1872 pounds of salt fish, 5 barrels of mackerel, 25,800 clams, 442 gallons of oysters, 5 brls. of pork, 632 pounds of sausage, 255 barrels of flour, 2024 pounds of buckwheat, 8400 dozen of eggs, 14,740 lbs. of butter, 93,602 quarts of milk, 25,216 pounds of sugar, 13,346 lemons, 22,611 oranges, 2000 bushels of potatoes, 468 gallons of molasses, and 1382 gallons of vinegar. The dear creatures may be both lovely and divine, but that they are not ethereal, we think the articles of consumption will be sufficient proof.

The opinion, quite generally entertained, that London is one of the few large British cities which grow rapidly, is very erroneous, as the figures plainly show. It is nearly eight years since the last census, and the Registrar-General consequently supplies various estimates, annually, of the population of the principal towns, founded on the ratio of increase between 1861 and 1871, in order to form a basis for calculation of yearly rates. From this it appears that London now contains 3,620,868, an increase since 1871 of 367,608; Liverpool, 538,338, an increase of 44,933; Manchester, 361,819, an increase of 10,630; Leeds, 311,860, an increase of 52,648; Sheffield, 297,138, an increase of 57,192; Bristol, 209,947 an increase of 27,395; Bradford, 191,045, an increase of 45,216; Hull, 146,347, an increase of 24,455; Salford, 177,849, an increase of 43,048; Newcastle, 146,948, an increase of 18,505; Portsmouth, 131,821, an increase of 18,262; Leicester, 125,622, an increase of 30,402; Sunderland, 115,575, an increase of 26,333; Oldham, 111,218, an increase of 26,689. Sondon is equal to 18 of the largest cities; Liverpool and Glasgow are very near one another in population, the latter having 39,818 more people than the former. The density of population varies greatly in the leading towns. For example, it is 11.4 in Norwich; Newcastle, 27.4; Sunderland, 41.4; London, 48.0; Manchester, 84.3; and Liverpool, 103.3, per acre. Many of the small uncommercial towns of Great Britain are stationary, and others slowly decline.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

The Exodus Fable.

The extravagant announcement that has been made do duty in the Grit prints for some time past that 77,079 Canadians left Port Sarnia during the year ending on the 30th of June, is effectually disposed of by the Essex Recorder. Any one reading the figures must be struck with the preciseness of the enumeration, which is too much so however, and therefore defeats the object in view. Why not place it in round numbers as 77,080 who have gone over to settle, and have done with it? It would have been only one more added to the lie and would have appeared much more plausible. The Record says:—"We have spoken to the American Consul, Mr. Jenks, who is a gentleman of as much precision and observation as is Mr. Pace, at Port Sarnia, and he tells us American Consuls have no means of ascertaining such statistics. A man may go from Windsor to Detroit to buy a basket of peaches, or he may go there to become a citizen, and American Consuls have no means of knowing which. Their Government exacts no such information, and why Mr. Pace should have hit upon 77,079 to tickle the risibility of Grit prints is a matter of curiosity to us. Why not as well say the number was 77,090½ or 77,079 and a bull dog, as the number quoted, when it would furnish the Grit prints with a better poison for the N. P.? We are aware a large number cross at that point annually for Michigan, but a large percentage of that number goes over in the fall for a winter's lumbering in that State. Why does not the smart Consul at that point give the Grit prints the lean as well as the fat, and tell them of the number who returned, if he knows so much about the business.

"If, however, our Grit neighbors desired as much to give stubborn facts as he does to give Reform fancies, why did he not go to the Customs collector at this point, as we have done, and learn that for the year ending 30th June, 1870, 664 Americans came from the States through Windsor alone, for actual settlement in this country, and that 118 more arrived since the last mentioned date. Our contemporary also learns that it is the best opinion of the Customs collector that the number of immigrants is considerably in excess of that of the emigrants."

The Hop Bitters Manufacturing Company is one of Rochester's greatest buisness enterprises. Their Hop Bitters have reached a sale beyond all precedent, having from their intrinsic value found their way into almost every household in the land.—Graphic.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a common which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

CONSUMPTION
CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anaemia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D.. Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878,
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and it is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Ancemia, Intermitten Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

RAVENNA, MERCER CO., MISSOURI, May, 1879.
THE FELLOWS MEDICAL MANUFACTURING Co.
GENTS,—We have used your Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in our practice, and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague, intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption or Anemia or General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epcleptic Fits

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR,—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has cured me of my fits, which I have been afflicted with six years with a number of diseases but long difficulty was the result. I commenced to use it under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was concerned to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I can now safely say to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

THE CHILDREN.

POEM ROUND IN THE DENS OF CHARLES DICKENS, AFTER HIS DEATH.

When lessons and tasks are all ended,
And the school for the day dismissed,
And the little ones gather around me
To bid me "good night" and be kissed,
O the little white arms that encircle
My neck in a tender embrace!
O the smiles that are halos of heaven,
Shedding sunshine and love on my face!

And when they are gone I sit dreaming
Of my childhood, too lovely to last;
Of love that my heart will remember
When it wakes to the pulse of the past.
Ere the world and its wickedness made me
A partner of sorrow and sin,
When the glory of God was about me,
And the glory of gladness within.

O my heart grows weak as a woman's,
And the fountain of feeling will flow,
When I think of the past as a blessing,
Where the feet of the dear ones must go;
Of the mountains of sin hanging o'er them,
Of the arrows that may be flying wild—
O there's nothing on earth half so holy
As the innocent heart of a child.

They are idols of hearts and of household,
They are angels of God in disguise—
His sunlight still sleeps in their tresses,
His glory still beams from their eyes—
O those truants from earth and from heaven,
They have taught me more of God and wild,
And I know now how Jesus could liken
The kingdom of God to a child.

Seek not a life for the dear ones
All radiant as others have done,
But that life may have just as much shadow
To temper the glare of the sun.
I would pray God to guard them from evil,
But my prayer would bound back to myself,
Ah! a seraph may pray for a sinner,
But a sinner must pray for himself.

The twig is so easily bended,
I have bended them often with the rod;
I have taught them the goodness of knowledge,
They have taught me the goodness of God.
My heart is a dungeon of darkness,
Where I shut them for breaking a rule;
My frown is sufficient correction,
My love is the law of the school.

I shall leave the old house in the autumn,
To traverse the threshold no more;
And how I shall sigh for the dear ones
That meet me each morn at the door.
I shall miss the "good nights" and the kisses,
And the gush of their innocent glee,
The group on the green, and the flowers
That are brought every morning to me.

I shall miss them at morn and at eve,
Their song in the school and the street;
I shall miss the low hum of their voices,
And the tramp of their delicate feet.
When the lessons and tasks are all ended,
And Death says the school is dismissed,
May the little ones gather around me,
And bid me "good-night" and be kissed.

Sunday Reading.

The Christian Motive.

Nothing is so imperfect, nothing, indeed, is so intolerable, as to act from a low and unsatisfactory motive. It is like a boat at sea with the best compass in the world on board, but neither oars nor sails. The boat is helpless. It tells its story; there is no doubt which way we ought to sail; but there we lie, tossing up and down, without progress, or further from the right spot than that on which we float. Along with the revelation of the Divine pattern in Christ finding its echo in the people's selves to whom He spoke, there must have existed some motive, some stimulus to follow and attain the pattern which he set; and that, it the more we read the Gospels, it grows evident to us was put into us simply and just as peculiarly His own as was the setting up of the pattern. The motive, too, was who'ly personal, and was all based upon man's finiliness. It was partly fear, solely the elevation to the highest power of that same force which, in the human family, causes the father's life to be regulated by the child's. We call it love; but we must remember that full love always has two elements and we must be sure that we keep both of them in our own thought when we speak of the power by which the human life is shaped into the image of the Divine. Love is at once admiration and affection. We often separate the two. We talk of loving some poor creature in whom there is nothing admirable. We talk of loving some cold statute which makes no appeal to our affection. But really these are only mangled parts of love. True love, complete love, finely combines a pure unselfish perception of the essential quality of a character with a warm personal gratitude for what that character bestows upon us. The perception of absolute quality saves it from foolish fondness, and the gratitude rescues it from being the mere brilliant beam of the connoisseur. It is love like this which makes the powers of Christian morals. Look, for instance, at the great event in which the whole life and work of the Saviour found its completion. I mean His crucifixion I do not speak now of the essential mystery which is in that wonderful event. It count blots the darkness and whirlwind the two men, both of whom try to climate and scatter the mysteriousness of the cross of Christ, one of them by saying that it was no peculiar and special sacrifice in that strange and single death, the other by dissecting its power into its elements and trying to account for all its force. I know that the death of the beggar, the death of the baby, has in it a mystery of force which no wise man can comprehend. I know that He who has made us and who knows all the beggar's, and yet infinitely deeper, vaster, must have had a mystery in his death over which eternity shall keep watch, handling its treasure, and giving them forth to the eternally ripening soul as it shall need and shall be able to receive them. But he who tells me that he will not rest until he has the mystery of the death of Jesus, shuts my ears with his very office. I will not let him tear from me the mystery of the love which no hand can fasten as it slowly brightens to the full morning. And so it is not of the essential mystery of Christ's powerful death, but of its immediate moral power that I speak. It is the great renewing spectacle of human life. When men look at it, there comes up out of their hearts the pattern of divinity which is there, their sonship to the Holy One; and to attain that holiness, to realize it perfectly, becomes the passion of their lives. And it is love for the Sufferer which makes that passion—love with its two perfect elements perfectly combined. It is admiration for what He is doing, the unselfishness, the heroism, the godlike patience. And it is gratitude because He is doing it for us. It is these two that blend into the passionate devotion with which a man in the great phrase of the Gospels, "follows after Christ"—seeks, that is, with his own essential sonship, to realize in himself the sonship of the Son of God.

What is the Bible Like?

It is like a large beautiful tree, which bears sweet fruit for those who are hungry, and affords shelter and shade to pilgrims on their way to the kingdom of heaven.

It is like a cabinet of jewels and precious stones, which are not only to be looked at and admired, but used and worn.

It is like a telescope that brings distant objects and far-off things of the world very near so that we can see something of their beauty and importance.

It is like a treasure-house, a store-house for all sorts of valuable and useful things, and which are to be had without money and without price.

It is like a deep, broad, calm-flowing river, the banks of which are green and flowery, where birds sing and lambs play, and dear little children are loving and happy.

Wise Words.

For God has marked each sorrowing day,
And numbered every secret tear,
And heaven's long years of bliss shall pay
For all his children suffer here.

The Powers of a Hymn.

In one of the hospitals of Edinburgh lay a wounded Scottish soldier. The surgeons had done all they could for him. He had been told that he must die. He had a contempt for death, and prided himself for his fearlessness in facing it.

A rough and wicked life with none but evil associates, had blunted his sensibilities, and made profanity and scorn his second nature. To hear him speak one would have thought he had not loosely nurtured childhood to remember, and that he had never looked upon religion but to despise it. But it was not so.

A noble and gentle hearted man came to see the dying soldier. He addressed him with kind enquiries, talked to him tenderly of the life beyond death, and offered spiritattention or prayer. He bluntly told him that he did not want any religious conversation.

"You will let me pray with you, will you not?" said the man.

"No; I know how to die without the help of religion." And he turned his face to the wall.

Further conversation could do no good, and the man did not attempt it. But he was not discouraged. After a moment's silence, he began to sing the old hymn, so familiar and so dear to every congregation in Scotland:—

"O, mother dear, Jerusalem,
When shall I come to thee?"

He had a pleasant voice, and the words and melody were sweet and tender as he sung them. Pretty soon the soldier turned his face again. But its hardened expression was all gone.

"Who taught you that?" he asked when the hymn was done.

"My mother."

"So did mine. I learned that of her when I was a little child, and I used to sing it with her." And there were tears in the man eyes.

The ice was thawed away. It was easy to talk with him now. The words of Jesus entered in where the hymn had opened the door. Weeping, and with a hungry heart, he listened to the Christian's thoughts of death, and in his last moments, to his mother's God and the sinner's friend.

To do Increases the Capacity of Doing.

People are always saying to themselves, "I would do this, and I would do that, if I had leisure." Now, there is no condition in which the chance of doing any good is less than in the condition of leisure. The man fully employed may be able to gratify his good dispositions by improving himself or his neighbors, or serving the public in some useful way; but the man who has all his time to dispose of as he pleases, has but a poor chance indeed of doing so. To do increases the capacity of doing; and it is far less difficult for a man who is in a habitual course of exertion to exert himself a little more for any extra purpose, than for the man who does little or nothing to put himself into motion for the same end. This is owing to a principle of our moral nature, which is called the vis inertiæ, or inertia, the strength of inactivity. To set a common child's hoop agoing in the first place requires a smarter stroke than to keep it in motion afterwards. There is a reluctance in all things to be set agoing; but when that is got over, then everything goes sweetly enough. Just so it is with the idle man. To losing the habit he loses the power of doing. But a man who is busy about some regular employment for a proper length of time every day, can very easily do something else during the remaining hours; indeed, the recreation of the weary man is apt to be busier than the perpetual leisure of the idler.

The Country Versus the City.

Herded together in dirty tenements are hundreds of men, starving on low wages, drinking and smoking in crowded bar rooms when there are acres of untilled soil under the blue heavens that they might have for the asking. Herding their children in crowded rooms—feeding them on miserable food, allowing them to learn the foul lessons taught in the streets, their play-ground the gutter, and sending their more bitter children out to beg, are hundreds of women, when a little persuasion would induce their husbands to ask a government gift of land, and become farmers—men whose children might be clean and pure, and frolic in the fields and be happy in the green woods and by the rippling rivers.

Oh, if I could preach to those who have the worst of city life, and teach them what the country is! What a home a very poor man can have in a little cottage with a bit of land beside it! How health would come, and hope and happiness, and in the end at least enough wealth to make any industrious couple quite safe from charity, which is about as terrible a thing as can befall any one as it is given by great cities.

What is poverty in town, is comfort in the country; what is comfort here, is wealth there.

Any man who has a trade can work at it, and be a little farmer as well, and any woman can have a home of her own, and make it a pleasant one.

Why is it that so many emigrants cling to to the disgusting streets, which are their portion in Gotham? forgetting that what America offers to those who come to her is farmland and a soil worth tilling. The factories and workshops are overstocked; but great acres lie untilled in our Western country, and Nature opens her arms to all who seek her.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

Agricultural Implements.

Says the Globe of the 27th inst :

"A leading implement-maker of this city, Mr. Massey, of the Massey Manufacturing Co., informs us that the Manitoba market has been of no benefit to his firm; while, on the other hand, the increased cost of raw material under the new tariff entails on them a direct loss of nearly $7,000 a year. "We never "had competition with United States manu- "facturers," Mr. Massey says, "and to-day "we get lower prices for the implements we "turn out than two years ago." The wholesale price of implements, he says, has been reduced since the fall of 1878 by ten per cent. the price of raw material has increased ten per cent., and the wages of employees has been cut down five per cent."

We call attention to the above statement for two reasons in particular. In the first place, it disproves the Globe's paradoxy made when the tariff was first put in operation, that the price of farming implements would be largely inhanced by the increased duty on iron and steel, and at the same paper's frequent assertions since that such had already been the effect of the tariff. Lest the organ should deny that it has made such an assertion, we need not go further back than the 3rd of the present month to demonstrate, as in its issue of that day, in its leading article—one of the very few that it has devoted to the contest in North Ontario—it said :—"Implements, clothing, "groceries, and everything that a farmer "has to purchase have been increased in to influence the farmers against the tariff, but now that the workingmen are to be coaxed into the net of the Grit spider, it has the unblushing audacity to declare that its previous utterance was untrue, but a day or two hence it will probably return to the original falsehood, if any purpose can be served by so doing. Such are the means resorted to by a party which has styled itself the "party of purity," in order to win sections. What can people think of such an organ and of a party which requires to be sustained by such means.

As to Mr. Massey's statements, that his trade was never interfered with by the manufacturers of the United States, and that the Manitoba market has been of no benefit to his firm, they may be taken for what they are worth, and that is not much. It is true that there was but little competition in the agricultural implement business in the older Provinces under the Cartwright tariff, but Manitoba was entirely supplied by our neighbors. That market is now very large, and cannot fail soon to become of immense importance to the trade in Ontario, whilst its permanence is undoubted. If Mr. Massey has failed to find any advantage in the securing of this great market to the manufacturers of Ontario, one of two things is certain, namely either that he is a failure as a business man, or that the machinery manufactured by his concern is inferior or not of the proper description. One Ontario firm of implement makers recently sold goods to the value of $2,500 in two days in Winnipeg, and many others have done a very large business in the same line, hence the shutting of the Yankee manufacturers out of the Prairie Province has been of benefit to others, if not to Mr. Massey, whose doleful romance will be laughed at by more enterprising and more capable business men, who are securing the extension of their trade whilst he is blaming the Government for results solely due to his own lack of energy and business capacity.

Political Notes.

INSURANCE IN ONTARIO.

Mr. W. T. O'Reilly, Inspector of Insurance for the Province of Ontario, has issued his report containing the annual statements of the various insurance Companies doing business in the Province, together with an abstract and summary of the business done during the year 1879. The report states that during the past six months four mutual companies have been prohibited from carrying on business, viz. the Argyle of London, the Crown of Stratford, the Sterling of London, and the Royal of Hamilton. The amount of risk held by Ontario Fire Insurance Companies on December 31st, 1879, was $98,616,136.00, and the cash paid for fire premiums in 1879, inclusive of assessments and first payments to Mutual Companies, was $527,374.48. Of the above premium the sum of $316,122.80 was paid for fire losses, or within a trifle of sixty per cent. of the premium paid.

THE "STOVE ROBBERY."

The Mail thus gives the quietus to the allegations recently made by the Opposition concerning an alleged combination of stove manufacturers to rob the consumer by combining to raise prices :—"Gurney's price lists for 1878 and 1880, which have been printed more than once in these columns, show that the price of stoves has been lowered since the N. P., in spite of the increase in the price of raw material, the increased duty, and the increase of wages. In the hope of breaking the force of this, the London Advertiser and Globe, and other Opposition journals publish the following lists :

	1877.	1880.
Gurney's wood cook	$19 25	$25 30
Antelope parlor (cottage)	7 75	9 10
(cook)	9 20	10 30
Atlins wood cook extension	26 00	32 34
St. George elevated oven	18 25	24 73
No. 7 Vanguard Square	12 50	15 40
33 inch box	9 00	12 85

This proves nothing, except that between 1877 and 1878, one-sided free trade years, the price of stoves went up; it does not touch the fact that the price has fallen since the N. P. But there is another matter, and it is an important one—the 1877 list as given above is the wholesale price list, while the 1880 list is the retail list; the Messrs. Gurney give us authority to say so. This disposes of the latest effort to get up a "great stove outrage."

The Estimates.

How the Finance Committee did not Consider them.

A meeting of the Finance Committee was called for last night at 7.30, for the special purpose of considering the Estimates.

There were present : Ald. Jellett, Chairman ; Messrs Petrie, Dickson, Hambly, Lingham, McIntosh, forming a bare quorum. The absent members were Ald. Geen, St. Charles, Farley, Robertson and the Mayor.

The Chairman said, there being a bare quorum, he did not intend to proceed with the consideration of the estimates, which was business of the first importance.

This was agreed to, and the Committee adjourned until Monday night at 7.30 sharp.

Ald. Dickson wished that they should have information as to details of expenditure. He wished to inquire into the expenditure, especially as to water and gas, and police.

He intended to introduce a By-law to regulate the number and salaries of the police. This By-law they could discuss at the meeting of the Committee on Monday night.

After some conversation the members adjourned.

Ald. Geen arrived after the meeting adjourned.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

The announcement made by our local finance minister that the rate for 1880 will be 2 1-2 mills on the dollar should certainly make some of the thinking taxpayers ask, whither are we drifting? and especially so when the uncollected taxes are taken as an asset at par value and probably will not realize one-third that amount.

The statement this year is full of ifs, and next year this uncollected tax asset will furnish a big "if" for the finance minister of 1881.

The first plea for the present rate of 2 1-8 cts. is that the assessors, the Court of Revision and Judge Lazier reduced the amount over one quarter of a million of dollars. Now who are the recipients, and what class of property has received the patronage of this enormous reduction in value? Would it not be well that these men who act as judges be put on the same basis as the civil service and made to qualify for their duties before they are allowed to act?

The policy of the city officials seems to be to assess unimproved property held for speculative purposes at about one-fourth its value. Does their oath of office and the law allow them this privilege?

The result is that those who improve their property and add to the city's prosperity are handicapped and the do-nothings are let off on the easiest possible basis.

Would it not be well to have our school board revised, as they cannot be heavy taxpayers or they certainly would not spend such large sums in our present financial condition? The sums spent on streets, gas, police and fire departments, together with very numerous quasi amounts are not at all in keeping with our financial position. Would it not be well that our Mayor and Aldermen should have another pic-nic at the city's expense and visit Kingston and find out how they manage to light a much larger city at less than half our present expen diture, and where their uncollected taxes up to 1879 amount to less than $100.

The desire for tearing up and building new sidewalks is a perfect mania with that department, as many of them could have been made to answer well for years with a little mending. However, they certainly have not struck Front Street, and especially the east side.

He intended to introduce a By-law to regulate the number and salaries of the police. This By-law they could discuss at the meeting of the Committee on Monday night.

After some conversation the members adjourned.

Ald. Geen arrived after the meeting adjourned.

Stirling Correspondence.

STIRLING, Aug. 26.

When I say Stirling and vicinity is in mourning, this hardly conveys the true state of feeling over the sad death of the late Mr. William Martin. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon. Previous to the funeral the Board of School Trustees met and passed a resolution of condolence. The deceased was a member of the Board for many years, and will be greatly missed, and which body, together with the Council of which the deceased was also an active member, as also the fire brigade, all attended the sad procession in a body. The school children also joined in the long line, followed by an immense concourse of the general public, the whole preceded by the band of the 49th playing a dead march. The whole place had ceased business, and some of the shops were draped in mourning. The service was held in the Methodist Church, it being more convenient than the Episcopal Methodist, of which deceased was a prominent member. The church would not hold a tithe of those who paid their last respects to the deceased, and quite an excitement was caused by a rush of people out of the church before all had seated themselves who had got in. The floor of the entrance gave way, over which the gallery is placed. The cry was at once raised that the gallery had fallen; however as soon as search was instituted it was found that none of the supports had given away. The loss is one that the people will find difficult to replace if at all. The remains were buried in the cemetery on the outskirts of the village.

The telegraph company have strung their wire from the station connecting with the village office, so that the station is in direct communication with Belleville, Madoc and Campbellford.

Something having gone wrong with the engine of the G. J. R. yesterday evening near Campbellford, we have had no train to-day, disappointing many who waited at the station this morning until noon, intending going to town. An engine passed up this afternoon to help the disabled one.

Campbellford Notes

The Standard Bank of Canada has now opened an Agency in this village, and, I understand, is already doing a good business. It is to be hoped that all our business men will take advantage of it; and there is no doubt but that if all who signed the petition for a Bank agency will do their business there, it will soon repay the management for the expense they have been at. F. J. Goalling, Esq., has been appointed Agent, and A. L. Odelle, of this place, Solicitor.

SPORTING.

Sporting Notes.

An account of a cricket match of a curious character lately played in England is given by the Mail as follows:—Eleven Lucases played Horsham on the 11th and 12th inst., the family winning by four wickets. Horsham made 236 and 140, and the Lucases 171 and 207 for six wickets. A. C. Lucas made 26 and 1, C. J. Lucas 7 and 38, M. P. Lucas 46 and 9, F. M. Lucas 24 and 21, E. M. Lucas 0 and 77 not out, A. Lucas 27 and 20 not out, A Lucas No. 29 not out and 3, A. P. Lucas, absent and 27, E. L. Lucas 0, F. G. Lucas 0, and R. J. Lucas 0.

The Prince Edward County Rifle Association are getting their new ranges in order for the 2nd and 3rd of September. They have now two distinct sets of targets at the short and long ranges, so that two squads can fire at the same time. The rule of the Association in using only rifles of Government issue is very popular with the rural battalions.

Hanlan recently received a challenge from a lady at Kingston, offering to row Miss Hanlan for a large sum of money. The champion replied by tearing the letter into fragments. He hopes, for the sake of the noble sport, that it will never be adopted by the gentler sex, and as far as he is concerned he will do all in his power to discourage rowing matches among women. He also wishes it understood that Miss Hanlan will not row in a match under any consideration, and cannot see how the public ever got such an idea into its head. He leaves Toronto for England on the 4th of September, and will sail by the Inman steamer City of Richmond. The champion dreads the voyage, and says he would walk if he could. The sea voyage uses him up completely. He will use a Toronto boat in the Trickett match. He feels confident of beating the Australian, and will take a large sum of money with him to invest on himself if opportunity offers.

A regatta, open to all yachts of 12 tons and under, is to take place at Clayton, N. Y., on the 3rd of September. The prizes are $50, $25 and $10. Entrance free, but 15 per cent will be deducted from winners.

OWNERS FOUND.—The Kingston News says a letter has been received from Mr. W. L. Wallace, Deputy Collector of Customs Charlotte, addressed to Mr. Mingaye, to the effect that the yacht Phœnix, about which so much has been said, was stolen from that port, the owners being Messrs. Fromin & Lee. They produced the bill of sale, and desired Mr. Wallace to write on the subject. The letter was presented by Captain John Sanders, of the schr. Eureka, who was authorized to pay all charges and return the yacht to the owners. This sets at rest the ownership of the yacht, and confirms the opinion that the thieves were drowned in their endeavor to cross the lake.

H. R. H. PRINCESS LOUISE.—A cablegram says : "Her Majesty has expressed the hope that the Princess Louise will remain on this side of the Atlantic until after Christmas. The Princess, since her return here, has derived much benefit in health and strength. His Royal Highness Prince Leopold, although still enervated, is satisfied, as well as his medical attendants, that his visit to Canada has been productive of good."

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

NEW MILL.—The Hon. Billa Flint is about establishing a carding and spinning mill at York River.

RAIN.—Further showers fell this morning, and the country is already recovering nicely from the effects of the drought.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Professor Badgley has kindly consented to preach in the Congregational Church, Hotel Street, to-morrow.

CORN AND OATS.—Mr. Abel Finkle, of Sidney, exhibited this morning a bunch of oats which measured five feet six inches in length, and several ears of corn twelve inches in length. Good evidence of the fruitfulness of the season.

ANNUAL REGATTA.—The members of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club are to meet at Hambly's on Monday night at 8 o'clock, to consider matters in connection with the holding of the annual regatta. Let there be a good attendance.

THE RIFLE.—Several of the local marksmen will take part in the matches at Picton next week, and in the Dominion matches at Ottawa during the next week. The annual matches of the Hastings Rifle Association, of the 49th Battalion Rifle Club, and the 15th Battalion Rifle Association will shortly take place, the Government grant to each having arrived.

TO MADOC AND THE MINES.—Do not let our readers forget the excursion to Madoc and the Mines on Tuesday next by the Grand Junction Railway. The attractions are numerous—a pic-nic on the shores of Lake Moira, a visit to the lively village of Madoc, and a view of the Seymour and Hematite Mines, in themselves well worth the trip—and the fare is so low as to make the trip within the reach of all. The excursion is under the auspices of the Sabbath Schools of Christ Church and St. George's Church, and should be well patronized. See advertisement.

BIGAMY.—The Kingston papers contain accounts of a bigamy case which has just been developed in that city. It appears that a young man, son of wealthy and respectable parents in Rochester, came to Kingston over a year ago, got into a good situation, and formed an affection for a young lady, which resulted in their marriage. It appears, however, that the young man was married before in Rochester—that he and his wife lived unhappily and agreed upon a separation. A detective had shadowed him, and knowing that, he left Kingston for parts unknown a few evenings ago. The names of the parties are not given.

MINING NOTES.—The Madoc Review says: The mining interests, we are pleased to say, are now looking almost as well as at any previous time. Satisfactory freight rates have been obtained, and in a few days all the men that can be put on will be at work. At the Sexsmith mine, Mr. Munson has got his derrick erected, and in a day or two will have from 35 to 40 men engaged; some blasts recently made have much improved its appearance, and ore of excellent quality is now being taken out. At the Dominion mine, a small number of men are at work night and day, tunnelling, and we are informed that a rich vein of ore has been struck. At the Seymour mine, Mr. Pusey is making arrangements to put in an 80-horse power engine, and expects in a short time to make the output about twenty carloads per day. At the Hematite a large force of men are engaged, and shipments are being made every day. At the Aylsworth slate quarry eleven men are employed, and slate of excellent quality taken therefrom.

YACHTING NOTE.—The little yacht Escape, of Kingston, owned by Meagher Brothers, arrived yesterday afternoon and left for home this morning.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH.—The Rev. Septimus Jones, of the church of the Redeemer, of Toronto, will preach in St. Thomas' Church to-morrow at morning service.

JOHN ST. CHURCH.—The Rev. Geo. M. Milligan, B. A., of old St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, will preach in John St. Presbyterian Church to-morrow evening, the pastor occupying the pulpit in the morning.

POLYNESIAN ARRIVED.—A telegram announces the arrival of the steamship Polynesian at Father Point at 7 this morning. Passengers should reach Belleville by to-morrow morning's train.

O'BRIEN'S BRIDGE.—Work on this structure, a portion of which recently broke down, is proceeding rapidly. It is probable that the bridge will be ready for traffic in about ten days.

NEW TELEGRAPH OFFICE.—A telegraph office will be opened at the B. & N. H. R. station in this village, in a few days, says the Madoc Review, the line having been put up during the past week from the office in the village to the station. The office will be a convenience to all parties.

CHEESE SALE.—The make of the Ashley and Thurlow cheese factories, including the whole of July and the remainder of the season, has been sold to Mr. Hill, of Seaforth, at 12⅞ cents, or 13¼ cents per pound for small cheeses. This is the best rate that we have heard of in this section.

THE LATE CAPTAIN SHERWOOD.—The inquest on the late Captain Sherwood was concluded on the 27th. The following is the verdict of the jury. "That on the 14th day of August Captain Sherwood came to his death from an overdose of sulphate of morphine, administered by mistake instead of quinine. The jury further say that the administration of the said morphine was purely a mistake, and was made by one Archibald Denison, and that no blame can be attributed to any person."

THE HUM AT MILL POINT.—Business in the sash and door factory at Mill Point is very brisk at present. During the past month an addition has been built to the west of the former building and is now occupied. Messrs. Rathbun & Son are now making shipments to their agent in Glasgow and other ports in Great Britain, of 400 to 500 doors, 10,000 pieces of turned work, and about 65,000 feet of mouldings per week. They are now engaged in filling an order from the old country for 180,000 feet of moulding.

A NEW INVENTION.—It has long been a desideratum amongst shingle makers to secure a machine which would cut the edges of shingles so as to make them exactly parallel. The reason of this want is that as, by the use of the machinery now in vogue, but one edge of the shingle is trimmed at a time, the edges cannot be made exactly straight, so that when the edges are placed together on roofs, a space is left, in which water lodges, and consequently causes the rapid rotting of the roof. Thus with perfectly straight edges the joints would be close and the durability of the roofs would be greatly increased. Mr. Frank Drake, of this city, has addressed himself to the work of solving this problem, and has apparently succeeded admirably. A machine of his invention is in operation in Messrs. Walker & Co's foundry, and many practical men who have seen the work it turns out state their belief that it is a complete success. One gentleman—a veteran in the shingle manufacturing business—stated that shingles trimmed by it would be worth 50 cents per thousand more on the best quality and 25 cents per thousand more on the second quality, than those edged in the old fashioned way. The machine is quite simple, the cutting apparatus being two small circular saws on a horizontal shaft, between which the shingles pass, and which cut the edges exactly parallel. As shingles vary greatly in width, it is a necessity that the width between the saws should be made variable, and this is provided for by the simple pressure of the foot upon treadles, by which the change required is effected instantly. The saws can also be changed in the briefest space of time, and all other contingencies are provided for. The machine is highly ingenious and seems well adapted to the work which it is to perform. It has been patented in Canada and the United States, and will within a short time be introduced to the trade. Its further advantages, of which there are many, will then be set forth.

HOTEL KEEPERS and others would do well to examine Jas. Hennessy's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offered at 25 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessy.

Commercial Notes.

A BIG PORK LOSS.—Asa Dowe, one of the largest operators on the Chicago Board of Trade, has suspended. Dows is said to have lost a quarter of a million in pork.

PETROLEUM.—It is expected that an advance will shortly take place in the price of petroleum.

RECEIPTS FINANCE DEPARTMENT.—Sir Leonard Tilley stated at Toronto on Tuesday evening that the receipts at the Finance Department for July and August down to the afternoon of that day were $1,050,000 in excess of the receipts for July and the same part of August last year.

QUEBEC TIMBER MARKETS.—Sale in Quebec up to yesterday: One raft containing 150,000 feet waney board from 20 inch average, at 20c. 50,000 feet white pine, 60 to 65 feet average, choice timber, at 35c. all round. One raft of 70,000 feet white pine; 56 feet average, good fair quality at 25c., with some red pine 35 to 40 feet average at 30c. One raft of 80,000 ft. white pine in shipping order, 15 inch average, with some good waney and red pine, at 22c. all round.

Oak is scarce and in demand.

Seasonable Topics.

The baby whales we read about are rocked in the cradle of the deep.

No other place between Toronto and Montreal can show such a market as Belleville on Saturday. The streets in the vicinity of the market ground had to be utilized to-day to make room for farmers' waggons and the inside market was crowded throughout. It is high time the basement was made fit for use.

Many people who pray that their enemies may be forgiven pounce on the enemies as soon as the prayer is finished.

It isn't what goes in but what comes out of the inkstand that makes the trouble.

Wife (she had brought her a little present for the baby)—"No, William, it will not have him brought up on the 'bottle.' Look at your own nose, dear!"

Now is the time for business men to advertise for the fall trade, and if you want to reach the largest number of readers, select the INTELLIGENCER, as it has the widest circulation.

For plain and fancy printing, done at low prices, call at the INTELLIGENCER office. The office has lately been supplied with new styles of type and with new machines we are prepared to compete in price and style with the best offices in Canada.

Mr. Spurgeon said recently—you can almost hear his clarion voice proclaiming it to his five thousand assemblage: "Make the bridge from the cradle to manhood just as long as you can. Let your child be a child, and not a little age of a man running about the town." Good advice.

Marine.

Since the retirement of Mr. Wm. Jamieson from the position of master ship builder at Mill Point, Mr. Wm. Evans has been appointed to the position. The repairs to the schooner Freeman, owned by Messrs. Downey & Co., will be completed in about three weeks. She is getting a new stern, a new keelson to the mainmast, new bilge, two new spars and a new rail complete. The repairs will cost $5,000. Captain Allen is superintending the work for the owners.

The Florence Howard has been thoroughly rebuilt, and will be ready to engage in the grain trade in about two weeks.

The schooner O. S. Storrs has also been undergoing some repairs during the past week, having had a bowsprit, jib-boom, and her deck repaired, and received a new coat of paint.

The schr. Rainbow has arrived from Picton with old iron and bones for W. Powell.

The schr. Florence is loading lumber at Sutherland's saw mill.

THE SIEGE OF CANDAHAR

Further Details of the Recent Sortie.

LONDON, Aug. 27.

A letter from General Primrose gives particulars of the sortie from Candahar on Aug 16. The British attacked the village of Dehkhwajee, and got through it, but finding it strongly occupied, and reinforced by contingents from neighboring villages, had to retire to the fortress. The enemy's loss was heavy. The British cavalry made two charges, cutting down many.

AYOUB KHAN RETREATS.

A despatch from Bombay says Ayoub Khan has retired with his army to Sungeri, eight miles east of Candahar. This story is not regarded as probable, yet he may have done so, it is thought, from a knowledge of the near approach of General Phayre's column and with the intention of attacking him on the plain, Gen. Phayre being due there on the 29th or 30th of this month.

THE NEWS CORROBORATED.

In the House of Lords to-day Earl Granville, Secretary of State for the Foreign Department, officially confirmed the report of the arrival of General Roberts at Khalet-i-Ghilzai and the withdrawal of Ayoub Khan's army to Sunjeri.

QUEENSTOWN, Aug. 28.—Arrived Adriatic.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The steamship Silesia from Europe to-day brought $1,425,000 in gold.

Its effects are truly wonderful and hundreds are happy to day, who once looked forward to an early grave, For Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, loss of voice, Hay Fever, Hoarseness, Croup, or any affection whatever of the Throat, Chest or Lungs, Dr. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY will positively cure. THE WOODMAN'S DAUGHTER.

BY JOY ALISON.

A woodman lived in a forest wild :
He was poor as poor could be—
His only treasure a maiden child,
Bonny and brave was she.
And she kept his hearth all warm and bright,
And welcomed him home with a kiss at night.

Three robbers passed through the lonely wood,
They stopped at the cottage door.
"My fair little maid, now give us food."
She said : "I have no more
Than a cup of tea and an oaten cake,
And father his supper of that must make."

"Go, bring us quickly the oaten cake,
And bring us the cup of tea.
We're weary and hungry," the robbers spake—
"Twill be little enough for three."
"Nay! That," she said, "I am told all day ;
I cannot give his supper away."

The robbers laughed both loud and long ;
"A plucky lass!" they said.
"But give us a kiss, and we'll be gone,
And leave you the oaten bread."
"Nay! That," she said, "I cannot do ;
I keep my kisses for Father, too!"

"We could sweep you up, my little maid—
You and your oaten cake,
And carry you off!—Are you not afraid?—
Where none could overtake."
Her cheek grew white with a hidden fear ;
"I know," she said—"but God is here!"

The father came, with the set of sun,
Home to his cottage door.
"I am hungry and tired, my little one ;
What hast thou for me in store?"
"Supper is ready! Give thanks!" said she ;
"We have oaten bread, and a cup of tea."

A rule of the Illinois Central Railroad provides that dogs shall not ride in a passenger car ; but a big and ferocious looking bulldog walked into the car at Chicago, appropriated a whole seat and rode 200 miles unmolested. The secretary announced a communication from Richmond, stating that Orville Powers, an honorary member of the club, was out some two weeks since with a jug in one hand and a fish-pole in the other, and had not been seen since. It was believed that the fish and jug had proven too much for him. "D jug might have been empty," suggested Hon. Oblique Jones as the secretary finished. "Or it might have been nuffin but buttermilk," added Esquire Wynkoop. "Gem'len, if dat nigger had a jug wid him when he started, an' he hasn't bin heard on fur two weeks, reason teaches dat dar was too much jug an' too few fish," said the president. "De secretary will wipe off his name, an' make a note to de effeck dat dis club didn't 'spress its grief or go into mournin'. We will now turn our eyes upon de b'artrap, repeat de signs in the twenty-eighth degree, an' go home feelin' dat de water-millyun season am one week nigher its climax."

A certain member of Parliament who owned extensive estates was spending a few days at the residence of a noble family. Ther were several interesting and accomplished young ladies in the family, to whom the honorable member showed every attention. Just as he was about to take his leave, the nobleman's wife proceeded to consult him upon a matter which, she alledged, was causing her no little distress. "It is reported," said the countess, "that you are to marry my daughter Lucy, and what shall we do ? What shall we do about it !" "Oh," responded the considerate M. P., just say she refused me !"

Where the Loss Was.

A young man who belonged to an excursion party visited Detroit last week, called at the City Hall to make complaint to the Chief of Police that he had been robbed of his watch.
"What sort of a watch was it ?" inquired the Chief.
"Well, it was kinder old fashioned, but it kept the straightest time you ever saw. Every clock within four miles of our house was run by that watch."
"What was it worth ?"
"Well, I'd been offered seven dollars for it."
"It isn't such a great loss, then !"
"It isn't the money value that hurts me, though I don't care to lose seven dollars any more than any other man. You see, it was the only time-piece we had to run by, and when the Deacon rose up and asked me what time it was, the mint I begun to haul out that ticker over my best coat, man dropped his head, and every gal pricked up her ears and ached for me to beau her home. It made me solid all along the line from the cellar door to the country dances, and I've either got to git it back or go home and tell the folks that I came across a blamed fool and sold it for a twenty."
"And you wouldn't do that !"
"I might, you know, but if the old man wanted to give me his note for nineteen of it I'd have to own up or shake his paper, and dad's a man who backs his notes with a fist as big as the top of your hat !"—Detroit Free Press.

Come Home to Rest.

Correspondence New York Herald.

"Why are you not at the springs?" I asked a young gentleman who is a fashionable frequenter of the White Sulphur, a few days ago in Richmond.
"I've been there," he replied,
"But why are you not there now! The weather is certainly hot enough."
"I had to come back for a Rest"
"A rest! I thought people went there for rest.
"Some people may, but I find it much harder work than at home."
"You do ! Pray tell me the nature of your laborious work at the White."
"Well, I flirt, frolic,meander, chin, and roll ten pins with the girls all day, dance half the night and play cards the balance of it, and I get so used up that I have to come home for a rest."
"But you are going back again !"
"Oh, yes, I'll tackle it again as soon as I get well on my pins."

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this : When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they have none on hand, and have another article just as good, if not better, which they will supply at the same price. In spite of this, our sales remain unimpaired. These unprincipled people are trading on the great reputation of Pain-Killer, and being convinced of the vileness of their counterfeits, are loath to purchase. Rather than be baffled in their design, they will endeavor at about half what it costs for the genuine Pain-Killer, which rubbish they foist off upon the unwary, more profitably, as the imitation article is than he can on the genuine.

IT CURES ALMOST INSTANTLY.
The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz. and 4 oz. bottles, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively,—large bottles are more economical.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED
IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and accentuates to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 96 West Thirty-fifth Street, New York, September, 1876.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYTOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. G. COMFORT, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practice, quantities very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach ; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYTOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice ; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.
December 19th, 1878. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble ; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed, and my life was despaired of for many weeks ; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and I might say all the usual trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime : and I used various preparations, but the effect was no good. I was lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I procured a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result : Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 113 to 140 pounds ; I stopped the use of all other medicine and since commenced taking your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has consumption of the lungs in the first stage, and is sitting here with a bottle which he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago ; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, MASS.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses, it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach ; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose ; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, some two or three who have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY
Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption
IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF
Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James L. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

Epileptic Fits"
ST. PAUL, MIN., JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES L. FELLOWS, ESQ.
DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you for some time, hoping that I would be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine. I am now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, and there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had not the medicine since commenced to take effect, she would have been dead ere this ; now she eats hearty and is getting in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is becoming more regular.
Yours truly, D. WALTER OAKES.
Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES L. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR :—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing for six years with a number of complaints and lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of many a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of their medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was confirmed to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me, and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.
I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.
Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name ; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

OVER THE SEA.

XXV.

For the Intelligencer.

In closing my last letter, I promised to accompany your readers on a night ramble through one of the principal Boulevards; but, as it is yet early in the evening, we must wait till they are brilliantly illuminated. Let us therefore wend our way to the and mix with the throngs that are whiling away the after dinner hour in gossiping under the trees. Nursery maids with flocks of children, old ladies with young daughters, grown up daughters without old ladies, old men, and young men, are walking, sitting, talking, laughing, and reading,—for the sun is yet half a degree above the top of the distant Arc de l'Etoile. Its outline rises firm against the red evening sky. We can almost distinguish the sculptures of its cornice, though it is a mile away and a sea of bright green foliage is waving between. Now we stand in the middle of the garden —in the entrance way to the Palace of the Tuileries—and can see the whole arch from top to bottom, up the long, smooth avenue of the Champs Elysees, whose farther end is dotted with hundreds of carriages in the long perspective. The column of Louor rises like a fir in the middle scene; group after group of people pass out of the gateway—under the column—up the avenue; and before us, stretching out to where the arch, the monument of Napoleon's genius, arched upon the sky—is the brilliant perspective, as gay and wondrous with its moving multitude as a beautiful dream.

The crowd is now rapidly passing out of the iron gates and the sentinels permit none to come in. It is night in the Garden of the Tuileries, though in other parts of Paris the pleasures of the day have hardly begun. Let us stroll along the heavy palisade of the garden. Notice the neatly fitting costumes of the passers by, and follow with your eyes the red, green and blue lights of the omnibuses for Neuilly and the Arc de Triomphe, which go thundering along. We have now reached the great PLACE DE LA CONCORDE.

The lamps on their large brazen columns are glittering on every side, and the giant fountains are throwing up with a roar their torrents of water. One way we catch a glimpse, through an avenue of lights, of the classic front of the Madeleine, a building commenced in 1764 and finished under Napoleon I. for a temple of glory. The other way, south-west over the Seine, are the massive columns of the Chamber of Deputies; and the Obelisk, beneath which we stand, lifts its mysterious tapering finger into the skies above us.

On this spot sprang that quarrel between the people and the soldiery in 1789, which opened into the darkest days that France has known. Here had its station the dreadful guillotine; down that avenue went the carts lumbering with the headless bodies of the dead; there under those trees of the Champs Elysees, strutted the villains of the reign of terror to see the blood shed a sacrifice to their madness; there skulked too, men and women with forms bent forward, and trembling with eagerness, looking over the parapets of the bridge of Louis, to see if by chance they might find a brother or a son.

Ah! Robespierre, Danton, Desmoulins, and others who gloated over the blood shed here, your own gory heads went tumbling over those stones after it. Poor Louis XVI.! Poor Marie Antoinette! No sword sprang from its scabbard to defend husband or wife on this terrible spot. The age of chivalry had gone. Brissot, Charlotte Cordai, Louis Duke of Orleans, how little I thought when reading your sad histories that I should stand upon the spot where the clanging and glittering knife cams down upon your necks.

The evening is now sufficiently advanced we will stroll over and view one of the principal.

BOULEVARDS BY GASLIGHT.

We are now on the Boulevard des Italiens. What a transformation: the shop windows ablaze with light and filled with the wealth of the Indies,—the rarest combinations of modern industry and ingenuity—a Crystal Palace converted into a city, with avenues of light and passages of pleasure. All this must be seen to be understood, or rather felt, for the general impression of the fair-named Boulevards is more a powerful appeal to the senses, the passions, and perhaps the æsthetic, than to the thought or reason typified in our sober cities. The heterogeneous crowd which the delights of the French Capital have attracted from all parts of the world, gaze with rapture upon the scene of wonders. The dazzling display of diamonds and other costly jewels exhibited in the windows, which are illuminated with gas by means of reflectors, arranged to shed a soft clear light, and at the same time show off these treasures to best advantage. These windows are in most cases re-arranged expressly with a view to gas-light effect. Nowhere else can be seen such an attractive display of tiaras of diamonds and precious stones, ranging in price from five to two hundred thousand francs. Watches of every variety and style, and every description of articles usually found in such establishments, glitter in the soft mellow light. Perfumery shops are arranged in such a manner as to create a most enchanting smell, impregnating the air with delicious perfumes, add to the fairy-like impressions of the scene.

Clothing establishments, marble and bronzes, pictures, fruit and pastry shops, in fact everything is represented in great profusion. Every variety of form and device is resorted to in arranging the gas lights, so as to produce the greatest effects. The names of principal cafes and restaurants are emblazoned over the door in letters formed of gas-jets, the effect of which is extremely beautiful, while at the same time the cost must be enormous; but the shopkeepers seem to pay no regard to this item of expenditure, in their endeavors to vie with one another in making a brilliant display. This exhibition continues until about midnight.

During the exciting scenes of the war the Communists made several attempts to burn the principal buildings on the boulevards, and in other parts of the city, by throwing bottles filled with petroleum into the windows, and setting it on fire: but they only partially succeeded, as, being constructed mostly of stone and iron, and thoroughly fire proof, the contents only were destroyed.

We have now reached the Boulevard des Capucines That magnificent establishment in front of us, is called

THE GRAND CAFE.

It is the largest and most gorgeous cafe in Paris, and probably in the world. The effect from where we stand, on the opposite side of the street, is almost enchanting. The rooms are one blaze of light; the gaslights being in globes of ground glass, and arranged in clusters of about a dozen each. Thousands of people drop in here nightly to read the leading journals—all of which are kept on file—and walk across and glance through it. Its mere decoration and its furniture, plate and linen are said to have cost 700,000 francs (about $137,000). Forty-five garcons, six butlers, and three dames au comptoir attend to the behests of its customers. The distinguishing peculiarity of the cafe is the exquisite painting of the ceiling, executed by the great artists Boulanger and Delaunay. The artistic merit of the work of the ceilings of the large drawing room and reception rooms might be envied by any art collector.

There are several spacious rooms on the lower floor, which are used for billiard, dinner and coffee rooms; while those above are fitted into magnificent saloons for the purposes of dinner parties and balls upon a brilliant scale. Upon the sidewalks in front of the cafe, for a distance of thirty feet wide and covered with asphaltum, are arranged small tables and neat fancy chairs made of iron. These are occupied upon pleasant evenings by persons of both sexes, regaling themselves on ices, coffee, wines, &c. The effect of this large crowd, both within and without, the great profusion of gaslights—the numbers of which seem doubled in the numerous mirrors upon the walls—combine to produce a scene of unusual brilliancy.

This short description will give an idea of Paris cafes. They are not all on so extensive a scale as this one, but are one large and often three or four small ones, are to be found in every block.

TRAMP.

Paris, August 14th, 1880.

The Slaughtering Process.

(From the Mail.)

Some time ago we showed that organized "slaughtering" in the Canadian market was the policy of the American manufacturers for the purpose of crushing out Canadian manufactures, and proved it conclusively by two or three quotations from the letters of Americans whose practices were being, since the new tariff came into force, interfered with. The Opposition press have always denied that there was any slaughtering, and when these letters were produced, said they only proved that American rings had combined to put up prices in the United States, and not that they slaughtered in Canada, although the letters distinctly said that a discount of from ten to twenty per cent. was given to the Canadian purchaser in order to "hold the market." The law on the subject is as follows:—

"The fair market value for duty, of goods imported into Canada, shall be the fair market value of such goods in the usual and ordinary commercial acceptation of the term, at the usual and current rates of trade, and not the cash value of such goods, except in cases in which the article imported is, by universal usage, considered and known to be a cash article, and so bona fide paid for in all transactions in relation to such article; and all invoices representing cash values, except in the special cases hereinabove referred to, shall be subject to such additions as to the collector or appraiser of the port at which they are presented may appear just and reasonable to bring up the amount to the true and fair market value, as required by this section."

This was the law in 1877, and it was also the law in 1874 and 1875. The difference between these periods and 1879 and 1880 is that Mr. Bowell is putting the law in force, while Mr. Burpee did not. Mr. Bowell, in the interests of the revenue and of home industries, is collecting the duty on the fair market price in the United States, not on the slaughter price intended to hold the Canadian market. On the 31st July the Globe said:

"Minister Bowell's position is that duties shall be levied not upon the price for which the article is bought, but upon the price which a protected party sells the article for in the protected country. That is, if Congress choose to impose duties of 200 per cent, and the ring should, as they would, promptly avail themselves of the protection and gouge the American purchasers accordingly, we free Canadians must follow suit, and appraise the articles for duty at the protected price. What a monstrous proposition!"

And in order to make itself clearer still, the same paper, on the 6th August, said:

"If an American manufacturer having a monopoly of his home market chooses to charge his protected home customers a dollar for an article which he could sell at a handsome profit for fifty cents, and if he sold to a Canadian a thousand of these articles at fifty cents each, our friend Bowell would step in and reprobate the Canadian importer in this style: 'You horrible scoundrel, to be defrauding the revenue in this atrocious style. You have undervalued these goods by fifty per cent., therefore pay me twice the duty which you thought was right when you made your bargain with the American.' And when this was done there would be a hundred obedient monopoly organs to say it was all right."

Well and good; yet Mr. Bowell is only doing what Mr. Burpee ought to have done, what he said should be done, and what he by departmental circular ordered to be done. We have already in a former article proved that Mr. Burpee and Mr. Mills took just the same ground in 1877. In this debate, that Mr. Bowell now takes; but we can give Mr. Burpee's own circulars to prove the gross hypocrisy of the Globe most conspicuously now after what was in condemning bitterly now after what was ordered to be done with its approval in 1874, 1875, and 1877. The first is of the 1874, 1875, and 1877. The first is of the date of the 20th July, 1878, and is as follows:

"[Circular No. 130-9.]
"CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,
"Ottawa, 20th July, 1874.

"SIR,—The Minister of Customs having received certain evidence that manufacturing firms in the United States have adopted schedules of prices for their respective goods, specially adapted to purchasers, for the Canadian market, at very much below those at which they sell to American purchasers, to the serious injury of Canadian manufacturers of the same articles, I am desired to call your attention thereto, with a view to special attention being had to your subjecting such goods to the most rigid examination, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the invoices are made at the fair market value in the producing or manufacturing country, and not at an exceptional rate adopted for this particular market. For example, a circular of a Pittsburg hardware manufacturing firm, with quotations of and prices of bolts, nuts, hooks, rivets, and various other articles, specially reduced for Canadian purchasers, is in possession of the Department; and where you have satisfactory proof of this description of undervaluation, you are to insist upon entry being made at the proper appraised valuation. I am, sir, your obedient servant, (signed) "J. JOHNSON.

"To the Collector of Customs, Port of ——."

Could anything more clearly indicate the knowledge of the Mackenzie Government that slaughtering existed? Yet then and ever since their organs have been denying the existence of such a thing. Mr. Blake in his recent speeches here, repeating the denial, knowing nothing about the facts.

The next circular is dated the 10th November, 1875, and is as follows:

"[Circular No. 170, No. 26.]

"CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,

"Ottawa, 26th November, 1875.

"SIR,—In the present condition of trade in the United States, there is a general tendency to sell for exportation to Canada almost all classes of manufactured goods at abnormally low prices; and I am instructed by the Minister of Customs to repeat the cautions conveyed to you in former circulars, and to urge you to use the utmost possible vigilance in checking invoices so as to prevent this description of undervaluation. I have especially to draw your attention to the articles of nails, respecting which a distinct scale of prices cannot be given; but it is safe to say that the larger description of cut nails, say tenpenny and over, should not be invoiced even in the present low market at less than $2.50 gold per keg of 100 lbs., and the smaller nails proportionately higher.

"I am sir, your obedient servant,

(Signed) "J. JOHNSON.

"To the Collector of Customs,
"Port of ——."

Here, then, we have the same story repeated in the circulars, while it being denied in the press and in Parliament, and the consumer was being told that if there was any slaughtering it was all for his benefit. We have proved that Mr. Burpee in 1877 agreed with Mr. Bowell, but we find that he agreed with him in 1878 too, and said, "They, the Mackenzie (Government) now imposed "the duty on the value of the goods at the "place they were purchased." Yet the Globe now says this is "a monstrous doc"trine," and Mr. Ryan echoes it, and Mr. Blake echoes it, the doctrine all the time being the sound Reform doctrine in 1874, 1875, 1876, 1877, and 1878, as well as the Tory doctrine in 1880.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, AUG. 30.

WEST TORONTO.

VICTORY FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Beatty Returned by a Handsome Majority.

West Toronto, which has been for the past two weeks the scene of one of the hottest political contests out record, on Saturday gave a decisive verdict in favor of the policy of the present Government and of the National Policy in particular, by returning Mr. James Beatty, jr., as its representative in the Commons of Canada by the handsome majority of 262. The Grit party made a bold bid for success, their candidate — an able man—having much in his favor. He was unobjectionable personally; he had the entire confidence of his party; he had the assistance of the members of the Ontario Government, who canvassed for votes and for money on his behalf: he had the assistance of Messrs. Blake, Mackenzie, Paterson of Brant, and other orators of his party; the chief organ gave up North Ontario to champion the "poor man's" side of the question against the hated N. P.; abuse, misrepresentation and falsehood were resorted to, in order to secure the election, but all to no avail. The Conservative candidate, on the other hand, had two members of his own party, Messrs. Wright and Capreol, in the field against him and endangering his success; his record as Mayor of the city was also used against him; a split was reported in the Conservative ranks; and an organization of working men which should have been favorable, had declared itself hostile; but in spite of all these disadvantages and drawbacks, Mr. Beatty has been returned by the large majority, under the circumstances, of 262.

The importance of the victory won by the Conservative party in this contest can scarcely be over-estimated. It shows that the people approve of the continuance of the National Policy; of the building of the Pacific Railway throughout its entire length from Lake Superior to the Pacific Ocean by a Company who shall be paid in lands and in money; in brief, it is an emphatic declaration in favor of the policy of the Government in its entirety. A verdict was sought on these points, and the people have declared that they are firm in the determination to which they gave expression in 1878, and that capitalists may safely invest in manufactures in Canada.

On Saturday the Globe, in its final appeal to the electors said, "Victory for the Tory party will be accepted as an expression of continued confidence in the National Policy after a year and a half of trial." The Conservative party accept the decision of the electorate, and hope that their opponents will be wise enough to do the same. We heartily congratulate the country and the Government on the result.

The returns, by wards, are as follows:

Ward.	Bty.	Ryan	Wright	Cap'l
St. Andrews.....	615	357	15	5
St. George's.....	298	342	4	9
St. Patrick's.....	793	665	22	7
St. Stephen's.....	392	272	9	2
Totals.....	2098	1836	50	23

Thus Mr. Beatty defeats his Grit opponent by 262 votes and has a majority of 189 over all others combined. Adding the votes given to the other Conservative candidates to Mr. Beatty's majority, as in all fairness they ought to be, the Grit nominee is really left in a minority of 335.

BRAZIL EXHIBIT.—The Montreal Witness says: "A large number of samples from Brazil have been received here for exhibition at the Dominion Fair, and it is believed will form not the least interesting of the exhibit made."

—The Princess Louise took leave of Her Majesty at Osborne, August 12th, and left for Buckingham Palace on her way to Germany, where Her Royal Highness is going for the benefit of her health.

Political Notes.

ANOTHER "BIG PUSH."

The "big push" has been re-enacted in Toronto, on behalf of Mr. Ryan. On Friday Mr. Crooks, Minister of Education, and Mr. Hugh Blain were passing the hat around amongst the faithful soliciting funds to defray "Mr. Ryan's legitimate expenses." Such an excuse on the eve of an election is rather too thin, especially when the record of the party is taken into account.

VALUATION FOR DUTY.

The Mail in its Saturday's issue shows the precise nature of the attacks of the Grit press on the Minister of Customs for refusing to allow the continuance of the sluaghtering process in our markets by Yankee manufacturers. The article is reproduced on our first page. It is full of interest. Read it.

THE "SUGAR ROBBERY" AGAIN.

The present aspect of the sugar market is thus stated by the Mail: "On the 25th inst. the price of granulated at Montreal for export in New York was $7.35. Add 25 per cent. ad val. $1.85; one cents per pound specific, $1.12, and 30 cents for freight and charges to Toronto, and that sugar, under the old tariff, would have cost $10.50. In Montreal, on the same day, granulated sugar was quoted at $10.50. Deduct 2½ per cent. for discount, 26 cents, and add 10 cents for freight to this city, and it costs Toronto merchants $10.34, besides giving employment to 800 hands in Montreal, who were idle in 1878, and building up a West India trade, which one-sided free trade killed."

LAND SPECULATING.

A correspondent writing from Winnipeg to the London Free Press says:—"Messrs. Cartwright and M. C. Cameron, of Huron, are at present in this country, and I learn on the best authority have, and are, buying largely of lands in the Turtle Mountain District. One purchase alone, of ten sections, 6,400 acres, for speculative purposes, comprises a portion of their transactions." If this assertion be not true, the gentlemen named ought to be exculpated of the charge, but if the truth be as stated, the Globe will have a fine opportunity for rebuking its friends for being guilty of a practice which the Opposition organ is never tired of condemning.

RAILWAY DISASTER.—On the 25th inst. an express train from Georgetown left Charlottetown, P. E. I., and proceeded safely on its journey till reaching Little York, where, for some reason not yet explained, the cars were all thrown from the track, and rolled over a small embankment. Assistance being telegraphed for to Charlottetown, a relief train and medical assistance were soon on the spot to bring the injured passengers back to the city. Among those who are most seriously injured are J. Stewart, who is suffering from internal injuries, and not expected to recover, and George Macleod of the Union Bank, who has a broken jaw, and is otherwise badly disfigured about the head. A dozen others are more or less hurt and Charlottetown is in a state of excitement over the disaster.

The Murray Canal Again.

The Montreal Witness of Aug 27th states that a sharp decline of about 2s per quarter for grain has taken place in freights at that port for Great Britain owing to their scarcity. Our contemporary adds: "There can be no doubt that, had the barge accommodation from Kingston been greater, the amount of grain coming this way would have been much larger than it has been, as schooners have suffered so much from detentions at Kingston that masters have refused to return there as the profit at ruling rates did not compensate for the loss of time."

There can be no doubt whatever that, were the Murray Canal constructed, the difficulty as to vessels bringing grain from the west and failing to secure quick despatch would be obviated by the transfer of a large part of the trade to Belleville or Trenton, or to both places. Thus another is added to the many previously cited reasons why this canal should be built, and at as early a date as possible.

A Riddle Read.

In the Globe's Ottawa correspondence, dated August 10th, the following passage appeared:—

In conversation with a leading Liberal from Toronto he stated that he had received a private telegram announcing that the candidature for West Toronto had been chosen at the recent Conservative meeting, but that it was the intention to withhold his name from the public until, if possible, Mr. Bowell was compelled to admit the truth of his intention to accept the Toronto Collectorship. Whether the Minister of Customs makes this admission or not, his acceptance of the position in question is as sure to transpire as that West Toronto's next representative to the Federal Parliament will add one more to the votes of the Opposition.

This riddle is already read. The assertion in regard to the Minister of Customs was simply an election canard, which, despite of its authoritative denial, was stuck to so long as it could serve a purpose. Now that it is useless, it will probably be no more heard of.

The Finance Minister at Trenton.

Met at the Station by Prominent Citizens.

Escorted to the Town Hall by a Procession.

An Address of Welcome.

On Saturday the Hon. Sir S. L. Tilley arrived in Trenton by the noon express from the west, and was met at the G. T. R. Station by a large number of the prominent citizens. After a number of gentlemen were introduced to Sir S. L. Tilley, a procession was formed, headed by the Fire Brigade Band, proceeded in carriages to the Town Hall where an informal meeting was convened.

G. W. Ostrom, Esq., Deputy Reeve, in the absence of the Reeve, read the following address of welcome:

To the Honorable Sir Samuel Tilley, Financ Minister of the Dominion of Canada:

HONORABLE SIR;

The Municipal Council of Trenton having learned that you purpose passing through our town (to spend a few days in the adjoining County) and knowing the deep interest you take in every enterprise that tends to the advancement of the country at large, deem this an opportune occasion to welcome you to this section of the country, and to draw your attention to the long projected Trent-Huron Navigation scheme, and at the same time to express regret that your stay amongst us will necessarily be so brief that we shall be deprived of the pleasure of accompanying you over what is considered the most important section of its route. We are pleased to know that the present Minister of the Dominion are becoming manifestly interested in this grand project as one closely connected with the future growth and prosperity of our common country.

The growing need for producing cheap carriage for the produce of the great North-West, and the desirability of having the same conveyed by Canadian vessels to the seaboard for the markets of Europe make it a commercial necessity.

In fact the expediency and practicability of the matter appear to be placed beyond a perad venture, and the real question as to its ultimate accomplishment seems to drift like all questions calling for large expenditure of money, to the Department over which you have the honor to preside; and hence all parties interested in this national undertaking earnestly desire to get an expression of opinion from you, the chancellor of the exchequer, as to the probability of its early construction.

We are pleased with the action of the Dominion Government in granting an appropriation towards the survey of the Murray Canal and hope that a like substantial token of its endorsement of the greater scheme of the Trent Huron navigation project in which we particularly take so deep an interest, may be made.

In conclusion, Hon. Sir, we beg to express our earnest wish that you may long be spared in health to serve your country with acknowledged ability.

Dated at Trenton, this 28th day of August, A. D. 1880.

G. W. OSTROM, D'y Reeve.
HENRY W. DAY, M. D.
SHUTER S. BONTER.
P. J. O'ROURKE.
JERH SIMMONS, Clerk.

Then D. R. Murphy Esq., read another address from the citizens, signed by over 200 residents of the town and neighborhood.

Sir Leonard replied to both addresses in a short speech, stating that he was taken by surprise, and had no intimation that the addresses were to be presented. That the great works, the Murray and Trent Huron Canals, would have his earnest attention. Hoped as soon as the finances of the Dominion would admit that no doubt they would be built. After referring to several other matters, he concluded, thanking the citizens for their cordial welcome on his first visit to the town.

Hon. Robt. Read then made a few remarks. Messrs. D. R. Murphy and G. W. Ostrom made brief speeches, as the P. E. Co. R.R. train was due.

After a number of citizens, together with a few ladies, were introduced, the proceedings terminated. The hall was well filled. On the platform were G. W. Ostrom, Dr. Day, P. J. O'Rourke, S. S. Bonter, Stephen Young, Rev. Canon Elegadell, J. N. Lee, T. McCabe, Geo. Young, Wm. Johns, J. F. Hendricks, Henry Gill, D. R. Murphy, R. Loughead, Jerh. Simmons and others.

There was a general turn out of persons of both political parties to welcome the Hon. Finance Minister.

The Hon. gentleman was escorted to the P. E Co. RR. Station by quite a number. As the train went off they gave three hearty cheers and the band played appropriate airs.

PICTON, Aug. 28.—Sir Leonard Tilley arrived here this evening and was met at the station by a deputation of citizens and an immense concourse of people in carriages and on foot. A procession headed by the 16th Battalion band, was then formed, and was one of the largest and most imposing seen in our streets for a number of years. On arriving at the Town Hall, which was filled to overflowing, Sir Leonard Tilley was presented with the following address of welcome:—

"To the Hon Sir L. Tilley, K.C.M.G., U.B., Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.

"SIR,—The inhabitants of the Town of Picton and County of Prince Edward respectfully tender you a hearty welcome on the occasion of your first visit to the Bay of Quinte. As an agricultural community, whose prosperity is so closely associated with the development of manufacturing industry and extended trade relations with foreign countries, we recognize you as one of the distinguished public men of the vast Dominion of the British empire, tending earnestly in this direction for the advancement of its material interest; and the happiness and welfare of your fellow subjects, and adorning the high position of a statesman by the purity of your private life.

"On behalf of the inhabitants.

"(Signed) E. MERRILL."

Sir Leonard briefly replied warmly, thanking the people for the great attention shown to him. He said he had never visited a more beautiful locality than Prince Edward county, and he was anxious to see more of it. He then briefly referred to the effect of the National Policy on the country, and claimed that we had not only touched bottom, but were on the high road to prosperity. His remarks elicited much applause. A large number of persons were then presented to Sir Leonard. In the evening the Finance Minister addressed a large audience, showing that the National Policy is encouraging every industry in the country.

General Roberts to Reach Candahar To-day.

An Attack on Ayoob Expected To-morrow.

GENERAL ROBERTS' PROGRESS.

A despatch from Chaman dated Sunday, the 29th says that General Roberts marched from Khelat-i-Ghilzai for Candahar on the 25th. He took with him all the British garrison, and handed over the fort to the Ameer's officials. He expected to reach Candahar on Monday and attack Ayoob on Tuesday. He has sent a plan for combined action with General Phayre if the latter can reach Takhitipul on Monday. This is, however, impossible, in consequence of the scarcity of food and forage and the wholesale desertion of drivers. Takhitipul is 35 miles south of Candahar.

NEWS FROM CALCUTTA.

A despatch from Calcutta says:—The more common impression is that Ayoob Khan will retreat towards Herat, and it is universally hoped that the Government will allow General Roberts to follow him to Herat if necessary. The cholera at Peshawur is dying out. A telegram from Simla reports that the Khyber Valley is fairly quiet.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Washington special to the Herald says Commodore Sheffield's efforts to open negotiations with Corea have concluded. A favorable response is daily expected.

Investigation into the condition of the prospects of trade by the Tribune reporters, show the expectations of greatly exceeded prosperity entertained a year ago are fully realized. The heavy trade that set in last fall has continued to the present time with little interruption, and there is a general feeling among merchants that this season it will be greatly augmented. The southern trade has not been so heavy in years.

Cyrus W. Field in a letter to the Tribune denies that he has ill-feeling towards the Board of Arbitrators of Elevated Roads. He resigns from the Manhattan directorate for private reasons.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

TO-NIGHT.—Yachtsmen are reminded of the meeting at Hambly's to night to arrange for the annual regatta.

PERSONAL.—Messrs Thomas Ritchie and A. G. Northrup, who have been visiting the "old country" for several weeks, arrived here yesterday morning. They came out by the Polynesian.

CRICKET.—A match between the Belleville and Portsmouth clubs will be played here on Thursday. The visiting team is a strong one, it having recently defeated Kingston.

FISHING.—Another party have visited Carnahan's bay and returned with three muscalongs, the largest of which weighed about 23 pounds. The others are much smaller, but still big fish.

RAIN.—Yesterday's rain was just what the farmers wanted, as the previous showers had not penetrated deep enough to do much good to root crops or to soften clayey soil sufficiently for ploughing.

GRAND JUNCTION VS. PETERBOROUGH.—Judgment in the long pending case of the Grand Junction Railway Company vs. the County of Peterborough was to be given in Toronto to-day. The amount involved is $75,000.

CRUELTY.—As a number of persons were awaiting the arrival of the Alexandra on Saturday evening, some person threw a dog into the water, and it was with great difficulty hauled out by some young men just as the steamer arrived.

THE ELECTIONS.—The telegraph offices were on Saturday night the resort of large throngs of politicans who waited anxiously for returns from West Toronto and North Ontario. The former was heard from shortly after 6 o'clock, but definite information as to the latter could not be got.

VENNOR AGAIN.—As Vennor hit it about right in his last prophecies he comes again to the front as follows: "Heat again for a brief period after present cold snap and about entry of September, followed by very cold nights, with sharp frosts. There are indications of a good deal of rain for September, and cloudy, windy weather."

CHURCH PARADE.—No. 4 Company of the 15th Battalion, accompanied by the band of the regiment, attended divine service at Christ Church yesterday morning. Rev Dr. Clarke, who officiated, delivered an excellent discourse. Rev. Septimus Jones, of Toronto, preached to his old parishioners at evening service.

EXCURSION TO NEW YORK.—It will be seen by advertisement that a remarkably cheap trip is announced from Belleville to New York on the 6th September. The route is by steamer Alexandra from Belleville to Kingston, thence to Oswego by the Empress of India and from Oswego to New York by railway, arriving there on Tuesday evening. Returning the party will leave New York on the 13th inst., arriving in Belleville on the 14th inst. The fare will be only $9 for the round trip. Cheap enough in all conscience.

THE 15TH BATTALION INSPECTION.—In our report of the inspection of the 15th Battalion it appears an error was made in stating that Maj.-Gen. Luard "called Capt. Simpson one side and spoke in highly complimentary terms, &c." This compliment to No. 4 Co. as well as No. 1, was given in presence of the officers through Col. Strausbenzie, and not in a private manner. The information upon which our report was based was furnished by a prominent citizen, and in justice to Capt. Simpson, who has been made the subject of a gross and uncalled for attack in our local contemporary, he know nothing of what was contained in the report.

POLICE.—Two arrests were made during the last forty-eight hours.

THE RIFLE.—A meeting of the members of the Hastings Rifle Association is to be held at Hambly's to morrow night.

EXCURSIONS.—Remember the excursion to-morrow to Madoc and the wines. The train leaves the Pinnacle Street station at 9 a. m. Saturday night's excursion on the Alexandra, for the benefit of the Home, was largely attended.

INTERIM SESSIONS.—James Gay was on Thursday last tried for beating his wife, convicted, and sent to gaol for forty-eight hours; Al red Evens and George Litton, who had elected as he tried before the Judge, have determined to wait until the assizes.

RAILWAY NOTES.—The special train which left here this morning for Hastings did not reach there until 11½ a. m. owing to the breaking of the pump on the engine. In consequence of the accident, the trains each way were cancelled for the day. It is the intention to use wood as fuel on the Grand Junction hereafter, as it can be procured more cheaply than coal.

HOTEL KEEPERS and other would do well to examine Jas. Hennessy's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offered at 25 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessy.

Relief for Ireland

On the 22nd April, the Mayor sent a draft of $810.50 to the Duchess of Marlborough for the relief of distress in Ireland, and to-day received the following acknowledgement:—

ASSAULT.

Frederick Dewsbery was charged with assaulting and beating Catharine Rogers.

Henry Howard was charged with beating Jane Rogers.

The parties will appear hereafter for judgment.

Marine.

The schr Belle of Port Dover has arrived from Fair Haven with coal for Rathbun & Son.

The schrs Olivia and St. Clair have cleared for Oswego with lumber.

Sporting Notes.

The race between the yacht Bessie of Sacket's Harbor and the Ella of Oswego, will probably come off at Sackets on Sept. 6th. The course will be from the old ship house around Stoney Island and return, a distance of about 25 miles.

The Peterborough Review says, "The Peterborough Lacrosse Club are endeavoring to get the Belleville Club here on Friday next, the afternoon of which day is likely to be a holiday on account of the regatta of the Boating Club taking place on that day"

At Hartford on Aug. 28th St. Julien reduced the record again by trotting a mile in 2:11¼, which is now the lowest record.

Dominion Exports.

Produce of the mine	$ 183,383
Produce of the fisheries	919,699
Produce of the forest	4,072,172
Animals and their products	2,745,169
Agricultural products	1,782,104
Manufactures	231,579
Miscellaneous	64,074
Total	$10,004,179
Coin and bullion	3,600
Grand total	$10,007,179

of which $8,876,299 was the produce of Canada. For the corresponding month last year the Exports were $8,112,351

There is a large increase in the exportation of products of the forest, but a falling off in the exports of agricultural produce.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

CHEESE.—Cheese was firm in Montreal on Saturday, holders asking as high as 14c per lb.

BEET ROOT SUGAR.—A powerful company, with a capital of $2,000,000 (10,000,000 francs) has been organized in Paris under she title "l'Union Sucriere du Canada" to carry on the manufacture of beet sugar in this country, and that at once. Quebec, Berthier and St. John's have already guaranteed each for twelve years 1,000 acres of beets annually thus securing three distinct factories. Factories are also to be built in other districts and arrangements are being made to obtain 1,000 acres of beets at Varennes, near Montreal. About $120,000 will be sunk in each factory. In connection with this matter we may mention that the French Government have sent a scientific expert named De Lalonde to report on the espabilities of Canada, including the North-west. Mr. Joseph Perrault, of Montreal, has just been informed by letter that Mr. Lalonde left Havre on the 14th inst. for Canada via New York.

Our Progress.

As stages and stage routes are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the huge, drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and bulky medicines, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts and are warranted to cure all irregularities of stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by druggist will find all of Dr Pierce's Family Medicines on sale in principal drug stores and at the London branch of World's Dispensary, Great Russell Street Buildings. Golden Medical Discovery is a most potent alterative or blood-cleansing agent. It expels all humors and cures the most obstinate eruptions, skin or scrofula, enlarged glands, swellings, internal soreness, ulcers, and virulent blood poisons that, unremoved, rot out the vital machinery. Dr. Pierce's Pellets (little sugar-coated pills) are an agreeable and most cleansing cathartic; removed offensive and acrid accumulations thereby preventing fevers and kindred affections. Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—The position taken by "Taxpayer" in Saturday's INTELLIGENCER will, I am sure, receive the hearty endorsation of every ratepayer, as the feeling is universal that the finances of the City must be handled in an intelligent manner in future, if we are to have any re'ief from the burdensome taxes, which the people feel oppressive. I heartily endorse the recommendation of "Taxpayer" that the number of Aldermen for each Ward be reduced from three to one, as it is often remarked that the voices of a number of the City Aldermen are never heard except in an attempt to bleed the city for the benefit of the Ward they represent. And no doubt the business of the City would be better conducted, were the number of Aldermen reduced.

Having seen the City Finance Minister's budget, I was struck by the number of "rolls" not returned by the Collector. Cannot something be done to make the Collector retain his role regularly? for it is a fact, as currently reported on the street, that two-thirds of the members of the City Council have not paid their taxes—which, it is said, is the reason for granting such leniency to the City Collector in the discharge of his duties

ANOTHER TAXPAYER.

NORTH ONTARIO.

Election of Mr. Wheler.

The election held in North Ontario on Saturday resulted in the return of Mr. Wheler, the Opposition candidate. Mr. Wheler's expenditure in 1878 doubtless had an effect, and he had also the sympathy which is usually accorded to men who have been returned and unseated. The full returns have not been received. The majorities are as follows:—

WHELER'S MAJORITIES.

Uxbridge Township	236
Do Village	112
Scugog Island	4
Port Perry	47
Cannington	2
Mara	154
Rama	55
Total	610

GIBBS' MAJORITIES.

Brock	318
Reach	85
Thorah	49
Scott	24
Total	454

Majority for Wheeler 156.

The Townships of Scott and Reach defeated Mr. Gibbs, as whereas his majority in the former in 1878 was 106, at Saturday's election it was but 24. In Reach he had 84 majority in 1878 against 65 now.

The result of Saturday's elections was to leave parties as they were.

Man's Noblest Work.

This is an age of great works and wonderful inventions. Steam, electricity, water, air, al are made to serve man, but unquestionably the greatest inventions are those which preserve man's health and prolong his life, and among the greatest of these is Dr. R. Kyle's New Discovery for Consumption. Its effects are truly wonderful, and hundreds are happy to day, who once looked forward to an early grave. For Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, loss of voice, Hay Fever, Hoarseness, Croup, or any affection whatever of the Throat, Chest or Lungs, Dr. Kyle's New Discovery will positively cure. We can cheerfully recommend it to all, and can unhesitatingly say it is the only sure cure for Consumption and Lung Affections. Trial bottles ten cents; regular size $1. For sale by Jas. Clarke & Co.

From the Hub

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover from.—Boston Globe.

With our principal office on the line in Washington, directly opposite the United States Patent Office we are able to attend to all Patent Business with greater promptness and despatch and less cost than other patent attorneys, who are at a distance from Washington, and who have, therefore, to employ "associate attorneys." We make preliminary examinations and furnish opinions as to the patentability, free of charge, and all who are interested in new inventions and Patents are invited to send for a copy of our "Guide for obtaining Patents," which is sent free to any address, and contains complete instructions how to obtain Patents, and other valuable matter. The Water Supply of Farms.

During the past few years much attention has been devoted to the matter of supplying large towns with an abundance of pure water. In some instances the water has been conducted twenty or thirty miles, in order to obtain that which contains few impurities. Great attention has also been given to its distribution, so that the poor may have it in abundance and at a small cost. Numerous filters have been invented and brought into general use. Special pains have been taken to furnish pure running water, not only for horses, but for dogs. In many cities costly fountains have been erected in parks and along the streets where there is the most travel, so that horses, dogs, and men may at any time quench their thirst without trouble or loss of time. On most farms, however, there has been little improvement in the matter of supplying water for domestic purposes or for the use of stock. The pump has generally taken the place of the old-fashioned well sweep and bucket, and the number of windmills for the purpose of raising water for stock has increased, particularly in the best dairy districts. Little attention, however, has been given to utilizing the water afforded by springs and streams. A large proportion of the wells on farms are in poor condition. Their walls are formed of round stones, and a space exists between the wall and the platform on which the curb rests. Through this, leaves, grass, dust, and small animals enter and contaminate the water. These wells are seldom cleaned out till their contents become so offensive as to attract general attention. The filth that is allowed to accumulate in farm wells, that supply water not only to stock but to the members of the household, is too sickening for consideration. It consists of all kinds of decaying vegetable matter, including manure, as well as of animal matter in all stages of decomposition. Rabbits, rats, mice, and various sorts of reptiles are not unfrequently drowned in wells, and remain there for many months.

The location of most wells that supply water for household purposes is most unfavorable for the purity of their contents. They are, in many cases, near the centre of a space that has a privy, pig-pen, cow-yard, and the outlet of a sink-spout, on the several corners. There is no drain for carrying off the surplus water, saturated as it is with every variety of filth. The earth through which the well passes may be tenacious clay, and in that instance it may be so nearly impervious to moisture that little of the surface water, with the various substances disolved in it, ever enters it. In many cases, however, the earth through which the well passes is sand, or largely composed of sand and gravel, which allows surface water to pass through it with the greatest readiness.

The location of wells from which water is drawn for the supply of domestic animals is infinitely worse than that of wells for furnishing water for human beings. These wells are ordinarily in some portion of the barnyard, and are often in the centre of it. On every side of them are pools of stagnant surface water, the urine of cattle, horses, hogs and sheep, and the leaching of dung hills. The walls, platforms, and curbing of these wells receive less attention than those of the wells from which water is obtained for the use of the household. The well from which water is obtained for stock is rarely cleaned out till the water it furnishes becomes so vile that animals will not drink it unless they are compelled to do so by being deprived from access to a well or stream.

Still this water becomes converted into milk, which, as a matter of course, contains all the impurities taken up by the cows with their drink. These impurities pass into cream, and from that into butter. This being the case, it should be no marvel that most of the butter made on farms, and especially that made during the season that cows are kept in close quarters, has an unpleasant odor and flavor. The wonder is that its taste and smell do not cause it to be rejected altogether as an article of food. It is quite time that the interest in the matter of the water supply, that has been recently awakened in large cities, should extend to farms from which the people of towns obtain their supply of food Not only the people who live on farms, but those who reside in cities, are interested in the matter of pure water in the country.—Chicago Times.

Eaten By an Alligator.

The Lake City, Fla, Reporter says: A few days ago a party of several sportsmen from near Benton went on a "drive," for deer. About 12 oclock they came to People's Bridge, on the Suwannee, and being warm and much fatigued they concluded to take a bath. The party, consisting of about eight, divested themselves of clothing and enjoyed a swim. As most of the party were occupying themselves in dressing a young man named Mixon cried out, "Boys, I must have one last swim," and plunged into the stream. As he reached the middle he cried for help to his companions, they looked to behold him by held the right shoulder in the mouth of an enormous alligator. The monster sank with him, reappearing some two or three minutes later upon the surface with Mixon still in his jaws. Mixon cried to his companies to shoot, but, before a gun could be discharged he sank again taking Mixon under with him. About two minutes after he arose again and struck for the opposite shore, still having the illfated young man in his enormous mouth. Again Mixon called upon his companions to shoot, but being afraid of hitting Mixon, no one discharged a gun. The alligator crept some half a dozen feet upon the opposite bank, remaining about three minutes, when guided by a sudden impulse, he plunged with his burden into the river and reaching the middle, sank to rise no more within view of the party. A thorough search was made, but naught could be seen of the body or parts of the body of the unfortunate young man. The presumption is that the alligator made for his lair, which probably was near at hand.

COLORING BUTTER.—Some cows will not or, rather, cannot, give rich, yellow butter and some can. It is an attribute of the cows, and not of the food given to them. Coloring the butter is not objectionable in the slightest degree, if the coloring is pure. Carrot juice is subject to decomposition, and is, therefore, not so good as the preparations of annatto. Annatto is a vegetable product, and is not only harmless, but useful, as it adds to the flavor as well as the appearance of the butter. If it were not that the purchasers and consumers of the butter insist on having it of a certain color is artificial, and paying more for it so colored, producers would be under no obligation in color it. It is foolish or stupid to persist in opposing an innocent popular fashion or taste, more especially when it hurts no one and pleases the multitude. But in this case the eaters of butter are right, and their critics are wrong, for butter well colored is positively better for it.

No Hospital needed.

No palatial hospital needed for Hop Bitters patients, nor large-salaried talented puffers to tell what Hop Bitters will do or cure, as they tell their own story by their certain and absolute cures at home.

ON account of the great importance to the dairy industry of Pennsylvania of keeping up the yield of milk, the following resolution, offered by A. M. Fuller, was adopted by the Meadville board of trade; "In view of the heavy shrinkage of milk at our dairies, and the prospective high price for dairy products, we would recommend that the dairymen of this section resort to extra feeding with meal or bran where not provided with other extra food, in order to secure the best possible results in the business. There were 1,755 boxes of cheese offered at Meadville last week, for the best of which 11c was bid. It found no takers, and the stock was held over.

A Fact Worth Knowing.

Are you suffering with Consumption, Coughs, Severe Colds settled on the Breast, Pneumonia, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs? If so, go to your Druggist and get a bottle of BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP. This medicine has lately been introduced from Germany, and is selling on its own merits. The people are going wild over its success, and Druggists all over our country are writing us of its wonderful cures among their customers. If you wish to try its superior virtue, get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents, Large size bottle 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it.

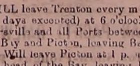

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city house where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILL'S, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrited.

SUBSTITUTES!

☞ The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," "but have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Aneamia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

THE CAFES OF PARIS

are the arenas of public life, where the best insight into the peculiarities and habits of the French people may be obtained. What the exchange is to a commercial people the cafe is to a Parisian.

There it seems natural for every person to go. Statesmen, professional men, artizans and merchants, often with their wives and daughters, meet there and discuss the politics and amusements of the day. Each table has its party, and quietly is the conversation conducted that the nearest neighbors are not disturbed.

Instead of breakfast in the morning, luncheon at 12 or 1 o'clock, and dinner in the evening, the Frenchman takes merely a cup of coffee and a small roll in the morning, and this is probably the only meal he takes in his own house. The cafes are filled at 12 o'clock with the people who come in for their dejeuner, or breakfast, and in the morning from 11 till half-past 7, with those who flock in for dinner.

As the hours pass, after dinner loungers come in; old women with white lap dogs waddle to the table and take their glass of coffee or wine. The seats outside the door fill up; the people laugh and lounge and sip and talk; some stroll away to the theatre others take their places. The gas is lit, young men call for teas, old men call for punches. At half the tables, both inside and out, is the game of dominoes and cards. Nine, ten, eleven and twelve o'clock come over the Paris world. The omnibuses have passed thundering by; few persons are left in the chaussée—a few privileged cafes that are allowed to keep open all night. The people lounge away—not home; there is no such word, as Canadians understand it, in their language.

PARISIAN HOME LIFE.

The Englishman, when he meets you, but his sociabilities are all outof-door sociabilities. He will chat with you in the train, at the theatre, or at the cafe, but you will rarely see him at home. Friends meet at the Opera, in the public gardens, or dine together at the restaurant, but they do not ten do not know each other's dwelling.

There are few streets devoted to private residences, as in Canadian, American and british cities. The people live over stores and in lodged between streets, entered through archways leading into round court yards. The court yards, once inside of them, are large enough for a carriage to turn, and generally answer as an entrance to two or three houses.

Nothing is practically known by the Parisian of our glorious Anglo-Saxon home spirit—that spirit that finds its development around the domestic fireside. There is no such as an "Old Folks' Evenings at Home" or such poem as the "Cotter's Saturday Night" in the whole range of French literature.

Go with a letter of introduction to a Parisian, and he will overwhelm you with his protestations of friendship; he will invite you for a drive through the city, to a seat in his box at the theatre, he will ask you to dejeuner with him at the restaurant, and to dine with him at the club, but you will rarely be asked to his home. This is not from distrust; not that he thinks it wrong for you to associate with his family; it is because his social feelings do not centre there. They are too much out of doors. His pleasures are out of his own house, and to participate in them you must go abroad with him.

His social spirit is of larger circumference than that of the Canadian, but it is less fixed and strong. Home is the place to make such a spirit fixed, and strong, and pure. And as I contemplate, from the exterior grandeur and the superficial state of a society which has no such rallying point, I thank God that my lot is cast in a corner of the world where such an institution is cherished. Some Parisians no doubt dine in their own houses, but from what I have been able to learn of the general tone of they are comparatively few. While looking into the customs of the people, let us drop into one of the principal restaurants, the Trois Freres, where go such misguided nobles as would ape such, and such duke as would wish to be thought noble; where go, in short, all who, by paying enormous prices, would wish to seem of the elite. The eclat of extravagance belongs to such as the cafe anglais or trois freres, and there is no restaurant windows in Paris show richer stock of game and meats.

There are several along the Boulevards of equal rank to those we have cited, and there are places where English ale and English dinners are advertised. There are those again where good dinners can be had for two francs and a half (50c), including wine! Whatever may be a man's tastes or means, he may find the gratification of them, at some rate in Paris.

THE PARISIAN SUNDAY.

Religion with the Parisans seems more of a sentiment than a principle. That is, their religion has more the liveliness of a feeling than the earnestness of absorbing duty. Except on the occasion of a funeral one sees few earnest faces in Paris churches; the worshipers do not leave their gaiety entirely at the door. They listen attentively, but real devotion seems to be wanting.

Sunday here is strikingly illustrative of the religious tendencies of the French people. It is the great festive day of the week. The authorities give their finest military displays, the fountains play in their best styles the shop windows wear their gayest appearance, the theatres play their best pieces and the museums are crowded. Yet it is not forgotten that the day has a sacred purpose. At the morning mass—at an hour when when many a good protestant is dallying with sleep—the floor of Notre-Dame and the Madeline is covered with kneeling worshippers, who count their beads and repeat their prayers with all the energy of true devotion.

Sunday is the great day at cafes and restaurants. On no other day are the gains so great. The savings of the week are lavished on the indulgences of Sunday. He who dines at a moderate price during six days, revels in the fare of one of the best restaurants on the seventh.

The Gardens are full to overflowing; Versailles and Saint Cloud swarm with Parisians. The galleries of the Louvre (National Art Gallery) on no other day are so thronged with visitors.

The stall-keepers of the Champs Elysees, with their cakes and swings and roundabouts, drive a "roaring" trade. Everyone seems bent on pleasure and on making the most of the day's pleasure.

There are a number of Protestant churches of different denominations scattered over Paris, where one may listen to good, sweet, home-sounding English, in performance of those sacred offices which are bound up in some measure with his being.

A Trip to the North-West
IV.
PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Aug. 5

All things in readiness, we left the capital on Saturday evening at 5:15 p. m., for the west. The heavens presented a blackening appearance and were threatening to indicate rain. It thundered and lightened in the west. Presently the storm clouds gathered in the south and by a change in the current of air were returned to the south again with the appearance of renewed viciousness. We jogged along, thinking to reach Silver Heights before the rain broke down upon us, but before we arrived at the camp ground the rain began to pour and we in the pelting storm with an incomplete tent attached to the ground as best we could, and when we were inside we thought that ours was tolerable condition, until the wind began to rise at 12 o'clock at night at once that there was no lack of onlookers. I braced myself against one upright pillar in the tent and found some amusement in studded the [illegible] The wind was steadily on the increase and the rain poured down more furiously than ever and presently one stake gave way, then another and [illegible] this time Charlie was undergoing a severe experience trying to hold the cover on the waggon, sitting in the front seat of the vehicle facing the west with the discharged contents of the [illegible] between his sitting in upon him. Difficulty that he saved the waggon cover from being torn into slits. He very suddenly found out that our position was an unenviable one, and not proof against an enemy's attack, so in the midst of the howling storm we caught the Shaughcanappises and hitched them before the waggon and drove down to the Assiniboine and there we found much more comfortable quarters. We put up at this house for all day Sunday and resumed our course westward at 5 o'clock a. m. on Monday.

Silver Heights is a small but very beautiful place, just before you Winnipeg. The term Silver Heights is not improperly applied. On my visit to this place one year ago, I was fortunate enough to arrive on a bright calm summer evening, and the large quantity of white and silver maple presented a silvery appearance. It is situated on the banks of the Assiniboine river, on a high elevation of ground. It was the home of the late Hon. James McKay, and built on the piazza of his residence Lord Dufferin delivered his first and only speech to the few scattered remnants of Manitoba Indians. Here also is the summer residence of Donald A. Smith, the unseated Reform member, but who would suppose that its manufactured fluid was brought into pretty extensive use.

Between Silver Heights and Baie St. Paul there is a great amount of land under cultivation. In this district the farms that once were owned by Half Breeds are almost all owned by Ontario English and Scotch farmers, and instead of seeing the old fashioned wooden plough that was at one time the pride of the aborigine husbandmen, we now see the more modern improved sulky plough—an implement that will with an ordinary walking team of horses turn over four acres of land per day. Not many years prior to this the country of which I am now writing was comparatively a dead one, and on signs of life were visible, save only in the wild, breakneck, reckless horseback riding of the halfbreed and the Indian; now we see in any direction that the eye may be cast the working of the business like mower and reaper, the sounding of whose cogwheels are in all countries one of the best signs of civilization, and from every quarter come their sound of music. We were treated on with our Indian horses and made very bad time indeed, although ours was considered a choice team, yet to us they seemed as though they were liable to give out at any moment, and with indications were anything but pleasant to us when we had 600 miles to travel ahead of us. My two companions are both given to horse trading and they mutually agreed to swap the first opportunity. The next thing to be done was to stop every half-breed we met until we should strike the right one, and after ten or twelve attempts we hit him (the half breed) straight. We hailed up to a tavern at Little Jerusalem and he happened to be the owner) if he could give us his pedigree, and without any hesitation whatever he gave it to us in full, but he did not tell us of the battles he had fought or the victories he had won. I could see in his very eye that he was an abolitionist and a strong admirer of the grand army of the Republic, but I concealed my convictions from his owner until he got through with his little say and then all three let out for him. After a little cross questioning he admitted that he might have been a little astray, but not much. However we made a trade, and without any theorizing we have all three graduated into first class M. D's, but we will never forget that half-breed for his peculiar faculty for telling the truth, and if we ever have an opportunity of administering medicine to him we will deal it out in double doses.

Little Jerusalem is the site of a town that is to be, and at present consists of a tavern and one lamp post. It is in mid-prairie, and is just a proper distance from Headingly to make it a convenient stopping place for travellers. A gentleman living not far from this little place informed me that the settlers close by met at Little Jerusalem for the purpose of naming the present site. "Some," he said, "were in favor of calling it New Jerusalem, while others were in favor of the name already conferred. The latter party being in the majority, their request was granted them."

The country between this and Portage la Prairie is really a delightful one, especially adapted to stock raising. I should suppose from what I have seen that there has been more hay cut along the Assiniboine between Winnipeg and High Bluff than in the whole county of Hastings. Some of the finest specimens of cattle on the continent are to be seen along this road and on the whole they are without a doubt, the fattest. There are some very large farms on the great highway to the Portage, and pretty well worked. I counted between Popular Heights and the Portage 15 self-binders, while in the lower Provinces you might travel from Toronto to Quebec, overrun with agricultural machinery, there are no less than seven different agencies and doing a big trade. The little town has very nearly doubled itself in size in two years, and the prospects at present are that it will continue to grow. There is a large amount of business done here, all the stores are carrying heavy stocks, and farming implements and machinery sold here is principally of Canadian make. Two years ago the markets were swamped with American goods, and now the same class of machinery as that which was sold two years ago is made in Canada, and of a superior quality, and can be bought for less money now than when our neighbors monopolized the North West trade. Monitor ploughs that were sold here for $26 can now be obtained (of the Canadian make) for $23. One dealer informed me that the ordered 1,000 Breaker Ploughs from he Smith Falls firm, as they gave better satisfaction. I wonder if this has anything to do with the National Policy!

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, AUG. 31.

The N. P., the Workingman, and the Farmer.

In his speech to the electors of North Ontario at Uxbridge, Sir Leonard Tilley scathingly exposed the double-faced assertions of the Grits in relation to the effect which the tariff has upon farmers and workingmen respectively. Nothing plainer, more concise or more convincing could possibly be given. Sir Leonard said:

> farmers, who could accept twelve months had that they did not know anything and had allowed Sir John Macdonald to humbug them. (Laughter.) And down to the last ten days there had not been an article in that paper which was not calculated to impress upon the minds of the farmers that they would get no benefit from the National Policy. But when it was necessary to serve Mr. Ryan in Toronto, the Globe said that all the articles used by the workingmenwere taxed and made more expensive. Here was a change—one argument for Toronto and another for the agricultural districts. The Globe had been asserting that the National Policy robbed the farmers to the extent of ten or twelve cents a bushel on wheat, and it went on to say that while for years previous to the introduction of the National Policy the difference in the price of wheat in the market of Chicago and Toronto had been seventeen cents a bushel in favor of Toronto, since the new tariff, the difference had been only two or three cents in favor of Toronto, and had been sometimes against it, and the result was the farmer had been robbed. He would like to know how the imposition of a duty of fifteen cents a bushel robbed the farmers and reduced prices. (Cheers). If an impositlon of duties reduced prices, then the Opposition's principal argument against the tariff had gone. (Cheers.) But it was absurd—nay, impossible—for the farmers to lose to such an extent. He had had the commercial reports of the Globe for the four years previous to the N. P. examined, and their own reports proved the assertion to be incorrect. (Cheers.)

The result was given as follows:—For the 52 weeks before March 15, 1879, the average quotation in the Globe for No. 2 spring wheat was 93 16-100s. at Toronto and 92 93-100c. in Chicago, which allowing for exchange, gave a difference in favor of Toronto of 1¼c. For the 52 weeks next after March 15, 1879, the average was:—Toronto 1,10, Chicago 1.06 giving after allowing for exchange a difference in favor of Toronto of 3¼ cents, being an improvement over the first period of 2¼ cents. For the first three months of 1880 the quotations were:—Toronto 1.26½, Chicago 1.21½, giving 4¾ cents in favor of Toronto. What had occurred a year after the N. P.? The average for three months, from April 1st to June 30th, 1880, was:—Toronto 1.21½, Chicago 1.04½, or 17 cents in favor of Toronto. For the seven weeks, July 1st to Aug. 21st, 1880, the averages were:—Toronto 1.16, Chicago 91½ cents, or 24½ cents in favour of Toronto. (Cheers.) Well, the Globe the other day said that every man who used a loaf of bread paid three-quarters or one cent more than he did before. What admirable consistency! In one breath the Globe said the farmers were robbed of twelve cents a bushel, and then in the next that the poor workingman was robbed of three-quarters or one cent. (Laughter.) Then the Globe said that the farmer got no more for his oats or pork. And yet the other day it said that somehow or other people paid more for these things."

If Grit orators and Grit journalists are wise, even in the sense of studying their own interest, they will, after this crushing exposition of their tactics, try for a season at least to stick to the truth. Their assertions are so plainly self-contradictory as to form food for mirth to their opponents and to disgust persons who do not hold strictly by either party, whilst Reformers who think for themselves are humiliated by the disreputo into which their party is being brought by such means. The people who read Grit newspapers are long-suffering, but they are not such mental imbeciles as their would-be instructors in matters political seem to imagine. Let the free-trade press take warning by the course which has been pursued by the Parkhill Gazette, a hitherto Reform newspaper, the editor of which has become so sickened of his party by the dishonesty of its leaders and press in opposition to the N. P. that he has renounced his allegiance to Gritism, as exemplified by them.

ORDER RESPECTING TOBACCO.—His Excellency on the recommendation of the Minister of Inland Revenue, has been pleased to declare that manufacturers of tobacco who at the time of passing of the Inland Revenue Act of 1880 were using kegs for packages for tobacco manufactured by them shall not be subject to any fines, penalties or forfeitures for continuing packages of the same description, unless such packages or any one of them contain more than 110 lbs. of tobacco.

GRAND JUNCTION VS PETEROROUGH.—Judgment was given in this case on Monday in favor of the Railway Company, holding the County liable to hand over the $75,000 debentures under the old By-law of 1870. Mr. Justice Cameron dissented from this judgement, while Mr. Justice Armour held that the County was not liable for interest on the debentures. The Peterborough Review says there will probably be an appeal.

The City's Finances.

Lively Discussion in the Finance Committee.

Receipts and Expenditures Minutely Reviewed.

The Finance Committee met last night to consider the estimates for the year.

PRESENT—Ald. Jellett, Chairman; Messrs Lingham, Farley, St. Charles, Dickson, Hambly, McIninch, Robertson, and the Mayor.

The Treasurer, the Clerk, the Collector, the Street Surveyor, the Solicitor, and Mr. T. B. Bentley, Auditor, were also in attendance to furnish information.

The Chairman asked the opinion of the Committee as to whether Ald. Niles was entitled to a seat on the Committee under the resolution of Ald. Dickson, which appointed him on all Committees of which Ald. Holden had been a member, except as to the Court of Revision, of which Ald. Holden was Chairman, but which is to choose its own Chairman.

The question was decided in the affirmative and Ald. Niles took his seat.

The Chairman then stated that he had placed before them a true statement of the financial position of the city, and he hoped they would be able to present a report which would be satisfactory.

Ald. Farley pointed out that the expenditure on market account in 1879 had been $1,100 or $400 below the estimate, instead of $2,127.49 over the estimate, as stated in this year's estimate.

Ald. Petrie came in.

The Chairman said that the estimate was according to the Auditors' report.

Ald. Jellett, in reply to Ald. Dickson, said the accounts for 1879 were not yet printed.

Ald. Geen had the matter in charge.

Ald. Dickson—The tendering system works well!

Ald. Geen came in.

Ald. Dickson asked how much of the back taxes had been collected.

Ald. Jellett—$11,642.01

Mr. Bently, in reply to Ald. Dickson, said he thought the rolls for 1875 and '76 would be returned Wednesday.

Ald. Jellett, going over the revenue from past years, said $13,781.74 had been collected on the roll of last year up to the present. The amount due by John Cook had been collected. Of small rents, amounting to $262.33, was put down as worthless. The harbor dues uncollected last year had been paid; fines and fees had also been paid; Flint & Holton held a contra account; Downey's case had been paid; the item of $50 from Billa Flint was [illegible]; on non resident taxes $427.69 had been paid.

The Solicitor said that when the payment of some non-resident taxes had been sought, receipts from R. P. Davy as Treasurer were produced.

The revenue of 1880 was then gone into item by item, it being shown that the carters had paid $38.75 out of $100; auctioneers $60 out of $120; livery $43 out of $100; City Hall $134.73 instead of $120; all the market rents due had been paid, $1,141.60; stall rents, $287.50; on city property, $510, nothing was paid, none being due; fines and fees $283.94; dog tax $212; harbor $1,737.30; gas account $1,790; $700 non-resident taxes; County of Hastings debenture (an old one) $318.

Ald. Dickson—That is from the County of Hastings Sinking Fund. Our Sinking Fund has sunk out of sight. Miscellaneous was represented by $1,000.

Ald. Jellett—We will take up the other side.

Ald. Robertson—Begin with the salaries.

Ald. Dickson—Mr. Solicitor, how is the Mayor's salary regulated?

Solicitor—It is paid at the end of the year.

Ald. Jellett—The Police Magistrate's salary is fixed by statute.

The Clerk gets a salary of $1,000; the Solicitor $700.

The market account so far paid is $507.84; the fire department $2,689.27.

Ald. St. Charles said some of the items in this sum should be charged to the Board of Works, to the Harbor and City Property Committee, &c. Besides the hose bought for the year would be used in after years, and should not be charged entirely for this year. The department is not as expensive as the public were led to believe, for though $5,000 is asked in the estimates $2,689.27 had already been paid on that account.

On the item of $100 for the rent of No. 3 hall, Ald. Dickson thought it idle to go to such an expense when we had a large building like the old Town Hall, which was only used by one company.

Ald. St. Charles said that No. 2 had gone to great expense to fix up their present hall and as their furnishings were private property it was not right to introduce intruders. No. 3 had asked for a more expensive hall and a better furnished one.

In answer to Ald. Robertson, Ald. St. Charles said the rent fund of the fire department was $500 this year instead of $600 as last year.

On the contingent fund $177 has been paid up to the present time; for streets $3,8 0.72 leaving a balance of $4,200; for salaries $1, 473.38; printing $820.14,

On the reading of the last item Ald. Dickson asked was that the amount paid thus far, and you have only put $800 for this year in the estimates.

Ald. Jellett. Some of that account is from last year.

Ald. Geen gave the average cost of printing for 1875, 1876, 1877, as $2,000,

On Water and Gas $1,581.78 has been paid.

Ald. Hambly said there was no city in Ontario that obtained its gas supply for less money than Belleville.

Ald. Jellett said in Brockville the cost of each lamp was $24. There were 90 lamps, lit 22 nights in the month, which were kept burning from dark until daylight. That town paid $3 per 1,000 feet. In Ottawa the cost of each lamp was $25 and they had there 350 lamps. In Kingston the cost of the fire department was $3,528; the cost of printing, &c., was $1,019; light gas lamps, $1,599 and oil lamps $221.

Ald. Jellett, the next item is an extraordinary one to me. The indigent account showed that $2,170.74 had been paid so far.

Ald. Robertson.—It will cost $2,000 more.

Ald. Petrie.—There is a great deal of poverty here and I have kept the expenses as low as I could. The account does not include the hospital account. The building is insured.

Ald. Jellett.—Some of last year's items in this regard were paid this year.

Ald. Petrie.—In regard to the passes charged to this account, I don't hold the Committee responsible, nor yet for the hospital. I instructed the Chairman of City Property to insure the hospital that was burned.

For harbor $188.87 has been paid which is miscellaneous.

Ald. Robertson was in hopes the Government would put up a light house, and he was now in communication with the Minister of Marine and Fisheries on this subject.

The police funds already paid was $2,-929.32. The salary list of the force is as follows:—Chief, $900; 1st Sergeant, $825; 2nd do. $500; and five privates at $425 each $2,125—a total of $4,050.

Ald. Dickson said he had a By-law prepared in this regard, and it was a question whether the number of men or the salary should be reduced.

Ald. Petrie said the police were paid less in times when a dollar could not get what seventy-five cents does now. In other places the police get $300 to $325.

Ald. Dickson.—Let us commence with the first on the list—the chief. Perhaps you know something about his salary, Mr. Mayor.

The Mayor.—He was engaged at first for a year at $300, and his salary was afterwards raised to $900.

Ald. Petrie.—There were times when 300 or 400 sailors and 200 or 300 shantymen came to town and the police were less in number then than now and, besides the police jurisdiction does not now go beyond Front St. Sergeants Snider or McCrudden were more entitled to the approbation of the Council than any other. Either could do the work as well as the chief, and at $600 a year.

Ald. Dickson said we can pass a resolution as to how much we will pay and how many we will pay and notify the Commissioners of our action, such action to be endorsed in the By-law proposed.

Ald. Jellett—The Chief in Kingston gets $1,000.

Ald. Robertson—I do not think it right to reduce the number of the force or reduce their pay.

Ald. Petrie—The Chief at Kingston has to look after 7,000 or 8,000 mariners every week.

Ald. Dickson believed that our force was an efficient one, but now would reduce it as follows: one private, one sergeant; the pay of the latter to be $500, the Chief's pay to be reduced $50, making it $850, and the privates from $425 to $400,—thus effecting a saving of $700.

Ald. St. Charles thought that the Chief and one men would make a sufficient force; reduce the number to five, and give them each $425 and $750 to the chief, which latter sum would pay a very good man.

Ald. Geen—The Chief is away here on duty for the Country, are we to pay for that?

Ald. Dickson—He has been off a couple of times, and as the force gets on well in his absence, can it not do so altogether?

Mayor—He is away now on a matter concerning a crime committed here.

Ald. Dickson.—And the police get—how many suits of clothes a year?

Ald. McIninch—Two; one in summer and one in winter.

Ald. Dickson.—If they got 400, the perquisites they get now would make it equal to $450.

Ald. St. Charles—I propose to reduce the force by two men, making $850 saved. The reduction of the Sergeant's pay $100, and the clothes, &c., would make a total—with a reduction of the Chief's salary to $750—of $1,200. I propose that the estimate for police be $2,875 with $50 each for clothing.

Ald. Dickson—There should be an extra man and the Sergeant should be paid more than a private. What I would submit is this, the Chief $800, 1 Sergeant $450 and 5 privates at $400, $2,000, which would make a saving of $800. He made a motion embodying the above.

Ald. Robertson.—I move in amendment that the chief get $800, the sergeant $525 and five privates at $425.

Ald. Geen presented the following amendment to the amendment:—The Chief $700 and $100 for clothes; two Sergeants at $450 and $50 each for clothes; four privates at $400 and $50 each for clothes.

Ald. Geen's amendment was lost.

Ald. Farley moved that the force remain as at present, but that 10 per cent of the salary given be taken off.

Ald. Farley's amendment was lost, as was also Ald. Robertson's.

Ald. Dickson's motion was lost.

Ald. Geen submitted the contents of his amendment, which had been lost, as a substantive motion.

Ald. Dickson moved that the police salary list be, the Chief $800, two Sergeants, $425 each and four men $412.50 each, a total of $3,300.

Ald. Geen made his motion read as follows: the Chief, $700; two Sergeants $450 each; four privates $400 each; clothing $350. This was lost, and Ald. Dickson's motion passed, after which it was ordered that a By-law embodying the motion be presented to the Council at its next session.

Ald. Dickson.—The Solicitor and Street Surveyor should have their salaries reduced.

Ald. Lingham.—The Harbor Master's salary should be reduced $100.

Ald. Dickson moved that the salary of the Solicitor be reduced to $600.

Ald. St. Charles expressed the opinion that the Solicitor's salary could not be well reduced.

The motion was withdrawn.

Ald. Dickson moved that the salary of the Harbor Master be fixed at $350 per year.

Ald. Robertson opposed the reduction.

Ald. Petrie.—If you make it $400 I'll go with you.

This was done and the motion carried.

Ald. Niles moved that 50 cents be charged on each cow impounded and 25 cents for each cow brought to the pound.

Ald. Dickson favored that the Inspector be paid at so much per head for each cow impounded.

The matter was left in abeyance.

Ald. Geen moved that the salary of the Street Surveyor be reduced to $500.—Lost.

The Gas Committee were requested to ascertain if the number of gas and lamp lights in the city cannot be reduced, if a reduction could not be made in the cost thereof, also if the price of gas could not be reduced, and if the lighting of the clock could not be dispensed with in whole or in part.

Ald. Dickson moved that the estimate for streets be placed at $6,000.

Ald. Lingham said if the estimates were reduced, there was no use in doing anything more with the streets.

Ald. Robertson favored $7,000 as the estimate.

The motion was altered, and another thousand added.

The motion was lost.

Ald. Dickson said it had been stated, though not in Council, that the estimates had been continually exceeded to the extent, in the last few years, of $84,000.

The estimates under the head of Streets and Public Works were referred to the Committee to ascertain if they could be reduced. The estimates under the heads of Fire and Water, and Poor and Sanitary, were similarly referred to their respective Committees.

The Committee adjourned at 12 o'clock, to meet again on Friday evening.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

City and Vicinity.

FALLING LEAVES.—One effect of the recent drought is observable in the premature withering of the leaves of many shade trees.

SOCIAL.—The social given by the young ladies of Bleecker Street Church last evening, in aid of Rev. Mr. Jenkinson, consisting of readings, recitations and music, was socially pleasant, and financially successful to the amount of $30.

ASBESTOS.—A small but apparently good specimen of asbestos, obtained from the farm of Mr. John Terrion, sen., part of lot 9, in the 13th concession of Marmora, has been sent by mail. The location of the deposit is near Malone.

YACHT CLUB.—Owing to other engagements of many members of the Yacht Club last night, the intended meeting was not held. A meeting will be held on Tuesday evening next, September 7th.

EXCURSION.—The excursion of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, which proceeded to Trenton yesterday, was largely patronized, and the excursionists had a pleasant time in visiting the lately created town and their friends there.

GARDEN ROBBERY.—On Saturday night Mr. Job Lingham's garden was despoiled of a number of fine melons and other fruit. It is to be hoped that the thieves will be discovered and punished as they deserve.

TALL CORN.—Mr. Abel Finkle, of Sidney, exhibited this morning a corn stalk measuring 10 feet six inches in length. The field from which it was taken is one of the finest pieces of corn ever grown in this section of country.

MADOC AND THE MINES.—The excursion this morning to Madoc and the mines was largely attended. The train, which consisted of seven cars well filled, did not start on its journey until 11 o'clock.

LACROSSE MATCH.—The Peterbough Review of yesterday says:—"Mr. R.H. Fortye this morning received a telegram from the Secretary of the Belleville Lacrosse Club announcing definitely that their club would arrive here on Friday next. Our boys are in good trim and a good exhibition of the national game may be anticipated."

A LACROSSE TOURNAMENT.—Amongst the many attractions which the Committee of the Dominion Exhibition at Montreal are preparing for their visitors, is a grand Lacrosse Tournament, to come off on the 16th and 17th September. A magnificent cup valued at $250 will be offered, and it is hoped that this, in connection with the many attractions of the exhibition proper, will induce the leading clubs in Canada and the United States to enter the competition. Can Belleville Club be induced to enter the lists for this magnificent prize.

ROWING.—The Kingston Whig makes a characteristically bouncing statement when it asserts that our recent remarks regarding the unintentional and thoughtless forfeiture by some Kingston oarsmen of their status as amateurs, by rowing for money and against professionals, was an excuse to dodge a race between the Belleville and Kingston scullers. Our intention was to draw out the facts of the case, as our local amateurs wish to retain their standing as such, and very properly so. If Messrs. Kilbeck, McNaughton, Mandeville and others have not broken the rule of the Amateur Association we shall be glad to have the fact made known, as in such case a race between some of them against members of the Bay of Quinte Rowing Club might be arranged. Otherwise it would be impossible for the men to meet, unless to row against each other's time at the same place, one after another.

Trenton Notes

Trenton, Aug 30th.

H.B. Rathbun & Son are taking their machinery out of their mill on mill island and removing it to Mill Point.

An excursion from Belleville per steamer Mary Ethel arrived here to day, the excursionists seemed well pleased with our young town and its surroundings.

The stubble in front of J. S. Knox's barn in the second concession of Murray was fired by a spark from a G.T.R. engine and but for the timely assistance of the neighbors the barn and contents would have been destroyed.

THE NEW ATLANTIC CABLE.—The new Atlantic Cable that is being laid from Trinity Bay, Newfoundland, to Valentia is intended to replace the cable of 1866, now collapsed. It is the fifth of the series of Transatlantic cables laid down by the Anglo American Telegraph Company, the dates of which are respectively 1858, 1866, 1873, and 1874. The first cable has not been available for many years. The shore end of the line laid down in 1866 has been found to be in perfectly sound condition for a distance of 150 miles from Newfoundland east. To this shore end, having its terminus in the harbor of Heart's Content, it is proposed to connect a section of 1,300 miles, thus effecting a saving of 150 miles of cable.

PINE SEEDS FOR BELGIUM.—The Quebec Government is having gathered on the Upper Ottawa two bushels of white pine seed and two bushels of red pine seed for exportation to Belgium, where extensive experiments are being made in growing the Canadian pine.

LOCOMOTIVES.—The Kingston News says a contract for the building of four locomotives for the Halifax and Cape Breton Railway has been awarded to the Canadian Engine Company, and the work will be proceeded with immediately. They have to be finished in a certain time, so that a good number of hands will have to be employed.

Sporting Notes.

At Toronto on Saturday the game of Lacrosse between the Toronto and Dominions resulted in favor of the former, who won the second, third and fourth games.

Bradford beat Newmarket on the same day by 70 runs; Orangeville Conservatives beat the Reformers by an innings and 5 runs; and Owen Sound beat Collingwood by an innings.

Toronto and Whitby played cricket on the grounds of the former on Saturday. The game was a draw but all in favor of Toronto, who made 141 to the 95 and 161 for five wickets of their opponents. For Toronto, Brock made 55 and Behan, who retired sick, 56; for Whitby Trousdell made 54 and S. Ray 24.

A match for the lacrosse championship of the United States took place at Newport, R. I., on the 26th inst. in the presence of a very distinguished and high-toned crowd. The contestants were the Manhattan Club of New York and the Unions of Boston. The latter won in three straight games in 14, 5, and 7½ minutes. W. Hubbell and R. Summerhayes were the leading players for the winners, and E. J. Maguire, an old Shamrock man, distinguished himself for the Manhattans.

THE LAKE DISASTER

Several Persons Missing.

The burning of the Marine City on Lake Huron, brief mention of which was made in our columns yesterday, turns out to be more serious than at first reported, and it is feared that several lives were lost. The following additional particulars are furnished by telegram from Detroit:

The Marine City on her way down from Mackinaw with a full load of freight and passengers left Alcona at 3:30 this afternoon. About four, when off Sturgeon Point, fire was discovered in the hold, and before effective efforts could be taken the flames became unmanageable. Efforts were at once directed to saving the passengers The tug Vulcan fortunately was in sight and hastened to her relief, as did also the boats of the life saving station at the Point and several small boats from shore. These picked up a large number of persons in the water, chiefly from Detroit, Port Huron and up shore ports. Also the following: Mrs. J. J. Moore and son, Ottumwa, Ohio; Dewitt Colville, Toronto; Misses Margaret and J. J. McConnell, Mrs. John McElroy, Chas. Clements, Nathan Thompson and Frank Warner all of Toledo, Isaac Togner, Montreal. The following are the only missing yet known:—Richard Shultz, James Griffin, Frank Emmet, Guy McElroy, Toledo; Dr. Pomeroy, Ohio. A number have been to Sturgeon Point, whose names have not been obtained. Capt. Corner and the crew of the Marine City acted with great coolness, and Capt. Hackett and the crew of the tug Vulcan rendered valuable assistance, as did also the life-saving crew. Those rescued are all at Alcona. The Marine City was fourteen years old, valued at $300,000. She is insured for $15 and owned by Gallagher & Warriner, of this city.

LATER.

DETROIT, Aug. 30.—There is little news from the wreck of the Marine City. The boat floated ashore, but is burned to the water's edge. The latest statements are that the books and papers are lost, so the work of ascertaining will be difficult. It is estimated that there were 120 passengers and a crew of 40 on board. About 130 are reported saved. The rest it is feared are lost. Three bodies have been recovered, but the names are not known. On one cuff found was marked the name "Watson." Captain Corner, of the Marine City, telegraphs that as near as he can ascertain six passengers and two of the crew are lost. The names of the crew are Richard Schultz and James Cook. The names of the missing passengers are as yet unknown.

HOTEL KEEPERS and other would do well to examine Jas. Hennessy's immense stock of Towels, Towelling, Table Linens and Napkins, most of which were purchased in Sutherland's Bankrupt Stock, and are offered at 25 per cent below regular prices. Jas. Hennessy.

ADVANCE IN COAL PRICES.—The committees of the Lehigh and Schuylkill Exchanges met at Philadelphia on Friday afternoon and agreed to an advance in the prices of coal for September. The Lehigh companies will increase their rates 25 cents per ton on all grades, and the Schuylkill interest will advance prices 25 cents on all grades except lump, steamboat and pea, which will remain unchanged.

The barge Nellie Foster has been chartered to carry lumber hence to Oswego at 80c per m. and coal thence to Trenton at 35c per ton.

The schr. Florence has cleared for Oswego with lumber.

A SAD CASE.—The Hamilton Times contains the following particulars of an exceedingly sad case:—A case is just now under the consideration of some of the legal fraternity of the city which certainly shows that some men can descend very low in the scale of morality. A few years since a man and his wife died in this city, leaving two children, a boy and a girl to the guardianship of their uncle, who is married and resides at the east end. The boy became an apprentice to a trade, and is now a steady young man of 20 years of age. The girl, who is now 14 or 15 years old, went to reside with her uncle and guardian, who treated her up to six or seven months since in a very kind manner. At that time during the absence of his family the man outraged the girl and threatened that if his conduct was disclosed of his conduct he would kill her, and succeeded in frightening her into holding her tongue. A few days ago the girl applied to the police magistrate for a warrant to have the man arrested on the charge of rape, when she was informed that by keeping quiet so long she had condoned the offence, and that her only remedy now is an action for damages for seduction. One of the leading lawyers of the city has been consulted, and will, probably, bring an action against the man at the ensuing assizes.

A WOULD-BE GAY LOTHARIO.—A Toronto report says:—"Joseph Eavis, who washes buggies and grooms the horses at Brown's livery stables, has been causing considerable excitement among some of the fashionable residents. He succeeded in getting an introduction to the daughter of a wealthy merchant and secured her affections by representing himself as a bank clerk with $2,000 a year; but the denouement occurred when the father and daughter saw Joseph driving up Queen street on a hack, attired in a full livery dress, with plug hat, swallow-tail coat and brass buttons. The father, enraged denied the young man the house, but the daughter insisted upon seeing him, and her parents are keeping a strict watch on her to prevent an elopement."

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

CANADIAN LAMBS.—Amongst the sales reported at the New York cattle market was 104 Canadian Lambs at 5¾ per lb.

LAND THAT'S VALUABLE.—At a recent sale of land in London, England, sales were effected in Tower street at £4 17s. 6d. per foot or at the rate of £212,000 per acre.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Arrived, the Canada.

WASHINGTON, Aug 31.—The debt reduction will hardly reach twelve millions this month. The receipts have been very large, but the quarterly payment has to come out of that, amounting to eight millions.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—A Constantinople despatch says the Sultan would yield to the Powers if he believed they were about to use coercive measures. The conviction is gaining ground that the Powers will not employ physical force. It is said the naval demonstration would be a signal for a general uprising.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—The three large Jesuit Schools in Paris have been entirely evacuated. The authorities have walled up the doors of the chapels.

Serious Fire.

HEPPELLE, Ont., Aug. 31.

A serious fire occurred about 5 o'clock this morning, half a mile from this village, totally destroying Mr. James Finn's large barn, with almost its entire contents, including all this year's crop, which was large, all the implements, a number of valuable sleighs, waggons, carriages, &c. All the horses but one were saved. Four valuable cattle and some sheep perished in the flames. The loss is very heavy and particularly distressing, as the result of a season's work is sacrificed. The cause is a mystery, and can only be a matter of conjecture. The loss amounts to about $4,5 0, and is insured for $2,000 in the Riverspeed Mutual Co. of Hospeler.

FROM BROCKVILLE.

BROCKVILLE, 31.—Mr. Adams of Spencerville, who has been suffering for the past two days from the effects of gas escaping whilst asleep died last night.

The Seige of Candahar.

LONDON, Aug. 30.

In the Commons this evening, Lord Hartington announced that he had received a message from Gen. Roberts dated Khelat-i-Ghilzai, August 23rd, stating that he would start on the 24th, and by easy stages expected to be 20 miles from Candahar by the 29th, and that the troops were in good health and spirits.

A Quettah despatch says:—News from Candahar to the 26th says:—When Ayoub Khan learned of Gen Roberts' approach he abandoned the investment of Candahar and took a position with his whole force on the Argandab river. Gen. Phayre will march for Candahar to-night. The troops are pushing forward with marvellous rapidity.

A despatch from Calcutta says:—"The more common impression is that Ayoub Khan will retreat towards Herat, and it is universally hoped that the Government will allow General Roberts to follow him to Herat if necessary. The cholera at Peshawur is dying out. A telegram from Simla reports that the Khyber valley is fairly quiet.

THE SIEGE PRACTICALLY RAISED.

The British political officer at Candahar telegraphs on the 25th as follows:—"The country is quieting down. Ayoub's force is reduced to regulars and a few Ghazis. It is reported he wishes to retreat, but is prevented by the Cabulee troops. The siege is practically raised. A large quantity of food was brought in yesterday.

There is p rhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. JULIET DEAD!
DIED, AUGUST 15, ADELAIDE NEILSON.
BY LAUNCELOT.

Dead! dead! so sweet, so fair,
With such a joyous air!
The lady which stings its happiness in heaven,
Lose joyous seemed than she,
So full of grace that, even
The lily sank and fell,
Swinging and bending low,
Might well despondent be.
Juliet dead!

Nay! Death could surely bear
No spite to one so fair:—
Would mar such gentleness and beauty never,
But leave her kindly free
To call life's joys forever.
To larks and lilies dies.
But leave unsaid for aye
These words of agony,
Juliet dead!

Dead! dead; These eyes so rare
No more our hearts to snare!
No more those lips to smile on us benignly!
Those lips where ever blise
So may this marvel be,
That, at the verge of heaven,
Some angel with a kiss
Shall waken into bliss—
To immorality.
Juliet dead!

Dead! dead! and earth can spare
So silly what is fair!
Yet, since for some gain is ever given.
So may this marvel be,
That, at the verge of heaven,
Some angel with a kiss
Shall waken into bliss—
To immorality.
Juliet dead!

IS KISSING BRIBERY?
OR THE
Whittlemuir Election Petition

The MacWhittle, of Whittlemuir, was not an ordinary man. The man whom he left his native town of Fashkirk some thirty years ago to seek fortune in Australia, but he was uncommonly well off when he returned about two years since and announced his intention of contesting Fashkirk at the next election. He had bought the estate of old Lord Whinanbeg, whose shepherd he had been in the days of old lang syne, before the noble Lord had taken to speculating in Turkish bonds; and he had brought with him from the gold diggings a hearty, sunburnt, Irish wife, and a jovial troop of grown-up sons and daughters.

The sitting member for Fashkirk was at that time another MacWhittle who called himself the only genuine MacWhittle, and hastened to denounce his new claimant from Australia as a spurious imitation. Lord Whinanbeg, however, who was chief of a younger branch of the MacWhittle's, naturally gave his support to the Australian MacWhittle; so that the MacWhittle who sat for Fashkirk had his nose put altogether out of joint. What is worse, many of the pious folks in the town accused the good man of having lied to them (or told them lies), in having so long palmed himself off as the only MacWhittle: the truth being that MacWhittle, M. P., was rather prudent with his money, whereas the ex-Australian scattered his about in regular handfuls, like corn-seed from which the sower expects a good crop. It soon became evident that the new MacWhittle would carry everything before him at the polls, and so the event proved, for when Parliament was unexpectedly disolved in the spring of the present year, the new MacWhittle wrested the seat from his rival by a majority of about a hundred votes.

But thereupon the elder MacWhittle was wroth, and vowed that the election had been won by "corrooption and braibere." He filed a petition; and in due course a brace of judges came down in state to try the case in the Justice Court of Fashkirk. Now these judges were both very hard-headed, austere men, with no taste for joking and no grasp of humor. The senior one, old Lord Drapinthee, occasionally indulged in a glass of whiskey after dining in convivial company, and would smile under the influence of the potation, but he never smiled at other times. The junior one, Lord MacPepperwraith, was a hot, jumpy, peppery, fidgetty judge, who was popularly believed not to have a best point. He lived on cold water and vegetables; was a member of the Free Kirk, whose services he regularly attended, and banned all the amusements and pastimes of the earth, even to smoking, as temptations of the Do'il. It seemed that with such judges as these the new MacWhittle must come off badly, if he really had any acts of bribery on his conscience; and his agent looked, in truth, very uncomfortable as he stepped into the witness-box.

This agent, a gentleman named Crewke, was however, a lawyer, and quite as sharp as either of the two judges. He fenced off every question put to him by the answer that he had received orders from his principal not to bribe, that he had not bribed, and that his conscience made him abhor bribery. As to the canvassing, it had almost all been done by the MacWhittle's daughters—the brave, bonnie lasses, my luds, who had no need to carry money about them when they went buying votes."

"You might give an equivalent, my lud," answered Mr. Crewke.

"A cheque for instance," suggested Lord MacPepperwraith.

"No, something nicer, my lud."

"What can be nicer than cheques?" asked Lord Crapinthee, in solemn bewilderment.

"Anyhow, a vote bought is a vote illegally obtained," remarked the counsel for the petitioner.

"I didn't mean to use the word buy; I should have said, 'procure,'" explained Mr Crewke.

"Why do you say things you don't mean, sir?" asked Lord MacPepperwraith, indignantly.

Mr. Crewke stammered an apology, and suggested that it would be well to call the Misses MacWhittle, and let them answer for themselves. He was informed that he need not trouble himself to suggest things, as the judges new what their business was better than he did. Mr. Crewke thereupon stepped nimbly out of the box: and the usher of the Court called in loud tones for Miss MacWhittle.

That damsel forthwith appeared in a costume wich dazzled the eye of the beholder. She had a jersey of cherry silk, a skirt of crimson satin looped up with gold cord, straw-color gloves with twelve buttons and a hat—oh, such a hat—with a white feather almost a yard long. But you should have seen the light of her eyes, the dimple on her cheek, and the smile of her small mouth. These beat the beauties of her costume all to nothing.

"Torn yor face this way, please," said Lord Drapinthee, adjusting his spectacles to get a better view. Miss MacWhittle turned the glory of her countenance full on him, and the judge collapsed, saying meekly, "Yo'll tell the whole truth, noo, I'm sure."

"Oo, ai, ye'll hear the full truith frae me," said the young lady, calmly. "I'ye writ' on a piece of paper all the kisses I gave to the folks in Paskirk to buy votes for father, and my sestera they'ye doon the same."

"Kisses!" chorussed the two judges.

"Did yes ay kisses?"

"Yes, things like this," laughed Miss MacWhittle, as she blew a kiss towards Lord MacPepperwraith, making that worthy's ears turn red hot.

No palatial hospital needed for Hop Bitters patients, nor large salaried talented puffers to tell what Hop bitters will do or cure, as they tell their own story by their certain and absolute cures at home.

The Kent House

One of our remarkable men was the Duke of Kent, the father of our beloved Queen. The city houses where he lived in Quebec is now used for office purposes. The Duke was a practical man, and his life was in accord with his principles. It is not strange, then, that his city house should be preserved. Further along the same street is the old house where the body of General Montgomery was laid on the closing day of 1775. Opposite the St. Louis Hotel, which adjoins the Kent House, at the corner of La Rue des Jardins, stands the building where Montcalm convened his military council. In fact, all about this region is historic. The monument to Wolfe, on the Plains of Abraham, and that to Wolfe harbor, and the Porte St. Jean, are so many points of attraction to visitors; and if anyone should be taken sick, every drug store can supply Dr. Henricus' Sugar Coated Pills, which are as real, and more useful in such straits, than any of our monumental celebrities.

SUBSTITUTES!

BE The public are cautioned against a custom which is now quite common of late among a certain class of unscrupulous dealers, and which is the following: When asked for [illegible] of Pain-Killer, they suddenly dive over that counter and say "Yes, we have another article just as good, and we will supply it to you at the same price." Such a statement is simply a falsehood, and is only resorted to for the purpose of [illegible] the great reputation of the Pain-Killer, and to palm off a worthless [illegible] upon the dealer at about the same price as the Pain-Killer, for the reason that they have to accept a few cents more profit as the reputation of the Pain-Killer is greater than [illegible] the genuine.

CONSUMPTION
CAN BE CURED
IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.
A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics and is entirely palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine daily is truly marvellous.
SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.
MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in controlling consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.
MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.
MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.
December 19th, 1878.
MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and all my friends despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, and I became reduced to a mere skeleton. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and found it to agree better, I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in 7 sixteen pounds. I have taken no other medicine since commencing your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 3 months and he is getting along finely on the bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die at home by me, but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable remedy. H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours,
MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some three or four have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am grateful, yours,

JAMES L. FELLOWS, Esq.
DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give you an account of the effects of your medicine. I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt in the minds of my friends of it's a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that if it had not been for you she would have been dead ere this: now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the attacks are not half as terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.
D. WALTER OAKES.
Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES L. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases, but my difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was emboldened to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.
I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.
